8,000 Persons Driven From Midwest Homes by Floods

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fresh rains added more to swollen rivers in the Midwest flood zone Saturday where more than 8,000 persons have been driven from their homes.

Rain fell on flood-weary Mankato, Minn., Saturday, but the Minnesota River backed off fractionally from peak levels. A crest appeared to have been reached — about one foot short of earlier predictions.

The flood threat continued to mount in the Mississippi River Valley in Wisconsin, but the worst was over in the Pecantonica and Kickapoo river basin of Wisconsin.

Gov. Warren Knowles of Wisconsin and a team of state officials made a 600-mile aerial inspection of high-water dangers along the western edge of the state. The governor said the major danger spot was about five miles north of La Crosse. He declared a state of emergency for the La Crosse area.

"It's very bad," said Knowles. "I've ordered the National Guard's engineers to use dynamite if that is needed to break the ice jam."

National Guard units helped, the Red Cross, Salvation Army and others helped move families from low areas in the state. Friday, the Burlington Railroad discontinued passenger service between St. Louis and Minneapolis because of flooding in low-lying areas along the Mississippi River in Missouri and Iowa.

Tornado funnels touched down in eastern Kansas and northwestern Missouri on Saturday as a severe storm, with high winds and hail, sped across the area.

The twisters dipped down at Lowemont, northwest of Leavenworth, Kan., and near Faucett and Bean Lake near St. Joseph, Mo.

The Des Moines River in Des Moines, Iowa, crested Saturday at 28.68 feet, second highest in history. Volunteers on the dikes kept the river away from the business areas and about 300 families were evacuated from residential areas.

Property damage in the flood area ran into the millions of dollars.

The Weather Bureau reported Saturday that with the exception of Louisiana every state west of the Mississippi River had rain in a 24-hour period.

The heaviest downpours Saturday were measured along the Northern California coast where

RIVER AT THE DOOR — Strong current sweeps past flooded homes in southwest Mankato near Sibley Park, Minn., engulfed by the overflowing Blue Earth river, tributary to the Minnesota river at Mankato. Some homes in the area had water above the eaves. (AP Wirephoto)

FLOODWATERS TOP DIKE — Floodwaters from the Minnesota river flow over the top of a dike and into the town of Chaska, Minn., Saturday. About 500 volunteers aided other workers in reinforcing the dike, but the effort fell short. Eventually a six-foot hole was cut in the dike after engineers warned that pressure of the river could collapse the entire dike and send a ten to 12-foot wall of water surging into the lower part of town. Many persons were evacuated, and a crest isn't expected until Wednesday. (AP Wirephoto)

LONDON (AP) — Soviet sources are quietly spreading the word in London that their country wants to help the United States end the war in Viet Nam.

Before and after President Johnson's offer for talks, Russian informants have been suggesting that neither Moscow nor Washington wants the Viet Nam war extended.

They say both countries recognize that Red China, if rampant in Southeast Asia, could imperil world peace and that something needs to be done to check Peking's position in North Viet Nam.

To achieve these goals, Soviet sources imply, Moscow and Washington must find ways to cooperate. The Johnson peace plan seems to approach such a basis although the Russians seem to think it needs to be revised at least so the National Liberation Front — representing the Viet Cong guerrillas in the South — can be represented at any peace talks.

This is a big difficulty. The United States is unlikely to agree to dealing with the Viet Cong. But the Russians must — to back up their own oft-repeated pledges — get the South Vietnamese Communists into the negotiations picture, or risk condemnation by Communists around the world.

Still, there are important implications in the Soviet hints, which seem to point toward a Moscow yearning for some sort of tacit understanding between the superpowers to defuse the Southeast Asia situation — and perhaps even contain the Red

Commies Reopen Autobahn; Avoid U. S. Showdown

By JOHN O. KOEHLER

BERLIN (AP) — The Communists abruptly ended East German military maneuvers Saturday and reopened the Berlin autobahn, thus avoiding a showdown on access rights with four big U.S. convoys.

The Russians earlier had said the maneuvers would end Sunday and off-again-on-again shutdowns on the autobahn would continue until then. So the United States assembled the convoys for a challenge at 6:45 a.m. but the Russians waved the convoy through.

Authoritative sources said the convoys of 452 men and 103 vehicles were originally to have returned to Berlin Monday after three weeks of field training in West Germany. In the convoys was the 4th Battalion of the 18th Infantry Regiment.

The speedup of the convoy's return made it appear the United States was determined to put its rights of free access to West Berlin to another test.

Six times since Monday the Communists had closed the autobahn, the 110-mile lifeline for West Berlin. They announced it was because of the military maneuvers. But privately they said it was because of the West German Parliament meeting in West Berlin last Wednesday.

The climax came that day, when at least 40 of the fastest, most modern Soviet jet fighters zoomed over Berlin's rooftops, broke the sound barrier with sonic booms, and buzzed Western commercial airliners flying to and from the city through the three air corridors.

The Russians last week told the western powers not to use certain altitudes in the corridors because their jets would fly there. The western powers ignored the warning. It was confirmed that U.S., British and French military planes took to the air immediately after the Soviet challenge.

A joint Soviet and East German announcement of the end of the war games gave no reason why it was called off a day ahead of schedule, except that "all training tasks set for the troops in the exercise were fully

Dist. 12 Seeks $1.85 Million Bond Issue

Officials at Cheyenne Mountain School District 12 this week announced a proposed $1,850,000 bond issue, scheduled to go before the voters in a school board election May 4. If accepted by the district's populace, the bond will be used to finance a number of school building projects in the Cheyenne Mountain-Broadmoor area.

Under the present plan, drawn up by the District 12 Board of Education and a steering and evaluation committee, three schools in that district would be involved in the proposed construction. Plans call for a new junior high school, along with an addition of six classrooms, a library and science room onto the Skyway Elementary School, and the construction of an auditorium plus an addition onto the present gymnasium at Cheyenne Mountain High School.

The study by the school board and committee took 10 months to complete. The steering and evaluation committee is composed of 30 residents and teachers in the district. The joint-study reached the conclusion that "in order to provide the desired educational facilities to maintain the required academic program, this construction program is a necessity."

Cuba May Be Pulled Into Warsaw Pact

MIAMI (UPI) — An anti-Castro organization reported here the Soviet bloc is "considering pulling Cuba into the Warsaw Pact" to reassure premier Fidel Castro of military help in the event of any U.S. attack on the island.

The Citizens' Committee for a Free Cuba quoted Cuban underground sources as saying the continuing U.S. air attacks on Communist North Viet Nam "have caused panic among Castro lieutenants."

These sources, not otherwise identified, estimated that inclusion of Cuba in the Warsaw Pact is the Soviet bloc's equivalent to NATO. Its signatories vow that an attack on one member would be considered an attack on all.

1,400 More Marines Land in Viet Nam; 120 U.S. Planes Bomb North

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — More than 120 U.S. warplanes fanned out over Communist North Viet Nam Saturday, striking at a strategic bridge and highways. Officials said all got back safely after meeting little groundfire and no air challenges from Red Migs.

A Viet Cong-South Vietnamese firefight three miles from Da Nang gave 1,400 newly arrived U.S. Marines their first glimpse of the Viet Nam war but they did not become engaged. The ground troops came ashore concurrent with the arrival of the first four of 18 F4 Phantom jets flown by Marine pilots.

Seventy-five U.S. Navy planes from the carriers Ranger and Coral Sea knocked out the Kin Cuong Bridge on North Viet Nam's Route 7, 150 miles south of Hanoi, U.S. officials in Saigon reported.

The Navy planes were over their targets for 30 minutes.

In morning and afternoon runs, U.S. Air Force bombers and fighters ranged up and down Highways 7 and 8, about 100 miles north of the South Vietnamese border. A U.S. spokesman said they sprayed a variety of targets, presumably road convoys.

The 1,400 newly arrived Marines stood by trucks and helicopters on Da Nang beach and watched a Vietnamese ranger company fight in a village against the Viet Cong. There was no noticeable excitement among the Marines.

A U.S. adviser to the rangers said he did not believe the fight had any connection with the landing of the Marines. The clash was in a village long harassed by the guerrillas.

The Marine landing was not affected by the fight.

Speculation in Saigon is that the Marines soon will be sent into action against the Viet Cong. About 3,000 Marines landed at Da Nang in March with the assignment of establishing a static defense of the U.S.-Vietnamese air base.

Some of the new Marines will be flown to Phu Bai airport at Hue, a coastal city about 60 miles northwest of Da Nang.

Brig. Gen. Frederick Karch, commander of the 9th Marine Expeditionary Brigade, said there are indications that the Viet Cong is massing troops for a possible assault on the Da Nang base.

The Marine commander, who landed with the 3,000 Marines in March, said there are about 6,000 Marines now in all of South Viet Nam. Many are scattered around the country with helicopter units.

Karch described the droop-nosed Phantoms as the hottest aircraft in Viet Nam, capable of interception, bombing and close support. The speed of the planes is well over 1,600 miles an hour. They can carry 12,000 pounds of bombs with four sparrow and two sidewinder air-to-air missiles.

Word reached here of the imminent arrival of F-104 Starfighter jet interceptors to lend cover to bombing planes in North Viet Nam.

Linda Darnell Dies of Burns in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Linda Darnell, 43, movie, stage and television actress died Saturday of burns suffered Friday in the home of a friend.

Warden Fred Hertwig of Cook County Hospital said Miss Darnell died at 2:25 p.m., CST.

She had been under intensive care in the hospital's million-dollar burn treatment center.

Her burns were suffered in a fire which damaged a townhouse where she was visiting in suburban Glenview early Friday morning.

Jane Curtis, 38, her hostess and former secretary, and Mrs. Curtis' daughter, Patricia 16 were burned less severely and a neighbor was cut trying to reach the actress.

Firemen found Miss Darnell on the living room floor. They said damage, estimated at $4,000 was centered around a sofa in the living room.

Mrs. Curtis said that she, her daughter and Miss Darnell had remained up late in the living room, watching a television presentation of one of the actress' old movies, "Star Dust."

She said that Patricia was awakened by smoke, and woke her mother and Miss Darnell. "Intense heat was coming from the living room," Mrs. Curtis said, "Linda told us to grab wet towels, so we grabbed wet towels."

She said smoke was dense and flames drove her and her daughter back from the stairs, and they went to a second-floor window from which the girl jumped, and she was assisted out by firemen.

"I thought she was behind me, but she was not," Mrs. Curtis said. "Linda went into the living room, apparently thinking we had gone downstairs."

Miss Darnell, who was married and divorced three times, leaves an adopted daughter, Charlotte Marley, 17. Besides numerous stage and television roles, she appeared in more than 50 motion pictures.

Satchmo Says He Couldn't See Iron Curtain

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Musician Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong, just back from a tour of Communist - dominated countries, says he couldn't find the Iron Curtain.

"I didn't see no curtain the whole time I was over there," he told newsmen Friday night. "Where do they keep it?

"Pops, them cats are no different then we are," said the man with the gravelly voice. "And they dig our music — every note. They have more of my records than you cats do."

The trumpet stylist was interviewed at the airport upon his arrival aboard a polar flight after a four-week tour that took him to East Berlin, Prague, Bucharest, Belgrade and Sofia.

When a newsman inquired if Armstrong, 64, would be willing to go to Viet Nam, his wife Lucille volunteered: "They should send him. When they sent him to the Congo, the fighting stopped."

Official Warns Against Raiding Of Some Banks

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—A federal banking official said here the federal government has acted swiftly to stem an increasing number of bank failures caused "by persons bent on sophisticated thievery."

John F. Lee, assistant to the director of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. (FDIC), said that "raiding" had caused the failure of "nearly all" of the banks ordered closed by the federal government since the beginning of last year.

"Failures of this kind need not and should not be tolerated," he said.

Lee said in a speech to the California Bankers Association that seven federally insured banks failed last year, and that five more have gone under since the beginning of this year. The large number of failures has prompted a Senate investigation of some of the banks involved.

In most of these cases, Lee said these banks had been "force-fed" with certificates of deposit from outside normal trade areas by persons who gained control of the institutions in order to extract large profits.

The means of getting these profits have generally been through high-risk, low quality loans, Lee said. "Capital deficiencies have soon occurred, in some instances the deposits have been exposed to potential loss, and the bank has become insolvent."

Lee said that the FDIC has taken several steps to halt such raiding, and that "we have reason to believe the noxious practice has been slowed considerably, if not stopped."

Convict Stabbed To Death at Penitentiary

CANON CITY (AP)—A Colorado State Penitentiary inmate from Denver was stabbed to death in a cell house corridor Saturday and a fellow inmate was held for questioning.

Warden Harry C. Tinsley said that Windell Leroy Crouse, 37, died in the penitentiary hospital about 10 minutes after the stabbing. He had from 18 to 20 stab wounds in his chest and upper abdomen.

Ralph Hedrick, 24 was held as a suspect. Crouse was serving three consecutive sentences on Denver robbery charges and Hedrick was serving five to 10 years from Denver for robbery.

A prison officer, Ellsworth Boughan, told Tinsley he saw two inmates scuffling on the ground tier of cellhouse No. 6. He summoned the block officer, Noel Quick.

Quick said as he approached Crouse dropped to the floor and Hedrick ducked around a corner. Quick followed and caught him. Tinsley said Hedrick had a superficial cut on the forehead.

Found near the scene was a woodworking tool with a six-inch blade that had been sharpened and rounded to a point. It was covered with blood. There was also a sharpened file with no blood on it.

Crouse served as a clerk in the cell house and Hedrick was also quartered there. The inmates were not working because Saturday is not a work day. Tinsley said the stabbing occurred about 9:50 a.m.

U.S. May Speed Timetable for Astronaut Space Walk

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States may speed up its timetable for the first emergence of an American astronaut from his capsule into the yawning void of space.

A space official said Friday that scientists are considering accelerating experiments leading up to the first U. S. attempt for an astronaut to leave the protection of his spacecraft.

Current [illegible] call for no actual emergence of an American astronaut until next year. The Russians blazed a trail in this area last March 18 when cosmonaut Alexei A. Leonov popped out of his Voshkod 2 spacecraft and did acrobatics on television.

George E. Mueller, associate administrator for manned space flight of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), told a news conference that the space agency is looking into the possibility of accelerating "extravehicular" experiments in the current series of two-man Gemini flights.

But he insisted that no extravehicular activities are being planned for the four-day Gemini flight that is now officially scheduled for July.

Mueller said the first such experiment —decompression of the cabin and opening of the hatches —still is planned for the third Gemini flight, scheduled for this fall.

In response to questions, however, he would not rule out the possibility that a "walk in space" might be tried before next year.

Commenting on the four-day flight, Mueller said scientists were working to push up the launch date. Informed sources at the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston have named June 8 as a tentative date.

New Pediatrics System Started At Ft. Carson

A new system of appointments for Pediatrics Clinic patients will be introduced at the US Army Hosptial at Ft. Carson in mid - April in an effort to cut back the growing demands on the Emergency Room.

Col. Martin A. Pfotenhauer, hospital commander, in a letter to all commanders, asked cooperation in stressing the fact that the emergency room is for genuine emergencies only.

The number of patients seeking treatment in the Emergency Room during non-duty hours had doubled, he stated. The majority of these patients are dependents. Many find it personally more convenient, for reasons of transportation, job hours or school schedules, to seek treatmetn in the Emergency Room.

By scheduling appointments, doctors hope to avert the bottlenecks created when all patients arrive about the same time.

Col. Pfotenhauer, pointed out that the regular day - time clinics and procedures can be used to greatest advantage during regular hours.

"Maximum use of regular day time clinics will insure the most complete evaluation, treatment and continuity of medical problems," he said.

Real medical emergencies will be treated at any time, he stressed.

Questions and Answers On Alcoholism

Editor's Note: As a public service, the Gazette Telegraph will answer questions on Alcoholism and Problem Drinking in our region. Send all inquiries to this newspaper. Answers will be supplied by G. L. McDougall, Director, Alcoholism Information Center, Out West Building, sponsored by the El Paso County Council on Alcoholism.

Q — My church used to preach total abstinence. Now they seem to be changing their attitude—Why?

A — Perhaps your church has taken the same attitude expressed by Roger Burgess, reporting in "The Methodist Story" on the 1964 General Conference; "The Methodist Church hasn't changed its position. Methodists still stand for abstinence but there have been changes. Concern for the Alcoholic and for all those in trouble because of beverage alcohol is the clear mandate of the Christian Faith." Your spiritual adviser can undoubtedly explain your church's recognition of need for understanding of this fourth major health problem.

Q—I've been an alcoholic for a year. What can I do about it?

A — You can obtain help and arrest this illness as thousands of other active and influencial people have through several media of recovery. Contact your family physician, Alcoholics Anonymous, spiritual adviser, state or local agency on alcoholism.

Q — What is being done on a national scale about alcoholism?

A — The Hagen Bill, HR 781, which points up the need for attention to the problems of alcoholism, has been introduced in the House of Representatives, and referred to committee. A congressional hearing on alcoholism could be an important milestone in the conquest of alcoholism. The Natonal Council on Alcoholism is very interested in the development of a federal program on alcoholism like that on any other health problem.

Q — How can I get my husband to understand my drinking problem?

A — Secure professional help in getting the facts and knowledge about the illness. Arrange for a consultaton. The progression of the disease will be fully explained and media of recovery will be made available to you. Further understanding is also available to your husband through an auxillary of A.A. known as Al-Anon for husbands and wives of the illness .

Q— Are there many women in Alcoholics Anonymous?

A — According to the General Service of Alcoholics Anonymous, women constitutes approximately one - fith of the membership.

Q — Who founded Alcoholics Alcoholic.

A. The fellowship of Alcoholics proaching the drinking age. Anonymous was founded in Akron, Ohio., in June, 1935, by an ex-stock broker from New York City (Bill W.) and a local surgeon (Dr. Bob S.), both chronic Alcoholic .s

Q — Our young sons are ap- What can we do to discourage them?

A — Acquire modern facts and knowledge about the subject; make these available to your sons with an open mind and discuss frankly "The Choice Is Yours," a phamplet approved by the Secretary of State, Bryon. It is an excellent presentation to youth; many schools have made them available to students. "It's Best to Know," published in illustrated color by the Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Research Foundation of Ontario, is very popular with young adults and is available at your local or state agency on alcohol information.

Colorado River Runoff Will Be Up

DENVER (AP) — The U.S. Bureau of reclamation reported Friday that spring runoff from the Upper Colorado River will reach around 10.8 million-acre-feet.

The bureau said the figure—1.8 million-acre-feet higher than 1964—was the result of heavy snows during late March.

Emotional Stress Appears To Be Factor in Cancer

By PAT McGRADY

It begins to appear that emotional stress is a factor in cancer. This is shown in animal experiments more clearly than in human studies.

Much of what has been reported on emotional aspects of human cancer seems fuzzy and fanciful, particularly to sound psychologists and psychiatrists.

Dr. Daniel Horn, a psychologist and co-author of the classical study which showed the statistical association between cigarette smoking and lung cancer, has stated that, amid the welter of contradiction on the relationship of emotions and cancer, one frequently reported finding is relatively undisputed: the loss of a personal emotional relationship (usually the death of or separation from a loved one) prior to the appearance of cancer symptoms.

Twentieth Century literature includes such nonsense as: 'Dull" cancer patients do better than "bright" ones.

Patients in whom the disease does not proceed rapidly tend to be "worthless rascals and totally irresponsible fanatics."

Patients with cancer of the uterine cervix are subject to dislike for sexual intercourse, failure to attain an orgasm, frequent divorces, and a tendency to marry men who drink.

Breast-cancer patients have these characteristics: masochism, inhibited sevuality, inhibited motherhood feelings, inability to deal appropriately with anger, hostility under a facade of pleasantness, unresolve conflicts with mothers, and the use of denial as a psychological defense, usually against guilt.

Men with lung cancer often suffer from serious marital problems, venereal disease, and alcoholism; men with prostatic cancer are tractable, easy to please, unaggressive.

People with skin cancer tend to become depressed easily, one study contends.

ANIMALS SHOW THE WAY

Animals studies seem to carry substantial significance for humans.

Experimental animals can be matched genetically, for age and physical condition. They can share precisely the same environment. They and control animals can be paired or separated into groups with true mathematical randomness. They can be subjected to similar experimental conditions and yield measurable results.

At the University of Illinois Medical School, for example, scientists found that some stresses — surgery or heat (110 degrees F) but not cold (32 degrees F) — increase rats' susceptibility to injected cancer.

The burden of evidence in animal experiments is that stresses do speed the course of cancer, although there is only the most tenuous indication that stress by itself will help initiate cancer.

In Amsterdam, scientists tested the effects of isolation on gregarious mice with a strong tendency toward breast cancer. The results were always the same — the greater the isolation, the earlier and the more frequent the breast cancers.

Of 50 mice crowded happily into a single cage, only 15 developed breast cancer during 17 months of supertogetherness; five or six of every group of ten caged together and almost four of every group of five developed cancer.

That sex and hormones play a role is indicated by the fact that when castrated mice were used, 53 per cent of the isolated and only 11 per cent of the crowded mice showed breast cancer.

Other animal tumors also were stimulated by stresses. Baby mice removed from the nest for three minutes each day for their first 24 days died much more quickly from implanted leukemia than did mice not removed from the nest.

A HAPPY HOME HELPS

In other experiments, mice subjected to the trauma of a surgical operation and the application of chemicals which cause cancer, showed substantially more and earlier cancers than mice given the carcinogens only.

Soviet scientists in Kiev, usi Pavolovian techniques, trained mice to come for food at the sound of a bell and then made the mice neurotic by shocking instead of feeding them; neurotic mice developed breast cancer at eight months instead of at ten months, as nonneurotic animals did.

Many authorities feel that emotions well may be related to cancer; but they deplore most of the present-day clinical approaches to the problem — approaches which are unscientific or pseudoscientific. One of the exponents of the scientific approach is Dr. Eugene Pendergrass of the University of Pennsylvania, former president of the American Cancer Society. He has said:

"I personally have observed cancer patients who had undergone successful treatment and were living and well for years. Then an emotional stress such such as the death of a son in battle, the infidelity of a daughter-in-law or the burden of long employment seems to have been the precipitating factor in reactivating the disease which resulted in death.

"The opposite may obtain. I have patients with extensive malignant disease spread throughout the body who are living with their disease and living in comfort. The disease has been controlled by radiation, surgery, hormones and supportive care. These patients live in happy homes.

"Even if psychological factors have no influence on the course of the disease, they have a great deal to do with the well-being of the patient. We as doctors must begin to emphasize treatment of the patient as a whole, as well as the disease."

Legislators May Adjourn for Easter

DENVER (AP) —Leaders of the state House of Representatives have virtually abandoned earlier hopes of adjourning in a week, just before Easter.

Speaker Allen Dines, D Denver, said Friday that the House will recess at noon Friday to permit members to spend the Easter weekend at home.

Rep. Forrest Burns, D-Lamar, the majority leader, complained that the Senate had mustered enough votes for adjournment for the weekend after planning to work. He said, "I hope they would some day muster enough votes to pass some bills so we can adjourn."

EDUCATIONAL AID — Bishop David Maloney of the Denver and Colorado Springs Archdiocese accepts a check for $600 from Clarence Shearer, president of the Serra Club, at the recent communion breakfast and Mass held here by Catholic men at the Broadmoor Hotel. The money will be used by the Diocese to aid in the education of young men for the priesthood. Observing the presentation is Joe Reich, center, wearing the regalia of the Knight of St. Gregory.

Moscow Says African Students Are Lying

MOSCOW (AP) — A Moscow newspaper published today the first Soviet reply to Western reports of racial discrimination against African students here. It said they were lies.

The youth paper Komsomolskaya Pravda accused the American press of slandering the Soviet Union.

The article referred to complaints of racial discrimination and Communist indoctrination voiced by 29 Kenyan students who returned home from a school in Baku Sunday.

I Remember

By CHARLES S. DUDLEY

I wrote that I wished I could remember what deputy sheriff it was who lassoed the rattlesnake in the fireplace, nearly caught the bear in the a tree on Colorado Avenue and who was so handy with other animals.

C. S. DUDLEY

By the process of elimination I concluded it may have been Ivor Remington, now a rancher in the Castle Rock area.

Well, it wasn't Remington. He read that column and has written me.

"I believe I know who it was. I believe it was a fellow by the name of Claude Williams, who was a special deputy under Berkley. Williams followed the profession of sign painting, but liked police work and had this special commission out of the sheriff's office. I wouldn't know where he is now."

Here is something more that Remingtong writes me which is interesting.

"I had an experience one time here on the ranch with a mother coyote that I will tell you. I was riding horseback in my south pasture and was attracted by an unusual cry near the top of Lincoln Mountain. The scrub oaks are pretty thick near the top, so I tied my horse and hiked up to the top. Walking along slowly I heard a noise behind and looking back I found a coyote following me. Picking up a rock I turned and followed the coyote whose appearance told me she was nursing young. She showed me that I was no match afoot so I soon gave up and started walking ahead again and to my surprise she started following again. I did this a few times and then made up my mind to keep following, which she was quite willing for me to do. I followed her perhaps a quarter of a mile on top of that mountain when she turned abruptly at a huge rock at the end of the trail. I kept going however to the rock and as I turned I saw she was nowhere to be found. I stood there completely puzzled for a few minutes at what had taken place when suddenly it dawned on me that she had ditched me and had led me away from her young.

"P. S. — I almost forgot to tell you the rest of the story. When I finally caught up with the noise I had first heard I found it was a young racoon, almost starved out. I suppose his mother had been killed. I took that little racoon home and it became a wonderful pet for the whole family for a long time."

International Conference Set at AFA

The U.S., Netherlands, France, Switzerland, Hungary, the Unted Kingdom, Australia and Canada will send leading experts in the fields of mathematical programming and control theory to the First International Conference of Programming and Control April 15 and 16 at the Air Force Academy.

The conference is jointly sponsored by the University of California and the Air Force — including the Air Force Office of Scientific Research and the Academy based Frank J. Seiler Research Laboratory, both components of the Office of Aerospace Research.

Major aim of the conference is to stimulate a wider use of mathematical programming techniques in control system design and optimization by providing a forum for presentation of original and expository papers.

Papers will deal with applications of linear, nonlinear, stochastic, integer, and dynamic programming to various types of control problems.

Such a conference will also provide a meeting ground for exchange of ideas and know-how between the two disciplines of mathematical programming and control theory.

Formal sessions will be supplemented by panel discussions devoted to open problems and new areas in need of exploration.

Asian Nations Not Agreed on Viet Action

By ROBERT LIU

TOKYO (AP) — How do Asian nations view U.S. policy in Viet Nam? What do they think should be done to achieve peace?

The Associated Press completed a survey of eight nations just before President Johnson's speech offering to hold "unconditional discussions" to return peace to Viet Nam.

—Neutralist India advocated an immediate cessation of "provocative actions" by all sides in Viet Nam and another international conference to settle the conflict. Indonesia said the Vietnamese should be allowed to settle their own problems.

The other countries surveyed — Japan, Malaysia, Nationalist China, the Philippines, South Korea and Thailand — were wary about another Geneva-type conference. But most said they would attend if all Communist infiltrators are first withdrawn from South Viet Nam.

—Most of the nations believe there is nothing to prevent North Viet Nam and Communist China from breaking agreements reached at another international conference.

—India and Indonesia oppose continued U.S. retaliatory airstrikes against North Viet Nam. The other nations support the raids, but in varying degrees.

—Japan, Malaysia, Nationalist China, the Philippines, South Korea and Thailand believe the United States should remain in South Viet Nam until peace and security are restored. Many Indians believe the United States already has lost and should pull out as soon as possible to cut its losses.

—All the nations believe the political turmoil in South Viet Nam has weakened U.S. plans.

Nationalist China maintains Peking is the cause of the troubles in Viet Nam. It claims the best way to end the conflict would be for the Nationalists to invade the Chinese mainland.

The United States long has denied support for any Nationalist invasion because of the probability of Soviet intervention and a nuclear war.

The Nationalists, although supporting airstrikes against strategic North Vietnamese targets, believe the raids will prolong the war in Viet Nam, not end it.

India advocates an end to hostilities and another international conference fearing the U.S. raids into North Viet Nam will escalate the conflict until it engulfs all of Southeast Asia and drags in other nations, including India.

Indonesia, whose relations with the United States have grown increasingly bad, claims U.S. attacks have resulted in "a senseless killing of innocent civilians."

An Indonesian spokesman said some American officials already have intimated that the United States is involved in a losing war.

Japan, the Philippines, South Korea, Thailand and Malaysia all believe the United States should stand fast on its Viet Nam policy. But opinions differ regarding the extent of U.S. raids.

Japanese, South Korean and Malaysian officials are hopeful the United States will not find it necessary to continue or intensify the attacks. The Philippines believe the attacks should be intensified, and Thailand is firmly behind U.S. action in Viet Nam.

Thai Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman castigates advocates of U.S. withdrawal from South Viet Nam as persons unable "to see beyond their own noses."

Arguing for intensified air strikes, Philippine Foreign Secretary Mauro Mendez said: "If we take into consideration that the Vet Cong are directed by Hanoi, an attack on the source of power would greatly affect, if not demoralize, the Communist infiltrators in the South."

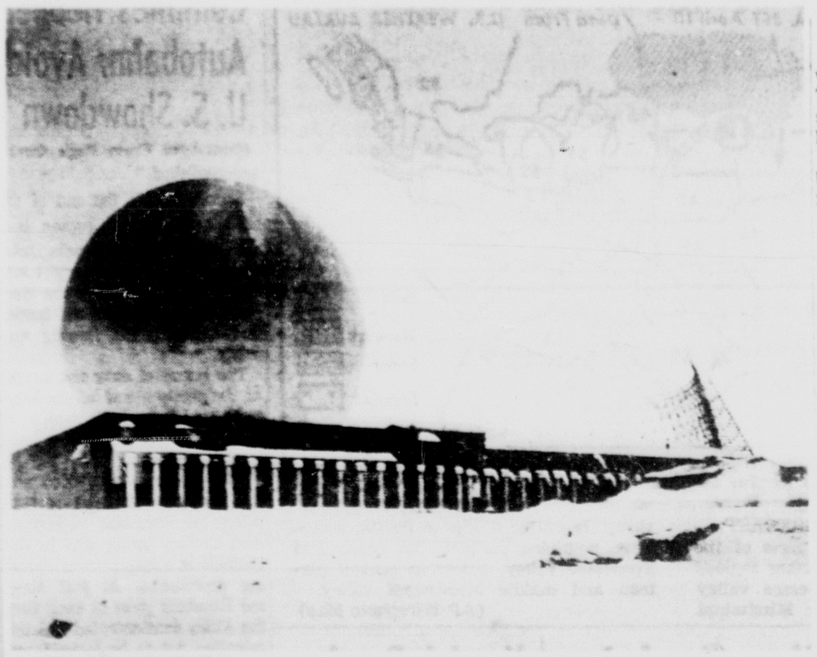
Malaysia feels it would be threatened if the Communists won in Viet Nam and supports the U.S. presence there.

REA Plans Three Meetings This Week

The Retired Enlisted Association will have a late luncheon at the Air Force Academy today, from 2-4 p.m., to get acquainted with new members.

The regular monthly meeting will be 7:30 p.m. Friday in Carpeters Hall, 9 E. Costilla St.

There will be a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Fitzsimons Hospital in Denver. This will be to form a new chapter in the Denver area. Members of the Colorado Springs chapter are invited and asked to contact George Skonce, before 6 p.m. Saturday.



NEW RADAR INSTALLATION — The new tracking radar installation which will be constructed at the Clear, Alaska Missile Early Warning Site will be similar to the Thule, Greenland facility shown above.

CHANGE OF VENUE

FONTANA, Calif. (AP)— Defendant Walter Treamer, 33, of Fontana waited until a jury had been empaneled in justice court here and then blurted out to Judge M.E. Milleman, "I have the measles, your honor." The panel was quickly dismissed and court was moved to a nearby parking lot where, from a distance, the defendant changed his plea from innocent to guilty to a charge of battery. He was fined $110 and given a suspended 30-day sentence.

ADC Will Construct a New Alaska Radar Unit

Construction of a new tracking radar installation will begin in the spring at the Air Defense Command's Ballistic Missile Early Warning System Site at Clear, Alaska.

The Clear MEWS site is one of three giant radar facilities that make up the Ballistic Missile Early Warning System. The other two are located at Thule, Greenland, and Clear. The BMEW System is under the operational control of the 9th Aerospace Defense Division's 71st Surveillance Wing headquartered in Colorado Springs.

Primary use for the new tracking radar is as a supplement to the three giant fixed detection radars at Clear which are now fully operational. The Clear site is currently the only BMEWS installation without a tracking radar.

Space experts at the 9th Aerospace Defense Division say that the new radar will also be capable of providing a great deal of valuable data to the Air Force SPACETRACK system. The Clear tracker will be able to provide SPACETRACK, the system responsible for maintaining an up-to-date catalogue on all man-made objects in space, with precise tracking data on most of the more than 550 satellites now in orbit around the earth.

Construction and testing of the new radar will require about a year. The tracker should be fully operational sometime next summer.

Clear was the second Ballistic Missile Early Warning System facility to become operational and has been an integral part of the system since June 1961.

The purpose of BMEWS is to provide maximum warning time to the North American Air Defense Command in the event of a surprise missile attack launched against the North American Continent or the United Kingdom.

In February 1856, sharks were frozen to death in Charlotte Harbor, Florida, the first instance ever known. This was the Arctic winter in which Long Island Sound froze over.

Florence High School Athletes to Be Feted

Florence High School athletes will be feted at a banquet Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria, by the Huskie Booster Club.

Highlight of the evening will be a visit by Turk Lown, White Sox pitcher, guest speaker.

The right handed pitcher started with the White Sox in 1958 and he has gone to the mound 191 times. Lown, now 37, ranks among the game's great relief pitchers — athletes noted for nerves of steel and the ability to get the ball over the plate. This will be his 18th season in baseball and his 12th in the majors.

He will come to Florence from Pueblo, his winter home.

tion in District 12 were available, but Superintendent William E. Callahan Jr. placed it at between 8,500 and 10,000. There are approximately 2,000 registered voters in the area, which encompassed 58 square miles in the foothills of the Rampart Range. It stretches from Pikes Peak to the west, south to Cheyenne Mountain, east to Colorado Highway 115, and north throughout the Broadmoor area. A majority of votes is needed to either carry or defeat the bond issue.

Registration for the May 4 bond election will be held open until April 19 at the County Clerk's office. Persons who were registered for the November, 1964 presidential election will automatically be registered for the upcoming polling.

Preliminary plans on the three construction projects have already been drawn up by three local architectural firms.

Floor-plans for the two additions onto the high school at 1200 Cresta Rd., were drawn by Lusk and Wallace, architects. The three-year-old school, which at present has a gymnasium but no auditorium, will use the 4,000 square-foot addition onto the gym for physical education expansion. The area will also provide room for 1,500 more spectators at Cheyenne High sporting events. The new auditorium will be used for both academic and extra-curricular activities. It will provide, for the first time, a place for school assemblies, plays, musical productions and other indoor gatherings related to school events.

Junior high school architectural plans are being handled by Higginbotham, Nakata and Muir, a local firm. This phase of the three-part plan will include the complete demolition of the present building, at 1200 Cheyenne Blvd., with the exception of six classrooms and a gymnasium, which were added to the 55-year-old structure in 1949. The new school will then be built from scratch, with enough room to take care of school children in grades seven, eight and nine.

Skyway Elementary's additional classrooms and other student areas are being designed by Pierceall and TenEyck, architects. The additions will total 11,308 square feet, including the six classrooms, a resource center and a combined science and art room. The addition will be located at the north end of the building, which stands at 1100 Mercury Dr.

With the nearly $2 million needed for the huge construction task, the Cheyenne School system will be able to operate under a 6-3-3 system, instead of its present 6-2-4 breakdown of grades. This means that, under the proposed system, Skyway would take care of grades one through 6, with the new junior high school housing grades seven, eight and nine. Cheyenne Mountain High would thus be used for the two top threegrades instead of its present four. This simply means, according to Callahan, that the school would be able to decrease its number of students in each class, which have soared far beyond what the Board had expected in a three-year period.

Special meetings, in conjunction with the schools' PTA groups, have been scheduled to include question and answer periods on the proposed bond issue. The meeting schedule is: April 21 —Quarterback Club; April 22 — Broadmoor Elementary School; April 26 — Skyway Elementary School; April 27—Canon Elementary School; and April 28 — Junior and Senior High Schools.

According to Callahan, a brochure, which contains details of the entire program, will be mailed to all residents in the District 12 area in the near future.

Callahan told the Gazette Telegraph, upon announcing the bond issue, that the Board feels the amount of money asked for is "not extravagant." He further stated that "the Board of Directors has made a sincere and conscientious effort to plan for the needs of the district according to the wishes of the majority of people."

Prof Terms Sino-Soviet Bounday Dispute Serious

The Sino - Soviet boundary dispute is still serious, a political scientist said Saturday during a session of the International Studies Association conference on "Crises and Concepts in International Affairs."

Dr. Robert A. Scalapino, chairman of the Department of Political Science of the University of California at Berkeley, said the concept is a basic issue between Russia and China.

"Russia places a major emphasis upon the natural development of the world, assuming that natural - bourgeois' states, aided in their programs, will come to socialism as the superior system over a period of time," Scalapino said during a panel discussion presentation at the Broadmoor Hotel.

Other panelists were Yung-Huan Jo, Colorado State University; Edwin C. Hoyt, University of New Mexico; and Elijah Ben-Zion Kaminsky, Arizona State University. Charles Micaud of the University of Denver presided during the 2½-hour discussion on "The Sino-Soviet Conflict: A Case Study in International Tension."

Vice President Hubert Humphrey was invited to the two-day meeting, but said he could not attend.

Scalapino said three issues appear to be critical in discussion of the Sino - Soviet quarrel, the first involving the development over the fundamental nature of international communist organization.

"No generation of communists, it should be noted, has ever been more skilled in the techniques of mass mobilization than the present one, Scalapino said.

He emphasized that new principles of international communist organization have been grounded on the doctrine of the inviolate sovereignty of each communist party and state.

"The new communist order provides for the full equality and autonomy of each party, irrespective of its size, power and degree of responsibility. Decision - making in this new order is based upon discussion, compromise, consensus and unanimity," Scalapino remarked.

Scalapino said a second and interrelated issue between Moscow and Peking involves the question of what are the appropriate obligations with respect to economic, politcal and military relations amoung communists?

"In concrete terms, how should one translate 'proletariat internationalism' into meaningful practice?" he asked.

"At present, Soviet resources must be distributed over four critical areas if the Russians are to preserve and advance their world role.

"First, military, parity with the United States must be maintained at all costs. Second, internal consumer demands must be recognized, and Soviet economic development, both in industry and agriculture, must be accelerated. Third, a more extensive program of economic aid and technical assistance to the nonaligned world must be undertaken. Finally, aid and protection must be advanced to the communist bloc states," Dr. Scalapino said.

He added that the Soviet Union stresses the thesis that Russia serves as an umbrella for teh entire socialite world and that unless the unbrella mains sturdy, all of the elements under it will suffer.

"Peaceful competition to the Russians means the use of all forms of economic, political and 'national liberation' techniques, but the avoidance of nuclear war, and the final reliance upon the growth of total Soviet power," he said.

"Communist China cannot conceive of effective nation-to-nation competition with the United States in the foreseeable future. She advances an alternative strategy — unfolding the world revolution and thereby dispersing American power," the political scientist said.

He added that the pure nationalist and pure ideological questions dividing the Soviet Union and Communist China are secondary.

"That does not imply that such issues are trival and unimportant. The quarrel over boundary questions is vedy serious at present," Scalapino said.

"In its broadest dimensions the struggle between the Soviet Union and the People't Republic partakes of most of the same ingredients as compose disputes among and between non-communist states."

"Issues of national interest and soverign rights, betraying the powerful force of nationalism in our times, project themselves forcefully into all efforts to create meaningful organizations."

"Meanwhile, the diffusion of military and political power in the world continues, adding new centrifugal elements to the contemporary political scene," Scalapino summarized.

8,000 Persons Driven From Their Homes

Eureka had .53 inches. Saturday was the 13th consecutive day of rain for normally dry California. Five inches of new snow brought the total to 37 inches at Mount Wilson, just east of Los Angeles. Just west of Reno, Nev., Blue Canyon, Calif. had two more inches of snow for a total of 35 inches.

At Flagstaff, in northern Arizona, squalls accompanied the snow. Flagstaff measured seven inches of new snow in a few hours. Motorists were warned that heavy snow in Utah, northern Arizona and eastern Nevada would hinder driving. Severe thunderstorm warnings were in effect for northwestern and west central Missouri and parts of eastern Kansas.

It was dry in the eastern states and skies were partly sunny in most areas.

One Injured in Four Car Crash

A four-car accident Saturday at the 8th Street Drive-In resulted in injuries to one person, the State Patrol reported.

Roma S. Loehmer, 21, 27 N. Union St., suffered a severe laceration on the right side of her forehead running from her hairline to her right eyebrow. She was taken to Ft. Carson Hospital by E & E Ambulance.

The accident occurred at 7:15 p.m. According to Patrolman James Mathis, the accident was a chian - reaction collision.

Larry L. King, 20, of 916 Prospect St., was headed south and stopped for traffic. David L. Fintel, 24, Air Force Academy, also was headed south and stopped for the King vehicle. Fred P. Loehmer, 26, Ft. Carson, stopped for the Fintel vehicle, and at this point a car driven by Agustin D. Solano, 27, 1208 W. Colorado Ave., ran into the back of the Loehmer car.

The Loehmer car then ran into the rear of the Fintel vehicle, causing that car to collide with the rear of the King car.

The Solano car, a 1958 model, had $400 damage. The Loehmer vehicle had $500 damage, while the Fintel car had $150 damage and the King car had $60 damage, according to Patrolman Mathis.

The queue of cars and trucks at the western end of the autobahn at Helmstedt, which at times was nearly 10 miles long, shrank rapidly.

The autobahn contention was the first since the fall of 1963, when the Russians repeatedly held up U.S. Army and British convoys in a dispute over checking procedures. At that time, the Russians gave in each time the Allies demonstrated a determination not to be intimidated.

Pearson's Cabinet Survives in Canada

OTTAWA (AP) — Four opposition parties joined forces in a formal confidence test of Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's minority Liberal government, but failed by 13 votes.

Pearson's government survived the 106-93 vote Friday night, largely because 39 opposition members were absent. A defeat of the government would have required dissolving of Parliament and new elections. Many of the absentees were said to oppose a general election at this time.

Soviets Hint Steps To End Viet War

Chinese.

This sort of Russian thinking is being outlined in informal contacts on a variety of levels among diplomats, politicians and newsmen.

It appears to fit into information reaching key Western governments through the official network of communication with Moscow. A highly placed Soviet diplomat discussing Viet Nam recently with a British colleague remarked in Moscow:

"When fire breaks out firemen don't argue about their duties."

In London Russians have been seeking out British acquaintances to amplify their ideas. Nobody familiar with Soviet methods of communication believes all this to be accidental.

One Soviet informant related details of the episode in which Red China supposedly blocked Soviet plans to send massive military aid to North Viet Nam. Despite Peking denials of the affair, the source insisted this version is accurate.

The story he told:

Premier Alexei N. Kosygin visited Hanoi Feb. 6-10 and, among other things, arranged for the supply of new, modern antiaircraft defense weapons — including ground-to-air missiles and aircraft which would have required the presence of Russian advisers, trainers and technicians.

Later in Peking he advised Chinese leaders of the arrangements made in Hanoi and asked for rights of transit across Chinese territory for the Soviet equipment.

Kosygin returned to Moscow Feb. 14. Orders went out to assemble the promised equipment and specialist crews.

Around the end of February China still had not granted the necessary overflying rights. Reminders went to Peking, without response.

By about mid-March the North Vietnamese responded in a way that amounted—the informant asserts—to a virtual repudiation of the original agreement.

Hanoi's reply said sophisticated weapons no longer were needed. Russia could help best by sending along medical supplies and weapons, presumably small arms, that were easy to use. Soviet specialists were not wanted.

Last week there were some reports from Moscow that the Chinese have withdrawn obstacles to passage of Soviet arms shipments to Hanoi. It still has not been disclosed whether Hanoi is maintaining a veto on the presence of Russian specialists in North Viet Nam.

Three Arrested In Venezuela as Red Conspirators

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)— Interior Minister Gonzalo Barrios announced here the arrest of three foreign messengers, two of them women, carrying $330,000 from Italian Communists. He told a news conference the money was to be handed to Venezuelan Communists to finance guerrilla operations.

The first agent was identified as Clara Varetic de Padilla, a woman of Yugoslav-Argentine parentage who was arrested at the airport.

The second was Alejandro Beltramini, said to be a Communist member of the Milan City Council.

The third was a Spanish woman, Josefa Ventosa Jimenez, who lives in Italy.

Union Printers Again Request Shopping Center

City Planning Commissioners Thursday will again consider the Union Printers Home's request for a zone change to permit construction of a regional shopping center.

Requested is a change from single family residential zoning to PBC-3 (planned business center) on 43.5 acres bounded by Airport Road, Garo Avenue, Barnes Avenue (not yet a public road) and Pikes Peak Avenue.

Planners turned down the union's request March 11, saying a complete development plan was necessary for the 230 acres owned by the International Typographical Union in the area.

A sketch presented by the union at that meeting showed a 510,000 - square - foot regional shopping center. One store was labeled J. C. Penny" and another "Denver Dry Goods Co."

Another item on the agenda is annexation of 163 acres southeast of Templeton Gap Road and Academy Boulevard, requested by Dr. and Mrs. Paul DuBois. This would be called Palmer Park Addition No. 4.

Real Eastate Management Corp. has requested an edit of a preliminary sketch and land use plan for a proposed 800-acre development northeast of Templeton Gap Road and Academy Boulevard.

The same corporation has requested annexation of 62 acres southeast of Academy and Meadowland Boulevards.

In the same area, A. J. Lanza and Ray Frost have asked planners to change 3.2 acres northeast of Templeton Gap Road and Meadowland Boulevard from multi-family residential to PBC-1, a neighborhood shopping center.

Mrs. Mildred Baker requests annexation of 14.5 acres east of North Circle Drive and Paseo Road.

Eugene Kahn has requested annexation of about two acres northeast of North Circle Drive and Bijou Street.

Glen V. Smith has requested annexation of 1.1 acres northeast of West Platte Avenue and 15th Street. There are two other requests for small annexations.

High School Seniors to Be In CC Program

Two high school seniors have been selected to take part in a new independent studies program which gets under way at Colorado College in September.

The program for highly talented high school graduates is supported by a $75,000 grant from the Ford Foundation.

The two Colorado Springs residents are Miss Susan Elizabeth McMillin, a senior at Palmer High School, and George H. Singer, a senior at Cheyenne Mountain High School.

They are among 25 specially selected students who will spend four years at Colorado College studying under the guidance of six tutors. Throughout their college careers there will be no required courses, no credits and no grades.

Prof. J. Douglas Mertz, director of the program, in announcing the students selected, said 60 per cent are from Colorado.

Miss McMillin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shelly S. McMillin of 3441 West Colorado Ave. She has been doing research on deoxyribonucleic acid.

At Palmer High School she is a member of the National Honor Society, Future Scientists of America, the Pep Club, Terror Tribe, and Latin Club.

Singer is the son of Sheldon C. Singer, former general manager of radio station KVOR. He was a member of his high school's Honor Society for three years and last year won the English department award.

PORT SIMPSON, B.C. (AP) — Charlie Sankey says he's "a real outdoorsman."

That's probably what saved him when the fishing boat Topaz struck a log and sank Tuesday night.

Sankey, 32, swam about a mile to an island, built a raft, then drifted six miles to another island. He walked 11 miles across that island, found a boat and rowed 14 miles across open sea to this Indian village 15 miles north of Prince Rupert.

The body of one of Sankey's companions was found Friday. A third man still is missing.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D., Ph.D.

Clarence may seem as out-of-date as the dode bird to many of you brezy young people, but there are millions of stodgy, earnest men (and women) who are so habituated to their psychological blindness, that a personal compliment seems shockingly forward or even "fresh." But they can alter their personality rather quickly.

CASE V-458: Clarence G., aged 28, was the introvertive engineer who rated an "F" on his first date with Margy.

For Clarence spent the entire evening telling Margy how to build bridges!

She deserved an "A," however, for she gave him rapt attention and thus made him feel she was a smart girl.

Girls, the best of men are about 80 per cent self-centered, anyway, but you deserve at least 20 per cent of their attention.

So I urged Clarence to join my "Compliment Club" wherein you are to pay three sincere compliments per day for 30 consecutive days.

This is quite a strain on shy, timid or self-controled introverts for they haven't developed the habit of turning their attention outward on other people.

Thus, they haven't noticed the many virtues and talents of their companions.

So an introvert like Clarence must deliberately teach himself the wise habit of ferreting out good points about his associates.

And this is just as much a habit as brushing your teeth, for you must diligently train yourself to do so, or you'll lapse back into your stodgy, introvertive self.

"What can I praise her for?" Clarence began.

"Well," I replied, "how about her teeth? Or dimples, if any? Or hair or artistic fingers, shapely ankles, pretty frock, etc.?"

He nodded grateful assent, as if he were making a unique world discovery.

For introverts are psychologically blind! They tend to live inside their own skulls.

And introverts are simply people whose surroundings have not forced them to pay attention to human beings.

That means their daily work probably involved bookkeeping or accounting, chemistry, carpentry, farming, engineering, etc., where they dealt with inanimate objects.

Over the years, therefore they have learned to live in their own mental world while working, relatively detached from other human begins.

They often have what I term a "one-track" mind.

They can't stretch their imginations enough to assure they are perched on a tree looking back down at themselves here on earth and thus observing their own behavior.

Well, Clarence really tried to apply the "Compliment Club" idea.

Next day he told me he had paid Margy ONE compliment on their date the preceeding evening.

"What was it?" I asked.

"Well," he said, "I told her the fabric in her dress was of very good quality."

Although I praised him for this starter, I asked why he hadn't personalized his compliment by telling her how pretty she looked in the dress.

"But, Dr. Crane," he protested, "that would be getting too personal on short notice, wouldn't it?"

However, I reassured him that a breezy, extrovertive salesman would have been far more personal than that even on the very first date, which is why women have a weakness for salesmen.

For women want words! And salesmen are skillful therewith!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Parents Perish As House Burns

PRICE, Utah (AP) — A young father and mother were trapped and killed in their burning house in east-central Utah Friday. But their 15-year-old niece escaped with the couple's one-year-old son.

Killed were George Kalatzes, about 26 and his wife, Sandy 24.

Their niece, Heleena Tiantes, 15, smelled smoke about 5 a.m. She grabbed the baby, Gusty, and ran to a neighbor about 50 yards away. But the telephone lines had been damaged by the flames.

William Barney, his wife, Carolyn, and Heleena then drove four miles into Price to give the alarm.

The blaze was believed to have started at 4:45 a.m. from a faulty coal furnace which had been smoking earlier.

Fire fighting units from Price and Carbon County reached the scene about 5:30 a.m. but the house already was three-fourths destroyed.

Your Outdoors

By MARY SHIRER
For the Pikes Peak Group of the Colorado Mountain Club

A breath of Springtime floats through the air after winter's cold blasts. Spring, the season that is written up more than any other season is officially here. Poems, songs, compositions and articles have been written about spring and its beauty.

At this time of the year, we think of new things in the home, new clothes and new paint in the house.

We put winter away and investigate woods and gardens.

We get thrilled over the appearance of crocuses, and pasque flowers in the mountains.

We see pussy willows along the streams and blue birds and other birds come along. Now the greens are called forth and buds begin to swell and open a tiny bit. The pastures and fields are showing green and the whole world has taken on a newness.

The atmosphere is filled with new life. Clouds lift, spreading white and fleecy. Easter songs take on a noble note and the force of spring seems to raise spirits.

Spring is strong, quickening the soil to bring forth new life. All nature seems bound with new life, bringing the very first wildflowers and freshness to the canons and streams.

The breath of sprintime steals upon the twilight hour and on through the gathering darkness. The morning breaks into a lovely spring day. We have been waiting for this to arrive and suddenly it breaks forth into a new glory. The meadowlarks are pouring forth their liquid notes, the flickers and woodpeckers are drumming on tin roofs and all the spring birds come forth in our yards and we see their beautiful coats, flashing through the air. Spring is laden with glories which make people seek the outdoors. All streams wake up as well as early wild flowers. We view nature and notice how mighty things grow from small beginnings. We welcome spring for there is no season which calls us outdoors so much of the time and with so much interest.

Radio Trouble Foils Rocket Experiment

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — An Air Force rocket probe that carried a cargo of simulated human tissues into the heart of the Van Allen radiation belt apparently failed to produce usable data because of radio trouble.

A Blue Scout rocket propelled the 30-pound probe 15,800 miles high Friday, but the Air Force reported that radio signals became sporadic after only 11 minutes of the 3-hour, 15-minute outward journey.

Pointy Bayonets to Go Into the Air May 8

Ft. Carson's Drill Team will toss pointy bayonets on burnished rifles to observeArmed Forces Day May 8.

Seventeen soldiers, working closely, make up the seasoned team. The team is part of the 54-man Honor Guard — the elite of units represented at Ft. Carson.

The Honor Guard will be one of four companies of Army troopers to march down Tejon Street, in the parade which begins at 9:30 a.m.

In addition the 5th Infantry Division (Mech.) Band will provide cadence music for the 500-man Army contingent.

"Queen Anne" is the general name for this complex routine by the team. The throwing of rifled - bayonets back and forth is just one of the many spontaneous maneuvers in the 20-minute routine.

Perfection is what drill-master S. Sgt. Lacy A. Jones strives for, and he gets it. Twenty hours a week of hard practice has made this team comparable to the best in the Army.

According to 1st Lt. Harold K. Taylor, Honor Guard commander, Ft. Carson Drill Team uses some of the routines caried-out by the world famous Third Regiment "Old Guard" drill Team plus ideas from Sgt. Lacy. "Although the Honor Guard and Drill Team was formed last October, we are working for the day when we are top's in the Army," said Lt. Taylor.

The Ft. Carson Honor Guard and Drill Team are becoming widely known in the Pikes Peak region. They have appeared in ceremonies at Ft. Carson and most recently in a retirement salute to NORAD Air Force Gen. John K. Gerhart. In addition their expert drill display has won them commendations in parades from Pueblo to Denver.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

For Watson, it was a painful duty.

"I'm the manager of the office where your sister works," he began. "For the benefit of all concerned, I wish you would convince her to resign."

"Why," demanded the other man. "Has she done something wrong?"

"I'm afraid so," replied Watson. "She has been stealing from the cash box."

As it turned out, the girl had done no such thing. In short order, Watson found himself facing a lawsuit for defamation of character.

But the court held him not liable, ruling that his mistaken statement was "privileged" by the circumstances. The court pointed out that Watson had had good grounds for believing the girl guilty, and had spoken to her brother with decent purpose.

Thus, in another case, a man was excused for wrongly blaming a schoolboy for indecent conduct during recess. His statement, made privately to the principal, was based on seemingly reliable information from his own daughter.

But, to be privileged, the statement must be made in the line of duty. It must be one which the speaker has a legitimate interest in making, and the hearer a legitimate interest in hearing.

A court found no such interest, under the following circumstances:

A meddlesome woman heard a report, later proved false, that a certain prospective bridegroom was an ex-convict. Although she was not a relative of the bride, or even a close friend, the woman took it upon herself to pass along this tidbit.

Sued later for defamation, she was held liable for having been too quick to soil an innocent man's good name. The court saw no reason to wrap the mantle of privilege around something so close to plain and simple gossip.

Carson Soldiers Aid Gemini

Five Ft. Carson soldiers played a small part in the recent Gemini project which orbited two astronauts for three revolutions of the Earth.

Two helicopter pnits were sent from Carson to Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, and to Kano, Nigeria. Both units were stationed near the path of the orbiting satellite as it passed overhead.

They were to act as rescue units in the event that the satellite's retrorockets were fired late and the craft landed in Africa.

The two helicopter crews were from the 5th Aviation Btn, and 4th Sqdn. 12th Cavalry. The crews were SP5 Harold M. Talmadge and CWO Glenn E. Spakes, who were stationed near Salisbury with the Royal Rhodesian Air Force and Lt. John DuBois, CWO Pat H. Rhodes and PFC Kirk Rudy, who were located in Kano, Nigeria.

It took the crews 40 hours to reach their destinations after they were alerted. The men and their helicopters were flown to the sites by an Air Force C130.

While there, the crews were on practice hops and waited for the possible alert.

HOME ACCIDENT

WESTPORT, Mass. (AP)—Hospital staff members were a bit skeptical when Henry Amaral, 28 of Warren, R.I., brought to a hospital here for treatment, said he had been "run over by a house." But it was true. He worked for a house trailer, and Amaral slid under the house to free the chain. His foot slipped and the wheels ran into him. He was not seriously hurt.

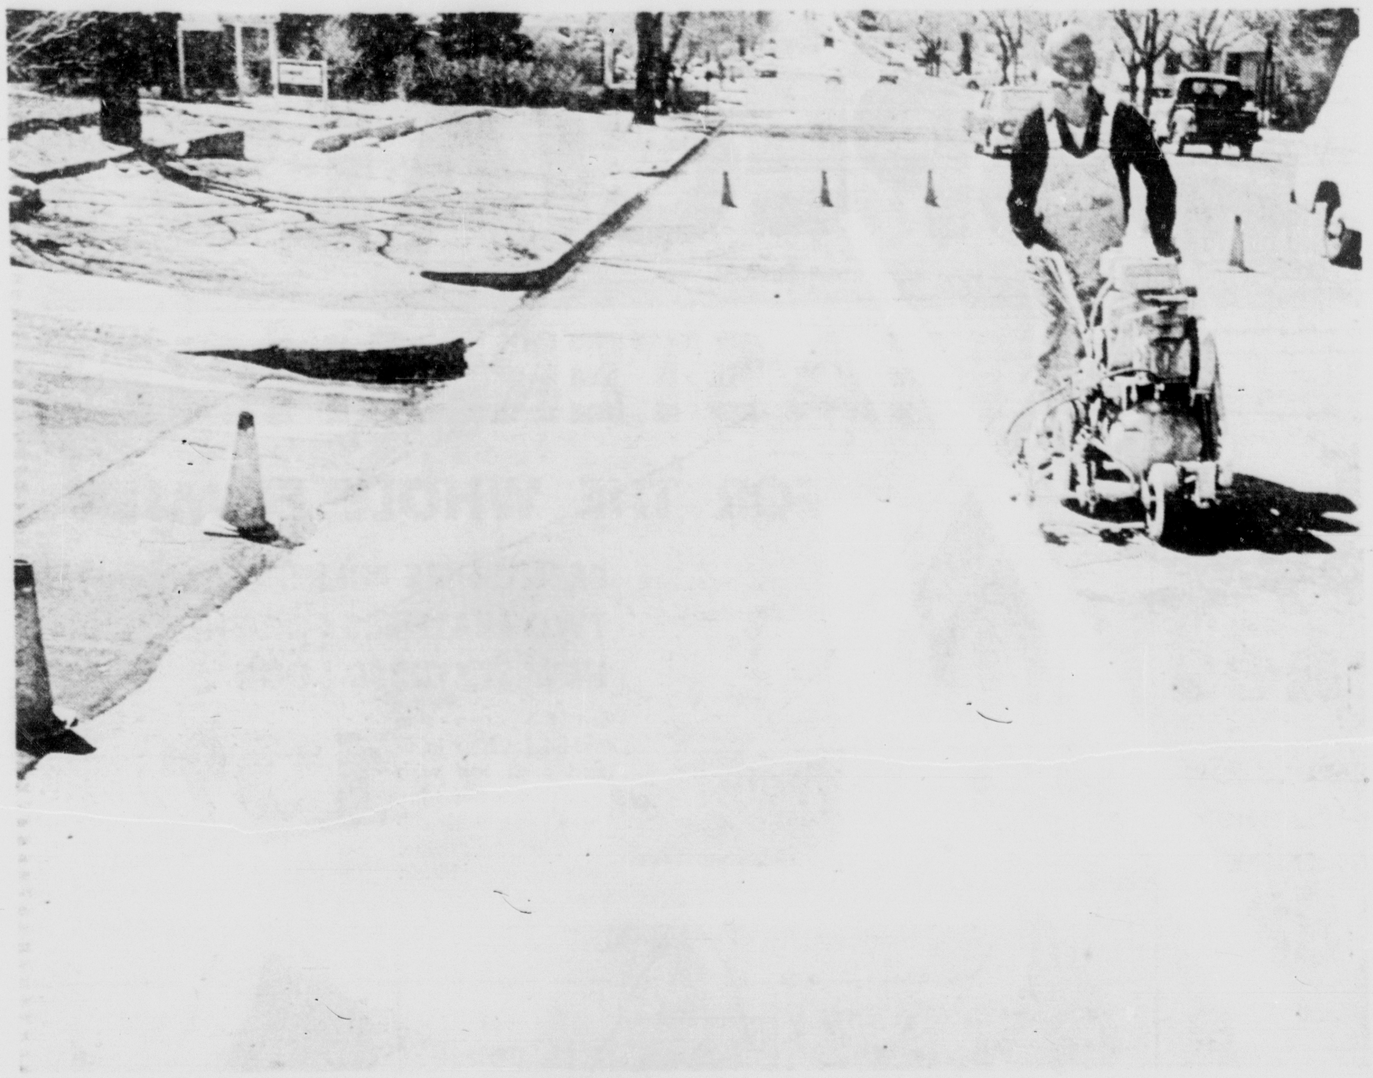
City Crews Plug Chuckholes and Give Streets Paint Job



PUT-PUT-PUT—Ah spring. The magpies are repairing their nests, realtors are building houses and the City Traffic Engineering Department has its annual chore of restriping all the markings in Colorado Springs. Artist Melvin Butcher is concentrating. It really isn't that easy to paint a straight line.

TIME CONSUMING — When markings completely wear off, it's necessary to make a whole new set. "Painting is easy, it's the measuring that takes the time," say workers in the Traffic Engineering Department.

EXPERT TOUCH—The "hand propelled paint striper" did most of the rough work, but it took a brush job to smooth the edges of this turn arrow. Dabbing at the point of the arrow is George Griego, maintenance foreman for the City Traffic Engineering Department.

ROLLING GOO — This one man roller doesn't take long to tamp down a strip of patching asphalt. It's a messy job, but the Street Department worker is still smiling.

PLENTY OF WORKERS — There's no lack of help for filling and tamping this break in the street. The city once ran its own asphalt plant. Now it buys patching and paving material by contract from the lowest bidder.

LOTS OF FILL—Crews wait for a dump truck to fill a trough in a north Colorado Springs street. Street Department crews spent 17,345 man-hours last year patching streets.

COLORADO SPRINGS—SUNDAY, APRIL 11, 1965 SECTION B

HILL TO BE SPARED—Castle Concrete Co. officials estimate it will take five to six years to finish removing the limestone layer from their claim above Glen Eyrie. Part of this hill across the skyline will be spared because the U.S. Forest Service plans a scenic overlook on the other side of Queen's Canyon. The company says they plan to start reseeding the top of the quarry this fall.

* * * * * * * * *

SPABA Attacks Castle Concrete Mining Company Officials Say They Will Reseed

The Springs Area Beautiful Association has launched a 700-petition campaign against the Castle Concrete Co.

The company is strip mining limestone — used for the local building industry — north of Glen Eyrie and the Garden of the Gods.

Petitions are to prevent the company from getting a patent on the 160 acres of limestone land now worked under four mining claims.

Charles Batley, vice president of Castle Concrete, told the Gazette Telegraph that the petition "doesn't mean a thing. Even if we were denied a land patent we could still keep taking out limestone because we have mining claims."

Batley said that the only reason the company wanted a land patent was to adequately restore the area's reseeding and restoration, after most of the limestone is removed in five to six years.

If all SPABA's 700 petitions were signed, there would be 23,100 anti-concrete company signatures.

The petition also urges withdrawal from mining of all Forest Service land on the Rampart Range within view of the "Springs Area."

The preliminary agenda of the Colorado Springs City Council's Tuesday meeting says they may take a stand on the issue.

Batley said his operation employs about 30 men and sells crushed and graded limestone to contractors and concrete companies in Colorado Springs and Monument. "Sometimes we fill up as many as 100 trucks a day," he said.

Batley said the isolated "freak limestone formation" is about 120 feet thick in places and the company's claims go back about three-quarters of a mile. He said that it was not the company's intention to strip the whole length of twisting Queen's Canyon, because the limestone deposit is only in the area now being worked.

Batley said the company would reseed the top of the quarry with ponderosa pine, clover and natural grasses to cover the scar. "We'll start reseeding at the top, and work down as we take out limestone," he pointed out.

Batley said a 500-foot ridge on top of the quarry would be left, because the Forest Service plans a scenic overlook off the Rampart Range Road, on the other side of Queen's Canyon.

Batley said the quarry presents no danger to Gen. William Jackson Palmer's historic castle in Glen Eyrie. He said that drainage from the quarry is funneled into stock ponds for the Flying W Ranch — not into Glen Eyrie.

The company has been working its claims about 10 years and this is not the first time various groups and the company have discussed the operations, Batley said.

He pointed out that El Paso County gets $4,000 a year from taxing the company's expensive, heavy equipment plus a $90 tax on the mining operation.

Batley said the company would consider possible development of the area for recreation, after the limestone is removed.

SPABA has carried its fight against the concrete company into public schools and libraries and has placed petitions in businesses friendly to the cause.

Its prepared statements to the news media term Castle Concrete Co.'s operations a giant gravel scar and "eyesore."

Students in Wasson High School were told over the public address system that the land being scarred was made famous by Katherine Lee Bates in "America the Beautiful." Petitions were provided for the youngsters to sign.

Last week Batley met with a SPABA delegation and Soil Conservation Department official Robert Griffin.

Griffin confirmed that a stand of grasses could be grown after quarrying is finished, in the residue of fine rock. He said this would take three to five years, if there is good rainfall.

SPABA is trying to get its petitions signed by April 21, the final date for approval of the company's mineral patent to the 160 acres it is already working.

"If the SPABA protests are overruled and no other adverse claims are filed, Castle's applications will be processed routinely and the company will gain full ownership of the scarred land at $2.50 an acre," SPABA officials said.

SPABA said it objected to the operation for four reasons: (1) eyesore, (2) threat to Glen Eyrie, (3) dust and blasting a business and health hazard and (4) the loss of 160 acres of Pike National Forest.

One of SPABA's stated purposes is for "improvement of blighted areas" and elimination of "eyesores and public nuisances."

In a letter to its membership and friends, SPABA described its drive as a "last ditch stand against the massive scarification of our section of the Rampart Range."

Florence Studies Pool Project

Determined to get busy on a swimming pool for the young people in the communtiy, representatives from a number of local organizations gathered Monday night at the city hall to discuss the pool's future with members of the Florence city council.

John Fox, president of the Florence Chamber of Commerce, acted as chairman for the meeting. Darrell Lindsey served as secretary.

A committee of 5 was elected to represent the Community Swimming Pool project group including Dr. Peter J. Gamache, John Fox, Dr. John Buglewicz, Bob Fritz, and Tom Gribben.

This committee will gather information on costs, present studies, and work jointly with the swimming pool committee of the city council headed by Councilman B. A. Lopez.

At the meeting the past work on the swimming pool for Florence was reviewed including work done by chamber of commerce boards, local citizen groups, and city councils.

Members of the council said they were highly in favor of a municipal pool and noted that as soon as the fire truck is paid for, the 2 - cent cigarette tax, which is bringing in about $584 a month, will be earmarked for pool construction.

Meanwhile, it was indicated that a local fund - raising program will be launched in order to expedite the program and get the pool built sooner with the help of outside funds.

Approximately 35 persons attended the meeting including Jack McFall, former mayor, who read a three - page prepared statement in which he: (1) favored construction of a municipal pool, (2) suggested several methods of cutting city costs and (3) advocated the election of a council with the "courage and determination to provide a capital improvement fund of $25,000 per year by consolidating jobs and services."

Fox noted noted that no formal meeting of this committee will be held until after the Easter holidays.

Finland Works Away From Red Influence

By PRESTON GROVER

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — Finland is slowly working away from the influence of its own Communist party, and the Soviet Union just across the border. Finns are inviting Western capital to invest in their country in a way they could not have dreamed of 10 years ago.

Finland is much more independent than East European Communist states. Twice the Soviets tried to install a Communist regime in Finland under force of arms, and each time the Finns fought it off, bloodily.

Now the place has a democratic government, its people travel freely, and its papers are free to criticize the government, or for that matter the Soviet government and the Americans. They do all three, sometimes all on the same day.

Two hard facts remain. The Soviet government is next door, and the Communist party in Finland gets over 20 per cent of votes at every election. Yet the Finns seem little worried about either circumstance.

All non - Communist parties have accepted the idea that the country must be neutral — but prepared to fight off any effort to attack the Soviet Union by way of Finland. That reservation is written into her treaty made after she lost two successive times to the Soviets during the last war.

The Social Democrats are in the bad books of the Russians, for they were in control during the winter war starting in 1939 and later on in the "continuing war" at the side of the Germans. So far, Soviet influence has been heavy enough to keep the Social Democrats from forming a government.

The Agrarians, while okay with the Russians, have limited city appeal.

Now the two parties are trying gingerly to limit their conflicts so the Communists can't exploit the differences. The Agrarians, who are in power, are trying to build up industry. They are going after Western capital by amending regulations which hamper foreign investment.

Western capital, hard enough to come by, probably will be easier to get than the political harmony.

President Urho Kekkonen, an Agrarian, is trying to make his party a little more like the Social Democrats, so it will have more city appeal. In turn, he is trying to induce the Social Democrats to be more like the Agrarians, so they won't be blackballed by the Russians.

The Soviet war claims were paid off in less than eight years and since then industrial production has climbed steadily. Exports to England and the "Outer Seven" in Europe increased last year by 21 per cent.

AFA Prof Writes Article on Aging

A new theory on aging is the subject of a paper written by an Air Force Academy faculty member.

Capt. D. G. Carpenter, Department of Physics, is the author of a paper on mathematical biophysics, "Diffusion Theory of Aging," published in the April issue of the "Journal of Gerontology."

The paper is a presentation of a new theory which ascribes the aging of an organism to the production and diffusion of cross-linked molecules within the organism.

A member of the Department of Behavioral Sciences, Capt. D. E. Nord, is co - author of an article published in the March issue of the "Journal of Experimental Psychology."

Deadlock in Steel Talks Not Broken

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A move to oust President David J. McDonald of the United Steelworkers as chief union negotiator has failed but resulted today in a new plan aimed at breaking the deadlocked basic steel contract talks.

McDonald, who has ruled the nation's third largest union for 12 years, was asked to step out of the negotiations Friday by backers of I. W. Abel, union secretary-treasurer.

McDonald refused. But he offered a plan to speed up basic steel talks and give greater voice to Abel, who reportedly defeated McDonald in the union's Feb. 9 election.

Details of the plan could not be learned. But it was accepted by top union bargainers, including Abel.

Official results of the election are not due until about May 1, the day the union will be free to strike.

The bid to get McDonald out shattered the image of unity which both Abel and McDonald have been trying to present. It also seemed to confirm what the industry has been saying for weeks — that the unsettled election has split the union and rendered it unable to bargain.

That was the Abel argument as presented to McDonald and top union bargainers Friday by Joseph Molony, who reportedly has won election as vice president on the Abel slate.

Molony blamed the impasse in steel talks on the industry's reluctane to bargain with what he calls a leaderless union.

There was no request for McDonald to resign as president. His term is up June 1.

It was learned that McDonald's plan for ending the basic steel deadlock involves realigning of subcommittees and lower-level bargainers to give Abel men a greater voice.

There was speculation the plan could lead to elimination of some of the union's demands which would cost $1 an hour over the next three years. The industry has labeled the demands preposterous.

ADC Pilot Checks Out Fast YF-12A Interceptor

Col. Vernon J. Henderson put Air Defense Command in the cockpit of a 2,000 mile an hour fighter interceptor at Edwards AFB recently when he checked out in the Lockheed YF-12A.

A veteran of 73 combat missions and 3,000 flying hours, Col. Henderson, assigned to Edwards AFB as the air defense flight test officer, added the YF-12A to his "check out" list which includes every interceptor in Air Defense Command's inventory.

Winner of the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal, Col. Henderson also few a North American F-86A Sabre into the winners circle for the Thompson Trophy at the 1949 National Air Races.

The YF-12A, formerly designated the A-11, is being tested as an advanced interceptor aircraft.

The advance aircraft development project that produced the YF-12A was initiated in late 1959. It is an all-weather fighter aircraft and is equipped with an automatic navigation system.

Capable of speeds in excess of 2,000 miles per hour, the interceptor will climb to more than 70,000 feet. Lockheed Aircraft Corp. manufactured the aircraft which is powered by twin J-58 jet engines built by the Pratt & Whitney Division of United Aircraft Corp.

The fire control system is an ASG-18, developed by Hughes Aircraft Corporation and it is armed with air-to-air guided missiles.

Local Pilots Attend Meeting in Michigan

Officials and district safety chairmen of Pilot International, who represent more than 13,500 pilots in North America, recently took part in the organization's Fourth Highway Traffic Safety Conference, reported by Mrs. Betty - Jayne Cole, president of the Pilot Club of Colorado Springs.

The safety meeting was held at the Kellogg Center, Michigan State University in East Lansing, Mich.

Sponsorship of the conference came through a $10,000 grant, donated by Allstate Foundation. The grant was presented to the organization by Frederick J. Gassert Jr., of Skokie, Ill., vice-president and general counsel of the Allstate Insurance Co.

Self - improvement driving safety programs were presented at the meet, & will be subsequently presented nation - wide in the coming months. The purpose of these courses is to improve the driving skill of those who are now driving and to help alert the community to today's traffic picture and the need for improvement.

Last year, the Pilot Club of Colorado Springs was awarded fourth place in this national safety contest, under the sponsorship of the Allstate Foundation.

Poverty Study Is Planned In Larimer

LOVELAND (UPI)— Thirty-five representatives of organizations in Larimer County Wednesday night adopted articles of incorporation and by-laws for the county's program under the Economic Opportunity Act.

The group also elected a slate of 11 directors for the new organization, the Poudre-Thompson Community Action Program.

Once the incorporation has been adopted by the Colorado Secretary of State's office, the group expects to request a federal grant to finance a study of poverty and its causes and to develop a program to attack the causes of poverty in the county.

According to preliminary plans, a staff of three will be employed at the group's headquarters in Loveland.

William H. Green, owner and manager of radio station KLOV in Lopeland, has been named temporary chairman.

The bylaws and articles of incorporation were prepared by a subcommittee working with Loveland attorney Bob Ausenhus.

Ninety per cent of the funds of the program will be federal money.

Colorado Is Tricky River For Experts

The Colorado River is sort of tricky critter for those who to measure it over the years. Neither the weather men nor water men can successfully forecast how the river will flow, a fact which greatly distresses the planning men who have to schedule how to put the water to use in the homes, farms and factories of more than 10 million people.

Those facts were reported by Dallas Cole, chief engineer of the Colorado River Board of California, with offices in Los Angeles.

Although the river rises in Rocky Mountain National Park north of Denver, and gets its name and much of its water from Colorado, it is of great interest to down river states — especially California, which uses much of its water.

An April 1 check-back of the record since 1850 was made by Cole, who placed blame for shortcomings in the predictions not on the men who make them but on lack of adequate data.

"Imperfect as the forecasting performance has been," said Cole, "there are no experts more capable and conscientious.

"The greatest improvement in accuracy would result from a substantial increase in numbers of measurement devices, particularly to gauge snow packs at high altitude. Long range weather forecasts and soil moisture content recordings could be improved. Computer analysis of all available experience, as well as further studies of probability theory seem called for.

"Engineers who must plan for the future need more dependable figures than the most expert forecasters have been able to provide."

Cole has a chart comparing with actuality a series of Colorado River forecasts of peak seasonal flow of the Colorado River at Lee's Ferry to support his observations.

"The Bureau of Reclamation forecasts of water supply made each April 1 from 1950 through 1964 have been within 10 per cent of actuality only four out of 15 times," said Cole. "The Weather Bureau forecasts fell within this limit only six times."

"Once the water men ware more than 120 per cent too high, in 1954. Again, in 1957, the Weather Bureau peediction was a third too low. In 1951 and in 1958, the forecasts were pretty close to actuality, but in opposite directions," he explained.

"In 1963, the weather guessers were too high by about 60 per cent and the Reclamation handicappers were about 50 per cent too hopeful. Last year both were close, each underestimating by only about 5 per cent," he stated.

Engineers who have to use the forecast figures notice that low run-off is generally overestimated and high run-off is generally underestimated. But this clue to character is not reliable as a guide for adjusting the figures.

QUALITY CONTROL — B. W. Hart, quality control manager of the Technical Products Div., Vicon Industries, examines a thermocouple circuit tester produced by Vicon for the Navy Department. This contract is one of about a dozen completed in Vicon's new division since it first began production some six months ago. Vicon is principally involved in the production of prescription hearing aids, with distribution to some 350 dealers across the country. (Vicon Photo)

Vicon Is Diversified In Equipment Turnout

Vicon Instrument Co., at 1353 Mesita Rd., is now engaged in more than just manufacturing hearing aids. The local firm became diversified about six months ago when its Technical Products Division first started turning out electronics equipment of every size and shape imaginable.

Vicon's new addition is located in a building several yards west of its hearing aid plant. The ground floor houses the new division, while the second-story is being used for a machine shop and injection molding operation.

A great deal of the Technical Products Division's work has come from the Navy Department, the latest of which is a $64,000 contract for designing and manufacturing portable power supplies for teletype machines.

In the past six months, the new division has turned out equipment ranging from a fish hook counter to loop antennas for measuring changes in the earth's magnetic field. The former counts the hooks and then controls their packaging, according to Carl R. Harris, director of engineering.

The contract for loop antennas came from the Bureau of Standards in Boulder. Each of the antennas had a seven-foot diameter, with 16,000 turns of wire around the outside.

Vicon is now producing a dropsonde for the National Center for Atmospheric Research in Boulder. Used to study the structure of a thunderstorm, the dropsonde is dropped from an airplane. As it falls it measures pressures and temperatures of the atmosphere and transmits the data to a ground station. The dropsonde itself is usually recoverable.

The injection holding end of the business deals with precision molding of plastics. Vicon recently produced a tiny camera by this method, which will be placed in the nose of miniature rockets, manufactured by Estes Industries at Penrose. The cameras are set to snap photos when the tiny rocket begins falling back to earth after its 1,000 to 2,000 foot high flight above the ground.

Vicon, which is the oldest electronics firm in Colorado Springs, has been involved in the production of hearing aids ever since it first opened for business here 10 years ago. The hearing aids are all made to prescription and sent to nationwide locations.

The recent addition of a technical laboratory and machine shop, along with the molding plant brought Vicon's number of employes to 75. The firm has some 17,000 square feet of floor space in its two buildings.

According to Robert Victoreen, president of the corporation, the new Technical Products Div. is equipped to handle all types of precision electronics equipment design and manufacture.

Former Eisenhower House Sold Again

DENVER (AP) — The Denver house where former President Eisenhower had his heart attack in 1955 has been sold again.

Mrs. A. Tiley of Fort Collins said she sold it to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth A. Smitley, who came here from Oregon several months ago.

Mrs. Tiley declined to disclose the price. She said she paid $25,000 for it in 1961 and spent more than $12,000 in renovations.

The house on Lafayette Street was the home of Mrs. Eisenhower's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Doud, who bought it new in 1906.

"Now, aren't they old dears to do that. Believe I'll give them my business."

Church-State Issue Seen in School Aid

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders expect to pass President Johnson's school aid bill today and send it to him to sign into law. But first they will have to wrestle with the ticklish church-state issue.

As the Senate prepared to meet two hours early for a third day of debate on the $1.3-billion measure, an early vote was in prospect on an amendment sponsored by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C.

The onetime judge wants to tack onto the bill an amendment to specifically provide for judicial review of the aid that will indirectly go to church schools.

The House has already passed the bill — March 26 by a vote of 263 to 153 — and the Ervin amendment appeared to be the last major obstacle to enactment. For if no substantial changes are made there will be no need for a conference of House and Senate to resolve differences and the bill can be on President Johnson's desk by dusk.

Ervin argued in presenting his amendment Thursday night that it is practically impossible for an ordinary taxpayer to challenge aid to parochial schools. The courts, he said, have held that an individual has too minimal an interest to sustain a suit.

But Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., former dean of the Oregon University Law School, appealed for defeat of the Ervin amendment.

For one thing, said Morse, its adoption could endanger the entire program by forcing a conference with the House on the touchy church-state issue.

Besides, Morse and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., argued, cases bearing directly on the question already are on their way to the Supereme Court and so the Ervin amendment is unnecessary.

Before sending the bill to the House floor, the House Education Committee tightened its language to make sure that while parochial schools benefit, all assistance is channeled through public schools.

Ervin is not satisfied.

"This bill," he told the Senate, "because of its impact on elementary and secondary education, makes it imperative for Congress to establish legal procedures to determine whether indirect aid to religious institutions conflicts with the First Amendment, which provides that Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion."

The bill's backers said they expect to beat the Ervin amendment by a slim margin.

Republican senators said they plan to call up other amendments after a test of the Ervin proposal.

But they conceded it is unlikely any will be accepted after the 53-38 defeat Thursday of a proposal by Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., to change the aid allocation formula for the principal grant program in the bill so as to give a greater share to poorer states.

Also rejected, by a 56-38 vote, was an amendment by Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., to give low income states a larger share of the $100 million for special educational centers.

AFA Cadets Plan Egg Hunt

Take 432 children. Multiply them by a host of Easter wishes and what do you have? An afternoon filled with egg hunts, entertainment, hamburgers and hot dogs!

For 432 boys and girls from 10 agencies in the Denver-Colorado Springs - Pueblo - La Junta areas, Easter Sunday will be tailored to their exact specifications.

They'll spend it at the Air Force Academy as guests of the Cadet Wing.

Cadets have dug into their wallets to come up with over $1,200 to cover all expenses for the big day.

The youngsters, ranging in a from 5 to 12, will have plenty of company during their Academy stay. A total of 613 cadets plus 460 "dates" will escort the visitors.

More than 3,000 eggs will be stashed around the grounds for a huge hunt.

Following luncheon (hot dogs and hamburgers) in Mitchell Hall, the cadet dining hall, the youngsters will watch skits and demonstrations, and movies.

There will be also gifts and candy for everyone.

Salaries for Profs Average

DENVER (AP)—The professors who hand out grades to Colorado's college students are receiving no more than "C" salaries for their services, according to the American Association of University Professors (AAUP).

The AAUP surveyed 11 Colorado colleges and universities and assigned them letter grades in two categories—average salary and minimum salary.

Highest rated in the state by the AAUP was Colorado College, a private institution in Colorado Springs, given "C" for average salary and a "B" for minimum.

Colorado College's "B" was the highest mark in the state in either category. A private school—Denver University—and two public institutions—University of Colorado and Colorado School of Mines—each received a "C" in both scales.

Fort Lewis College, Colorado State University and Iliff School of Theology were given a "C" and a "D".

Four others—Adams State, Colorado State College, Southern Colorado State and Western State—got marks of "D" from the AAUP in both categories.

Lobbyist Study Proposed in House

DENVER (AP) —A study of lobbyists and possible addition of new laws to regulate their activities was proposed Friday in the State House of Representatives.

Reps. Charles Conklin, D-Delta, and John R. P. Wheeler, D-Greeley, offered a resolution calling for the study by the Legislative Council.

The resolution noted that some states require lobbyists to report income and expenditures. In Colorado the only requirement is that they must register.

Library Space In Security Waits Bond Vote

The Security Public Library is set to sign a lease for library space with the Security Park and Recreation District if the district's proposed bond issue is approved later this month.

The Park and Recreation District is putting a proposed $300,000 bond issue to the voters for approval on April 21. The primary usage of the money, if the bond issue is approved, will be to erect a Security Community Complex, which will include a swimming pool, auditorium and space for the library.

The Security Public Library is a separate organization, having been created under law by the School Board of School District 3, Widefield - Security.

It was formed after the drive began to create a district library that would include most of the county, with its nucleus being the library property of Colorado Springs.

Security chose to stay out of the district library and have its own, which already had been started. So with the effort of volunteers and the financing supplied by the school board as it sat as a library board, the library became a fact.

Space in the school district's administrative office building was rented by the school district to the library, but both the library and school district are growing, and so other space became a prime question for the library board.

When the Park and Recreation District began planning for a building it included in the first plans an area for the library.

Members of the school board are Clarence Foster, president, and Rodger Fay, Ted Fored, Carl Roberts and Tom Slack as members. The library board includes those five plus School Dist Supt. Richard Taylor, who is chairman of the board.

Since its founding in July 1961 the library has outgrown its quarters, Taylor explained, and added that larger quarters must be found if the library is to maintain the quality service to its patrons that it has offered so far.

With that in mind, the library board has agreed on a basic contract for space with the Park and Recreation District Board, depending on the outcome of the bond issue vote.

Taylor said, "with assistance and technical guidance from the Colorado State Library and strong community support the Security Library has shown phenomenal growth."

From an initial four hours a week operation staffed by a few volunteers, the library has expanded service to 26 hours weekly and now employs a full-time librarian and one part-time clerk. This professional staff is assisted by 25 trained volunteers who contribute more than 70 hours of service each week, he explained.

Circulation in the year ending June, 1964, reached 27,000. Demand for library services from Security, Widefield, and School District 3 residents continues to increase, as indicated by the fact that circulation has already exceeded 35,000 volumes in the first nine months of this fiscal year, reported Mrs. Barbara Hamilton, librarian.

The book collection has increased more than 1,000 per cent since the library's founding and new books are being purchased, catalogued and shelved at the rate of 50 per week, she added.

In the new building a modern floor plan will be utilized to provide maximum service with a minimum staff. New facilites will feature reference centers and special areas designed for adult, juvenile, and teen-age patrons including sections for study and browsing. Additional shelving to provide for 20,000 volumes, work areas for book processing and ample storage space will also be included, Taylor said.

Harry Chilton, president of "Friends of the Security Public Library" stated that the officers of the organization have assisted in planning and promoting new housing for the library.

"We have a fne library and it is well supported by residents of the District. All library patrons will benefit from the Proposed Community Center Complex," said Chilton.

FEDERAL TAX TIPS

BY ROGER E. WARD
Administrative Representative
Internal Revenue Service

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. Is it true that profits on the sale of your personal residence are not taxable if the sale price was $20,000 or under and you sold it on or after your 65th birthday?

A. Yes, it's true, after your 65th birthday, if you sold property owned and used by you as your personal residence for at least 5 of the last 8 years. You may elect not to be taxed when the sales figure is $20,000 or under. If the sales price is over $20,000, part of the gain may have to be included in income.

Q. I'm a teacher and have to keep taking courses to keep my job. Can these costs be deducted on my return?

A. Yes, they can if the courses are required by your employer as a condition of your employment, or if they are taken primarily to maintain or improve skills required in performing your present duties. Educational expenses are not deductible when they are incurred to obtain a promotion or another position.

Q. I do not owe any taxes this year. Do I still have to file a return?

A. Whether you owe any taxes or not is not the determining factor in deciding if you have to file a return. A return is required when certain income levels are reached. If your income was $600 or more, or $1200 if you are 65 or older, you must file. If you have self - employment income of $400 or more you must file a return and pay self - employment tax.

Q. Where can I get a copy of the table showing average sales tax deductions by income and family size?

A. At any local Internal Revenue office.

Q. I just received my refund check for 1964. Does this mean that my return has been accepted and that I no longer have to keep last year's tax records?

A. Even though you have received a refund, your return may still be checked. As to your records, for most income and expense purposes they should be retained for a minimum of three years from the time your return was due to be filed. However, for some items, such as the sale of your old residence tax free due to the purchase of a new residence for instance, you should retain the records as long as they may be material in the administration of the tax laws.

Q. How can I tell if my return will be audited?

A. You really can't. Any return may be selected for audit. Some are selected because of the types or amounts of income and - or deductions reported. Still more are selected at random.

Q. Aside from the mortgage on my home, what other home expenses may I deduct?

A. The interest on your mortgage may be deducted. Other expenses that may be deducted are real estate taxes paid during the year, and the interest and sales tax you pay in connection with the purchases of items for your home.

Local assessments that improve the value of your property such as for sewers or sidewalks are not deductible. Water bills and other service charges are not deductible.

Check your tax instructions leaflet or the IRS booklet "Your Federal Income Tax" for some examples of what may be deducted.

Q — Is the money I receive from my account with the credit union considered interest or dividends? How about dividends from a savings and loan institution?

A — Payments from both types of institutions are treated as interest and are fully taxable.

Q — My income was up last year and I may have to file a declaration of estimated tax. How can I tell for sure whether I do or not?

A — The requirements for filing declarations are given on page 5 of your 1040 instructions.

In general, you should file a declaration of estimated tax if your total expected tax exceeds withholding by $40 or more and either (1) income is expected to exceed $5,000 for an individual or $10,000 for a married couple filing jointly, head of household, or certain widows and widowers, or (2) when more than $200 of income comes from sources not subject to withholding (dividends, business profits, etc.).

Q — How can I tell whether I can claim someone as a dependent?

A — There are five tests that have to be met before a dependent can be claimed. These are income, support, married dependents, nationality and relationship. These tests are described in the 1040 instruction booklet.

Q—How much can a working mother deduct for child care expenses?

A — The deduction is for what you actually spent, with a maximum limit of $600 for two or more dependent children under under 13.

Check your instruction booklet to see how this deduction is affected by the amount of your gross income.

Q — Can I exclude all the pay I got when I was out sick or is some of it taxable?

A — It depends on what percentage of your pay you received and whether you were hospitalized or not.

If you received over 75 per cent of your wages as sick pay there is a 30-day waiting period before any pay can be excluded. This is true even if you were hospitalized. After the waiting period you may exclude your weekly pay up to a maximum of $100 per week.

If your sick pay was 75 per cent or less of your regular pay and you were not hospitalized, then there is a 7-day waiting period. If you were hospitalized at least one day there is no waiting period. After the waiting period up to $75 a week may be excluded. This goes up to $100 a week after 30 days of absence from work.

Both the 7-day and 30-day waiting periods begin with the first day you are absent from work.

Fountain Wins Centennial Title; Birds Place Second in Division I

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

PUEBLO — Fountain's flying Trojans delivered the Colorado Springs area its second straight Division II title during the 25th running of the Centennial Invitational here Saturday but Wasson's Thunderbirds lost their bid to make it a clean sweep for the local region when Alamosa edged them for the championship of Division I.

Except for the brilliant performance of the Alamosa team, it was a day of domination by Colorado Springs' teams in the first weekend of 1965's "big meets". Fountain, in annexing its second consecutive Centennial crown, was forced to the final tape by another excellent St. Mary's club. Those two made a runaway of the Division II team race. Likewise, in the top division, Wasson and Alamosa had the championship battle to themselves. Third place Pueblo Central finished nearly 20 points behind Jim Hartman's Thunderbirds.

To complete the power play by area teams, Manitou Springs used its pair of star performers to dominate the record-setting. Hurdler John Moore was bested by Springfield's Bob Teague in both trips over the sticks but, in an unusual twist, it was Moore who ended up with a record in the highs.

His 15.2, recorded in the morning preliminaries, goes into the books as a new mark. Later in the afternoon Moore won the broad jump with a record leap of 21-2. And teammate Ron Smith set a new standard in winning the pole vault with a leap of 12-2. That gave the Mustangs, the fourth place team in the final standings, three of the seven records either set or tied in Division II.

Final team standings saw Alamosa pile up 61 points in an impressive show of strength in Division I. Wasson's 52 easily captured second while Central had 33½, Durango 29½, Pueblo East, 17, Centennial 15, Palmer 6, Pueblo Catholic 5, Regis 5, and La Junta 1. Mullen and Pueblo County failed to score.

In Division II, Fountain amassed 70 points to 62 for runner-up St. Mary's. Springfield trailed with 44, Manitou Springs had 24, Walsenburg 9, Monument 8, Swink 8, Fowler 6, Ordway 2, Cheraw 2, Hoehne 2, and Holly 0.

Fountain speedsters won only five events, including two of the three relays, but their overwhelming balance made up the difference. Bob Reed gave the Trojans a triumph in the 880 run and swifty, Steve Gerleman, captured both dashes. He was clocked in 10.6 in the 100 and 23.5 in the 220. In addition Fountain quartets swept to wins in both the 880 and mile relays, establishing a new record in the latter and tying an existing mark in the 880.

St. Mary's won three firsts, including a record effort by Cliff Clark in the shot put. The huge Pirate star smashed the old mark by more than two feet with his heave of 53-1¾. Jerry Knauf was the victor in the triple jump and the Pirate distance medley quartet romped to victory in that event.

Wasson and Alamosa battled on even terms throughout most of the day but the Maroons pulled away in the final few events when their strength in the sprints and relays took its toll. Alamosa swept all three relay titles while the Thunderbirds took a second in the mile event, fifth in the distance medley, and were disqualified in the 880 relay after apparently finishing third.

The T-Birds did return with three individual champions. Bud Hoffpauir sped to victory in the high hurdles in a clocking of 15.2 and Craig Gillette won the high jump with a leap of 5-11, far off his usual form. Mike Martin, the dandy little handyman, captured the low hurdle race in 20.7 after recording a 20.2 in the trials, and was second in both the broad jump and triple jump to total 13 points.

Wasson also got another excellent race from junior miler, Dan Poole, who finished second to Alamosa's John Blickham, but still ran a 4:41, good early season time. Blickham, a sophomore sensation, was caught in 4:38.5.

Only one record was broken in Division I and that came in the 880 relay where Alamosa's swift quartet sped the two laps in 1:33.4. Durango's Jim Hatfield tied the existing standard of 50.8 in the 440 yard run en route to becoming the day's only triple winner. Hatfield also captured the 100 yard dash in 10.2 and the 220 in 22.0.

Palmer's defending South Central League champions, who had their first meet competition only this week, made one of their poorest showings in recent seasons. Dennis Bair's third place finish in the broad jump and David Paul's third in the pole vault were the only points accumulated by the Terrors.

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Big Jack Nicklaus grabbed the Augusta National monster course by the throat and shook it to death Saturday with a record-tying eight-under-par 64 which threatened to wreck the 29th Masters Golf Tournament.

The superb round, featured by 300-yard drives and putts of phenomenal length without a single bogey, gave the Golden Bear of Columbus, Ohio, a 54-hole score of 202 — five shots ahead of South Africa's Gary Player.

Defending champion Arnold Palmer, the other member of the Big Three which started the day head-to-head, could do no better than par 72 on the warm, windless day for a 210 total, tied with 34-year-old Dan Sikes of Jacksonville, Fla., for third place.

Two challengers from out of the pack — Mason Rudolph, a bespectacled tour veteran from Tennessee, and former U.S. Open champion Gene Littler — joined Nicklaus in a birdie assault on the 6,980-yard, par 72 course and moved into contention.

Rudolph, with a streak of four straight birdies and five in a stretch of six holes, fired a 66 for 211 and Littler, canning eight birdies in the last 16 holes, shot a 67 for 212, tying Tommy Aaron, who chipped in on the final hole for a 71.

However, there seemed no catching the bull-strong Nicklaus in Sunday's climactic round. He is at the peak of his game and brimming with confidence.

"My Adrenalin is running so strong that I am using six-irons where normally I'd use a five," the blond blaster said after his round. "I am all pumped up inside."

No man ever played the first 54 holes better in this golf Olympics, started in the record year of 1953 and duplicated by Palmer in winning the third of his four titles in 1962.

Nicklaus needs only a par 72 Sunday to tie the 274 set by Hogan 12 years ago, when he won the Masters, U.S. Open and British Open in a professional little slam.

Lloyd Mangrum set the single round record with a 64 in the opening round of 1940.

A gay, carnival crowd of 50,000 swarmed over Augusta's resplendant acres for the third round, and big Jack gave them a show they will never forget.

Splitting the board fairways with cannon shots off the tee and dropping putts of from 15 to 25 feet, the 25-year-old boy wonder played the outgoing nine in 31 shots, tying the record of Cary Middlecoff in 1955.

Denver Bears Romp Over Okla. City

MELBOURNE, Fla. (AP) — The Denver Bears made a clean sweep of their exhibition series with Oklahoma City Saturday, defeating the 89ers, 11-4, on the strength of an eight-run second inning.

The Bears collected 12 hits, their best for any game so far this season.

Air Force, Southern Colorado Split in Double Header

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

PUEBLO — A last-ditch uprising by the Indians of Southern Colorado State College here Saturday foiled the Air Force Academy in their attempt for a first series sweep of the season as the teams split a double header on wind-whipped Runyon Park.

It was the third twin bill of the spring for the Falcons and their second split in the trio. Coming back in the second game behind the crafty curves of lefty Al McClure, the Cadets gained their second victory of the still young baseball season, 9-4. They lost the opener, 5-4, on a squeeze bunt in the final inning.

The two games here Saturday were the sixth and seventh straight on the road for the Air Force, but Coach Connie Sparks will at last bring his team home this coming Wednesday afternoon when they host the University of Denver, a team which slipped past the AFA just last week in Denver. And they stay at home over next Saturday with a singleton slated against Colorado State University.

Meeting Southern Colorado for the first time in any varsity sport, the Falcons carried a slim 4-3 lead into the final frame of the seven-inning opener here Saturday but they were unable to hold off the Indians' attack in dropping the opener.

Picking up a single run in the second inning on a single, two-base error and a wild pitch, the Cadets overcame a two run burst by SCSC with the stiff wind playing tricks in the outfield by punching across a pair on the strength of Tipp Simpson's double to left-center with two on.

The Falcons still had the upper hand going into the bottom of the seventh but the Pueblo nine rapped out four hits off starter Bob Guido to wrap up the game. Roger Hargraves opened up with a double and advanced to third on a high fly, and was plated on Byron Hakes' liner to short center field.

Another single put two runners on and Guido elected to give an intentional pass to Gary Kruger to load the bases. Then left fielder Randy Eddy laid down a hard - to - handle bunt along the third base line and the winning run was squeezed in with no chance to cut off the run.

The second game was a different story all the way as the Air Force exploded early on Pueblo starter Doug DuCharme and held on with McClure going the seven-inning distance on a six-hitter, although giving up a sixth inning home run to SCSC catcher Bill McClelland.

Checked until the third, the Falcons used the stolen base to best advantage with first shortstop Keith Withycombe walking, stealing second and advancing on the catcher's low throw. Withycombe came home on catcher Paul Hanson's single, and then Hanson took the same route to third as the previous runner and went home on third baseman John Ollila's single to center.

Ollila went all the way to third on a two-base error by the center fielder and came in when Simpson grounded out to second. Those three runs were nearly enough to turn the trick with McClure holding off the Indians most of the way.

However, SCSC tightened it up to 3-2 in the fifth on a lead-off triple by pitcher DuCharme, a walk and a two-out single by Hakes. But McClure got all the insurance he needed when the Falcons blasted the Pueblo starter into the dugout with three hits and a walk to score four more int he top of the sixth.

McClelland's homer over the 345-foot left field wall brought two Pueblo runs across to narrow the count to 7-4, but the Air Force kept up the pounding with another pair of runs in the seventh to lock up their second decision of the season.

McClure struck out seven in as many innings and was in control all the way in his fourth appearance of the season. So far he has both Air Force victories, the other coming against New Mexico University in the opener, and he has lost to Stanford and Denver.

The wind made life miserable for player and spectators alike, but was most cruel to the outfielders who had to play a guessing game with most of the high flies.

The Air Force was again playing without the services of a couple regulars in their outfield as both Paul Stein and John Ondrejko remained at the AFA for spring football practice. In that both are counted on as starters for next fall's grid team, it's doubtful Coach Sparks will be seeing much of them until after the May 1 football windup.

As many as four sophomores were in the lineup for the Falcons, including Simpson, center fielder Gary May, left fielder McBroom and catcher Hanson.

Adams State's Bat Power Puts Down Tigers

By MORRIS FRASER
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Adams State College kept their thundering bats at work all afternoon and swept a doubleheader, 6-3 and 7-6, from Colorado College Saturday at Memorial Park.

The Indians won despite two outstanding relief jobs by Craig Clayberg.

Adams State pulled away from the Tigers in the opener with a four-run third inning. The Indians capitalized on three singles, a double and a walk to gain a 5-1 verdict. Each team scored later but the outcome was already settled.

In that one, Clayberg came on to relieve Warren Reeser with one out in the fifth. Adams State had scored once and had a man on base. Clayberg downed the rally with two quick outs and retired the side in order in the last two innings.

Adams State scored all their runs in the second inning and had the Tigers down, 5-1, when Clayberg came back on in the chill nightcap. He allowed a triple and a sacrifice fly to bring home two more runs, then allowed two scattered singles while setting down the last 12 men in a row.

But CC couldn't score the runs to win, though they had oodles of men on base each game. In the first loss, the Tigers had men on base in the second, third, fourth and fifth innings without scoring. They tallied twice in the sixth but a full set of bases with one out came to nothing as the Indians turned a quick double play.

CC gained a 1-0 lead in the second game and got back three of the runs in the second. In the third they had two men on and couldn't score. In the fourth two runs came across and the Bengals had a two-out bases loaded situation and again couldn't plate a man. CC sent four men on tour in the sixth frame, but two were cut down and the third out came with runners on second and third.

CC scored in the first game when Carl Clay doubled down the left field line and came home on an error to Dave Peterson's hit.

In the sixth Gus Hart walked, moved third on an out and single by Wayne Woodyard. Both runners came home on Chuck Reinking's left field single.

Steve Ebert walked and came home on Peterson's right field single to give the Tigers the only lead they ever enjoyed during the wind-swept afternoon. In the third Wayne Nelson, Dee Wilson and Woodyard hit consecutive singles and scored.

Chuck Reinking scored the first CC run in the sixth on a bases-loaded walk to Roger Williams. Another walk to Nelson forced in Clay with the final CC tally.

Frick Is Optimistic In His Finale Year

By FORD FRICK
Commissioner of Baseball
(Written for Associated Press)

I am coming to the end of the road after 14 years in office so it might be appropriate to look back at what has happened and to try to peer ahead.

There is no reason not to be optimistic. Attendance has grown year by year. There is more participation by the youngsters. What has happened and what will happen as people have more and more leisure time is a diversification of interest. People used to work a six-day week with two weeks off in the summer. Now they have more time and more money for spectator sports.

I see no threat in professional football or basketball. There is a place for each and each can grow without being a serious threat to the other.

I won't be around when it happens but I believe additional expansion is inevitable. I think it is much nearer than many want to admit. It is time that baseball recognized this and set up the ground rules. Perhaps they should set up a period of a minimum of two years after a city is selected before the club actually would operate. In the meantime, the new group could operate a minor league team or teams and sign its own players who would be free from the draft. The year before the city was to operate each of the existing teams would designate 15 untouchables and let the new teams each take one from its regular 25-player list. This is no campaign, just a rough idea of how it might work out.

I do think that baseball will come to two 12-club major leagues with each league divided into two six-team divisions. In that manner they can return to the old 154-game schedule. I do not think it would be practical to have three leagues because it would be difficult to convince any of the existing teams they should move into the third league with the new teams.

Looking back I think we have been going through a great transition period which is still continuing. We have seen television come and grow into an important factor. The majors have expanded to 20 teams. Player-owner relations have undergone a complete change. Through their own organizations the players have reached a stature once considered unnecessary and impossible.

But we still face many problems. Expansion is going to continue because the present, 10-club setup does not make sense over a long period and also because of the growth of our country and the shifting population.

Television has developed so rapidly that we must guard against its increasing threat to swallow up the game. Important as television is, important as television's dollars may become, baseball cannot afford, now or ever, to allow television or any other outside agency to dictate procedures, business policies, scheduled or other operations.

We have made a start on solving our television problem with the new game-of-the-week telecasts in which the receipts will be divided evenly among the 18 participating teams. Perhaps the time will come when we limit the number of games to be seen nationally or even in the local area. Perhaps it will be wise eventually to give the visiting team a share of the regular television receipts as we have done for years in the case of gate admission.

We are in need of legislation to establish common exemptions for all spectator sports to conduct the unusual phases of our operations.

The present sports bill before Congress is a good bill. It would place baseball and other sports under the antitrust laws but would exempt such practices as the reserve clause, the draft, waivers and territorial rights.

We have gone a long way and have made many strides. Baseball owes no apologies to anybody for its action or the programs it advocates. Its honesty and integrity are definitely established. The public faith in our sport never has wavered. If there is criticism it is not of the players but of business operations.

The business operation of baseball is changing. I recognize the dangers of corporate ownership but we are going to have more corporations owning ball clubs in the future. A private individual no longer can afford to operate a ball club.

We have our problems. So does everybody. But there is no reason not to be optimistic.

'Greatest NL Race' Says Giles

By WARREN C. GILES
President National League
Written for the Associated Press

CINCINNATI (AP) — Never in my 29 years in the National League—and more specifically during the 14 years as president — have I seen more justified optimism than that which permeated the spring training season this year.

I've become known as the perennial optimist in recent years but the type of pennant races we've been enjoying has made such optimism widespread throughout the National League.

But now, as we prepare for our 90th season I can honestly say that the ingredients are present for what could be the greatest pennant race in history. That was the unanimous opinion of all the persons with whom I visited on a tour of the training camps.

Most baseball personnel, writers and broadcasters said much the same thing in discussing the 1965 National League season.

"I just don't know which club to pick."

Naturally, that's the key factor in anticipating an exciting and hard-fought pennant race. The wonderful balance of power which has existed in our league in recent years is best evidenced by the fact that no club has won two straight pennants in the last five years and that five different clubs have won the flag in that period.

Red Schoendienst, manager of the defending champion St. Louis Cardinals, knows this fact of life as do his players. They know, that with the steady improvement of the Mets and Astros, there is no soft touch in the league and that the stiffest possible competition will be forthcoming from the Phillies, Reds, Giants, Braves, Dodgers, Pirates and Cubs.

It might be too much to hope for a repetition of the finish we had last year when four clubs still held a chance to win, or tie, on the second last day of the season.

CC Track Team Opens Season Here Tuesday

The Colorado College track squad opens its outdoor season Tuesday at Washburn Field. The triangle meet with Nebraska State College of Chadron, and Western State College of Gunnison, will start at 2 p.m.

Coach Frank Flood says the Tigers are in good shape for a full week of activity. Wednesday they travel to Alamosa to meet Adams State and New Mexico Highlands, then home Saturday for another contest with Colorado State College and Southern Colorado State College.

"We have an outstanding team this year," Flood said. "Two of the best are our seniors Ed Loosli and Tony McGinnis. Loosli was the low and high hurdle champion of the Rocky Mountain Conference last year and also holds the school high jump record of 6'4". McGinnis holds the one and two mile records in the Rocky Mountain Conference."

Mike Norris will be the one to watch in the javeline throw for Colorado College, He is expected to break the school record this year. Two good quartermilers on the squad are Bob Grand and Lyle Hayes.

Among the good freshmen this year are Bob Pollack and Dean Santos scheduled for the sprints and Jim Anderson in the hurdles and discus. Two freshman pole vaulters are Lance Clark and Dave Schaeffer. Another freshman in the lineup is Tom Cohen who will compete in the high jump.

A junior and two sophomores at Colorado College are slated for action in the middle distance events Tom Jervis, Jack Hunter and Jim Turner. Steve Kopesky, a junior, will probably be the outstanding shot putter for the Tigers.

Terror Hitters Club Central Nine To Retain First Place in League

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

PUEBLO — Palmer bats, which snapped to life in the late innings against Wasson Tuesday, continued to boom here Saturday morning as Jerry Hughes' Terrors crushed Pueblo Central 12-4 to run their winning streak to seven games.

The triumph, their fourth straight in South Central League competition, was another big step toward the first conference baseball crown for the Tribe since 1960. Central, tied for the SCL lead when the week got underway, sank farther down the standings as a result of its second straight loss. The Wildcats, now 2-2, had dropped a Wednesday start to Pueblo Centennial.

The Terrors, who had used superb pitching in recording their first six wins, had to call on the hitters for an assist Saturday after Central jumped out to a quick 3-0 lead. Starter Phil Johnson was victimized by his own wildness and non-support by his mates as the Cats tallied a pair of unearned runs in the first.

Rich Roblek's two out homer in the bottom of the second padded the Central margin to 3-0 and after the Terrors bounced back to force a tie in the top of the third, Johnson yielded a fourth run to the Wildcats in the last half of that frame. Hughes then summoned ace Tom Medlicott, to the rescue in Central's half of the fourth and the Wildcats were through. The powerful Palmer southpaw, who had fanned 18 Wassonites Tuesday, walked four but didn't allow a hit over the final four innings Central never mustered another serious threat.

Meanwhile the Palmer hitters were enjoying a field day. Wildcat starter, Dan Kochevar, had allowed only a single baserunner over the first two stanzas but by the time the Terrors had driven him to cover in the sixth he might easily have been a victim of shellshock.

Led by the versatile Johnson and shortstop Ollie West, the Tribe cracked out 12 hits in what was easily its most productive outing of the campaign. Included were six for extra bases, four doubles and a pair of three-baggers by West. Johnson had three hits to pace the assault but Fred Romero, Larry Williams and Ken Rose all joined West at the two hit level.

Even with the decisiveness of the final score, the Terrors had their anxious moments in the early going. Johnson, who was just missing the corners, walked Roblek on four straight pitches to lead off the first inning and after Dan Robson had bounced into a force play, George Dasco drew a pass.

Then followed a pair of disastrous plays in the field. Rich Martinez bounced a ball toward second which Jay McKee fielded cleanly but dropped as he started his pivot on the bag. Dan Smith followed with a long fly to center which went in and out of the grasp of Richard Grapp while two runs sped home.

Roblek added to the damage in the second by belting a shot over the fence in left field to provide the Cats with a three-run margin — and the situation was beginning to get serious.

Rose, who had delivered the game winning hit against Wasson, finally got the Terrors underway Saturday. His double to lead off the third launched a three-run frame that saw the first of West's triples plate the initial tally. Romero then singled home West and actually traveled on to third as the Wildcat centerfielder kicked the ball. However, on an appeal play at second, Romero was ruled out for not touching the base.

Johnson and Williams followed with successive doubles to tie the score but Kochevar escaped further damage at that point by fanning Roger Green to retire the side. A booming double by Smith and Kochevar's Texas League single into short right lifted Central back into the lead at 4-3 in the bottom of the third, but once again it was temporary.

A walk and West's second triple knotted the count in the fourth and the Terrors got their first lead in the fifth as Williams singled and Grapp doubled him home. With Medlicott in command Palmer then broke it open with five runs in the sixth as the Central defense collapsed behind Kochevar. The Terrors got their final two runs off reliever Bob Martinez in the seventh.

In the only other SCL action Saturday, Centennial remained a game behind the Terrors by drubbing helpless Trinidad, 17-0.

RAQUET CLUB CONSTRUCTION — Discussing construction plans for the Colorado Springs Raquet Club are, left to right, Verne Collier Jr., George Fredrick and W. D. Corley, all members of the newly formed club. First ground work on the site, located in the northeast section of the city and overlooking Colorado Springs and Pikes Peak. Officials say the club's facilities will be in operation this summer.

Cubs and Johnny Neun of the Detroit Tigers made unassisted triple plays on consecutive days in 1927. There hasn't been an unassisted triple play in either major league since that time.

The spring pitching roster of the Kansas City Athletics has an international flavor. Three of the hurlers were born in Cuba and one each in Poland, Canada, Dominican Republic and Puerto Rico.

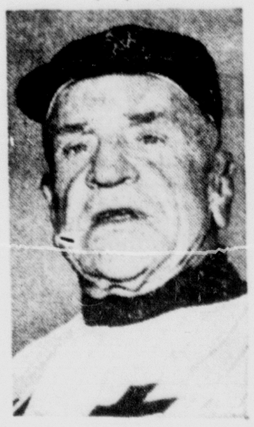
BETWEEN THE LINES

by Loy Holman

It's Mets & Athletics!

It's that time of year again when our feathered friends gather twigs for their annual tree-top construction jobs, young gals resume the chase of the opposite sex replete with bermudas, goose bumps and ice-blue gams and a new twinkle in the eye—and everybody's getting into the act of setting a summer-long baseball race by giving you October's World Series opponents although the first ball hasn't left the pitcher's hand.

* * *



CASEY STENGEL

But resting on laurels of a year ago when the guess here happened to turn out with the Yanks and Cards dividing the Series loot, and also because it seems too easy to go with frontrunners, I'm devoting the space this season to predicting the mighty battle for last.

Monday's opening day games include home games for those of you who join me in scoring baseball like golf for a change. Let it be recorded here and now that should no major catastrophe come about in the next next five months, the New York Mets and Kansas City Athletics will be on the top of the list — with least victories counting like a sub-par round in pasture pool.

For this reason, the Mets ought to pack Shea Stadium for Monday's first pitch. Oh, there may be a couple other reasons like the draw of Warren Spahn chucking to Yogi Berra and the expert leadership in dropped pop flies from the incomparable Casey Stengel. But still, the New Breed will turn out like mosquitoes sighting a topless bathing suit as they get the premonition their beloved bums have the chance of setting a new record — most games without a victory.

And over in the other league, cynically called the Junior Loop by their New York brethren who have been on the scene less than a half-dozen seasons, it should be another picnic.

Charlie O. — the Finley in the front office dreaming new ways to harass the other stoggy owners — will have Charlie O. (the mule mascot) in Kansas City's center field mowing the grass and intimidating the opponents. It's also rumored that going along with the green theme of the team (and that phrase is enough to make Muhammed Ali jealous) he may have his bats all colored a verdant hue and even paint the balls to match the lawn — and wouldn't that raise havoc with the haughty leaguemates.

So much for the leaders. But I suppose all you readers are waiting with baited eyes for the rest of the order. So here goes.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

1 New York 2. Houston 3. Chicago 4. Milwaukee 5. Los Angeles 6. Pittsburgh 7. San Francisco 8. Philadelphia 9. St. Louis 10. Cincinnati.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

1. Kansas City 2. Washington 3. Boston 4. Los Angeles 5. Detroit 6. Cleveland 7. Minnesota 8. Baltimore 9. Chicago 10 New York.

In most cases, the reasons for this year's choice are pretty obvious. Houston's Astros (or what ever they're calling 'em this trip) could give the Mets a pretty fair run, what with their dandy dome under which it seems impossible to catch a fly ball. However, the Texans will also have more experience under the dreaded sky-light than the opposition, so could be a threat to move further down in the above standings.

The Cubs are still on Phil Wrigley's 20-year building plan, Milwaukee will be playing before a hostile crowd all the time with the impending move to Atlanta, and the Dodgers are without a sound Sandy K.

As for the lower divisions clubs, the Pirates are still trying to regroup from their moment of glory a few years back, the Giants get a lot of runs but succeed in giving up more, the Phillies are in a state of shock from the tremendous 10-game streak at the end of last season which blew the pennant, no team repeats in the NL so the Cards are out, and that leaves Cincy's Redlegs with a long pitching staff and a solid defense to fail to lose as many as the others.

As always, the American League is more of a soft touch for these silly prognostications. But it could turn out to be a tough down-to-the-wire fight with the Senators pushing KC for the booby prize. They often seem about as inept at getting anything across as their cross-town buddies on Capitol Hill and have tradition, if nothing else, going for them.

Boston's beans rate higher than the Red Sox, the Angels have Dean Chance, period; and Detroit can't make up its mind which way to go so will remain in the middle.

Cleveland has inherited Ralph Terry from the Yanks and along with Rocky Colavito and Chuck Hinton in other trades the Indians could win a few. Minnesota is nearly as bad as KC and the Senators in the field, but with switches of Harmon Killebrew from left field to first and Bob Allison going to the outfield, some of this could be foiled. Pitching is thin or the Twins could move closer to the bottom of our rankings.

Baltimore still too unsettled and can't decide what to do with controversial rookie Curt Blefary (31 homers at Rochester last year), but with Boog Powell belting 'em and Steve Barber and Wally Bunker tossing bird shot, the Orioles are just short of the money.

Al Lopez has made his yearly prediction — "The Yankees can be had." But the Senior talks a better game than his White Sox play, and they still haven't changed the rules to allow anyone to steal first base. That's about the only way most of those Chicago batters could get on.

The Yankees are in a rut. In the last 44 years they have finished with less defeats than the other clubs 29 times. Since the boys came marching home again from WWII — it's been even worse — 15 of 18 AL flags, and five in a row.

There's a new guy calling the shots for CBS (oops, I mean Yanks) but Johnny Keane also is used to winning and he should have an easier time in this league and with the N.Y. talent. Mantie may be limping, Whitey Ford's not throwing as hard, and Tiny Kubek has had his troubles. But if Clete Boyer and Roger Maris can keep out of jail there still should be enough left-over swingers to cinch the cellar.

Oh, yes, for those who prefer the conventional system of ranking teams by the number of victories rather than defeats, just turn the above listing upside down. The order's the same.

Kadets Split Twin Bill; Tie for WRL Race Lead

By DICK FOSTER

Air Academy High may not have to be bridesmaids this year.

The Kadets unleased a pretty violent attack on the visiting Canon City Tigers Saturday at the Kadets own "Windtunnel Fielf" and sprinted to an 11-2 victory. It gave Academy a chunk of the Will Rogers League first place, as both the Kadets and Harrison's Panthers show 2-0 league records. Academy then lost an afternoon bout with Lakewood, 14-5.

It is too early to say that Academy will finally become a bride, but if Saturday's show was typical of the Kadets' power, they should be a solid contender in the "upperest" crust of the WRL. Canon City, highly touted in loop baseball was soundly spanked by "Big Blue."

John Gannon's brilliant pitching effort was the first thing to hit Canon City in the face. The lanky lefthander pitched four innings of shut out ball, giving up just two hits before the Tigers scratched a mark on the scoreboard.

In the fifth inning, Gannon gave up two hits and two runs, and pitched the last two frames in shutout fashion. Canon City got no extra base hits, and only four singles at that. The Kadet southpaw faned 18 and that silenced any Tiger growls except those of disgust.

It may have been too short a day at bat for the visitors, but it was a much longer day in the field. Academy bats peppered and blasted all morning long.

Shortstop Dan Brereton went five for five, including a double and a triple; pitcher Gannon hit three for five; Rudy Hallenbeck and Bill Wood hit back to back homers on two consecutive pitches; Wood hit another double and Ron Miller tripled. Besides that, Bob Gosline got three free trips to first and scored on every one.

Brereton and Gannon both singled and later tallied to lead off Academy scoring in the first inning. Gosline walked in the second, Brereton followed with a double to score Gosline. Brereton later scored on an error.

Mark Baker made first by fielder's choice and scored on Wood's double to round out second inning scoring and give Academy a 5-0 jump.

Gosline walked again in the third and scored later on Gannon's single. In the fourth, Hallenbeck made first, and scored on Miller's triple. Miller later came home with Gosline on Brereton's triple. Hallenbeck and Wood slammed fifth inning homers to left and right field in the fifth, ending the Kadet barrage.

All told, Academy pounded out 13 hits against two Tiger pitchers. Dan Scavarda gave up the first six runs and eight hits and Dee Betts finished for Canon. He threw two wild pitches and hit two batters in the process. A bad day at "Big Blue" field, to put it briefly.

The Kadets silenced Canon City's Tigers Saturday morning, but they ran into a much more ferocious breed of Tigers in the afternoon. The Tigers of Lakewood High School battered Academy 14-5.

It was pretty much of a rerun of the morning contest — in reverse.

The non-league contest saw a corps of Lakewood's big bats swat at Academy for 18 hits. The Kadets picked up only five in the entire contest.

The Lakewood - type Tigers had three quick runs before Academy could set up their defense. Joe Wise was the first batter. He doubled, and Bob Liedike singled right behind him. Dave Sorenson, the third batter, then homered.

Lakewood picked up one run each in the second and third two in the fourth and two in the fifth, and just for insurance, they added five more in the seventh. Roger Karolick scored two runs for Academy and drove in another on his fourth inning homer which scored John Gannon. Karolick scored in the third on Mark Baker's double after he walked, and then homered in the fourth. Baker later scored on his double, when Joe Kirkwood singled him in. Bob Gosline was the fifth Academy score. He walked in the sixth, and went around on two wild pitches.

Kadets Win Aurora Relays

AURORA — The Air Academy High Kadets walked away with top honors during the annual Aurora Relays as the Big Blue thinclads, paced by Tony Blanchard and speedster Ken Peterson, won the Division 2 title by topping the field of 25 teams.

Denver East won the Division 1 crown.

Douglas County finished second behind Academy High in the Division 2 competition. Academy High tallied 55 points, while Douglas County scored 37 points, followed by Greeley West (36), Lafayette (33) and Julesburg (27) to round out the top five teams in the 25-team field.

Blanchard, the 200 - pound Academy High strongman, heaved the shot put 53 feet and seven and one-half inches to take first place in that event while Peterson, who is the son of the Kadet track coach Glenn Peterson, won the 100-yard dash in 10.4 seconds.

Peterson also ran on the winning Academy High relay teams in the 440 and 880-yard relay events. The Kadets also placed second in the sprint relay and placed third in the high and low hurdles.

Hardwick Wins PBA Tourney

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Billy Hardwick, 22-year-old sharpshooter from San Mateo, Calif., won a three-way contest Saturday to capture the $25,000 first prize in Professional Bowling's Tournament of Champions.

Compiling a solid early lead, Hardwick staved off a strong finish by Dick Weber of St. Louis. Joe Joseph, the defending champion from Lansing, Mich., finished third.

The 35-year-old Weber won $12,500, Joseph $6,500.

The $100,000 Firestone-Professional Bowlers Association tournament started Wednesday with a field of 43 and ended with head-to-head competition among the top three Saturday.

Palmer Gymnasts Post Win

The Palmer gymnastics team lost its first dual meet of the season when the Terrors went under to Aurora Central Friday night, 60-44, on their home court.

Coach Dave Moulton's gymnasts are now 2-1 in dual meets this season, including a second place at the Durango Inyitational last week.

Kenny Heaton and Pete Brandt paced the Terrors. Heaton won the Still Rings and Brandt won the trampoline.

The Palmer team plays host to Aurora Hinkley Friday night at 7:30 in their next outing.

Need a "26" second car?- buy the one they race.

Who says a second car must be second rate! (Virtuous—yes. Sensible—of course. But a bore? Never!!) Who says a sports car must be dangerous! (Agile—certainly. Spirited—to be sure. But a menace? Nonsense!!)

Case in point: the Austin Healey Sprite.

Our little Sprite wears a modest second-car price tag—under $2000.* It delivers second car mileage—over 30 m.p.g. It has roll-up windows, snug convertible top...and a determination to get along with your wife.

Sprite ALSO happens to be a bona fide racing machine. And the features that commend it to skilled SCAA drivers are welcomed by less venturesome motorists. The 1100 c.c. Austin Healey engine (top speeds in excess of 90 m.p.h.) can be thrashed unmercifully for miles on end. The Lockheed disc brakes in front and 7" drums in the rear bring you to a rapid halt from any speed . . . without weaving or fading.

The steering and the redesigned suspension give you both: flat cornering, comfortable riding . . . plus a secure feel at the wheel. The look is in the grand tradition of fast motoring: Spartan lines, modern shape.

Whether or not you ever race your Sprite is immaterial. The point is, you could. Which makes Sprite a better car... and picking up the youngsters or dropping off the laundry a lot more fun.

Who says a second car has to be dull! Certainly not your Austin Healey dealer.

Machebeuf Dumps Cheyenne, 13-12

After enduring three hours and 10 minutes of baseball action — which included a barrage of 21 hits, six pitchers walk 18 batters, three home runs, seven doubles and one triple — Denver Machebeuf managed to survive the single game marathon to topple Cheyenne Mountain, 13-12, Saturday in non-conference play at the latter's new baseball field.

The loss gave the Cheyenne team a 5-2 won-loss record to date. In Will Rogers League play, the Cheyenne baseballers are 1-1.

In Saturday's Machebeuf - Cheyenne encounter, the Indians enjoyed a 11-7 edge going into the top of the seventh when the Buffs exploded for seven runs to pull out the victor despite the fact the Tribesmen attempted to rally at their last time at bat.

Cheyenne's ace chucker Ted Garcia took the loss as the lefty took over the pitching chores in the seventh with one man out and allowed four runs to score during his two-thirds of an inning on the mound.

Bill Massarand, who is hitting at a .600 clip, highlighted Cheyenne's 12-hit attack by collecting two doubles and a home run.

QB Club To Feature Baseball

Monday will be Baseball Day at the Colorado Springs Quarterback Club.

The club meets each Monday at noon at the Acacia Hotel, and this week baseball will be the main theme. All males in the region are welcome to attend, and join the club if they wish.

This week the feature of the meeting will be a filmed account of last year's College World Series final game in which the University of Minnesota defeated Missouri University for the NCAA crown. The film, furnished by Colorado College coach Bob Johnson, was taken at the annual tournament in Omaha.

Johnson will also give a report on the progress of the Colorado College team and especially its double header against Adams State College of Saturday. The Air Force Academy is also expected to be represented, with Coach Connie Sparks' Falcons slated to make their home debut this coming Wednesday against Denver University.

Reports from the area's high school coaches will also be given, with both Palmer and Wasson in the thick of the South Central League baseball race this spring.

Track will also be a topic of the weekly meeting, especially with the annual Pikes Peak Relays coming up next Saturday at Wasson Stadium in which nearly all the regional schools are entered.

Slated Saturday at Wasson Stadium

Sparkling Field Set for Annual Pikes Peak Relays

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Another sparkling field is due here Saturday for the annual running of the Pikes Peak Relays, the meet that ranks as Colorado Springs' top contribution to major high school track and field in the state each spring.

The competition, which may be run in two divisions for the final time, will attract 16 teams from around Colorado. The Relays, choice of many cinder experts as one of the smoothest meets conducted anywhere in at Wasson Stadium with the Class "A" field events slated to start at 12:30 p.m. and the first of the races coming at 2 p.m.

Defending champion East Denver will not be in this year's field due to a Denver League ruling that prohibits member schools from competition during that conference's spring vacation. That law will also eliminate Manual, fourth place finisher a year ago and a former champion.

Jim Hartman's host Wasson team, runner-up in 1964 and the only two-time Class "AA" champ, will likely enter this year's attraction as the top favorite. The well-balanced "Thunderbirds" were to get their first test of "big meet" competition at the Centennial Invitational in Pueblo Saturday.

The "AA" field will also include perennially strong Palmer the other Colorado Springs entry. Both East and Centennial and from upstate teams entered include Iver Ranum, Ladewood, Aurora Hinkley, and Cherry Creek. Hartman said late last week that Lakewood had indicated that an administrative ruling at that school might mean its withdrawal. The Wasson coach was to hear definitely eary this week and if the Tigers are unable to come, their spot will probably be filled by

Wasson Beats Lakewood 9 With Two in 11th

By MORRIS FRASER
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

It took six years, five extra innings, a three-run homer and an error, but Wasson finally found a sport it could beat Lakewood at.

The northeast Colorado Springs school gained a 7-6, 11-inning victory in Memorial Park Saturday, ending a frustrating slice of history for Wasson athletes and coach Gib Funk.

Thunderbird sports entries had never beaten the upstate Tigers in eight football games, a basketball game and two track meets. Saturday's diamond tilt was the first such between the two schools.

Wasson faced a 2-0 deficit and a hitless attack through the first four innings before Jim Smith slugged a three-run, fifth-frame blast that tied the score and later helped sent the game into extra innings.

Each team scored twice in the ninth inning and Lakewood put over a score in the top of the 11th. Then the T-Birds wrapped it up.

Bob Lynn led off with a walk, moved to second on Smith's follow-up single and to third on a wild pitch. Lakewood removed starting pitcher John Langland in favor of a reliefer Steve Herzberg tapped a sacrifice bunt down the third base line but second baseman Gary Conkling dropped the ball as Lynn made it home easily. Then Smith, seeing that the ball was out of reach of any Tiger, turned on the gas and roared home with the winning run and the entire Wasson dugout trailing.

Lakewood was determined to keep its mastery over Wasson Mike Simmons, Tiger grid star, poled a solo homerun over the left field fence in the second inning. Ed Kingry singled, went to third on an error and stole home while a following runner was being run down between first and second.

Steve Morganfield added a run in the sixth on a two-base error, fly ball and single by Simmons. That tied the score and assured an extra inning ball game.

Smith's towering 380-foot poke to left center field came with two out after Budgie Hamilton and Mike Morphew drew walks with two out.

Lakewood tallied twice in the nine with a single run circuit singles. Hamilton led off the nith with a singleprun circuit blow to left. Lynn got on base when right fielder Ken White dropped a fly ball. White was immediately pulled from the game. Lynn scored when Kingry interfered with his attempt to reach third and was awarded home.

The Tigers gained a single tally in the 11th on a pair of Wasson errors and a single.

Three pitchers saw duty for the T-Birds as Funk juggled his lineup from the fourth through the ninth innings. All together, they walked one, struck out 13 and allowed ten hits. Wasson mustered only six hits, but never more than one an inning.

Muscle, Speed Displayed at CU Grid Drill

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Lots of muscle and speed showed Saturday at University of Colorado's first spring football scrimmage.

Wilmer Cooks, 216-pound freshman fullback from Dallas, ripped the opposing line to shreds in a rugged show of strength. He scored two touchdowns from 11 and 7 yards out.

Larry Plantz, 188-pound sprinter from El Cerrito, Calif., turned on the juice to outrun defenders on a 55-yard touchdown dash. He also scored from 21 yards.

Their play highlighted a six-touchdown salvo by the first, second and third teams against the fourth, fifth and sixth teams, which failed to score.

The other TDs came on a three yard smash by John Fowler and an eight yard pass play from quarterback Dan Kelly to end Sam Harris.

Mercer Wins Seniors Tourney

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Dr. John Mercer of Sarasota, Fla., defeated Jack Russell 1-up Saturday and won the American Seniors Golf Tournament.

Russell, a former major league pitcher who now lives here, missed a chance to throw the finals into extra holes when he muffed a 40-inch putt on the 18th.

Mercer's medal play card on the par-71, 6,370-yard Belleview-Biltmore course was 74.

This was Fergerson's second victory this season as George Walker proved the stick power with three hits including a double and two RBI's, and Mike Biondini homered for the Bucs in the first frame.

Bob Gates fired the Pirates past the Ordway team as the St. Mary's chucker held the home team to four runs. Biondini paced the Pirates' eight-hit attack with two singles and one RBI.

Houston - Philadelphia Highlights Opening State

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The Houston Astros open the National League season Monday night, meeting Philadelphia in a stadium that now belongs in the category of the fabulous.

The domed stadium, a $31.6 million structure built for baseball, football, boxing and other sports, had its coming out party Friday night.

It spreads over nine acres, is so high ball players can't hit a baseball against the ceiling and its builders call it the eighth wonder of the world.

It awed the crowd of almost 48,000 that turned out for its opening—an exhibition game between the Astros and the New York Yankees, which the Houston won 2-1, in 12 innings.

There were 150 writers here from all over the country to see the fantastic stadium—the first one built for indoor professional baseball—and their response were most enthusiastic.

Fred Russell of the Nashville Banner said "for night games the playing conditions are so perfect and the setting so colorfully spectacular that it all seems unreal."

"This was the reward for five years and more of tedious, often trying, waiting, and it was worth every second of it. This was baseball in a grand opera house setting, what will come to be accepted as the greatest stage on which the game ever has been presented," said Clark Nealon of the Houston Post.

Joe Trimble of the New York Daily News said "the Astrodome is the Taj Mahal of sport —the finest edifice I've ever seen in 30 years on the beat."

Yankee players had some significant statements and Bobby Richardson, a member of the Association of Christian Athletes looked at the walls and declared: "what I like best about this place is no beer ads."

Jim Bouton, Yankee pitcher, declared "Jules Verne must have built this place."

Elston Howard, Yankee catcher, said "this is the nicest place I ever saw."

But some of the Yankees didn't particularly care for the club house quarters. They expected better when they compared them to the magnificant stadium, they said.

Mickey Mantle said "beautiful, but they need better showers."

Roger Maris said "what, no bucket seats in the dugout?"

Efforts to form a baseball program for youngsters living in Widefield, were discussed at a meeting held at Watson Junior High Saturday as some 120 interested persons attended the organizational meeting.

According to Robert Lee, who along with Homer Van Hooser have conducted the poll to see if the nearly 800 homes in Widefield could support a little league baseball program, the Saturday meeting proved successful as 40 adults and 80 youngsters attended the meeting and were enthusiastic towards forming a baseball program.

Lee was voted president of the baseball movement and Van Hooser was elected vice-president. In addition to electing officers, and various committee chairmen to spearhead the program, the Widefield baseball group also named umpires for the tentative baseball program.

Lee announced that the first practice session for all interested youngsters who would like to play baseball has been set for Monday, April 12, at the Widefield field (located at Widefield Blvd. and Fontaine) beginning at 5 p.m.

Houston Wins First Day Game in Dome

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If major league baseball players miss four fly balls when there is very little sun in Houston's $31.6 million Domed Stadium, how many will they miss when the sun shines brightly?

That was a pertinent question Saturday after Houston defeated Baltimore 11-8 in the first daylight game played in the new park.

The day was overcast with little sun shining through the dome, but two Orioles and two Astros had trouble with four of the 24 balls hit into the air.

Left fielders Boog Powell of Baltimore and Mike White of Houston each misjudged a fly, with the balls falling behind them for hits. Oriole catcher John Orsino couldn't make a try for a pop foul behind the plate because he didn't see it.

Center fielder Jim Wynn of the Astros got his glove on a fly but was unable to hold it. Wynn collected four hits in the game while teammate Jim Beauchamp drove in six runs, three with a third-inning homer.

The Astros had another game at night with the New York Yankees.

Dick Stuart's three-run double in the fifth inning powered Philadelphia to a 6-2 victory over Pittsburgh. Stuart's blast came after Steve Blass walked the bases full. Wes Covington added a two-run homer in the sixth.

Vada Pinson celebrated the birth of his daughter with a three-run homer and a run-producing double in Cincinnati's 7-2 triumph over the Chicago White Sox.

Curt Flood and Lou Brock homered as St. Louis defeated Kansas City 6-4.

The Los Angeles Dodgers took advantage of 12 walks and stole five bases in snapping Washington's five-game winning streak 7-4. Pitcher Claude Osteen, a former Senator, rapped two hits in picking up the victory.

The New York Mets nipped Minnesota 5-4 with a four-run rally in the eighth. Jim Hickman's two-run homer capped the outburst.

Glenn Beckert's grounder through the legs of first baseman Lee Thomas produced two runs in the sixth inning and a 3-2 victory for the Chicago Cubs over Boston.

Rain washed out San Francisco and Cleveland.

Detroit played Milwaukee at night.

Jean Saubert Wins Slalom At Tahoe City

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

TAHOE CITY, Calif. (AP) — Oregon State co-ed Jean Saubert missed her plane but won her slalom race in the Far West Kandahar Saturday at Alpine Meadows after a sleepless night.

While the women's championship went to the sturdy American girl, French ace Jean-Claude Killy whipped through a terrific second run in the men's event to overhaul the leaders and win.

With snow falling and blowing through most of the competition, the course was soft. Canada's Nancy Greene, winner of the American National Championship a week ago, lost balance and missed one of the 54 gates on her first run down the serpentine 220-yard course.

Miss Saubert, 22, of McCall, Idaho, made her first run in 50.84 seconds and her second in 49.42 for a two-run total of 1:40.26.

Olympic gold medalist Killy skied down a 57-gate course in 46.22 and went into his second chance trailing Dumeng Giavanoli of Switzerland, 45.33, and Rick Chaffee of Denver University at 45.81.

Then they changed to a run with 56 gates and Killy led off. He posted 46.5 seconds and 1:32.78, which no one could match.

Giavanoli finished second in 1:34.01 after a second run of 48.68. America's Billy Kid from the University of Colorado was disqualified for missing a gate on his second run. Kidd had 1:33.73, which couldn't count because of the disqualification.

Canada's Rod Hebron was third with 46.49 and 48.43 for a total of 1:34.92.

Chaffee slowed to 51.38 for a seventh place finish at 1:37.19.

Italy's Pia Riva finished second among the women with 1:42.30 and Switzeerland's Ruth Adolph took third at 1:42.56.

Miss Saubert finished her classes at Oregon State on Friday afternoon and went to Portland only to find her plane reservation had not been made.

Harrison Tops Fountain Valley

Harrison's Panthers recorded its fourth straight win of the season and Ransom Weber's baseballers are the lone Will Rogers League team undefeated.

The Panthers, along with Air Academy High, also lead the WRL pennant chase via 2-0 records.

In Saturday's contest against Fountain Valley Boys school, the Panthers tallied two runs in the first, second and fifth frames to pull out a 6-4 decision behind the pitching of Mike Johnson. This was the Harrison chucker's second win this season.

Ron Cottingham provided the stick power for the Panthers as the centerfielder collected two hits, scored two runs and drove in two RBI's.

Social Security Gives Income For Life

If you knew you could get a steady monthly income for the rest of your life, would you make a phone call or a trip downtown to find out for sure?

Most people would! Yet, according to Charles W. Feldhauser, district manager of the local Social Security office, many people over 65 who may become entitled to monthly social security checks just do not bother to get in touch with the social security office.

If you are over 65, the chances are four out of five that you are eligible for social security retirement benefits — 85 per cent of the people who are 65 or over can qualify. If you reached 65 in 1964, your chances are even higher — nine out of 10 are eligible.

Even if you continue working after 65, you may still be able to get some social security benefits.

Here is how it works: you may earn up to $1,200 in a year and receive all your social security payments for the year; if earnings are between $1,200 and $1,700, $1 of your social security payments for the year are withheld for every $2 you earn over $1,200. Benefits are withheld on a dollar for dollar basis if earnings go over $1,700

Also, regardless of your total earnings for the year, you can receive your social security check for any month in which you do not earn over $100 in wages or actively work in your own business. Neither will you lose benefits for any month in which you are age 72 or over.

For example, if a man and wife were entitled to $150 monthly social security benefits, he could earn $1,700 in a year and still receive $1,550 from social security; and even if he earned $3,000 in the year, they would still be paid $250 in social security benefits for the year. Another example: a man who earns $8,000 in a year but earns less than $100 per month in July and August can be paid his social security benefits for those two months.

The Social Security Administration has been stressing the importance of getting in touch with your social security office if you are 65 years of age or older. But those of you between age 62 and 65 should know that you, too, may be able to get social security benefits if you keep working. Of course, if you do receive benefits before age 65, the monthly amount of your benefits will be reduced. Even if you decide to take benefits in a reduced amount and receive only partial benefits each year because your earnings are over $1,200, an automatic recalculation of the benefit amount will be made when you reach age 65. The amount may be adjusted upward to take into account the fact that some checks had to be withheld because of your employment.

A free booklet entitled "If You Work While You Get Social Security Payments" is available at the Colorado Springs Social Security District Office. A telephone call or letter will bring this booklet to you. The office in Colorado Springs is at 15 S. Weber St.

Newcomers Get Gorge Tickets At Ft. Carson

Newcomers to Ft. Carson and their families are guests of the Royal Gorge Bridge Co. with 1,000 free tickets distributed already in April.

This traditional courtesy extended from the Canon City area is characteristic of the good community relations between Fremont County residents and Ft. Carson personnel, officials said.

Canon City has invited the 5th Infantry Division (Mech.) to maneuver in the extensive city park system in the Royal Gorge area.

Special Services has free admission tickets to the highest suspension bridge and discount tickets to the incline railway that runs to the bottom of the Gorge.

On Sundays and April 18, the Cheyenne Shadows and Peak Service Clubs are taking reservations from enlisted personnel for guided tours to the Royal Gorge.

There were 387 million acute illnesses reported in the nation during a one-year period ending last June 30, the U.S. Public Health Department reported. This was a 13.4 million decline from the previous year.

Condolences Sent at Death Of Cardinal

CHICAGO (AP) — Messages of condolence from around the world poured into Chicago today, mourning the death of Albert Cardinal Meyer and praising his stands on matters both religious and social.

Pope Paul VI sent a message that he was praying "for the repose of his soul."

Cardinal Meyer, 62, archbishop of Chicago since 1958 and a cardinal since 1959, died Friday in Mercy Hospital six weeks after a cancerous tumor was removed from his brain.

He was the spiritual leader of 2,317,700 Roman Catholics in the Chicago archdiocese, largest in the nation.

A hospital spokesman said death was caused "by a progression of the tumor." The prelate had been in a deep sleep since Sunday and had suffered no pain, the spokesman said.

Leaders of the archdiocese were to meet today to designate a temporary archbishop to serve until the Pope names a new archbishop. Auxiliary Bishop Cletus O'Donnell took over the cardinal's duties during his hospitalization.

Messages of sympathy from the American cardinals and from hundreds of persons from all walks of life began arriving at the archdiocese within hours after Cardinal Meyer's death.

Cardinal Meyer, former archbishop of Milwaukee, his native city, was termed a liberal by his peers, but he disavowed the label.

"I always look on both sides of a matter," he would say.

Archbishop Egidio Vagnozzi, apostolic delegate to the United States, will represent Pope Paul at the funeral Mass Tuesday morning in Holy Name Cathedral. All of the American Cardinals except Cardinal Cushing plan to attend. Cardinal Cushing is recovering from recent surgery.

African Newspaper Gets to Destination

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Once a week a Johannesburg, South Africa, newspaper starts a long journey to Provo, Utah. But how the U.S. Post Office determines its destination is anybody's guess.

First, the newspaper is directed to "S America." Apparently the mail service doesn't pay attention to continents and sends it to "Provo Wathington, Wash."

Then it goes to "Maere Hall Apt. 70, Hentage Halls." Somebody has decided that's Maeser Hall, Apt. 70 of Brigham Young University's Heritage Halls.

Finally it's delivered to Miss Magret Coetzee. She doesn't live there.

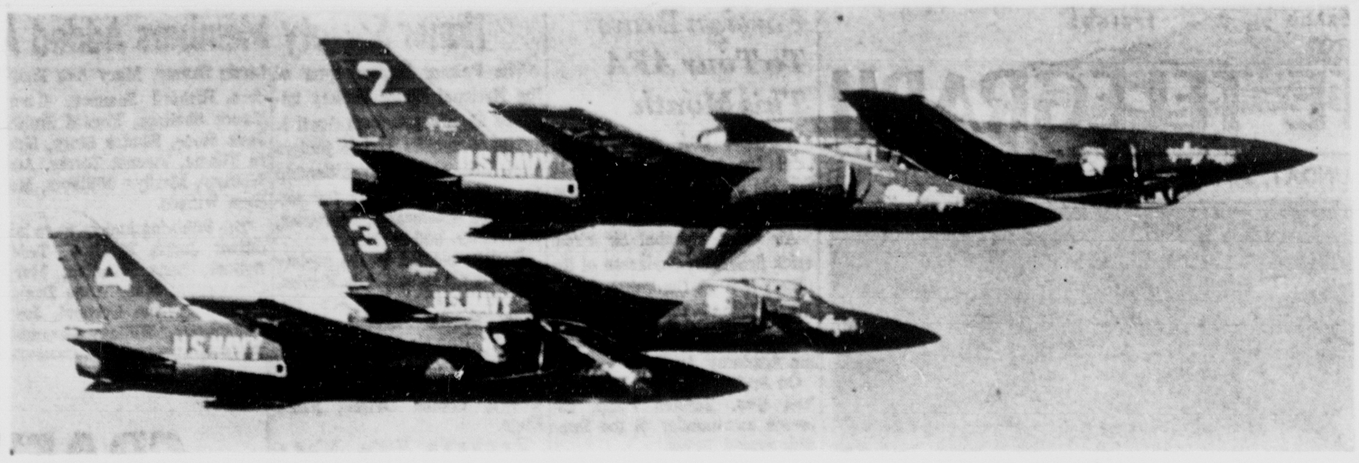
Bank Displays Easter Eggs

Unusual Easter eggs collected from many places throughout the world are on display in the lobby of the Colorado Springs National Bank. The colorful exhibition includes eggs of marble from Italy, of onyx from Mexico, of inlaid wood from Germany, of burnished brass from Japan, and many others.

The interesting assortment of colorful eggs has been acquired over a period of several years by Mrs. Betty Fisher of the bank's safe deposit department. Also in the display are several decorative eggs handcrafted by Mrs. Fisher. In the interior of real egg shells she has created miniature scenes of the Nativity and other subjects, visible through small transparent openings.

An outstanding feature of the display is an upright tree branch adorned with a dozen or more highly decorated eggs. The exhibit is open to the public until after Easter during regular banking hours, 10 a.m.-3 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Friday.



WHO'S WHAT?—Is it one, or three Navy Blue Angels upside down . . . in horizontal flight . . . or are they standing on their tails and climbing to the heavens at supersonic speeds . . . ??? This is the famed Blue Angels pictured in the world's tightest Diamond Formation. Only 36 inches separate the wing tips and canopies with a wing overlap of 14 feet . . . and that's tight. The Navy Team will highlight Armed Forces Week with an aerial demonstration at Peterson Field, May 8.

Blue Angels Feature Of Armed Forces Day

The Blue Angels, officially known as the U. S. Navy Flight Demonstration Team, have over the past 18 years, earned a world-wide reputation second to none. Since their first aerial demonstration in propellor driven Grumman M6F "Hellcats", in 1946, the Blue Angels have thrilled an estimated 70 million people with exact, low level formation flying.

On May 8, at the Peterson Field Armed Forces Week "open house" Blue Angels will fly supersonic F11A "Tigers" in a spectacular aerial display.

In September 1963, when the Team appeared here, during Naval Aviation's Salute to Colorado, more than 10,000 spectators were held spellbound with the flight show.

Some of the precision techniques are actually standard fighter maneuvers developed in practice and used in combat by Navy pilots . . . some routines are not in the books and termed, by some, "they can't be done".

The team demonstrates, primarily for student naval pilots, the high performance capabilities of our latest service fighters as well as the high level of training and skill required of Naval aviators.

The team prides itself in being unique. The Blue Angels fly the world's tightest Diamond Formation of any flight demonstration team. Their formations are held tightly together with a 36 inch separation between wing tips and canopies, and the wings overlapping 14 feet while their speed varies from over 500 knots down to 170 knots — just above the minimum flying speed.

About 1 million Americans—one of every 200 persons—is afflicted with epilepsy resulting in seizures or convulsions, the National Institute of Health reports.

The choir will sing a varied program of traditional church music, spirituals and folk music.

Army National Guard Gets Last of Air Defense Units

A three-year program to equip on-site air defense units of the Army National Guard with nuclear-capable missiles will be completed next week.

This was reported by Lt. Gen. Charles B. Duff, commanding general of the Army Air Defense Command (ARADCOM).

Gen. Duff said two Nike Hercules missile sites in the Cincinnati Defense of ARADCOM will be transferred next Tuesday to the Ohio Army National Guard.

The event will marke the end of a phased program under which 48 Army National Guard units representing 16 states and occupying missile sites in 15 defense areas were equipped with the Nike Hercules.

The 48 Hercules units of the Army National Guard represent more than one-third of the nationwide ARADCOM task force. They stand in place of the 76 Nike Ajax units, which were manned by Guardsmen before the Ajax-to-Hercules conversion program was undertaken by the Guard three years ago.

The present balance of active Army and Army National Guard batteries in the air defense system is expected to remain unchanged, Gen. Duff said.

Gen. Duff and Maj. Gen. Winston P. Wilson, chief of the National Guard Bureau, Washington, D. C., will attend next Tuesday's ceremony. It will be held at ARADCOM's Cincinnati Defense Headquarters at Wilmington, Ohio.

Gen. Duff will present Gen. Wilson a plaque mounted with insignia of the 19 artillery regiments of the Army National Guard represented in ARADCOM's task organization.

ARADCOM, as the Army component of the North American Air Defense Command, provides combat-ready Army air defense units to NORAD for the defense of key cities and bases in the United States.

The Army National Guard's transition from Ajax to Hercules missiles began in May, 1952. At that time, four Maryland units were selected to undergo conversion training at the Army Air Defense Center, Fort Bliss, Tex. They became operational in the Washington-Baltimore Defense, Dec. 11, 1962.

Completion of the Ajax-to-Hercules conversion represents another milestone in Army modernization of weapons. In less than a decade — since Sept. 14, 1957, when four California units assumed control of selected Nike Ajax sites in the Los Angeles Defense — the Army National Guard has moved from anti-aircraft artillery guns to the Ajax and to Hercules. Nike Ajax was phased out of the system last May.

The Nike Hercules has a far greater range and altitude capability than Ajax possessed. Hercules can reach out 75 miles and to altitudes greater than 100,000 feet to destroy its targets. It can be fitted either with a nuclear or a conventional high-explosive warhead.

Junior Rotarians Named at Canon High School

Canon City High School Principal John W. Griffin announced today that the faculty has selected Dennis Meese and Mickey Gann to serve as Junior Rotarians for April and May.

This arrangement was decided to allow the boys to serve together as they are Colorado AA State Track Champions. Both boys will graduate in May, and due to final exams will have to cut their stay short for May.

Mickey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gann, has been an outstanding athlete at Canon City High School. He was a football halfback, an all-conference guard in basketball and is the state AA Pole Vault champion for 194.

Some of his duties and honors include: vice president of his class in the ninth grade; members of Motacs, tenth, eleventh and twelfth, and this year, vice president of Motacs. He is a member of the Future Teachers of America; participated in football four years; basketball, four years; Track, four years and holds the prestige of qualifying for the Colorado State Track Championships for four consecutive years. He was awarded the outstanding athlete award in the ninth and tenth grades and this year is one of six students selected to serve as student elementary physical education instructor. Mickey has pole vaulted 13'6" for the state championship.

Dennis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Meese, is known as "Mercury" around Canon City High School. He is one of the fastest young men to ever participate in track and may hold an all-time record for the high and low hurdles. He was selected this year as an all-conference football player with his many long jaunts for touchdowns, and as of now holds the Colorado State AA Track Championships in the high and low hurdles. He ran the low hurdles in 19.4 seconds and the high hurdles in 15 seconds flat.

Some of Dennis's honors and achievements include: basketball for two years; football, four years; track, four years; vice president of the Senior Class; Motac's, three years; and this year president of MOTAC's. He has been a member of F. T. A. for two years and this year is the vice president. He has qualified for the state track meet the past two years, and has served on the class executive committee for three years. He has been a member of the Ski Club for three years.

Wives Pregnant Husbands Suffer

One of every nine men whose wives are pregnant may suffer from pregnancy symptoms resembling his wife's. This is the startling conclusion of Dr. William Henry Trethowan, Professor of Psychiatry, University of Birmingham, England.

There is ample evidence, according to the British psychiatrist, that many men suffer abdominal pain, loss of appetite, indigestion, colic, nausea, even vomiting, without any good physical cause.

Morning sickness, the plague of many pregnant women, may also trouble the father-to-be.

The symptoms usually start at the beginning of the third month, become less troublesome as time goes on, but rise again during the ninth month, reports Dr. Trethowan. They usually disappear completely within a few days after the baby is born, but may recur with subsequent pregnancies.

A common complaint of fathers-to-be is toothache. Dentists have been known to search in vain for an elusive carie, may use all means known to dental science to discover the cause of the discomfort, but find nothing. Nonetheless the patient continues to complain of toothache. Some even insist that a tooth be extracted.

Dr. Trethowan believes that the toothache may be due to the prospective father's acceptance of the myth that pregnancy causes tooth decay. The physician points out that the old wives' tale, "For every child a tooth," is so widespread that even medical students accept it until specifically taught better.

Why do men have sympathy pains? Dr. Trethowan speculates that some men may unconsciously fear that following childbirth their wives' affections may be withdrawn from them and redirected to the child. These men feel guilty and anixous about having such feelings, says the doctor, and may punish themselves unconsciously with unpleasant symptoms.

Other men identify so intensely with theif wives during the period of pregnancy that they experience the same discomforts.

Rest assured, cautions the doctor, no husband ever died of these symptoms. He recalls the obstetricians' joke — "Don't worry, I've never lost a father yet."

Scientist to Address Winter Night Club

An internationally known scientist, will be at the podium when the Winter Night Club convenes Thursday for its regular dinner meeting.

Dr. Ralph Lapp, secretary-treasurer of a Washington, D.C., firm which concentrates on scientific ventures in nuclear instrumentation, will speak on Red China's emergence as a nuclear power.

The international significance of Red China's radioactive explosion will be treated in depth by Dr. Lapp, who began his professional career during World War II as a nuclear physcist working on the A-bomb.

The dinner - meeting, to be held at the Broadmoor Hotel ballroom, will get underway at 7 p.m.

Dr. Lapp is regarded as a pioneer in exposing complex technical problems to public discussion. He is credited with playing a key role in public enlightenment of the fall - out issue and nuclear bomb test. He journeyed to Japan to write the story of the Japanese fisherman exposed to fall-out in the Pacific. His book, "The Voyage of the Lucky Dragon," written in 1957 was published in eight foreign editions.

As an author of magazine articles, Dr. Lapp has contributed to such national publications as the Saturday Evening Post, Life, The Reporter, The Reader's Digest and Harper's Magazine.

Dr. Lapp has written almost a dozen books, the latest being "Science and Democracy." His book on "Matter" for the LIFE Science Library sold a quarter million copies. "Kill and Overkill: The Strategy of Annihilation," published in 1962, a selection of the Library of Science, was a study of "peace through mutual terror," and anticipated the atomic cutbacks and other defense changes.

SKIN ANTISEPTIC

Iodine continues to be the best antiseptic when used properly. It is highly effective against bacteria, fungi, viruses, and protozoa. The chemical is not perfect but the same can be said of other germ killers. And the best of the iodine products is the old reliable — tincture of iodine.

This solution contains 2 per cent free iodine in 50 per cent alcohol. Some become sensitive to the tincture and it may irritate the skin and exposed tissues (partly because of the alcohol). Chemists have tried to overcome these drawbacks by making iodine preparations that are not sensitizing or irritating yet capable of killing bacteria. Several nonalcoholic iodophors on the market are excellent disinfectants but none is superior to alcoholic iodine in this regard. They are easier on the skin but the sensitizing effect of iodine remains.

Many soaps and detergents contain the antiseptic, hexachlorophene. The effectiveness of this combination depends upon its ability to leave a film on the skin. This is more likely to occur after repeated applications. The film is easily removed with alcohol and to a lesser extent with ordinary soap and water.

Ethyl alcohol also is used as an antiseptic and is most effective in 70 per cent concentration. Isopropyl alcohol is slightly more potent but twice as toxic as ethyl alcohol when taken internally. These products are used most frequently as a skin cleanser when giving hypodermic injections. The antibiotics also are good skin antiseptics.

There are several quaternary ammonium compounds that are useful. They contain no iodine, phenol, mercury or other heavy metals. Most of these are used by surgeons who must sterilize their hands prior to an operation. In addition, the site of the operation on the patient must be disinfected. It is here that irritation, drying effects, and sensitivity are important considerations.

Abrasions and other minor wounds should be washed gently with soap and water, especially when the injured area is dirty. Soap is mildly antiseptic but it is the mechanical aspects of washing away the bacteria that helps most. The tissues are not irritated and healing prompt if the wound is covered with a dry, sterile dressing.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

MISNOMER

Mrs. F. writes: What is post-hospital hepatitis?

REPLY

This is not an accepted term; it probably is a pet expression of your physician. I assume it means that a patient develops a liver infection with jaundice after hospitalization. Serum hepatitis may occur several weeks after receiving a transfusion.

PORK AFTER CORONARY

J. S. writes: I have recovered from a heart attack and would like to know if pork is taboo. I crave bacon or ham but would not want to eat these meats if they are forbidden.

REPLY

They are not taboo unless the blood cholesterol level is high and your physician recommended a low fat diet.

DEAF AND DUMB

Mrs. L. writes: Are mute children born that way or does the condition result from the inability to hear?

REPLY

From the latter. The vocal cords of these children usually are normal but they remain mute because they never have heard the spoken word.

SUGAR CURE

Mrs. G. writes: Is sugar a cure for alcoholism?

REPLY

No, but wouldn't it be wonderful if it were?

Two Men Arrested In Akron Shooting

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Police arrested two men in connection with the fatal shooting today of one policeman and the critical wounding of two others.

The men, who police said were suspects in two robberies earlier in the day, were arrested at the home of one of them, according to detective Lt. Robert George.

The men, both Negroes, offered no resistance, George said.

The men were not identified immediately.

George said the policemen were shot as they attempted to handcuff the suspects. He said one of the wounded officers, reserve policeman Harold Winthrow, gave police the description and license number of the suspects' car and it was traced to the neighborhood where the men were found.

A gun belonging to one of the patrolmen, Frank Mancini, who was wounded, was taken from one of the suspects, said George.

George said none of the policemen who were shot fired his gun.

Patrolman Eugene Hooper, 41, was shot once in the head and was dead on arrival at Akron General Hospital. Mancini, 25, was shot once in the head and Winthrow, 35, who was unarmed, was shot three times in the back.

Higher Education Debate Scheduled

DENVER (AP) — Debate on a proposed commission for higher education in Colorado is scheduled Monday in the House of Representatives.

Gov. John A. Love made the commission one of his top priority recommendations to the legislature. House Democratic leaders have accepted it, but with changes that Republicans say weaken the commission and tie it too closely to the legislature.

John Fetler, Book Editor

THE EAGLE KING. By Henry Treece. Random House. 4.95.

An informed retelling of the ancient, tragic tale of Oedipus, prince of Corinth, king of Thebes and darling of classic playwrights and Freudian psychiatrists.

Treece adheres fairly faithfully to the legend, illuminating its more obscure incidents with educated guesses as to what actually happened.

He would have it, for instance, that the Sphinx who waylaid Oedipus with its grimly silly question actually was Jocasta, the Theban priestess-queen who may have been his mother, wearing a ritual disguise.

In this telling of the legend, it is denied that Oedipus actually was the son of King Laius, whom he killed, and Queen Jocasta whom he unmasked, humbled and married.

The denial is not particularly convincing, but in Treece's view the relationship is irrelevant in any case. He says the patricide and incest for which Oedipus was condemned were ritual crimes, involving the ancient taboos dramatized in the legend of Cronus, Rhea and Zeus.

The author envisions Oedipus as a social reformer who liberalized a prehistoric police state and conferred some measure of freedom and dignity on its people, only to have them turn on and rend him when the country was ravaged by natural disaster.

Treece sets his story in an environment about 5,000 years old, in the days when men were just graduating from tools of stone to bronze.

"The Eagle King" is scholarly, but not pedantic. Except for an author's note at the end explaining the archeological and mythical background of Treece's amiably cynical speculations, the book is a lusty tale of bat-death that would be enjoyable tle, murder, sex and sudden death that would be enjoyable even if you had never heard of an Oedipus complex.

BARDOT M.P.? By A. P. Herbert. Doubleday. $4.50.

Aggrieved Englishmen write testy letters to the Times of London to complain about the decline of society as they knew it. A. P. Herbert fights back against bureaucracy and the income tax man with satire, the weapon he has used successfully in "Punch" for more than 50 years. This is a collection of modern misleading cases, as he calls his fictional but quite believable reports of trials. Bardot M.P.? shows what happens when Britain becomes so integrated in the European Common Market that foreigners can run for parliament. It is a pleasant situation, on the one hand: "Mademoiselle Bardot . . . is one of the few women Members who venture boldly into that citadel of Man, the Member's Smoking Room, and are always welcome." But on the other hand, Herbert contends that "the fair exchange of goods is a splendid thing: on the exchange of laws we stand to lose" in trade with Europe. Some of the other subjects of the trials are a computer gone made, an irate taxpayer who insists on floating his check to the Inland Revenue in a bottle, and a skywriter who is sued for libel.

HOW TO LIVE LIKE A LORD WITHOUT REALLY TRYING. By Shepherd Mead. Simon & Schuster. $4.95.

The author spoofs the English in this novel as he did business in "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying." Some Americans think of upper-class Englishmen as being tweedy, but if you went to a cocktail party in the country dressed in tweeds and could convince your host that you weren't the gardener coming around for his pay, you would find the English gentlemen dressed in black suits with black shoes and stiff-colored shirts. Cut off their heads and they would all look alike. In this amusing satire, Mead shows how the British thrive in the modern world while clinging to old customs. For Americans who wish to rise in British society—outdoing the natives at their own game — Mead points out the possibilities.

DESIGN FOR SURVIVAL. By Gen. Thomas S. Power, USAF (Ret.). Coward-McCann. $5.

The newly retired commander-in-chief of the Strategic Air Command says we can't trust the Soviets to keep their side of the bargain in a disarmament treaty because they've broken some 40 agreements with the United States since 1944. Even if an agreement was signed for an international team to conduct on-the-spot inspections the Soviets could start underground production of missiles and about all we could do would be to scold them. By then it would be impossible for us to rebuild our dismantled nuclear force to catch up with them. Power says it is necessary for us to build more missiles than we need to destroy targets, to compensate for errors & missiles destroyed on the ground. He says bombers will never be obsolete because the Soviets might perfect their anti-missile defenses & we will then need planes to destroy their defenses so our missiles can get through. Power believes the only way a nuclear war can be prevented is to convince the Soviet that we are powerful enough to come out ahead if a war is started.

LINCOLN'S SCAPEGOAT GENERAL. By Richard S. West Jr. Houghton Mifflin. $7.50.

Whenever discussion turns to the Civil War's breed of political generals, the first name that comes to mind is Benjamin F. Butler. He was "Beast" Butler to the South, so much detested that Jefferson Davis proclaimed him "an outlaw," to be hung immediately if captured. To the North, he was a classic example of ineptitude and bungling on the battlefield.

In this excellent biography, Richard West adds other dimensions to Butler's picture —skilled lawyer, reformer — particularly in bettering the lot of workers in the mills and factories of his native New England — and an administrator of unquestioned ability. It is not a new approach; Robert S. Holzman gave Butler his due in "Stormy Ben Butler" 10 years ago.

West has treated controversial incidents of Butler's career in fresh depth, notably his career as military governor of New Orleans, and he develops Butler's family life and the appealing sides of his complex character with warmth and understanding. His book is not an apologia, far from it, but he is less critical than Holzman. This difference is apparent especially in treatment of Butler's military achievements—or lack of them.

Butler's operation in the 1864 campaign against Richmond offers an example. West acknowledges without qualification that Butler lacked military experience and training. But, where West ascribes some responsibility to subordinates' errors and explains Butler's maneuvers as logical, Holzman emphatically makes the point that Butler had a golden opportunity and muffed it. On this score, at least, Holzman has the weight of other historians' opinion with him.

Bruce Catton and Clifford Dowdey, to name two contemporaries of note, say Butler allowed himself to be cooped up on the narrow peninsula of Bermuda Hundred, put out of the war as if he had been corked in a bottle, as Gen. Grant put it.

Such differences of viewpoint do not detract from the value of West's work. In presenting the evidence factually, and letting the reader judge for himself in large measure, it is possible that he has presented Butler in all his bewildering complexity and contradictions in truer dimensions than could otherwise have been achieved.

THE WORM RE-TURNS. Edited by James V. McConnell. Prentice Hall. $3.95.

"Today, Science stands fair to join Religion, Motherhood and the Flag as a domain so sacrosanct and so sanctimonious, that leg-pulling isn't allowed. Levity is forbidden, and smiling is is scowled at. Should Science ever become such a domain, of course, you can write if off as a lost cause."

Thus McConnell defines the basic reason for what's behind his book. It is a selection of science-spoofing papers, verses and cartoons which have appeared in an odd little publication called "The Worm Runner's Digest."

The Digest itself is an outgrowth of a mimeographed bit of nonsense that psychologist McConnell and some of his colleagues began sending around to explain certain experiments on flatworms.

So what we have here is an opportunity to share the In Group humor of sober research-Group humor of sover researchers in their more volatile moments.

Many of these straight-faced essarys are wildly flippant takeoffs on the jargon, methodology, narrow viewpoint and rigid conservatism of the experimental laboratory. There also is a dizzy exploration of formal logic's absurdities. With a bow to Lewis Carroll, there is a fantasy on "Alice's Adventures in Evolutionland." McConnell himself contributes a very sharp satire called "Learning Theory."

The book succeeds very well in demonstrating, as the editor puts it, "that a scientist can be both half-serious and half-wit."

(Some readers may recall another dazzling and delicious example of In Group humor — in this case, dealing with the nuttiness of literary criticism — that first was published in 1963, "The Pooh Perplex" by Frederick C. Crews. He set up the idea of reviewing the Winnie-the-Pooh story, and then aped the foolish fluff that a whole menagerie of critics might very well have written on such a subject. The book is mentioned here because there is word that Dutton has just issued it in soft cover at $1.15.)

DEATH IN THE CASTLE. By Pearl Buck. John Day. $4.95.

Though Miss Buck is best known for her stories of China and other parts of the Far East, she presents here a change of pace.

The scene is one of the oldest castles of England.

Her principal characters include the aging, irrational Sir Richard Sedgeley, last of his overly proud line; his Lady Mary, who dreamily seems convinced she can hear the spirits of the royal, noble and errant figures who have lived in, or visited, this ancient pile of stone; Wells, the enfeebled but devoted servant; Kate, the supposed granddaughter of Wells, a sweet, pink-cheeked and innocent young woman.

And then there is John Blayne, wealthy, masterful son of a blustering American tycoon, who is interested in the castle because he wants to transport it, stone by stone, to Connecticut, where it will house the superb collection of Old Masters assembled by his sainted mother.

You just snow, early in the first chapters, where the romantic bit will develop between good old John and sweet Kate.

The big question, now that Sir Richard can't cope with taxes any more, is what will become of the castle. So there's melodrama.

(Aside to male readers: Long since, you've given up. You probably won't get past the opening.)

The author has done some striking things in the past, when she has been dealing with other subjects. This time she has written in quaintly archaic, magazine style, a formula romance. If you must have a go at this, it's better that you should wait for the movie.

THEY WILL BE HEARD. America's Crusading Newspaper Editors. By Jonathan Daniels. McGraw-Hill. $6.50.

Daniels has taken an unusual approach to one of the most colorful aspects of the nation's history.

He reviews the careers of dozens of the most vigorous journalistic crusader, from the days of the Stamp Act to the present. But very definitely, he does not limit himself to the popular or supposedly "right" causes, for as he points out, some of the crusades were "less than universally popular," and sometimes at odds with each other.

"The range of crusade runs all the way from caress to cocklebur," he notes. "Not the causes for which crusading editors fought but the vitality which they brought to their views has been the mark of the breed."

There are giants, from Zenger to Greeley to Pulitzer and beyond, but there are also some forgotten men in these accounts. There are great contrasts — Virginia's Edmund Ruffin (who fired the first shot at Sumter) became a martyr to the cause of slavery; Elijah Lovejoy, dying in a hail of bullets at Alton, Ill., became a martyr in the cause of abolition; and in this century Don R. Mellett, "shot down and killed in his own dooryard by the hoodlums of the racketeer politicians," a martyr for the sake of clean civic government.

Everyone has heard of the writer Lafcadio Hearn and the publisher Joseph Pulitzer. But who is familiar with John Albert Cockerill? In Cincinnati he discovered Hearn, and in New York he showed Pulitzer how to develop the sensational type of journalism for which he became famous.

Daniels, as editor of The News and Observer in Raleigh, N.C., and as the author of 14 other books, knows how to bring events to life, through the sort of lively narratives and brisk writing to be found in this book.

A BARONIAL HOUSEHOLD OF THE THIRTEENTH CENTURY. By Margaret Wade Labarge. Barnes & Noble. $5.

There is a relatively small, but utterly devoted, coterie of readers who delight in the romantic chronicles of the medieval world.

Armored knights, keeps, dungeons, feasts in the great hall, vigils at the altar before riding off to the Crusades, haunting ballads, and all that. Good guys and bad guys who wear their hair long, carry daggers and toss off a flagon of wine. It's a lusty, fascinating world.

In this field it is the top novelists who get the most attention — Zoe Oldenbourg, Mary Renault, Rosemary Sutcliff, to name a few.

But this isn't fiction. Followers of the genre will find it a handbook of medieval life, an exploration of the business of living in that world, an interesting complement to the stirring novels.

It is a study based largely on some household accounts of a great castle in 1265, with additional insights from other sources.

It gets into all sorts of matters on the architecture of castles, the food for man and beast, the transportation of the day, the taxes and table etiquette, the laundry and means of communication, the games and fun, the bureaucracy and management of a noble seat.

Because the subject is a baronial (upper class) household, the modern equivalent would be a study of the pattern of life to be found among cabinet members or governors. It is very soberly written, and rather humorless, but also quite detailed and diligently researched.

In this specialized field, it is a welcome addition to the libraries of those who like to breathe the invigorating air of a great ancestral era, and catch the sound of an ancient trumpet.

AN AREA OF DARKNESS. By V. S. Naipaul. MacMillan. $5.95.

Yet its very personal nature gives it a certain validity as a documentary account. Certainly the author was in an almost unique position as an observer. By heritage an Indian, he was born and raised in the British colony of Trinidad.

He spent a year living in, and traveling through, many of the cities and remote areas of India. His ancestry gave him one viewpoint, his British education another. He was able to perceive the attitudes and cultural patterns of East and West.

The upshot is, bluntly, that Naipaul finds India pretty much of a mess.

It is not only the contradiction of ancient, fatalistic mysticism and modern political shibboleths. It is not only the curse of caste multiplied by the absurdities of bureaucracy (borrowed blindly from British colonialism). It is a whole frustrating complex of numb poverty and a worthless imitation of modern slogans — without true action. Such is Naipaul's view.

In part of his book the author is like a sociologist-journalist, seeking on-the-spot phenomena in Bombay, in a sleazy resort in the Kashmir, or the pilgrimage route to a mountain shrine. Part of the time he is writing — somewhat stodgily — for the eggheads, considering cultural nuances.

The author is disillusioned with Ghandi and the Taj Mahal, horrified by the absence of sanitation, and disgusted with the natives' alternating sensitivity and blind insenstiivity.

As one man's dark view of dark contradictory turmoil, this is a baffling, but shaking report, highly personal, of a way of life. You have to read it with patience and crossed fingers.

Pikes Peak Region Yesterdays

By DORA FOSTER

Many of us here in the Pikes Peak Region are still feeling the loss of Bruin Inn.

Bruin Inn was the popular recreation spot in North Cheyenne Canon which burned several years ago and which the city has never rebuilt.

When we were small children playing beside Cheyenne road, we frequently saw coming up the road from town an open top buggy, drawn by a long legged brown horse. In the buggy were Mr. and Mrs. Hatch. Neither they nor the horse seemed to be in a hurry. I recall that we children thought they were a queer looking couple, as they wore big round blue sun glasses. We thought them old and they probably were. They never spoke to us but nodded gravely as they passed. We knew they were on their way to their cabins, which we now know were located near the spot on which Bruin Inn stood. We thought at that time that the North Canyon was owned by Colorado Springs, since Prof. E. P. Tenny was sometimes blamed for acquiring too much outlying land for the institution. I think he was a teacher at the college. (but I am not sure) in the spring of 1894 when our class held a picnic just outside the two cabins which were then seemingly deserted, and only a few pieces of furniture on the inside.

Florence Benjamin, our class leader had some of the big boys carry a yellow legged wooden table out to a nearby grove, on which we deposited our lunch. Since I was the only ranch pupil in the class I was always the one to carry a five pound pail of hard boiled eggs for the lunch. I remember I had done so that day. I have a picture of that group around the table taken by Curt Goerke. With his ever present camera these pictures were furnished by Robert Miller. He is the son of James R. Miller who is holding the cat. That was the summer of 1902.

Miller was office manager of Colorado Springs Gazette and later Telegraph for 38 years. When I first remember the Hatch's two Cabins they stood about 20 feet apart. In this picture where J. R. Miller is sitting, it seems as if the two cabins had been fastened together. They were deserted at the time. The cabin at the right was used as a dining room of Bruin Inn when the city erected that place of entertainment. It is quste possible the one to the left was torn away.

In June 1902 a small Frenchman, John E. Lavely, came to our home one Sunday to ask if we would rent him a tent near our house, which he and Mrs. McDonald would like to occupy for the summer. We rented the tent to them and found Lavley was in the West seeking to regain his health which he had lost in the Spanish American War. Before he had been the owner of a Boat and Shoe store in Boston, Mass.

He was a man everyone liked, and soon against his wishes he was put in charge of the refreshment stand near the band stand in Stratton Park.

TRAVELING FRENCHMAN — John E. Lavey stayed in a rented tent in this region in 1902. He thought this would be a good place to recover his health, which he lost in the Spanish-American War. Against his wishes he was put in charge of the refreshment stand in Stratton Park.

I think Bruin Inn was built that same summer and Lavley was put in charge of the place. I remember yet, with great pleasure the small group of us that were invited to the opening supper. Everything was neat and attractive. The huge individual steaks were served to us smoking hot on metal platters. Bruin Inn became so popular that Lavley had almost more than he wanted to do. He drove to town for supplies in a little light wagon drawn by two white horses. We saw him every few days. Although he knew everything there was to know about eating and serving food he knew nothing at all about horses. And one day in the early fall, where now Cheyenne Creek is bridged there was enough ice on the stream to cause one of the white horses to fall into the water, tangle itself in the harness and caused the driver from Boston to merge from that melee with a badly scratched nose and he bore the scar the rest of his life.

It was while he was in charge of the Inn that he became interested in acquiring from Uncle Sam several acres of ground above the Helen Hunt falls, and adjoining the city property. He spent many days up there on that ground planting wild raspberry bushes, then he invited my sister Helen and me to look the place over the later testify in court what we had seen. The land was granted to him as a farm. Upon leaving Bruin Inn he built five or six log cabins on the land and rented them each summer.

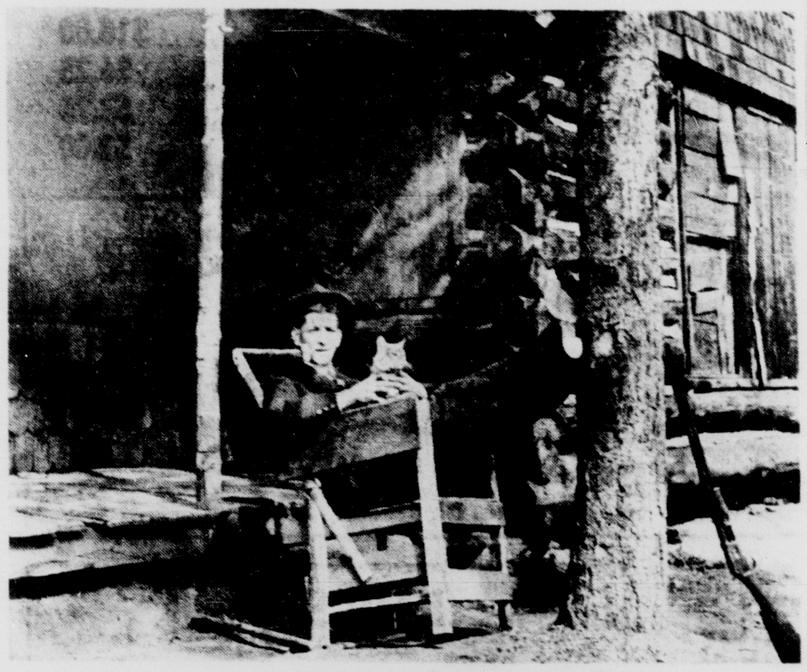
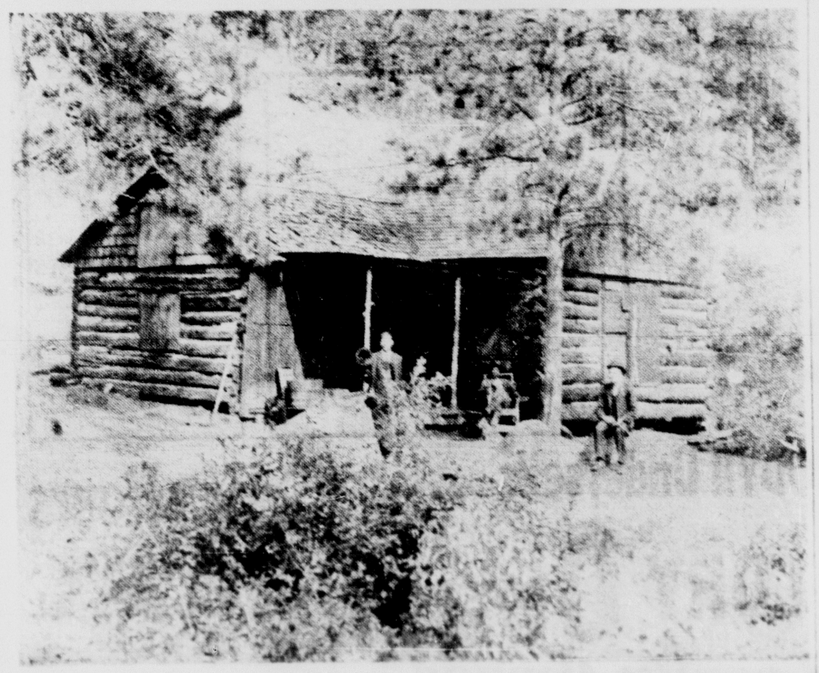
In the beginning of his occupancy he lived in a neat little tent on the place. I have a picture of that tent.

Bruin Inn, until it was burned, had many managers and two additions. One large dance hall to the west and an open room to the east, all of which added to the enjoyment of the many high school and college young people, who still speak of it with nostalgia, even though most of the time they walked the full length of the canyon to be there. Maybe some day Colorado Springs will rebuild it. We hope it will be soon.



HOWDY FOLKS — James P. Miller relaxes with a cat in 1902 on the front door stoop of the Hatch Cabin in North Cheyenne, Canon. This edifice was on the site of the Bruin Inn, which burned several years ago.



HATCH CABIN — North Cheyenne Canon was a rugged place in the early 1900's. This was the Hatch Cabin, near the site of Bruin Inn. This was a favorite picnic area, even at that time.

Firemen Make Less Runs

The Colorado Springs fire department received only 65 alarms during March — the lowest number recorded in a long time.

Least number of alarms during 1964 was 79 in February and threre were 94 in March of that year.

Of the 65 received last month, five were false and five were due to faulty alarm systems.

Firemen also made 20 resuscitator calls and two rescues, one of which was to help a youngster on the rocks in the Garden of the Gods.

Firemen spent 1,397 manhours in study, mainly on the subject of hydraulics, licensed 14 bicycles and inspected two boats for permits.

During March, according to Fire Chief Fred Lausch, cars traveled 5,838 miles and trucks 421 miles and there were 3,570 radio transmissions.

Faisal Says No Red Recognition

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Saudi Arabia's King Faisal was quoted Friday as saying his government would never recognize a Communist country.

"Recognition of any Communist state is incompatible with our religion and tradition," he said in an interview with the Beirut paper Al Jarida.

Saudi Arabia was the first country to recall its ambassador to Bonn, he said, adding, "We shall not hesitate to take any action dictated by a unified Arab stand for the sake of Palestine." He was commenting on the current West German-Arab dispute over Bonn's decision to recognize Israel.

Senate Approves $1.3 Billion School Bill

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed the $1.3 billion school bill Friday night, completing congressional action on the broadest aid bill ever for the nations grade and high schools.

The measure is keyed to a goal of improving education in poverty-stricken areas, but it also includes indirect benefits for private and parochial school pupils.

The Senate vote was 73 to 18. Earlier, the House had approved an identical measure 263 to 153.

All that is needed to make it law is President Johnson's signature, and that should be forthcoming soon, for he considers the legislation of top-priority.

Johnson hailed the Senate action, and declared:

"I don't know of another single piece of legislation that will help so many for so little cost. For every one of the billion dollars that we spend on this program will come back tenfold as school dropouts change to school graduates."

Mrs. Lydia Bohls of Stonewall, Tex., who went to grade school with the President, said he will sign the bill into law Sunday afternoon at their old one - room "Junction School" near Stonewall.

The White House would neither confirm nor deny this.

The President had asked that the House version be accepted without amendment to avoid a conference which might have produced some stumbling block to the bill.

This strategy led to bitter Republican complaints that the Senate was surrendering its legislative responsibilities to the White House.

There also were charges, joined in by some Southern Democrats, that the aid allocation formulas in the bill do not really help the low-income states where school resources are slimmest.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., floor manager for the bill, insisted the formula was fair to both poor and wealthy states.

He emphasized also that the present allocations would be in effect only for one year so Congress can go into the subjct thoroughly again in 1966.

Parochial schools will benefit as the long stalemate in Congress over the church-state issue was broken.

The major section of the bill authorizes $1.06 billion be distributed among school districts on this formula: One-half of the average per pupil expenditure in the state multiplied by the number of children in the district from families with $2,000 or less annual income and from families on the aid to dependent children relief program.

About 5 million children qualify under this formula. But the bill's sponsors agreed that the aid also would improve the quality of over-all education in the schools concerned.

Tentative administration estimates of proposed expansions are that $1.9 billion will be sought in fiscal 1967, starting July 1, 1966, and $2.4 billion in fiscal 1968.

On the showdown Senate vote, 55 Democrats and 18 Republicans supported the measure. Opposed were 4 Democrats, all Southerners, and 14 Republicans.

Johnson Is Calm During Bomb Scare

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — There was a bomb scare but President Johnson showed no concern Friday night as he and 50,000 other fans watched air conditioned baseball.

An anonymous report that a bomb had been placed in the $31.6 million Harris County Domed Stadium proved false but it caused the President and the first lady to be late for the opening of the all-weather structure.

They saw 7 innings as the Houston Astros opened their astrodome by beating the New York Yankees 2-1 in 12 innings.

The President told newsmen he was impressed with the stadium, which permits professional baseball to move indoors for the first time.

Because of the bomb scare, the presidential party watched the game from the private suite of Roy Hofheinz and R. E. Bob Smith, owner of the Astros.

The suite is 30 feet above the right field pavilion and the crowd saw the President and Mrs. Johnson only through its windows. They did not go on the playing field.

Bad Samaritan Proves to Be Legal Problem

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY

CHICAGO (AP) — Should the Good Samaritan be rewarded and the Bad Samaritan be punished — by law?

That question came up for discussion today at an international conference at the University of Chicago Law School.

The participants spoke in the light of recent news stories about people failing to aid others in distress. They set forth their views in prepared statements.

"The community applauds the Good Samaritan," Antony W. Honore of Oxford University in England said.

"So the law, if it encourages rescue, is helping to satisfy the interests of individuals and the wants of the community."

Such a law would be a poor one, he said, if it did not encourage aid.

"The means to do this," he added, "are the compensation of the rescuer for expenses and injury and the rewarding of his services."

"Perhaps eventually people may realize that we are a community — that as each helps another today, so tomorrow he or one of his family may like wise be helped by strangers," said Prof. Charles O. Gregory of the University of Virginia Law School.

But he added, "it is an obligation of manners and morals and will probably never have full legal sanction."

He mentioned the possibility of making some financial inducement bylaw to Good Samaritans who suffer injury.

"England now has public compensation for the victims of muggers, rapists and thugs," he reported. "Why not extend the idea to those hurt in rescuing the victims of muggers, rapists and thugs?"

Honore said any law of reward or compensation would have to contain lines carefully drawn with these factors in mind: The gravity of the victim's peril, the chances of successful intervention and the likelihood that another, better qualified rescuer will act.

Prof. Hans Zeisel of the host law school reported that France, Germany, Italy and the Soviet Union already have Good Samaritan statutes."

They make it a misdemeanor, punishable by jail terms, for someone to fail to help avert injury or death to another person of he could have done so without adnger to himself, Zeisel said.

(Some states in this country have laws giving physicians immunity from liability in treating injured strangers.)

France's current law has been in efect for 20 years. Andre Tunc, professor of law at the University of Paris, reported that in 1962 failure to rescue resulted in 52 jail sentences and 12 fines.

He termed the totals "higher than we should like them to be" but very small when measured against sentences of all kinds.

HITCHHIKES WAY BACK

HOMERVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Bubba Sharpe, of Homerville, escaped from jail after being put behind bars for disorderly conduct. He thumbed a ride. A car stopped and picked him up. The driver was Joe Lancaster, chief of police, who turned the car around, deposited Sharpe back in his cell and tacked on a $30 fine.

Cemetery Licensing Bill Gets Nod

DENVER (AP) A board would be set up to license cemeteries under a Senate-passed bill given preliminary approval Friday by the State House of Representatives.

Rep. Mark Hogan, D-Denver, said it would guard against sale of cemetery space when no space is available, or when there is no endowment program to maintain the cemetery.

An amendment by Rep. Donald Strait, D-Aurora, was adopted prohibiting discrimination on the basis of race in selling cemetery plots.

Hogan said the bill is supported by the cemetery business. Preliminary approval was also given to a bill by Rep. Keith Singer, R-Arvada, permitting creation of airport authorities and one by Sen. William Bledsoe, R-Hugo, permitting issuance of antelope hunting licenses to non-residents.

Rep. Phillip Massari, D-Trinidad, amended it to apply only to people who own land in Colorado and permit hunting on the land.

Beauty Aid: Medical Mirror

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new ground prescription lens helps far-sighted women to see when they take off their glasses to apply cosmetics.

The mirror-lens is the invention of Nan Grey, motion picture and television star.

She was hospitalized about three years ago. During her convalescence her mother visited her almost daily. Miss Grey noticed that her mother's makeup looked pretty awful.

Eye makeup was askew. The rouge was a blob of red on her cheeks. Miss Grey's mother was far-sighted.

When she took-off her glasses she just could not see to fix her makeup perfectly.

Miss Grey thought about the problem and then approached a research ophthalmologist with the idea for mirror-lens.

Through computing various prescriptions, he was able to come up with two basic prescriptions that by slight movement back and forth would correct the vision of more than 90 per cent of the persons who have trouble seeing.

After men's dress shirts show wear, cut the sleeves short, cut the tails off to an even hemline and dye them either blue or green dye. The shirts then can be worn while doing work around the house.

New Bed Trend: A Lot of Bunk

WEST END, N.C. (UPI) — What's happening in the bedding business is a lot of bunk.

Growng families living in houses straining at the rafters, are turning to bunk beds. The piggy-back beds help with their space problems.

The up and down trend in beds also is being fortified by new college dormitories, fraternity houses and vacation lodges.

As a result, says Teel Williams, vice president of Sandhill Furniture Corp., there is more versatility in bunk bed designs.

"One considered strictly utilitarian and usually styled accordingly, the space-saving double bunk suddenly has emerged in a new, glamorous role," he said.

It all began less than a year ago with the introduction of three new bunks in decorated color finishes: avocado green, black, white and Salem maple tone with gold accents and decorations, as well as Wedgwood blue with snowy white accents.

Wilbur H. Fulker Will Address Theta Sigma Phi

"Education of the Blind," will be explained and illustrated by Wilbur H. Fulker Jr., principal of the Blind Department of Colorado School for the Deaf and the Blind, who will present the program for Pikes Peak Area members of Theta Sigma Phi, national professional organization for women in journalism and communications, at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Gladys H. Carlson, 707 Glen Eyrie Cr. Mrs. Robert L. Turnbaugh will be assisting hostess.

Mr. Fulker will give a brief talk on classes conducted at the school for training and educating blind students, and will show slides illustrating problems encountered and methods of handling them successfully. He has had wide experience in solving any perplexing situations. He gave a talk on this topic for the American Association of Instructors for the Blind at their national meeting last June in Watertown, Mass. He is scheduled to give a similar talk at the national meeting in July in Denver, when he will explain his development of tangible apparatus for teaching the blind.

Mrs. Loy D. Holman, president of the club, will conduct a brief meeting. She invites all members to attend and join in activities of the group. Those wishing to attend are asked to call Mrs. Carlson, 633-6528, by noon Tuesday.

Byron R. McClure, who has had much experience in handling publicity, explained various phases of handling different forms of information at the last Theta Sigma Phi meeting. He has been a reporter on newspapers in Phoenix, Ariz. and in San Francisco, has experience writing for the public relations firm of Whitaker and Baxter in San Francisco. He wrote speeches for Goodwin A. Knight during his campaign for governor of California.

"Attack is the main objective in political speeches," McClure said. "Don't defend anything; don't apologize, just attack the opponent."

McClure, who called himself a "hack writer," said, "This is a commercial world and the writer has to have something to sell. Regardless of what you pick up to read, there is salesmanship involved. The writer may be a salesman for himself or for someone else. The writer, if a true craftsman, is able to write something contrary to his own beliefs if it sells an idea for someone else and provides a profitable income for himself. If you have something to sell, it isn't too important who buys. There is a saleable story in anything you do or see," he said, "and keeping your eyes and ears open is your salvation. Writing demands much solitude, but a writer must mingle with people to get ideas. The writer must then submit ideas to a lot of editors endeavoring to find a publisher who will print material you submit."

He believes there is better opportunity for the average writer to make money from shorter articles than to write a book. The book requires a much longer time for preparation and a long period before being published, and always there is the uncertainty about whether or not it will reach the best seller lists.

GOING UP, LADY?

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — The golden earrings worn by Mrs. Rowena P. Slusher are a clue to the business she operates. Shaped like airplanes, the earrings are typical of a woman who operates an air taxi service. Her business motto is "I Will Go Anywhere."

Standard flying togs for the lady pilot are skirts and sweaters, although she has worn an Easter bonnet and mouton coat while working the rudder pedals. She is a member of "The 99's" or International Organization of Women Pilots, founded by Amelia Earhart.

In more than 600 hours of flying time, Mrs. Slusher got a few apprehensive stares, but only one man backed out when he found the taxi service was operated by a woman pilot.

Experimental Test Measures Stress

By REEVE HENNION

SUNNYVALE, Calif. (UPI)—A method similiar to alcohol blood tests is being developed to determine how much stress and tension a human being is under.

Dr. Evelyn Anderson is conducting experiments with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Ames Research Center here.

She has found that the amount of vasopressin in the blood is a good indicator of the amount of stress a person is undergoing. Successful experiments have been done with rats, and Dr. Peterson now is testing humans.

"There are lots of ways people use to measure stress, but none of them is very reliable," said Dr. Harold P. Klein, assistant director of the life sciences division at Ames. "For example, blood pressure operates differently in different people."

Vasopressin, secreted by the pituitary gland, seems to be an early signal of stress. It has already been determined that the amount of vasopressin in the blood increases even after nothing more strenuous than a long walk.

"Vasopressin is released, and it in turn affects the release of other hormones such as adrenalin, so it is a very early signal," Klein said. "We think it is one of the most important adrenal trigger-releasing factors.

"A good parallel is drunkenness. Stress isn't all or nothing, it has levels, too. The reliability of using vasopressin instead of blood pressure is the same as walking a straight line versus a blood test for drunkenness."

One of the primary uses for such a test would be to measure the stress astronauts undergo. But, said Klein, "its use in a space vehicle is far in the future."

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

If your drainboard is real ceramic tile, it can be cleaned with just plain bleach. It does not hurt the tile if you don't leave it on too long. — R. Z.

The manufacturers of "genuine" ceramic tile tell me that if you will let your tile dry "completely," then take plain ("not" soap-filled) steel wool and rub, that all the film will come off.

They state also, that this cannot hurt "real" ceramic.

By using dry steel wool on a dry surface, you will remove the film in a fine powder, (so be sure to cover your hair gals, if you use this method on walls in the bath).

From there, we can use straight household bleach poured in a snip-top container, then pour this on the grout (that's the cracks between the tile).

Let this completely dry. I don't even rinse mine off in the bathroom. The odor leaves when it's dry.

If the grout is soiled looking, use a white fingernail pencil and mark over it. This will also act as a sealer because it contains wax. This helps prevent further mildew when moisture accumulates.

After the tile is thoroughly clean by the above methods . . . I use a wash rag dipped in kerosene (coal oil) and wrung out, to wipe the tile with. The ceramic tile manufacturers also agree with me on this too, as it coats the tile and prevents further film accumulation.

I never use kerosene on floors. Just walls, drainboards, back splashes and windows.

I believe it's worth the effort and elbow grease you will use to try the above method because once it's cleaned to its original surface, it can be kept that way with a weekly wiping with the kerosene rag. I've used this method for three years.

This also works beautifully on glass shower doors!

Be sure to use this only on "real" ceramic tile and not on synthetic or plastic types.

The tile manufacturers say that if a fine grade of steel wool is used, it cannot possibly harm your tile, no matter ohw hard you scrub, etc.

And remember, there's always tomorrow and "it" will wait. Always has. —Love, Heloise

Also, gals, do not try to do a whole shower in one day. If you get a half wall done . . . then stop until the mood hits again. It will!

Letter of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

Woman's work is never done . . . but through your column we have lots of fun. —M. J.

Dear Heloise:

I found out that the secret of cooking firm "white" cauliflower is so simple . . . "no salt," and very little water. Leave the cauliflower in a whole bouquet, set in about one and a half inches of water, "cover", bring to boil, then cook over low flame until tender.

This is one vegetable that requires very little, or no salt, to bring out its flavor.

When you make your sauce or crumb mixture, you can add salt to that if you like. The type of pan matters little—after 30 years of cooking, I have used every new utensil on the market, and my cauliflower is always white. —M.R.

Dear Heloise:

Did you ever take a dress out of the closet to wear . . . and found that the collar had turned up when it should have turned down?

Get out your spray bottle (use part water and part starch to suit). Spray the collar and smooth it. In five minutes it will be ready to wear. —Mother of Six

FITTING CAREER

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — From high-button shoes to pumps with stiletto heels, Harvey T. Rabert has seen countless changes in footwear styles during the 60 years he has been fitting shoes in Lehigh County.

The 69- year-old salesman, who still works a 40-hour week, started his career working in country stores but for the past 36 years has been employed as a fitter by a local concern.

Shoe-fitters today have a considerably harder task than those in the early days of the century, Rabert declares. "Back 50 to 60 years ago, you didn't have the variety you have today," he recalls. "Why you couldn't begin to list the types and styles of shoes now."

The Mature Parent

Use Facts, Kids Are Realists

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: Should I give a present to a child who is very rude to me? I refer to my 11-year-old niece. I recently took an old family friend to her mother's house. My niece was asked what school subject she liked best. She replied "What's that to you?" My sister-in-law does nothing to control this rudeness. I don't want to complain to my brother, as he is not a well man . . .

ANSWER: Perhaps, next time this child is rude to you, you might say to her, "You are a little fool to talk to me like that because you like the presents I give you. If you want presents from me in the future, don't talk like that to me again."

Parents like your sister-in-law permit children's rudeness because they enjoy it, or else they would end it. They use the child's tongue to express their own aggressive feelings because they have to curb their own tongues.

They are very fond of justifying this abuse by the child by thinking of it as protection of his psychological health, his "honest." This is slightly nutty, of course.

We do not protect a child's psychological health by permitting him to discharge aggressive feelings in scalding little spurts of insolence.

We protect it by demanding that he explode his team in one big bang so that its pressure is reduced, and his tongue can come back under control.

We imperil — rather than protect his psychological health by exposing him to the disgust he arouses in others by his rudeness.

None of us like to bypass parents' authority to deal with a child's rudeness.

But if they won't exert their authority and, like you, we feel obliged to maintain contact with them and the child, our only alternative to tolerating insolence is to stop it ourselves.

If you've been accustomed to giving your rude young niece presents on special occasions, she doesn't want to forfeit them. Use her desire to keep them coming by making it clear you'll stop their coming if she doesn't put a curb on her tongue.

Children are practical creatures. They stop giving contempt as soon as the price of it is made firmly and amiably clear.

This is easy if we are able to forfeit romantic notions about winning a rude child's "love" and settle for decent courtesy from him.

Great Books Group Will Discuss Work by King

The Wednesday evening Great Books group will meet from 8 to 10 p.m. in Mrs. Reid's office at the public library, 21 W. Kiowa St., to discuss Martin Luther King's book, "Stride Toward Freedom." Marcella McMain will conduct the questioning with discussion on three levels as to (1) what the author said, (2) how his material is interpreted, and (3) applications to the problems of today.

Because the March assignment for David Cecil's "Melbourne" was for the meeting which was cancelled during bad weather, announcement has been made that it will be repeated for the fourth Wednesday in April. Mary Brown will lead the discussion of Lord Melbourne's biography.

This is a project in adult education which is open to anyone without regard to previous education. The discussion is limited to the particular assignment for the evening and no background reading is required. Whoever is interested in reading the text as assigned may attend for the single session or for the series. The meetings are held on the second and fourth Wednesday evenings of each month.

Further information is available through the reference librarian at the public library, since the project is sponsored there or through the coordinator, Myrtle Allen, 633-8540.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Double	2 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♣

While the usual practice at the card table is to devise means of winning tricks, there are times when it is essential for a player to think quickly in an effort to avoid winning one. Such occasions arise when the lead will be a burden to the defender under discussion. In today's hand West was called upon to make two exit plays in order to be quite certain that he was not saddled with the lead at a critical point in the play.

Today's bidding followed conventional lines. A word or two may be in order on North's bid of two spades. I believe it to be proper procedure. The infirmity of the 4-3-3-3 distribution renders the hand somewhat ineffective in trick taking power, and a redouble would therefore not be in order. Such action would denote a good hand. There are some players who work on the theory that a bid over the double shows a "bust." This is very unsound practice, and has no logical basis. South's jump to four spades is slightly on the aggressive side, inasmuch as North has been unable to redouble.

The king and ace of clubs were cashed and declarer ruffed the third round. East played the nine on the first trick to encourage the continuation of the suit and to suggest to partner that he was not interested in any shift. Trumps were extracted and the five of hearts was led by South. At this point West took time out to think. Since declarer is known to have nothing in either clubs or hearts, it is a moral certainty that he holds the A-Q of diamonds as the basis for his leap to four spades when North has shown no special strength. West must, therefore, avoid being thrown into the lead, since he cannot afford to play diamonds.

The only hope was that East held the ten of hearts. If not, all was lost. The jack was, therefore, played to the first heart trick. Dummy won with the queen. On the ace of hearts, West dropped the king and his thoughtfulness was rewarded when East showed up with the ten and was able to return a diamond.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Worse Than A Woman!

DEAR ABBY: My husband talks too much about me! I always thought that what went on between a married couple was supposed to be private, but my husband broadcasts the darndest things to all his co-workers. The wife of one of the men down at the plant even "kidded" me about what I slept in! Not only that, but last summer I had a little surgery. It wasn't very serious, but it was rather embarassing (you know, the kind you just don't talk about). Well, everybody at the plant knew all about it. When they have get-to-gethers for the workers and their families, I don't feel much like going because everyone knows so much about me. What's wrong with my husband? Or is it me? And how can I shut him up? —NO SECRETS

DEAR NO: It's your husband. And he, Madame, is a clatter-trap! Teaching a grown man discretion is no small task, but he's your man and he's broadcasting YOUR secrets. So, it's time you had a long talk with him about what he's not supposed to talk about.

DEAR ABBY: I am worried about becoming an old maid. I am 15 and have had only one date in my whole life. I am not bad looking. I've seen worse with boy friends. I have a good sense of humor and enjoy doing things most teen-agers enjoy doing. I act my age and don't try to be something I'm not. I would appreciate a few pointers on how to attract a boy's attention. Please don't tell me to wait until the right boy comes along. I've waited long enough already. —15 AND NO BOY FRIEND

DEAR FIFTEEN: I receive at least 100 letters a day from girls between 13 and 19 asking the same question. And here's the answer: Personality and character are far more important in the long run than "looks." But "looks" is what makes a boy look twice across a crowded room. So, first check your packaging.

Are you neat and clean? If you wear make-up, is it applied artistically? Do you overdo it? (Many boys say that most girls do.) How about your hair? Do you keep it fragrant, combed and shiny? How's your weight? (This is important!) If you're too fat, slim down. If your looks are all right, what about your personality? As I say in my book, DEAR TEENAGER, "Personality isn't just the ability to chatter away and say things that will keep your friends amused. Personality starts INSIDE you. It's a genuine interest in other people. It's being able to see someone else's point of view. It's inner warmth and a pleasant disposition even under the most trying circumstances. Personality is extending your hand in friendship in a way that silently says, 'I like you.' It's the smile on your face and the twinkle in your eye. The people with personality sparkle and bubble so naturally that you can't tell where personality ends and charm and good looks begin."

Do you make a boy feel comfortable in your presence? Are you too quiet? If so, read more. Then you'll have more to talk about. If he's quiet, keep the conversation going. If he's chatty, keep still and let him entertain you for a while.

Are you too forward? Nothing drives a boy away like an aggressive girl.

Do you call boys on the phone? Or send them "messages" through your friends and his so that everyone in school knows you like him? If so, forget him. You'll never get him. Do you aspire to spiritual goodness? Do you value personal integrity, and respect your fellow man? Are you respectful of your elders? If so, it will shine through and you will be completely lovable to someone who is worthy of your love. Which, after all, is the reason every girl wants to attract a boy's attention, isn't it? —Love, ABBY

VFW Auxiliary to Elect Delegates for Convention

Old Fashioned Homes Helped Battle Bulges

EVANSVILLE, IND. (UPI) — Old applances and equipment often are better for your figure than new ones.

Those ancient household devices such as the clothesline, the rug beater and butter churner didn't add to your storehouse of available energy, but they helped shed unwanted pounds. And half of American housewives are overweight, according to studies.

The Edward Dalton Co., producers of a dietary product for weight control, has contrasted today's "calorie burning" activities with those of yesteryear.

If you drive 2½ miles to the store instead of walking, you'll use 97 calories, compared with 210 for a walk.

And if you use modern home laundry appliances, you may expend an average of 21 calories to do a load of wash. But if you used the equipment of the 1900's, says an equipment maker, you would use 272 calories for the operation—from soaking clothes through the hand - operated wringer phase.

As for electric floor waxers and vacuum cleaners, they require only a small number of the calories needed to wax the floor by hand and beat the rug hung across the clothesline.

The type of house can make a difference, too. An hour of walking up and down stairs will consume 414 calories compared with 101 calories for walking around for an hour on one level.

The way work areas are laid out in the house makes a difference. You'll take twice as many steps when your laundry equipment is located in the basement than if it is on the main floor of the home.

Mechanization at work may affect calorie expenditure, too, requires 15 fewer calories an hour than a manual machine. In 10 weeks these calories add up to an extra pound of body weight, assuming that excercise and eating habits stay the same.

In addition to technology's energy savers, social life can affect the figure, too—in more ways than just overeating.

If you sit at a party for three hours, you may burn up 275 calories. But if you do the frug, watusi, or hully gully for one of those hours, you'll spend 400 calories.

If you're really a glutton for punishment, rowing at peak effort will burn 1,200 calories an hour.

COLORADO SPRINGS
GAZETTE TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Not Helped, Just Not Hurt

The attitude that government is "helping" someone or some group just because it excuses them from taxation reminds us of the story of the absolute monarch who ordered every male subject's right leg severed at the knee. When all the men in the country were walking on a peg but one, the king relented and let him keep his leg intact.

Immediately the cry went up from the one-legged subjects that the king had "helped" this man. The man replied, "No, his majesty has not helped me at all. He just didn't hurt me."

And that is the way it is with tax exempt property. Instead of demanding that ALL property be tax exempt, the "hurt" ones demand that everybody be hurt. Misery loves company and those who willingly (?) pay taxes, or pay them under protest, want to see everybody hurt.

This is putting the cart before the horse. Why not work just as hard, or a little harder, to prevent anyone from being hurt, or taxed? If we could increase the number of untaxed properties, no matter whose, each year, we would eventually put the politicians out of business and they couldn't hurt anybody. You think we couldn't live without politicians and coercive government? Have we ever tried the voluntary way?

No. Then why not give it a try? Could things possibly be worse than they are? Well, we will have to admit that they possibly could — if we keep the politicians on our backs, things will continue to worsen.

As far as total taxes are concerned, the collector will gain by leaving things as they stand. He will make more by taxing the folks who "are saving the rest of us money" by sending their kids to private and parochial schools than by excusing them from taxation and then taxing the church property. The tax collector would be the loser on that kind of a deal. But he isn't apt to make it.

On the other hand, he is very apt to start taxing church or any other tax exempt property, regardless, especially if the hurt ones keep bellering for everybody to be hurt alike. But this would hurt the patrons of parochial schools double, unless they are "rewarded" as reader Selden suggests. We still maintain they receive their reward from the knowledge that their children are getting the kind of education the parents want them to have, and a better one than the government could ever give them.

And we repeat: if they didn't feel rewarded, they wouldn't do it. Selden hit the nail on the head in the last sentence above his signature.

You Can Overcome

If you are a "natural born heel," you can overcome it simply by acting like a gentleman for 60 days. After the first 30 days you won't be acting.

Where Do They Get That Way?

At uncertain intervals, various research groups, schools, publications and others of the curious conduct surveys to try to discover what our young people are learning in school. Within the last several months there has been a combined effort by Northwestern University, Purdue University, the University of Wisconsin and U. S. News and World Report to determine political trends among the younger (and currently-being-educated) set.

Action Magazine of the Junior Chamber of Commerce published some fascinating findings. Some of the more revealing items are as follows. Among the students surveyed:

1. 71 per cent would deny an accused person the right to confront his accuser.

2. 62 percent thought a worker should not produce all he was capable of producing.

3. 62 per cent said that it is the responsibility of government to provide jobs.

4. 61 per cent felt that the profit incentive was unnecessary to the survival of free enterprise.

5. 56 per cent would like to see close government supervision and regulation of all business.

6. 41 per cent felt that freedom of the press should be abolished.

7. 40 per cent felt that certain groups they don't like should be forbidden the right of peaceful assembly.

8. 34 per cent would deny free speech to some people.

9. 26 per cent would favor search and seizure without consent.

There was more of the same genre. Researchers in going over the data are convinced that if these findings foreshadow political tendencies, a full-fledged welfare state is about to emerge. It will, of course, be called: "The Great Society." A more accurate title might be, "The Descent into Socialism."

Now, where do our young people come up with these ideas? Obviously, they don't orginate them. Original thinking is not considered a worthy procedure in large government-supported institutions where memorization and conformity make it so much easier for teachers to grade papers.

It can only be that these immature and aspiring juniors are being spoon-fed the socialist line. And the feeding occurs at the educational money trough where our dollars, forcefully extracted, are paying the salaries of a host of collectivist-minded instructors.

Don't suggest, on the strength of the foregoing, that we are opposed to education. But let's not confuse the present conforming methodology with education, either. We are for education. And its cost is going to rise precipitously if only because it is becoming such a rare commodity. But where do we go these days in order to assure ourselves that the children we have sired are going to come face to face with logic, wisdom, and principles which can guide them reasonably well?

And please don't come up with the worn-out cliche that the whole business relates only to getting the money; that if the government didn't provide the schools, there wouldn't be enough money for education. The money is around. The government has seen to that, coercively. But we still don't know where to go for education.

As a matter of fact, we receive an endless stream of inquiries from persons all over the nation, asking us where they can send their young hopefuls to school and at the same time avoid the massive indoctrination so prevalent in schooling today. And let us admit that we can't give them the pat answer that all they have to do is to seek a private or independent school. It is, alas, too true that many of these same independent and private institutions are as sadly infected with socialist nonsense as the government-paid and run institutions.

But as for the money, consider our situation if school taxes were cancelled and each person were in a position to demand from the market place the amount and kind of education he wanted within a price range he could afford. While this might result in a smaller overall attendance, would this be bad? Might we not suggest that for the good of the entire nation it would be better to have some of our population truly educated, than ninety per cent of the population indoctrinated and committed to political solutions and grubby unprincipled conformity?

CURBS SHOULD BEGIN HERE

Responsible Parent

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

Early in March of this year, a female teacher in the socialist school system made a serious blunder. She forgot her place, presumed too much, and was promptly called to task because of her actions. It happened like this:

Two girls, about 14 years of age, were called to the teacher's desk. They were ordered to turn their backs towards the class and at this point the teacher asked how many of the victims of the system thought the denim jeans the girls were wearing were too tight. None of the victims provided the teacher with an affirmative reply. At this point, the teacher, a female, expressed her own opinion in no uncertain terms. As far as the teacher was concerned the jeans were tight to the point of indecency. She belabored the subject at some length before the two culprits were permitted to return to their desks. In righteous wrath, one of the girls reported the affair to her mother promptly. When the indignant rage of the mother was reduced to cold, calm determination, she wrote the following:

"Mrs. W. As I understand it, the province of the school system is the education of the children. In order to 'give' these children a 'well rounded education,' there has been introduced into the system classes termed social sciences, home economics and others too ambiguous in their titles for me to recall. These classes or courses are truly generalized with broad areas for discussion. Many times instructors confuse their role of teacher of facts for that of teacher of opinion. In the loose scope of the aforementioned classes this frequently leads the teacher to the position of overstepping into the prerogatives of the parents. This Ma'am, you have done most ungraciously! My children are FORCED, by law, to attend school in a socialist school system, except where there is an alternative of private instruction. We are FORCED, by law, to support this system and the instructors, therein. Under these circumstances, it would seem illogical to imagine that I would enjoy paying you to humiliate my child and, by inference, insult me and my judgment. It is too much to suppose that you would apologize for your indelicacy, either to Lynn, to me or to the girls. I do propose, however, that there be no recurrence of this incident." The letter is signed, "Lolita H. Burch."

The reaction of the teacher was that of an ordinary frightened bureaucrat. She did apologize. Her position was untenable and she knew she had tangled with the wrong parent. She ran for cover.

Now, take a look at the position of Lynn. Her mother had spoken. The teacher apologized to Lynn and to her mother. The good guys had won and the bad guys were routed. The 14 year old young lady was in the driver's seat and in a position to throw her slight weight around to good effect but, as previously mentioned, Lynn is a young lady. In reply to a question about the behavior of the teacher, Lynn replied, "Oh, she's okay. She just didn't know any better." The incident is closed. Lynn will continue to be a reasonably studious, courteous young lady because it is her nature.

Today, the socialist conglomerate rules the roost but responsible human beings have no desire to hold power over others. Respectability provides a base upon which responsible parents may stand, firmly and with malice towards none. Socialism, being without respectability or responsibility, has no base upon which to stand. Parasitically, it can only feed upon the respectable responsibility of others and when its total substance is withheld, wraithlike, it will disappear.

Lolita H. Burch is our daughter. Lynn is our middle grandchild. The Burch clan, mother, father and three children, understand the meaning of freedom and they also understand the indecency of socialism.

Good luck and good health to all, in Freedom.

Paper Teaches Basic Virtues

By OSCAR COOLEY

A paper I like is "Grit" — "America's Greatest Family Newspaper." It is brought to our door every week by a boy whom we pay 15 cents (he keeps 5). Some 30,000 boys distribute a million copies of this newspaper every week throughout the United States. It is also available by mail.

Why, one might ask, do one million families take "Grit"? To please the carrier boy and enable him to earn some spending money? One might well buy it a few times from that motive, but hardly week after week. And "Grit" has been published for 81 years!

Maybe it is because there is admiration for the homely virtues in even the most sophisticated of moderns. We feel that whatever happens — in Viet Nam or Selma — America will still stand on the bedrock of individual self-reliance, loyalty and enterprise. ("Grit," meaning pluck, is, by the way, an American word, other English-speaking people do not use it.)

The pages of "Grit" reflect the American character at its best. Here you will read little about crime, delinquency, and perversion but much about people who are fighting the battle of life with courage and intelligence. Little, unimportant people who are ignored by the metropolitan press bloom forth in large headlines and generous pictures in "Grit."

Note, for example, "Wheel Chair Wedding," the story of the Indiana boy and Georgia girl who, having conquered polio, were married in wheel chairs at Warm Springs, returning to Indiana to support themselves, he is an accountant, she is a medical secretary. Note also "Two Worlds and a Dream," telling how James Hena, governor of Tesuque Pueblo, New Mexico, is laboring to help his people help themselves.

A series under the heading, life stories of inventors and innovators whose creations we enjoy daily — men like William Jenney, who built the first skyscraper; Charles Goodyear, who discovered how to vulcanize rubber; and Willis Carrier, who pioneered in air-conditioning.

A feature headed "I'm Proud of My Town" consists of readers' letters telling of their home towns' achievements and qualities of which they are proud. To read one of these is to make one more appreciative of the fine things HIS town has done.

Civil rights and Viet Nam get their due space on page 1 of the March 14 issue but the swallows of San Juan Capistrano get a lot more! On page 3 appears a picture of some females who are learning to be bullfighters, but you hardly see it in the shadow of that big ad for climbing strawberries.

"Grit's editorials invariably stress self-reliance and warn against seeking solutions to local problems in federal subsidies. "Pride and U.S. Dole Don't Go Hand in Hand" praises a Michigan village for objecting to a government gift of $188,000.

But "Grit" does not launch violent campaigns against selected evils. Rather, it specializes in publishing positive, affirmative news about people who are doing constructive things. Thus, the paper radiates optimism and hope.

The cynic will scoff at this kind of journalism as naive and Polly-Anna-like, but the people love it. And the large-space ads taken by General Motors, Ford, AT & T and others suggest that the "Grit" philosophy rates high in industry's board rooms.

In its own words, "Grit" seeks to inform, entertain, teach highest moral and social principles, improve thought and inspire achievement."

"Grit" contains fiction — wholesome, unsophisticated, well written fiction. It also contains poems, sermons, cartoons, crossword puzzles, recipes — something for every member of the family. It relates many obscure but interesting facts, for example, that Napoleon inspired the discovery of how to can food, and the dimensions of the Fort Knox gold vault.

It contains ads recommending many things, but none recommending alcoholic liquors. (Some respectable magazines advertise liquor. They try to justify this by saying they stand for freedom of the press. That the press is free does not mean it is morally justified in telling its readers the lie that alcoholic liquor is good for them).

Newspaper bear a great responsibility for the things they publish which is another way of saying they are an important educational institution. It is good, to see a paper which is wholesome, constructive, and not afraid of being branded old-fashioned and see it rewarded by a large circulation.

The Local Scene

I Was Wrong (But Not Totally)

By RUFUS L. PORTER

Since writing the column entitled "If I'm Wrong I'll Apologize," I have gone into the matter more deeply and learned that I was way off in my belief that the English Church was always Roman Catholic before Henry VIII took it over from the Pope in 1533. From talking with an Episcopalian I learned I was wrong about this, and I explained that I wanted to know the truth so she called her minister, Arthur Pierpoint and he brought me over a couple of books on the history of the English Church and I had an interesting talk with him.

So now, a little better informed, I will give you a better picture of the Anglican Church and the American Episcopal Church.

We all have a tendency to believe that the Roman Catholic Church has been with us since the beginning of Christianity, but this is not true. I knew this much already, but I was of the opinion that England was christianized by the Roman Catholics after the Catholic Church was formed in A.D. 358 at the Council of Nicea.

But this was not the truth. Legend has it that Saint Paul visited England, but there is no proof of this. Also there is a legend that Saint Joseph of Arimathaea visited England some time later. But here again there is no proof. But the records do show that a mission from Gaul appeared in England in A.D. 170.

By A.D. 314 the church was well enough established to send a delegation of priests and bishops to the Council of Arles in France. The church, before the Roman Catholic Church was founded, was the Apostolic Church founded by Christ's disciples on the day of the Pentecost 50 days after His crucifixion.

After the Council of Nicea the Catholic Church became the church of most of the Christian world. The English, or Anglican Church, still considers itself as "Catholic." Rev. Pierpoint told me that if one asks a Bobby in London the way to the "Catholic Church" he will be directed to the Anglican one unless he specifies "Roman Catholic Church."

Pierpoint told an anecdote about the Council of Arles. When the council was ready to adjourn, the question was asked whether there were any present who did not have money for the fare home and the representative for the English Church admitted that he did not. And a collection was taken up so he could return to England.

Shortly after the Council of Nicea (A.D. 410) the Roman troops were withdrawn from England, after 459 years of occupation, and the church and people were left to their own devices.

In 596 A.D. Pope Gregory I sent Saint Augustine to England to Christianize the Angles and Saxons, who had settled in England sometime before and were now well established. But England was already Christianized and St. Augustine made his headquarters in Canterbury and tried to get the Bishops of the Church of England to recognize his and the Pope's authority over them. But they refused. He did succeed in influencing a small section in the southeast of England and for nearly two centuries the two churches operated separately.

Finally, in 669, the churches were united under Pope Vitalian. Throughout the following centuries, the combined church was known as "Ecclesis Anglicana." From the beginning of the union there were rifts and splits and many English people were dissatisfied with the arrangement. In 1066 William the Conqueror invaded England with the Pope's blessing. From that time on the Pope's assessments against the church were paid. But the people remained unhappy about it. And they were even unhappier over the foreign priests and bishops and monks and monastaries the Pope established on English soil. The English monarchs seem to have "played ball" with the strong Popes and ignored the weak ones.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question No. 671: "Does getting ahead in today's world depend on one's push or pull? Is it what you know or who you know?"

Answer: We presume that the questions refer to getting ahead financially or on one's job. If they do, we believe there is little difference today from any other time. Some individuals succeed on their own efforts and some individuals "get ahead financially" by their "pull" or by knowing someone in the "right" place.

Perhaps it may seem that there is more of the use of "pull" from the growing use of political action to solve human problems. And with government growing to provide the services people want or which the politicians feel they should have, it is only natural that the appointed bureaucrats would select helpers they know who will promote the program in which the poilticians are engaged.

There will always be those who are unwilling to exert the effort to get ahead on their own initiative. They will rely on "pull" with some employer, some union boss or some political figure to obtain temporary success. But in a great many instances it will be up to the individual to deliver in order to keep a job or to advance himself.

There will always be self-reliant, self-responsible individuals who are willing to put forth a little extra effort for their own — and their families' — future well-being. They will be the winners in the long run.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

REBUTTAL

To the Editor:

Yes, I feel that each should pay for what he needs and uses rather than be taxed to pay for that which he does not need and does not use. However, my thesis is, if property is to be taxed, then ALL property should be taxed on an equitable basis. Or, if there are to be tax exemptions, then they too, should be on an equitable basis, i. e., an exemption for that part of a tax for a specific service which the assessed property owner does not use.

Now my feeble brain just cannot understand any difference between a tax-exemption and a tax refund — either way the person ends up with that amount in his pocket. So far I have seen no attempt upon the part of "government" to regulate our churches, yet is not a tax-exemption a form of government subsidy?

A man convinced against his will is of the same opinion still" and I still feel those saving money for the school district should be given some consideration (if "reward" doesn't seem to be the right word, and yet "consideration" is often used to indicate the transfer of money or other things of value, from one to another) as a token of appreciation for what that person is saving the taxpayers.

Of course I'm for separation of State from Organized Religion (but that doesn't mean I'm in agreement with the separation of the Moral Code from political action and government procedures) but I am NOT for separation of our citizens, especially our tax-paying citizens on the basis of religious and/or educational beliefs. We ALL are a part of this great country. Which facet of a diamond is the most important, the one to be preferred? Isn't the value of the diamond based upon whether a flawless core, and the accuracy of cut of its facets?

Let's stress our human, individual rights more, political rights less, and be more fair to our fellow man.

HOWARD D. SELDEN
3940 N. Weber

P.S. — Politicians are great for "rewarding," though, to their campaign workers and other supporters insofar as they are able to find berths for them at the TAXPAYERS' EXPENSE — NEVER out of their own pocket!

MEASLES

To the Editor:

During the next few weeks, many children in Colorado will be exposed to measles. Even though they may never have had the disease before, they need not contract it because measles is now almost entirely preventable by the use of a safe, reliable, long-lasting, and effective vaccine.

Measles is sometimes considered to be a mild "childhood disease," but even under the best of circumstances it causes a severe disease lasting several days and, in a significant number of cases, it will be associated with an infection of the ears or lungs or a crippling disease of the nervous system. It may even result in death. Every child deserves to be protected from these complications.

Parents of unprotected children who have not had regular measles should get in touch with their physicians now and arrange to have their children receive the vaccine.

For the health of our children, let all of us in Colorado make certain that they are adequately protected.

WANTS PEN PALS

To the Editor:

I would like to ask your favor and would appreciate it very much if you can give some help. What I want is to have a few American pen friends but did not know how to get them.

The other day I was fortunately told by Youth Council for International Contact (20-1 Jimbocho, Kanda, Chiyodaku, Tokyo, Japan) that the best way to find one is to ask some American newspapers for the help. So here I am.

I would appreciate it very much if you can let me know a few boys or girls or if you give a little note in your paper so I may get some answers. I thank you for your trouble.

Yours very truly,

HIDEYUKI JANAKA

P. S. I want to introduce myself. I am 17 years old boy and am attending Sensiyu (university) Matudo High School and am in 3 class. My Hobbies are badge and picture postcards and photos.

Our organization, Youth Council for International Contact, has tens of thousands of members throughout Japan. It's purpose is to create a friendship and understanding internationally. We are trying to introduce your country to Japan with best of our knowledges. The organization's address is:

METERS AGAIN

To the Editor:

I tried to write a letter to the Gazette saying exactly what you wrote regarding the automatic meters, but I couldn't get the job done.

Only thing, I wanted to blast them for calling us names — "Penny - moochers" — (when they were only trying to "out mooch" us) when I realized we should be called much worse for a different reason. "White-livered" that's what we are; and wide open for communism.

If the meters are raised to a dime, what do they plan to do with our pennies? Surely not let us keep them! I'm glad you spoke up. Thanks!

Meier & Frank Sets No Sale Date

An Associated Press report from Portland, Ore., has stated that the president of Meier & Frank Co., said Wednesday no date has been set for a special meeting of stockholders to consider sale proposals.

The report stated that Broadway-Hale of Los Angeles has been able to buy enough stock to block a proposed Meier & Frank tax-free merger with May Department Stores Co., St. Louis.

Jack Meier said the situation is too uncertain now for him to say whether a special meeting will be called in advance of the annual stockholders' meeting, which he said always is held on the fourth Thursday in May. That will be May 27.

Meier has urged stockholders to sell to May. He said he and others in his faction control 55 per cent of the Meier & Frank stock. Earlier he said this would be sold to May in a tax-free merger. He said May would have to acquire two-thirds of the stock to make the transaction tax free.

Meanwhile, a faction headed by Aaron Frank, deposed president of Meier & Frank, urged sale to Broadway-Hale. Frank and his son, Gerald, said they sold their stock to that firm.

A representative of Blyth & Co., which handled the Broadway-Hale purchases, said he assumed Broadway-Hale had achieved its announced goal of 34 per cent of the stock, because Broadway-Hale had stopped buying the stock.

Will the Meier faction sell to May Co. anyway?

"I cannot comment at this time," said Meier. "I will be glad to discuss this freely when I can, but now is not the time."

Investment Firm Shows New Quarterly Highs

Investment Trust of Boston completed its third fiscal quarter Feb. 28 with new period-ending highs in value per share, total net assets and shares outstanding. This was reported here today by Wesley J. A. Jones, Western Area manager of Trust Securities Corp., national distributors of the 33-year-old mutual fund.

The regional sales executive said I. T. B.'s net assets per share came to $13.76 at the February close-up 2.8 per cent from last Nov. 30's $13.38 and, adjusted for capital gains distributions, 13.3 per cent from $12.72 on Feb. 29, 1964.

At $92,326,824, the fund's total net assets climbed 4.7 per cent in the quarter and 16.5 per cent in twelve months. Shares outstanding, meanwhile, increased to 6,707,928 from 6,594,294 and 6,226,141 respectively on the earlier dates.

Grand Opening Slated Monday for Howard's

A grand opening of Howard's Store for Gentlemen, at 21 S. Tejon St., the former location of Sunstrums, is set for Monday.

Besides a long prize list, Howard's will introduce its "Wardrobe 12 Plan," a complete wardrobe for $50 below list price with a 12-month payment plan, officials said.

Howard's, which opened in mid-January, is affiliated with two Pueblo men's stores — Bergerman's and the Squire Shop, Ltd. Co-owner Ken Ruff, who came here from Pueblo, will oversee the local store's operation. V. O. "Eddie" Edwards, a long-time resident here, is manager.

Since Sunstrums vacated the Tejon Street location, the entire store has undergone a complete facelifting. Its new store front is constructed of textured concrete, placed vertically, with aluminum strips separating the stucco slabs. Interior decoration was handled by J. Marshall Morin Interiors, a local decorating firm.

When Sunstrums went out of business in January, after nine years here, Howard's management bought its entire remaining inventory and then, according to Ruff, upgraded its quality with the addition of other men's clothing lines.

Men's suits and sport jackets by J. Capps, Bruce Douglas and Society Brand headline that department. Howard's also features Stetson hats, Freeman shoes and Strieve leather goods, among others. Clothes at Howard's sell in the medium to "top quality" price range, says Ruff. The outlet also carries a complete line of men's accessories.

Ewards, a native Coloradan and a resident here since 1929, has been associated with all phases of the clothing business since 1939. He first worked at Robbins on the Corner (now Bain's). Before his employment with Sunstrums nine years ago, he was manager of Goodbar's for a total of six years. Both stores were located at the same address, 21 S. Tejon St.

Ewards, who is originally from La Junta, lives with his wife, Reva June, and their seven children (four girls and three boys) at 2121 E. San Rafael.

Ruff worked at Bergerman's in Pueblo for two years and managed the Squire Shop for 18 months before coming here as co-owner of Howard's. The other half of the partnership is Jim Howard, of Pueblo, who handles the operations of the two stores there.

Ruff and his wife, Kathy, live at 900 Saturn Dr.

Red Blackmail Case Continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department said Friday it has been in close touch with the South Viet Nam government on the death sentence handed to a Viet Cong terrorist, which could trigger the execution of a high U.S. aid official held by the Communists.

Press officer Marshall Wright pointed out that the trial of the Viet Cong guerrilla, Nguyen Van Hai, by a military tribunal was a matter of Vietnamese jurisprudence.

"We understand from Vietnamese government authorities that no date has been set for his execution," Wright said.

The Communist Viet Cong have held Gustav Hertz, a public administration adviser, since he was captured Feb. 2 on the outskirts of Saigon.

Earlier this week, Hanoi radio threatened to execute Hertz if Nguyen Van Hai was executed by the Saigon government.

New Concrete Company Launches Expansion

The Vibrated Concrete Co., at 1400 E. Las Vegas St., has only been in business for two and a half months and is already launching an expansion program.

The local concrete distribution firm presently employs two men, uses three trucks (two pick-ups and a two and a half ton flat bed), one fork lift and about an acre of land for its business. In the near future, however, Manager Bryce Greenfield says the company will need additional employees, and and trucks for the expanded operation.

Vibrated Concrete deals in the sales of concrete building and patio block, fireplace materials for dampers and heat forms, bag cement and pre-cast concrete incinerators. Local contractors are its biggest customers for building and patio blocks, which serve as the company's main source of income.

"We're at the point now where we can't keep up with the demand," says Greenfield. "We had to start slow and build," he continued, "and we've reached the point now where the operation has snowballed into more than we can take care of with our present manpower and equipment." Of course, the boom in the local concrete business has been caused by the huge amount of construction now underway in the area.

Concrete used at the local company is trucked in periodically from Denver, according to Greenfield. It is all vibrated for a certain length of time to remove voids and make it more compact. Blocks are available in lightweight and regular forms, with the former containing a minimum of sand. Lightweight blocks will withstand 1,440 pounds of pressure per-square-inch, while the ordinary, heavier duty concrete is made to take 1,650 pounds per-square-inch.

Vibrated Concrete presently has, among others, a large contract for concrete block being used to construct a number of buildings at the Ft. Carson Motor Pool.

Besides local construction firms, the company's management reports that a large amount of business has come from local people involved in do-it-yourself projects. Besides building from scratch, a huge demand exists from home improvement projects, including additions to homes, improvements, and new patios.

Greenfield has been associated with the concrete business for the past 10 years, all of which has been served with local concrete manufacturing firms.

ANOTHER LOAD ARRIVES—Bryce Greenfield, manager of the recently opened Vibrated Concrete Co., drives a fork-lift into position for unloading a huge flat-bed trailer. The trailer came down from Denver with another load of concrete block for the local distributor. Since opening here about two months ago, the Vibrated Concrete firm has "snowballed," according to Greenfield. The man stationed atop the concrete was unidentified. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

New Store To Sell Office Equipment

A new office equipment store, called Louden Office Equipment, has opened at 429 E. Pikes Peak Ave. The new outlet opened in conjunction with Ford Office Supply in Boulder, where local store owner Bob Louden was formerly employed.

Louden's Colorado Springs store will handle the same business machine, equipment and office furniture lines as the Boulder outlet, which is owned by K. M. Ford.

The new equipment store is offering both sales and service of office equipment. Bob Berlin, who had five years experience with Ford, is handling the service end of the new business.

Louden's inventory includes electric and standard typewriters, adding machines, calculators, copy machines and supplies. The outlet also has a complete line of both wooden and metal office furniture.

Among the brands to be sold and serviced at the new store are: Victor Business Machines, Adler electric typewriters, Stenocord dictation machines and Hermes business machines.

The new store is open from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., weekdays, and from 8:30 a.m. to noon on Saturdays. The firm's operation will include sales in the store and at the customer's place of business.

Louden and his wife, Suzanne, have four children. They are now in the process of moving to Colorado Springs from Denver.

7-11 Stores Increase Profit Sharing Funds

The 80 7-Eleven Stores and Oak Farms Dairies employees in the Colorado Springs and Denver areas who are members of The Southland Corporation's Employees' Savings, Profit Sharing and Pension Plan were notified this week of the company's 1964 contribution of $9,760.45 to their accounts.

In addition, employee-members' accounts were increased by $7,428.74 through fund earnings and appreciation of assets.

"Southland's contribution to employees' profit sharing accounts in all areas where we operate totals $830,254.65, which is the largest contribution of any year since the plan was established in 1949," John P. Thompson, president, said in making the announcement.

"The amount contributed is from the company's before-tax profits during 1964," he added.

Present assets of the profit sharing fund are $10,517,926.65, of which only $2,613,649.57 has been deposited by employees, Thompson pointed out.

Of the remaining balance, $3,-101,574.99 has been contributed by the company, and $4,802,-702.09 has accrued from the plan's fund earnings and from the increase in value of assets owned.

The Southland Corporation, with general offices in Dallas, Tex., operates more than 1,500 7-Eleven Stores and dairy processing and distribution plants in 31 states and the District of Columbia.

Kelley Girl Co. Looks to Good Year

At a recent stockholders meeting of the Kelly Girl Service, officials announced their anticipation of another fine business year in 1965.

The local offices of the company is in the First Federal Savings and Loan Building, under the managership of Jerry L. Crosby.

Terence E. Adderley, vice president said:

"We anticipate that 1965 will be another excellent year for Kelly Girl Service, Inc. Based on the results for January and February, sales in the first quarter will show a 20 per cent increase over the first quarter of 1964.

"In turn, profit margins for the quarter will also reflect an increase. First quarter earnings will be released at the end of the month."

Children made the White House Christmas of 1835 unforgettable. Six young relatives of Andrew Jackson were told by the President that Santa Claus never had visited him when he was a boy. The children insisted that he hang up his stocking on Christmas Eve. The next morning, Jackson's secretary found him in tears over the corncob pipe, tobacco and trinkets the youngsters had stuffed into his stocking.

Water District Proposes Study

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Colorado River Water Conservation District of Glenwood Springs, Colo., is seeking permission to conduct a 36-monht study of a proposed hydroelectric project on the Eagle River and Homestake Creek in Eagle County, Colo., it was announced Friday.

The Federal Power Commission (FCC) said the state agency was considering a $9 million 16,000-kilowatt combination storage and hydroelectric power development. It would consist of two reservoirs, three conduits, a canal and a powerhouse.

A preliminary permit would not authorize construction, but would give the agency the right to priority of application for an FPC license while studying the feasibility of the project.

Tools used for farming believed to be 9,000 years old have been discovered by archeologists in Afghanistan.

Golden Cycle Announces Foreclosure Actions

Max W. Bowen, president of the Golden Cycle Corp., in a special report to stockholders, has announced foreclosure actions against seven firms. The total amount involved is near one half million dollars.

The firms listed include The Jerry Johnson Mining Co.; the New Gold Dollar Mining Co.; Dr. Jackpot Mining Co.; The Elkton Co.; The Empire Lee Mining Co.; The Cresson Consolidated Gold Mining and Milling Co.; and the United Gold Mines Co.

The report states that the company officers who are also officers and directors of the Golden Cycle will resign from their positions with the companies involved in the foreclosures.

The Oston Company and the Golden Cycle Corp. will cease to act as registrar and transfer agents for these companies' capital stock after April 15, the report stated.

The reports further stated that "pursuant to said proceeding, a sales of your company's property is expected to be held 30 days after publication of foreclosure proceedings on or about May 20, 1965, in Cripple Creek, Teller County, Colorado, specific information of which will be published in accordance with applicable law."

All of these firms produced gold in the first 50 years of the Cripple Creek District which began production in the latter part of the 19th century. The companies have been comparatively inactive since World War II when many gold mining operations were closed down.

None of the above companies have been operating for a number of years.

NEW CONCRETE BUSINESS — Bill Firebaugh, owner of El Paso Pre Cast Concrete, displays one of his firm's two new trucks. This one, a two and a half ton model, is used to haul the company's septic tanks and manholes to customers. The business, which is located at 930 S. Wahsatch Ave., has been open for about two weeks.

City Now Has Producer Of Pre-Cast Concrete

Colorado Springs now has its own producer of pre-cast concrete septic tanks and manholes. El Paso Pre-Cast Concrete, at 930 S. Wahsatch Ave., opened two weeks ago as a local manufacturer of the two pre-cast items, which formerly were only sold in Pueblo and other far-off cities.

With a manufacturer located in the city, local builders and contractors will now be able to save valuable time between the ordering and delivery of pre-cast septic tanks and manholes. El Paso Pre Cast can deliver a septic tank to a local customer about an hour after the order is received.

The local pre-cast business is comprised of four employes, two 1965 Ford trucks (one pickup and one two and a half ton), and all new casting forms. The Wahsatch Avenue location is only temporary, as owner Bill Firebaug is seeking a larger and more centralized city location.

Firebaugh, who has been in the concrete business for some 20 years, has lived in Colorado for the past 13 years. He moved to Colorado Springs recently from Fort Collins, where he lived for 10 years. A native of Bloomington, Ill., he has been specializing in pre-cast concrete work for the past two years.

El Paso's tanks are made to withstand 3,500 pounds of pressure per-square-inch. They are also steel reinforced and vibrated to remove any voids. All of the concrete casting is done outside, at the rear of the shop.

Firebaugh's employes are all experienced in pre-casting. He states, "We feel we can better serve the city's builders, contractors and private individuals with our location here in the city. We can give prompt service to all our customers."

Future plans, besides moving, include enlarging his inventory of forms and buying new trucks when business warrants.

The Illinois native lives with his wife, Paula, and three children, at 3130 Pennsylvania Ave.

Vehicle Output Continues to Tumble Records

Five separate records tumbled as U. S. motor vehicle production raced to its highest quarterly and monthly totals in history, the Automobile Manufacturers Association reported today.

Included in the record figures was the highest quarter ever in total vehicle output, 3,013,668. The previous high until the January-February-March total this year had been the second quarter of 1964 when the total reached 2,746,045.

Also hitting a new high was monthly total vehicle production during March, the AMA said. The 1965 figure of 1,136,718 easily surpassed December of 1964 when 1,014,417 vehicles were produced.

Other record-setters include the highest quarter ever for passenger cars, 2,561,880; the highest month for passenger cars, 963,097, and the highest month for trucks and buses, 173,621.

Prior to March's torrid pace, the highest monthly figure for passenger cars had been December of 1964, with 866,632. The highest previous month for commercial vehicle output had been June of 1964, with 157,928.

Total vehicle production last week hit 248,535 units, the AMA said. Included in the week's output were 207,949 passenger cars and 40,586 trucks and buses.

This marked the fifth straight week that more than 240,000 vehicles have rolled off the assembly lines.

Cumulative output in 1965 through April 3 totaled 3,120,696 units, including 2,651,936 cars and 468,760 commercial vehicles. In the same period last year, 2,689,853 vehicles were produced — 2,251,927 passenger cars and 437,926 trucks and buses.

Governor Signs 23 More Bills

DENVER (AP) — Gov. John A. Love signed 23 bills Friday, including two that were referred to the legislature by the Local Affairs Study Commission.

One would give county commissioners authority to veto proposed special taxing districts if backers don't demonstrate the need for the district and ability to operate economically.

The bill was aimed at what is described as a "rapid proliferation" of the districts, all with power to levy property taxes.

The other bill repeals a 1947 law permitting creation of police protection districts. Such districts have never been formed but the commission said there is increasing likelihood they might be.

Another bill signed by Love takes the state out of the business of issuing hail insurance.

The 23 brought the total he has signed to 99.

READY TO GO — Lynn Rotz, owner of Lynn's Glass Service, says he is ready to go where the trouble is. His completely mobile glass replacement service is radio dispatched and operates both day and night. Rotz has been a glazier since 1943 and is a member of the Painters and Decorators Local 171.

FIRST VIEW OF SNOW

AIKEN, S.C. (AP) — Three-year-old David Murray had his first look at snow recently in Aiken.

His mother, Mrs. Harried Murray, said David rushed up to his father and said:

"Daddy, look! It's snowing soap."

Lynn's Glass Gives Service From Truck

Lynn's Glass Service, a new business in Colorado Springs, is literally a glass replacement service "on the move." According to Lynn Rotz, owner, his business "goes where the trouble is" for home glass replacement day or night.

Rotz, who has been a glazier since 1943, and his wife, Mary, handle the entire business themselves, with their home, at 1216 Pando Ave., serving as the base of operations. The truck, out of which all replacement work is done, is radio dispatched for faster service. It is also complete stocked with glass, for, as Rotz puts it, "one stop service."

Rotz says his business will be built on a firm foundation of extra care when doing a job. "We offer competitive prices, along with fast and efficient glass replacement," he states. Besides private parties, Lynn's Glass Service is equipped to handle insurance claims, apartment glass replacement and work for home builders.

Rotz and his wife are both long-time Colorado Springs residents. They are members of the First Pilgrim Holiness Church, where Mrs. Rotz is active in the Sunday School department and Ladies Guild. Rotz is a member of the church board and is active in its youth department.

He presently holds membership in the Painters and Decorators Local 171 and serves as a member of the Stratton Meadows Volunteer Fire Dept. The couple has four children.

Hunt for Nazis Is Extended

BONN, West Germany (AP) — The law extending the hunt for Nazi murderers until Jan. 1, 1970 was approved Friday by the Bundesrat, West Germany's upper house of parliament. The lower house, the Bundestag, approved it March 25 and the bill now goes to President Heinrich Luebke, who is expected to sign it into law soon.

GENEVA Switzerland (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk arrived in Geneva on Friday to preside at a meeting of American ambassadors from the Middle East area. Rusk flew in from Tehran, Iran, where he attended the 13th ministerial council meeting of the Central Treaty Organization.

He declined comment to newsmen on arrival here. After giving U.S. Middle East heads of mission a briefing, Rusk flies to Washington early Saturday.

HELSKINKI, Finland (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon has decided to revisit Moscow where in 1959 he and the then Soviet premier, Nikita S. Khrushchev, staged a much-publicized argument in the model kitchen of an American exposition.

Nixon scheduled the trip by train to arrive in Moscow on Saturday.

It was not clear if he expected to see any Soviet government officials on a three-day stay. Nixon visited Finland on behalf of the Newfoundland Pulp & Chemical Co., which plans to buy a papermill here.

CC Plans Three Summer Seminars

Colorado College will conduct a specially designed eight-week program for secondary school teachers of science and mathematics for the tenth consecutive summer under a grant from the National Science Foundation. According to CC bulletin publications the multiple science institute is designed to improve a teacher's background in his particular teaching specialty and broaden his horizons in the entire field of scientific knowledge.

With the Aspen Institute of Humanistic Studies, in conjunction with the NSF, Colorado College will also present its fourth eight-week institute in biology for 32 high school teachers at Aspen from June 7 through July 30.

The direction of this field institute will be to consider living organisms in the out-of-doors from the biotic community and ecosystemal standpoint. Teachers will have the experience of developing concepts based upon gathered data, hence, enabling the teacher to utilize this approach in his own teaching situation.

The program's one course, Field Biology, will emphasize the why and how aspects of field biology. The geology and meteorology of the region will be stressed. There will later be work in botanical and zoological field study. Each week there will be a visiting ecologist incorporated into the program, participating in the field work, and giving special lectures.

The co-directors of the program are Dr. James H. Enderson (ecology, Colorado College) and Mr. Robert Lewis (ecology, Aspen Institute). The permanent staff, in addition, includes a plant ecologist and two animal ecologists, with a number of visiting regional scientists, each a specialist in some field discipline.

In addition, Colorado College will present its seventh summer science training program for high-ability juniors in high school from June 13 through Aug. 6. Twenty-eight science and mathematics students from throughout the U. S. have been selected to participate in this tuition-free program in the fields of biology, chemistry, mathematics, and physics. They will reside on campus for the eight-week period.

This summer science training program, under the direction of John H. Lewis, geology department, is operated in close connection with the Tenth National Science Foundation Summer Institute. It will afford advanced orientation in the broad fields of science, give specialized academic training in the fields of student interest, provide an opportunity to carry out supervised research in the specific field, introduce the subject geology, and provide contact with scientists and science teachers associated with the regular summer science institute.

Colorado College, in bulletin publications, states a hope that the specialy designed program will serve to broaden scientific horizons, afford exploration of significant thinking, endeavor and enthusiasm, and acquaint young people concerned with professional scientists, good science teachers, and fellow secondary school science students of high ability.

FILLING ELEVATOR SHAFT

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Macon's city hall building, the last Georgia capitol under the Confederacy, finally has an elevator after 127 years.

The historic three-story building, erected as a bank in 1838, has had an elevator shaft since 1933, when it last underwent major remodeling, but the elevator wasn't installed until this year.

Advertising expenditures in the nation last year rose 6.2 per cent over 1963 to a record $13.92 billion.

ROBBERY FROM AUTO

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Along with drive-ins of various sorts, Louisville has added a new one—a drive-in robber. A masked bandit drove into the portal of a dairy store and, without leaving his car, demanded that the clerk bring him the money from the cash register, then drove off.

EXCUSED FROM DUTY

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Dist. Atty. Evelle J. Younger has been a firm advocate of every citizen accepting jury duty as his public duty.

But Friday he found a prospective juror whom he felt—because of the nature of his work—had a compelling reason to be excused from jury duty.

The juror was Dist. Atty. Younger.

British Try Austerity To Pinch Their Economy

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The British are trying austerity again to pinch their economy while Americans talk of boosting the U.S. economy still higher through even less restraint.

In both cases one of the prime goals is the same — to bolster the individual currencies, the British pound sterling and the American dollar, in international money markets.

The British move this week is largely tied to increasing taxes. American business stimulants, past and contemplated, are tied to cutting taxes.

London figures individual Britons should be discouraged from buying so many imported goods and overheating the home economy so much that United Kingdom manufacturers don't try hard enough to sell their goods abroad.

Washington figures that the American economic growth rate should be increased, more goods should be produced, so that the excess will inspire producers to try harder to sell still more abroad.

The U.S. government also is asking Americans to keep their dollars home and lend less to foreigners and invest less abroad. The British say they'll try to keep American dollars still coming their way.

First returns indicate that both the American and the British monetary plans are working at the moment.

While both the United States and the United Kingdom have been having trouble keeping their currencies looking as good as gold, the problem has risen from significantly different circumstances.

The United States for years has been exporting more than it has been importing. The loss of dollars and gold comes from something else. The favorable balance of trade has been more than offset by government economic and military aid to other nations, private investment and loans abroad, free-spending American tourists.

The British have been importing more than they've exported. British manufacturers have seen the price of their products rise — meaning profits at home but also loss of some world markets to more competitively priced goods, made by Americans, Europeans, Japanese, even the Communist countries.

So Britain is trying austerity to get its world trade and its pound sterling in a healthier state.

The dollar already is healthy. Washington wants to make sure it doesn't catch another chill like the one that plagued it at the start of this year.

District 20 Has New Election Rules

Patrons of School District 20 will find the laws concerning the forthcoming school board election different this year.

Persons desiring to become a candidate for board member must file a notice of intention with a petition signed by 50 qualified electors with the secretary of the board. The deadline this year for filing this nomination petition is April 14 and the necessary forms are available in the office of the superintendent of schools and may be picked up during business hours.

A qualified elector is a legal resident of the school district whose name appears on the registration list at the county clerk's office. The deadline this year for patrons to register to vote is April 19. If a patron is registered in his precinct to vote at a general election he may vote at the school election and sign a nomination petition for an intended candidate, officials report.

County Commissioners To Have Veto Power

DENVER (AP) —County commissioners will exercise a veto power over the creation of special taxing districts under a bill signed into law Friday by Gov. John A. Love.

It was recommended by the Local Affairs Study Commission to combat a "rapid proliferation" of the districts — which are formed for such purposes as water service, cemeteries and fire protection.

Love also signed another commission bill repealing a 1947 law permitting creation of police protection districts. Such districts have never been formed but the commission said there is increasing likelihood they might be and some of the powers given them appear to be unconstitutional.

Another bill that became law takes the state out of the hail insurance business. Love has now signed a total of 99 measures.

The average age of members of the 89th Congress is 51.9 years.

"Art or Anarchy?" by Huntington Hartford. The author, a philanthropist, art collector, and editor, speaks out against the tide of recent art and art criticism. "The Mad Motorists," Allen Andrews. a 10,000-mile race from Peking to Paris.

"Swing Easy — Hit Hard," Julius Boros. One of the phenomena of today's crop of spectacular golfers describes in the simplest terms how he produces his powerful yet effortless swing.

"The Sign of the Flying Goose," George Laycock. In this guide to the wildlife refugees, the author tells the story of the refuge system and the people who struggled to build it.

"Organizational Scientists," Barney Glaser. A case study of the effects of professional recognition on the careers of scientists who work within a medical research organization devoted almost exclusively to basic research.

"O the Times! O the Manners!" William Iverson. Shows the people of all places and ages from prehistoric to present.

"It's Your Community," Henry Raymore. Gives the average citizen the background and practical information he needs to act effectively in preserving and improving the appearance of the town in which he lives.

Order Extended For Canon City Mill

DENVER (AP) — A temporary court order permitting the Cotter Corp.'s mill near Canon City to receive uranium ore has been extended to July 1.

U.S. Dist. Judge Hatfield Chilson granted the extension Wednesday pending a determination of the company's request for a preliminary injunction to prevent shutdown of the mill.

Cotton filed suit Feb. 25 in District Court, accusing officials of the Atomic Energy Commission of acting in an arbitrary and discriminatory manner in refusing to extend the firm's contract, which expired Feb. 28.

'Pieces of 8' Sponsored by Auxiliary

The second annual "Pieces of 8 Sale" will be sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary to Goodwill Industries on Wednesday, May 12th, at the First Methodist Church. To assure its success, contributions of items for the sale will be appreciated.

Odd pieces of china, crystal, glass, brass, jewelry which is no longer used, nic-nacs, antiques—all such items are needed. The name "Pieces of 8" was chosen because it connotes treasures. This will not be a rummage sale but will offer really nice things for the home.

Goodwill is not a United Fund organization and does not solicit funds from the community. The Auxiliary's major function is to help Goodwill Industries financially.

Please earmark all contributions "Women's Auxiliary" and leave on or before May 1 with the receptionist at the Goodwill offices at 2307 West Colorado Avenue.

Photographs Featured at Art Showing

The monthly showing in the arts, featured in the Colorado Academy lobby for April will be a group of photographs by the well known photographer, Marshall Brooks. These may be seen during the school week from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily. You are welcome to come and bring your friends.

Brooks, a second generation Coloradoan, was born and educated in Denver. He attended Carnegie "Tech" and after several years on the technical staff of the Cleveland Playhouse, Brooks moved to New York City where he was manager of the Old Grand Street Playhouse of the Henry Street Settlement.

It was there that photography became for him an irresistible hobby. The children who took part in the dance, music and drama programs of the Settlement House became his first subjects and the rich life of New York stiumlated documentary photography for one who could use his camera sympathetically.

Since his return to Colorado in 1946 his photographs have been used to illustrate and publicize a variety of educational and artistic programs, including those of the University of Denver dance department, Lamont School of Music, The Denver Art Museum, Geneva Glen Camp and the Colorado Woman's College nursery school.

Stevenson, Thant Talk

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson began talks Friday with U.N .Secretary-General U Thant on possible Viet Nam peace negotiations and President Johnson's billion-dollar development program for Southeast Asia.

The two met amid increasing signs that the White House has given Thant the green light to pursue his efforts to set up negotiations and now is keeping the secretary-general fully informed on U.S. views.

Stevenson himself said he had asked for Friday morning's meeting not only to discuss Thant's proposed role in the Southeast Asia development program but also to talk over the President's readiness to enter into unconditional discussions on Viet Nam.

He also disclosed that Johnson had expressed his appreciation for Thant's message of support, which included a statemen tthat the secretary - general was prepared to continue his Viet Nam peace efforts.

North Viet Nam Says U. S. Must Leave Asia

TOKYO (AP) Communist North Viet Nam, in an apparent reply to U.S. President Johnson's Baltimore speech said Friday the fighting in Viet Nam "will end only when the U.S. aggressors quit our country."

Without mentioning Johnson's speech, the official newspaper Nhandan was quoted by the Red China News Agency Friday as saying: "All our 30 million and more compatriots in the two zones warmly responding to the sublime appeal of the fatherland, have again shouted fight. We have fought in one locality and another, fought anywhere the U.S. aggressors came to attack us. We shall fight from one generation to another — so long as the U.S. aggressors are on our land. This fight will end only when the U.S. aggressors quit our country."

The editorial added: "The U.S. imperialists are being chased away by the world's people like rabid dogs and angrily spurned everywhere for their cruel and villainous acts in their aggressive war in Viet Nam. All their deceitful and twisted allegations have gone bankrupt."

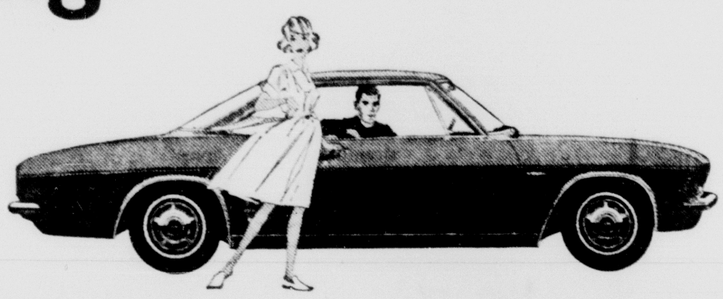
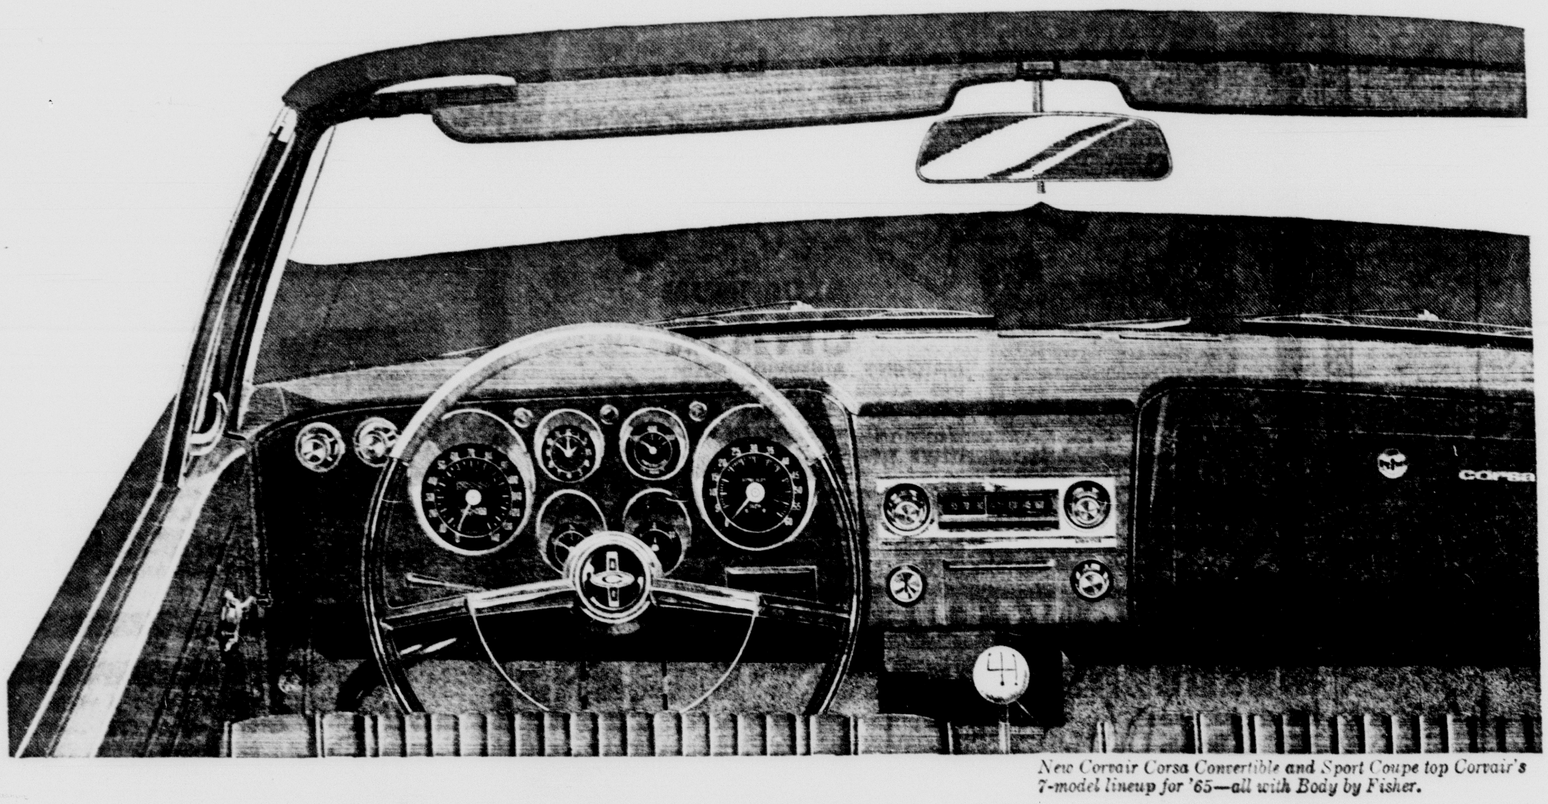
Zing into spring! Corvair by Chevrolet





New Corvair Corsa Convertible and Sport Coupe top Corvair's 7-model lineup for '65—all with Body by Fisher.

The steering's crisper, the ride's flatter, the style's racier — even the grass looks a shade greener from behind the wheel of this new Corvair

You'll find a Corvair Corsa's instrument panel vastly more informative than an ordinary car's. But that's really only a fringe benefit of driving one.

Because for all its finely calibrated instrumentation—tachometer, manifold pressure gauge, even an electric clock with a sweep second hand for rally buffs—the most important thing that happens when you get a Corsa out on the road doesn't register on the dash. It registers on you.

You feel it in the steering—crisp and precise—as you double back on a curve. In the flat riveted-to-the-road stability of the new fully independent suspension. In the response of the rear engine (up to 180 hp available now in Corsa's Turbo-Charged version).

You don't have to wear a sports car cap and sun goggles to appreciate things like this. Or the clean international cut of Corvair's styling.

Drop down to your dealer's now—while the trading's extra good—and see for yourself. Look over the dashboard gadgetry all you like, but by all means get out on the road where you can really handle the merchandise. We'll guarantee spring will look greener, sun goggles or no.

You will see an amazing documented film about Reading Dynamics.

Learn how Reading Dynamics can help you to faster reading, improved comprehension, greater retention.

Just by being present you may win a 10 week course absolutely free.

READING DYNAMICS is a unique, revolutionary new process of reading rapidly down the page, allowing the eyes to trigger the mind directly. This eliminates the bad habits which cause slow reading; 1—The habit of saying the words to ourself. 2—Seeing only one word at a time. 3—Regression, that is, going back and rereading material unnecessarily.

READING DYNAMICS encourages students to bring their own technical books to study. In addition to improving their reading speed and comprehension, they can also get some of their "homework" out of the way. This is valuable to students as special techniques are used on techical material.

READING DYNAMICS is different frm other courses. No machines are used. You learn, instead, to use your hand as a pacer, a tool you always have with you. Conventional rapid reading courses aspire to 450-600 words per minute. Most Reading Dynamics graduates can read between 1,500 and 3,000 words per minute, and many go even higher.

GUARANTEE

We guarantee to increase the reading efficiency of each student by at least three times with equal or better comprehension. We will refund the entire tuition of any student who does not triple his reading efficiency as measured by the beginning and subsequent tests, or the student may retake the course free of charge. Park State Bank Grand Opening Set for Friday

By DAVE OSBORN
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

Grand opening of the new Park State Bank, at the junction of U.S. Highway 24 and Colorado 67 in Woodland Park, is set for this Friday and Saturday, with the bank scheduled to formally open for business Monday.

The entire project including land, the rstic - styled building, and interior fixtures, cost an estimated $65,000. The new 1,500 square foot building is set on a large tract of land at the intersection of the two highways, just west of Woodland proper.

Construction, which took three months to complete, was handled by Kenneth W. Quinn, general contractor from Green Mountain Falls. Quinnn, who has been in the construction business for 35 years, has been responsible for several buildings in the Ute Pass area, including some others in Woodland.

Sub - contractors on the construction job included Lewis Lynch Plumbing, Stull Electric, Coexco Grading and Excavating, the Woodland Lumber Co., and Park Hardware. The native stone, moss rock, used in the building was supplied by Carl Quinn. Woodland stone mason Fred Roberts handled that end of the building.

Rugged oak desks, counters, furniture and light fixtures were custom built for the new bank by Paul Hathaway of Western Frontier, a Woodland firm. According to Fran Bartley, vice-president and cashier, bank officials tried to let most of the construction contracts to local firms.

Woodland's first and only bank was designed by William L. Page, a Cascade architect who has been responsible for designing a number of building through the Ute Pass area. Exterior construction of the rustic building is composed of rough sawn Douglas-Fir posts and beams, along with moss rock and cedar paneling.

Its interior features and open entranceway and lobby, with a moss rock fireplace set to one side, along with a customer's lounge area. Bank officers and directors areas are finished in moss rock and cedar. Robert Beal, of Green Mountain Falls, is responsible for the buildings landscaping.

Bartley says the bank was designed to blend in with the rugged mountain areas surrounding it. In fact, some of the architect's preliminary drawings were turned down because they were "too modern."

The bank vault has 18 - inch thick walls of reinforced concrete and steel rods and weighs nearly three tons. Its exterior is stainless steel.

Park State Bank will open its doors with a capital structure of $145,000, which includes includes $100,000 in capital, $25,000 in surplus and $20,000 in undivided profits. All deposits up to $10,000 will be insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. The new bank will be supervised by the State Banking Commission.

Park State Bank President Robert Showalter has been in the banking business for some 30 years. He is presently serving as president of a bank in Yoder, Kan. Showalter also has a home in Green Mountain Falls. Bartley has been a banker for the past five years in the greater Colorado Springs area. He lives in Green Mountain Falls.

The bank's directors are: Ed Busch, Arthur Church, Ronald Harmon, Dr. Arthur Herzberger, Roger Sanborn, Conrad Wilson and Showalter. Advisory positions are being filled by: Mrs. Beatrice Angell, Frank Bartley, M. Paul Borchert, Marvin E. Brown, Dr. Charles Fisher and Mary Lou Maytag. Mrs. Carol Kessler has been named head bookkeeper.

The full - service banking establishment, only the second in the whole of Teller County, will give four per cent interest on all savings, both regular and time. At present, the bank has no drive - up window, but this is contemplated for the future. Ample parking is provided on all sides of the new building.

Bank hours during the two-day open house will run from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. on Friday. Saturday grand opening hours will be from 9 a.m. to noon. Regular banking hours are scheduled from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., weekdays, and from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturdays.

Refreshments are slated to be served during the entire grand opening.

Bliss Getting $60,000 Yearly as New GOP Chief

By ROBERT S. ALLEN And PAUL SCOTT

Washington — Republican National Chairman Ray Bliss, in office only one week, already is setting an eye-popping record.

The Ohioan's salary is $60,000 —highest ever paid a national chairman.

It's double his predecessor's $30,000. And that isn't all:

At Bliss's insistence, the National Executive Committee deposited two years' pay ($120,000) to his account in a Washington bank, where he can draw on it as he sees fit.

Further, he was provided with a chauffeur-driven Continental automobile.

Members of the Executive Committee which voted these terms are: Mrs. Gwen Barnett, Idaho; Mrs. John D. Bowler, Calif.; Keith Brown, Ariz.; Albert Fay, Tex.; Mrs. George Neimerman, Hawaii; Fred LaRue, Miss.; Samuel Mellinger, Kans.; Mrs. Waldo Moberly, Mont.; Mrs. Audrey Peak, Ill.; Mrs. Carroll Reece, Tenn.; Donald Ross, Neb.; Richard Sellars, N.J.; Tom Stagg Jr., La.; Miss Sarah Ann Stauffer, Pa.

INSIDE THE KU KLUX KLAN —Ku Klux Klan leaders and members are due for jolting surprises when the House Committee on Un-American Activities begins public hearings in its investigation of the hooded order.

Without fanfare the committee has been probing the Klan for months and has accumulated much revealing evidence, some of it luridly sensational. Klansmen will discover they have been thoroughly infiltrated and their innermost secrets are known to authorities.

Foremost among publishable details the committee will disclose are:

There are at least 14 separate Klan organizations, with a combined membership (called "citizens") of between 15,000 and 20,000.

The United Klan of America, headed by Robert Shelton, one-time Tuscaloosa, Ala., tire salesman, is the largest. It has some 6,000 members, approximately one-third of all enrolled Klansmen. United's membership is chiefly in Alabama, the Carolinas, Georgia, Louisiana and Tennessee.

Most of the Klans have units known as "KBI" — Klan Bureau of Investigation. Their function is to "safeguard the internal security" of their organizations, particularly against infiltration by state and federal authorities. The KBIs maintain an undercover scrutiny of members before and after they are enrolled.

Among the surprises the House investigators have in store for Klansmen is that the KBI have been thoroughly infiltrated. Even some of their secret records have been obtained.)

Certain Klans have "terror" units very similar to those of the Communist party. In fact, at least one of these "knock-off's outfits has been infiltrated by Communists. The House probers know quite a bit about this. These violence squads range in size from three to a dozen. In a number of instances, their identity is known to the FBI. That explains the speedy arrest of the four Alabamans arrested in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Liuzzo.

While Klan membership is relatively small, the political influence they exert, particularly in rural areas, far exceeds their numbers. Their principal "weapon is the ballot and boycott" — according to United Klan Grand Wizard Shelton.

This is exactly what Dr. Martin Luther King is invoking in his headline campaign for voting and other rights for Southern negroes.

IRONIC PROMOTER — An unexpected discovery of the House investigators is that the Supreme Court and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) have been a definite factor in the recent growth of the Klan, particularly in Louisiana.

This unusual backstage effect resulted from a 1961 Supreme Court decision holding unconstitutional a Louisiana law requiring secret organizations to file yearly lists of their members. The case was brought by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (State ex-rel Remillion vs NAACP) which fought the state's demand for its membership list.

Originally, the Louisiana law was enacted to force the KKK to disclose its members. The Klan never challenged the act, and state authorities considered it highly effective in keeping a damper on the hooded order.

It took the NAACP to succeed. Louisiana officials have told the House probers that Klan membership in their state has quadrupled since the tribunal in axing this measure in the Supreme Court.

wiped out this law.

They reported an investigating committee of the state legislature has uncovered at least five separate Klan organizations, plus 14 other groups with some 50 local klaverns.

The Louisiana committee has also strongly advised the House investigators to dig into Communist infiltration of civil rights groups. According to the Louisianans, they have uncovered considerable evidence of direct Red ties and influence.

This information, in the form of documents and names, has been turend over to the House probers.

Also in their hands is information that James R. Venable, grand wizard of the National Knights of the KK, is endeavoring to consolidate a number of Klans into one large organization, which he presumably would head.

Venable was once an attorney for a Black Muslim group. It was his Klan which recently sent a membership blank to an Idaho Negro.

FLASHES — Administration insiders are hinting that Asst. Sec. of State G. Mennen Williams is slated to be shifted to the Peace Corps, to replace Director Shriver so he can concentrate on running the anti-poverty program.

It has long been an open secret that top State Department authorities want to get ride of the former Michigan governor.

In an address to the 9th Biennial Wilderness Conference, San Francisco, Sen. Clinton Anderson, D-N.M., stated that a large part of the Land and Water Conservation Fund, enacted by Congress last year, "will be used to acquire desperately needed recreation areas for urban and suburban residents. It should not be necessary for families in cities to have to embark on an expedition to see a stand of trees or a grassy field." Under a detailed schedule set up by House Democratic leaders, all the big appropriation bills will be disposed of in that chamber by June 22 — an unprecendented record if it's realized.

Cardinal Meyer Dies, Cancer Of Brain Blamed

By RUSSELL LANE

CHICAGO (AP) — Albert Cardinal Meyer, 62, a grocer's son who became a prince of the Roman Catholic Church, died Friday of cancer.

His death came six weeks after surgeons removed a malignant tumor from his brain. "A progression of the tumor," a Mercy Hospital spokesman said, caused death.

Cardinal Mayer was the spiritual leader of nearly two million Catholics in the Chicago Archdiocese, largest in the United States. Although young in his high rank he had won a place among leading liberal members of the church heirarchy.

It was after his return last year from a meeting of the Vatican Ecumenical Council, in which he had obtained a hearing for the American Catholic clergy's attitude toward other religions, that illness became a concern he could not put aside.

He was treated for 12 days in January for a gall bladder ailment, but one month after leaving the hospital he returned for a checkup to determine the cause of increasingly severe headaches which had troubled him for three weeks.

On Feb. 25, after he was told that a swelling in his brain could be relieved only by intracranial surgery, he submitted to the major operation. The surgeons found within the right side of the brain a tumor which they removed. Its tissue was cancerous.

He rallied only slightly after the operation, although hope continued for improvement until sleep overcame him Sunday. His death at 10:50 a.m. Friday came quietly and without forewarning symptoms.

Cardinal Meyer's death left the United States with five members of the college of cardinals. Francis Spellman of New York; Joseph Ritter of St. Louis; Richard Cushing of Boston; J. Francis McIntyre of Los Angeles and the most recently elevated, Lawrence J. Shehan of Baltimore.

The Chicago Archdiocese, as it was after the death of Samuel Cardinal Stritch in Rome in early 1958, was left without a cardinal. Affairs of the archdiocese were being administered by Bishop Cletus O'Donnell, the vicar general. He has carried on the work during the cardinal's illness.

Cardinal Meyer was an archbishop when he was transferred from the See of Milwaukee, his native city, to Chicago on Nov. 16, 1958. He was made a cardinal by Pope John XXIII one year later at the age of 56.

Hungary, U.S. at Odds Over Cardinal's Fate

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Hungary and the United States appear to be at odds over negotiations aimed at ending the nine-year self-exile of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty in the U.S. legation in Budapest.

Hungarian Foreign Minister Janos Peter told a news conference Friday the case was "entirely a matter for the United States and the Vatican" and did not concern his Communist government.

The U.S. view is that an agreement between Hungary and the Vatican will be required.

A LONG STORY

Someone suggested a truly quality home not too fancy, not too plain, but certainly lets see workmanship. Add a fireplace but design it so we have both utility and eye appeal. If we spend 80% of our time in the kitchen give us some room please and make it attractive. Finish the two car garage and make it big enough so we can open the doors once inside. First rate wood frame windows are a must, we are tired of those sliding aluminum windows. Yes, a basement will be a must and add a finished family room, (with a fireplace) Three bedrooms will be fine but that ½ bath for the master bedroom is absolutely necessary. O.K. the area will be that rate but don't give us that $30,000.00 plus price tag. Our story is at 2404 Marlborough Place, San Louis Estates and open all week for what we know will be a happy ending for you.

from ages 18 to 52. Prepare now for U.S. Civil Service job openings in this area during the next 12 months.

Government positions pay as high as $504.00 a month to start. They provide much greater security than private employment and excellent opportunity for advancement. Many positions require little or no specialized education or experience.

But to get one of these jobs, you must pass a test. The competition is keen and in some cases only one out of five pass.

Lincoln Service has helped thousands prepare for these tests every year since 1948. It is one of the largest and oldest privately owned schools of its kind and is not connected with the Government.

Compromise Seen In Retraining Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed a compromise version of the manpower retraining bill, extending the program until 1969.

The measure now goes to the House where quick approval is expected.

President Johnson had asked that the program be made permanent. Previously the Senate had voted for extension to 1970, and the House to 1968. A conference committee met Thursday, deciding on the compromise and paving the way for Senate approval Friday.

The bill continues 100 per cent U.S. financing of the program through next year, but after that the states will have to foot 10 per cent of the cost of institutional training.

No Hope for Early Closing Of Assembly

DENVER (UPI)—Leaders of the Colorado Legislature nearly have given up all hope of reaching final adjournment on April 17, the Saturday before Easter.

The leaders now believe adjournment may come anytime from a week to 10 days after Easter.

Only House Majority Leader Forrest Burns, D-Lamar, still believes the legislature can reach accord on taxes and spending by April 17.

Senate Majority Leader Paul Wenke, R-Fort Collins, said adjournment probably would come sometime during the week after Easter. Wenke had been, up to Wednesday, one of the strongest advocates of adjournment on April 17.

Senate Minority Leader Sam T. Taylor, D-Walsenburg, predicted the end would come April 27.

Taylor said he did not see how adjournment could come any earlier because he understood the House planned to hold up action on the Senate-passed long appropriations bill until the Senate opens debate on a tax program Friday.

House Speaker Allen Dines, D-Denver, said he now doubts that adjournment can be reached by Easter, but he denied that the House had made any formal decision on holding up the long bill until the Senate acts on taxes.

Dines and Wenke both said they had no plans to call meetings on Palm Sunday or Easter Sunday.

Burns said the House would be ready to adjourn by April 17 if the Senate does it work.

Lutheran Choir Sings Tuesday At Carson

Easter music will be sung in a program especially presented for the men and women of Ft. Carson by the Immanuel Lutheran Choir of Colorado Springs.

The program, under the direction of Kenneth Schlueter, will be given at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Chapel 3.

Their selections will include Jesus I Will Ponder Thee, Jesus Priceless Treasure, Christ the Life of All the Living, Surely He Hath Borne Our Griefs, Not All the Blood of Beasts, Oh Sacred Head, Wondrous Love, When I Survey and the Night in Which Christ Was Betrayed.

Chaplain (Capt.) Donald Adickes said the program is open to anyone interested. The return engagement was arranged because of the tremendous ovation given to the Immanuel Choir when it gave a Christmas concert here in December.

"Their outstanding renditions won the praise of those who heard them at that time. Don't miss this opportunity to hear the Lenten and Easter message proclaimed through the media of song," says Lt. Col. James K. Barnett, division chaplain.

Extortion Charge Dismissal Asked

DENVER (AP) — A motion filed in U.S. District Court Friday asked that the convictions of three men on extortion charges be dismissed because of insufficient evidence.

Ruby Kolod, Willie Alderman and Felix Alderisio were convicted Wednesday of the attempted extortion of $68,000 from former Denver attorney Robert Sunshine.

8,000 Persons Driven From Midwest Homes by Floods

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fresh rains added more to swollen rivers in the Midwest flood zone Saturday where more than 8,000 persons have been driven from their homes.

Rain fell on flood-weary Mankato, Minn., Saturday, but the Minnesota River backed off fractionally from peak levels. A crest appeared to have been reached — about one foot short of earlier predictions.

The flood threat continued to mount in the Mississippi River Valley in Wisconsin, but the worst was over in the Pecantonica and Kickapoo river basin of Wisconsin.

Gov. Warren Knowles of Wisconsin and a team of state officials made a 600-mile aerial inspection of high-water dangers along the western edge of the state. The governor said the major danger spot was about five miles north of La Crosse. He declarrd a state of emergency for the La Crosse area.

"It's very bad," said Knowles. "I've ordered the National Guard's engineers to use dynamite if that is needed to break the ice jam."

National Guard units helped, the Red Cross, Salvation Army and others helped move families from low areas in the state. Friday, the Burlington Railroad discontinued passenger service between St. Louis and Minneapolis because of flooding in low-lying areas along the Mississippi River in Missouri and Iowa.

Tornado funnels touched down in eastern Kansas and northwestern Missouri on Saturday as a severe storm, with high winds and hail, sped across the area.

The twisters dipped down at Lowemont, northwest of Leavenworth, Kan., and near Faucett and Bean Lake near St. Joseph, Mo.

The Des Moines River in Des Moines, Iowa, crested Saturday at 28.68 feet, second highest in history. Volunteers on the dikes kept the river away from the business areas and about 300 families were evacuated from residential areas.

Property damage in the flood area ran into the millions of dollars.

The Weather Bureau reported Saturday that with the exception of Louisiana every state west of the Mississippi River had rain in a 24-hour period.

The heaviest downpours Saturday were measured along the Northern California coast where

FLOODWATERS TOP DIKE — Floodwaters from the Minnesota river flow over the top of a dike and into the town of Chaska, Minn., Saturday. About 500 volunteers aided other workers in reinforcing the dike, but the effort fell short. Eventually a six-foot hole was cut in the dike after engineers warned that pressure of the river could collapse the entire dike and send a ten to 12-foot wall of water surging into the lower part of town. Many persons were evacuated, and a crest isn't expected until Wednesday. (AP Wirephoto)

Soviets Hint Steps to End Viet War

By ARTHUR L. GAYSHON

LONDON (AP) — Soviet sources are quietly spreading the word in London that their country wants to help the United States end the war in Viet Nam.

Before and after President Johnson's offer for talks, Russian informants have been suggesting that neither Moscow nor Washington wants the Viet Nam war extended.

They say both countries recognize that Red China, if rampant in Southeast Asia, could imperil world peace and that something needs to be done to check Peking's position in North Viet Nam.

To achieve these goals, Soviet sources imply, Moscow and Washington must find ways to cooperate. The Johnson peace plan seems to approach such a basis although the Russians seem to think it needs to be revised at least so the National Liberation Front — representing the Viet Cong guerrillas in the South — can be represented at any peace talks.

This is a big difficulty. The United States is unlikely to agree to dealing with the Viet Cong. But the Russians must — to back up their own oft-repeated pledges — get the South Vietnamese Communists into the negotiations picture, or risk condemnation by Communists around the world.

Still, there are important implications in the Soviet hints, which seem to point toward a Moscow yearning for some sort of tacit understanding between the superpowers to defuse the Southeast Asia situation — and perhaps even contain the Red

Commies Reopen Autobahn; Avoid U. S. Showdown

By JOHN O. KOEHLER

BERLIN (AP) — The Communists abruptly ended East German military maneuvers Saturday and reopened the Berlin autobahn, thus avoiding a showdown on access rights with four big U.S. convoys.

The Russians earlier had said the maneuvers would end Sunday and off-again-on-again shutdowns on the autobahn would continue until then. So the United States assembled the convoys for a challenge at 6:45 a.m. but the Russians waved the convoy through.

Authoritative sources said the convoys of 452 men and 103 vehicles were originally to have returned to Berlin Monday after three weeks of field training in West Germany. In the convoys was the 4th Battalion of the 18th Infantry Regiment.

The speedup of the convoy's return made it appear the United States was determined to put its rights of free access to West Berlin to another test.

Six times since Monday the Communists had closed the autobahn, the 110-mile lifeline for West Berlin. They announced it was because of the military maneuvers. But privately they said it was because of the West German Parliament meeting in West Berlin last Wednesday.

The climax came that day, when at least 40 of the fastest, most modern Soviet jet fighters zoomed over Berlin's rooftops, broke the sound barrier with sonic booms, and buzzed Western commercial airliners flying to and from the city through the three air corridors.

The Russians last week told the western powers not to use certain altitudes in the corridors because their jets would fly there. The western powers ignored the warning. It was confirmed that U.S., British and French military planes took to the air immediately after the Soviet challenge.

A joint Soviet and East German announcement of the end of the war games gave no reason why it was called off a day ahead of schedule, except that "all training tasks set for the troops in the exercise were fully

1,400 More Marines Land in Viet Nam; 120 U. S. Planes Bomb North

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — More than 120 U.S. warplanes fanned out over Communist North Viet Nam Saturday, striking at a strategic bridge and highways. Officials said all got back safely after meeting little groundfire and no air challenges from Red Migs.

A Viet Cong-South Vietnamese firefight three miles from Da Nang gave 1,400 newly arrived U.S. Marines their first glimpse of the Viet Nam war but they did not become engaged. The ground troops came ashore concurrent with the arrival of the first four of 18 F4 Phantom jets flown by Marine pilots.

Seventy-five U.S. Navy planes from the carriers Ranger and Coral Sea knocked out the Kin Cuong Bridge on North Viet Nam's Route 7, 150 miles south of Hanoi, U.S. officials in Saigon reported.

The Navy planes were over their targets for 30 minutes.

In morning and afternoon runs, U.S. Air Force bombers and fighters ranged up and down Highways 7 and 8, about 100 miles north of the South Vietnamese border. A U.S. spokesman said they sprayed a variety of targets, presumably road convoys.

The 1,400 newly arrived Marines stood by trucks and helicopters on Da Nang beach and watched a Vietnamese ranger company fight in a village against the Viet Cong. There was no noticeable excitement among the Marines.

A U.S. adviser to the rangers said he did not believe the fight had any connection with the landing of the Marines. The clash was in a village long harassed by the guerrillas.

The Marine landing was not affected by the fight.

Speculation in Saigon is that the Marines soon will be sent into action against the Viet Cong. About 3,000 Marines landed at Da Nang in March with the assignment of establishing a static defense of the U.S.-Vietnamese air base.

Some of the new Marines will be flown to Phu Bai airport at Hue, a coastal city about 60 miles northwest of Da Nang.

Brig. Gen. Frederick Karch, commander of the 9th Marine Expeditionary Brigade, said there are indications that the Viet Cong is massing troops for a possible assault on the Da Nang base.

The Marine commander, who landed with the 3,000 Marines in March, said there are about 6,000 Marines now in all of South Viet Nam. Many are scattered around the country with helicopter units.

Karch described the droop-nosed Phantoms as the hottest aircraft in Viet Nam, capable of interception, bombing and close support. The speed of the planes is well over 1,600 miles an hour. They can carry 12,000 pounds of bombs with four sparrow and two sidewinder air-to-air missiles.

Word reached here of the imminent arrival of F-104 Starfighter jet interceptors to lend cover to bombing planes in North Viet Nam.

Convict Stabbed To Death at Penitentiary

CANON CITY (AP)—A Colorado State Penitentiary inmate from Denver was stabbed to death in a cell house corridor Saturday and a fellow inmate was held for questioning.

Warden Harry C. Tinsley said that Windell Leroy Crouse, 37, died in the penitentiary hospital about 10 minutes after the stabbing. He had from 18 to 20 stab wounds in his chest and upper abdomen.

Ralph Hedrick, 24 was held as a suspect. Crouse was serving three consecutive sentences on Denver robbery charges and Hedrick was serving five to 10 years from Denver for robbery.

A prison officer, Ellsworth Boughan, told Tinsley he saw two inmates scuffling on the ground tier of cellhouse No. 6. He summoned the block officer, Noel Quick.

Quick said as he approached Crouse dropped to the floor and Hedrick ducked around a corner. Quick followed and caught him. Tinsley said Hedrick had a superficial cut on the forehead.

Found near the scene was a woodworking tool with a six-inch blade that had been sharpened and rounded to a point. It was covered with blood. There was also a sharpened file with no blood on it.

Crouse served as a clerk in the cell house and Hedrick was also quartered there. The inmates were not working because Saturday is not a work day. Tinsley said the stabbing occurred about 9:50 a.m.

Official Warns Against Raiding Of Some Banks

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—A federal banking official said here the federal government has acted swiftly to stem an increasing number of bank failures caused "by persons bent on sophisticated thievery."

John F. Lee, assistant to the director of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. (FDIC), said that "raiding" had caused the failure of "nearly all" of the banks ordered closed by the federal government since the beginning of last year.

"Failures of this kind need not and should not be tolerated," he said.

Lee said in a speech to the California Bankers Association that seven federally insured banks failed last year, and that five more have gone under since the beginning of this year. The large number of failures has prompted a Senate investigation of some of the banks involved.

In most of these cases, Lee said these banks had been "force-fed" with certificates of deposit from outside normal trade areas by persons who gained control of the institutions in order to extract large profits.

The means of getting these profits have generally been through high-risk, low quality loans, Lee said. "Capital deficiencies have soon occurred, in some instances the deposits have been exposed to potential loss, and the bank has become insolvent."

Lee said that the FDIC has taken several steps to halt such raiding, and that "we have reason to believe the noxious practice has been slowed considerably, if not stopped."

Dist. 12 Seeks $1.85 Million Bond Issue

Officials at Cheyenne Mountain School District 12 this week announced a proposed $1,850,000 bond issue, scheduled to go before the voters in a school board election May 4. If accepted by the district's populace, the bond will be used to finance a number of school building projects in the Cheyenne Mountain-Broadmoor area.

Under the present plan, drawn up by the District 12 Board of Education and a steering and evaluation committee, three schools in that district would be involved in the proposed construction. Plans call for a new junior high school, along with an addition of six classrooms, a library and science room onto the Skyway Elementary School, and the construction of an auditorium plus an addition onto the present gymnasium at Cheyenne Mountain High School.

The study by the school board and committee took 10 months to complete. The steering and evaluation committee is composed of 30 residents and teachers in the district. The joint-study reached the conclusion that "in order to provide the desired educational facilities to maintain the required academic program, this construction program is a necessity."

Cuba May Be Pulled Into Warsaw Pact

MIAMI (UPI) — An anti-Castro organization reported here the Soviet bloc is "considering pulling Cuba into the Warsaw Pact" to reassure premier Fidel Castro of military help in the event of any U.S. attack on the island.

The Citizens' Committee for a Free Cuba quoted Cuban underground sources as saying the continuing U.S. air attacks on Communist North Viet Nam "have caused panic among Castro lieutenants."

These sources, not otherwise identified, estimated that inclusion of Cuba in the Warsaw Pact is the Soviet bloc's equivalent to NATO. Its signatories vow that an attack on one member would be considered an attack on all.

Linda Darnell Dies of Burns in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Linda Darnell, 43, movie, stage and television actress died Saturday of burns suffered Friday in the home of a friend.

Warden Fred Hertwig of Cook County Hospital said Miss Darnell died at 2:25 p.m., CST.

She had been under intensive care in the hospital's million-dollar burn treatment center.

Her burns were suffered in a fire which damaged a townhouse where she was visiting in suburban Glenview early Friday morning.

Jane Curtis, 38, her hostess and former secretary, and Mrs. Curtis' daughter, Patricia 16 were burned less severely and a neighbor was cut trying to reach the actress.

Firemen found Miss Darnell on the living room floor. They said damage, estimated at $4,000 was centered around a sofa in the living room.

Mrs. Curtis said that she, her daughter and Miss Darnell had remained up late in the living room, watching a television presentation of one of the actress old movies, "Star Dust."

She said that Patricia was awakened by smoke, and woke her mother and Miss Darnell. "Intense heat was coming from the living room," Mrs. Curtis said. "Linda told us to grab wet towels, so we grabbed wet towels."

She said smoke was dense and flames drove her and her daughter back from the stairs, and they went to a second-floor window from which the girl jumped, and she was assisted out by firemen.

"I thought she was behind me, but she was not," Mrs. Curtis said. "Linda went into the living room, apparently thinking we had gone downstairs.

Miss Darnell, who was married and divorced three times, leaves an adopted daughter, Charlotte Marley, 17. Besides numerous stage and television roles, she appeared in more than 50 motion pictures.

Satchmo Says He Couldn't See Iron Curtain

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Musician Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong, just back from a tour of Communist - dominated countries, says he couldn't find the Iron Curtain.

"I didn't see no curtain the whole time I was over there," he told newsmen Friday night. "Where do they keep it?"

"Pops, them cats are no different then we are," said the man with the gravelly voice. "And they dig our music — every note. They have more of my records than you cats do."

The trumpet stylist was interviewed at the airport upon his arrival aboard a polar flight after a four-week tour that took him to East Berlin, Prague, Bucharest, Belgrade and Sofia.

When a newsman inquired if Armstrong, 64, would be willing to go to Viet Nam, his wife Lucille volunteered: "They should send him. When they sent him to the Congo, the fighting stopped."

U.S. May Speed Timetable for Astronaut Space Walk

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States may speed up its timetable for the first emergence of an American astronaut from his capsule into the yawning void of space.

A space official said Friday that scientists are considering accelerating experiments leading up to the first U. S. attempt for an astronaut to leave the protection of his spacecraft.

Current plans call for no actual emergence of an American astronaut until next year. The Russians blazed a trail in this area last March 18 when cosmonaut Alexei A. Leonov popped out of his Voshkod 2 spacecraft and did acrobatics on television.

George E. Mueller, associate administrator for manned space flight of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), told a news conference that the space agency is looking into the possibility of accelerating "extravehicular" experiments in the current series of two-man Gemini flights.

But he insisted that no extravehicular activities are being planned for the four-day Gemini flight that is now officially scheduled for July.

Mueller said the first such experiment —decompression of the cabin and opening of the hatches — still is planned for the third Gemini flight, scheduled for this fall.

In response to questions, however, he would not rule out the possibility that a "walk in space" might be tried before next year.

Commenting on the four-day flight, Mueller said scientists were working to push up the launch date. Informed sources at the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston have named June 8 as a tentative date.

New Pediatrics System Started At Ft. Carson

A new system of appointments for Pediatrics Clinic patients will be introduced at the US Army Hosptial at Ft. Carson in mid - April in an effort to cut back the growing demands on the Emergency Room.

Col. Martin A. Pfotenhauer, hospital commander, in a letter to all comunanders, asked cooperation in stressing the fact that the emergency room is for genuine emergencies only.

The number of patients seeking treatment in the Emergency Room during non-duty hours had doubled, he stated. The majority of these patients are dependents. Many find it personally more convenient, for reasons of transportation, job hours or school schedules, to seek treatmetn in the Emergency Room.

By scheduling appointments, doctors hope to avert the bottlenecks created when all patients arrive about the same time.

Col. Pfotenhauer, pointed out that the regular day - time clincis and procedures can be used to greatest advantage during regular hours.

"Maximum use of regular day time clinics will insure the most complete evaluation, treatment and continuity of medical problems," he said.

Real medical emergencies will be treated at any time, he stressed.

Questions and Answers On Alcoholism

Editor's Note: As a public service, the Gazette Telegraph will answer questions on Alcoholism and Problem Drinking in our region. Send all inquiries to this newspaper. Answers will be supplied by G. L. McDougall, Director, Alcoholism Information Center, Out West Building, sponsored by the El Paso County Council on Alcoholism.

Q — My church used to preach total abstinence. Now they seem to be changing their attitude—Why?

A — Perhaps your church has taken the same attitude expressed by Roger Burgess, reporting in "The Methodist Story" on the 1964 General Conference; "The Methodist Church hasn't changed its position. Methodists still stand for abstinence but there have been changes. Concern for the Alcoholic and for all those in trouble because of beverage alcohol is the clear mandate of the Christian Faith." Your spiritual adviser can undoubtedly explain your church's recognition of need for understanding of this fourth major health problem.

Q—I've been an alcoholic for a year. What can I do about it?

A — You can obtain help and arrest this illness as thousands of other active and influential people have through several media of recovery. Contact your family physician, Alcoholics Anonymous, spiritual adviser, state or local agency on alcoholism.

Q — What is being done on a national scale about alcoholism?

A — The Hagen Bill, HR 781, which points up the need for attention to the problems of alcoholism, has been introduced in the House of Representatives, and referred to committee. A congressional hearing on alcoholism could be an important milestone in the conquest of alcoholism. The National Council on Alcoholism is very interested in the development of a federal program on alcoholism like that on any other health problem.

Q — How can I get my husband to understand my drinking problem?

A — Secure professional help in getting the facts and knowledge about the illness. Arrange for a consultaton. The progression of the disease will be fully explained and media of recovery will be made available to you. Further understanding is also available to your husband through an auxillary of A.A. known as Al-Anon for husbands and wives of the illness.

Q— Are there many women in Alcoholics Anonymous?

A — According to the General Service of Alcoholics Anonymous, women constitutes approximately one - fith of the membership.

Q — Who founded Alcoholics Alcoholic.

A. The fellowship of Alcoholics proaching the drinking age Anonymous was founded in Akron, Ohio., in June, 1935, by an ex-stock broker from New York City (Bill W.) and a local surgeon (Dr. Bob S.), both chronic Alcoholic .s

Q — Our young sons are ap- What can we do to discourage them?

A — Acquire modern facts and knowledge about the subject; make these available to your sons with an open mind and discuss frankly "The Choice Is Yours," a phamplet approved by the Secretary of State, Bryon. It is an excellent presentation to youth; many schools have made them available to students. "It's Best to Know," published in illustrated color by the Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Research Foundation of Ontario, is very popular with young adults and is available at your local or state agency on alcohol information.

Colorado River Runoff Will Be Up

DENVER (AP) — The U.S. Bureau of reclamation reported Friday that spring runoff from the Upper Colorado River will reach around 10.8 million-acre-feet.

The bureau said the figure—1.8 million-acre-feet higher than 1964—was the result of heavy snows during late March.

Emotional Stress Appears To Be Factor in Cancer

By PAT McGRADY

It begins to appear that emotional stress is a factor in cancer. This is shown in animal experiments more clearly than in human studies.

Much of what has been reported on emotional aspects of human cancer seems fuzzy and fanciful, particularly to sound psychologists and psychiatrists.

Dr. Daniel Horn, a psychologist and co-author of the classical study which showed the statistical association between cigarette smoking and lung cancer, has stated that, amid the welter of contradiction on the relationship of emotions and cancer, one frequently reported finding is relatively undisputed: the loss of a personal emotional relationship (usually the death of or separation from a loved one) prior to the appearance of cancer symptoms.

Twentieth Century literature includes such nonsense as: "Dull" cancer patients do better than "bright" ones.

Patients in whom the disease does not proceed rapidly tend to be "worthless rascals and totally irresponsible fanatics."

Patients with cancer of the uterine cervix are subject to dislike for sexual intercourse, failure to attain an orgasm, frequent divorces, and a tendency to marry men who drink.

Breast-cancer patients have these characteristics: masochism, inhibited sexuality, inhibited motherhood feelings, inability to deal appropriately with anger, hostility under a facade of pleasantness, unresolve conflicts with mothers, and the use of denial as a psychological defense, usually against guilt.

Men with lung cancer often suffer from serious marital problems, venereal disease, and alcoholism; men with prostatic cancer are tractable, easy to please, unaggressive.

People with skin cancer tend to become depressed easily, one study contends.

ANIMALS SHOW THE WAY

Animals studies seem to carry substantial significance for humans.

Experimental animals can be matched genetically, for age and physical condition. They can share precisely the same environment. They and control animals can be paired or separated into groups with true mathematical randomness. They can be subjected to similar experimental conditions and yield measurable results.

At the University of Illinois Medical School, for example, scientists found that some stresses — surgery or heat (110 degrees F) but not cold (32 degrees F) — increase rats' susceptibility to injected cancer.

The burden of evidence in animal experiments is that stresses do speed the course of cancer, although there is only the most tenuous indication that stress by itself will help initiate cancer.

In Amsterdam, scientists tested the effects of isolation on gregarious mice with a strong tendency toward breast cancer. The results were always the same — the greater the isolation, the earlier and the more frequent the breast cancers.

Of 50 mice crowded happily into a single cage, only 15 developed breast cancer during 17 months of supertogetherness; five or six of every group of ten caged together and almost four of every group of five developed cancer.

That sex and hormones play a role is indicated by the fact that when castrated mice were used, 53 per cent of the isolated and only 11 per cent of the crowded mice showed breast cancer.

Other animal tumors also were stimulated by stresses. Baby mice removed from the nest for three minutes each day for their first 24 days died much more quickly from implanted leukemia than did mice not removed from the nest.

A HAPPY HOME HELPS

In other experiments, mice subjected to the trauma of a surgical operation and the application of chemicals which cause cancer, showed substantially more and earlier cancers than mice given the carcinogens only.

Soviet scientists in Kiev, usi Pavolovian techniques, trained mice to come for food at the sound of a bell and then made the mice neurotic by shocking instead of feeding them; neurotic mice developed breast cancer at eight months instead of at ten months, as nonneurotic animals did.

Many authorities feel that emotions well may be related to cancer; but they deplore most of the present-day clinical approaches to the problem — approaches which are unscientific or pseudoscientific. One of the exponents of the scientific approach is Dr. Eugene Pendergrass of the University of Pennsylvania, former president of the American Cancer Society. He has said:

"I personally have observed cancer patients who had undergone successful treatment and were living and well for years. Then an emotional stress such such as the death of a son in battle, the infidelity of a daughter-in-law or the burden of long employment seems to have been the precipitating factor in reactivating the disease which resulted in death.

"The opposite may obtain. I have patients with extensive malignant disease spread throughout the body who are living with their disease and living in comfort. The disease has been controlled by radiation, surgery, hormones and supportive care. These patients live in happy homes.

"Even if psychological factors have no influence on the course of the disease, they have a great deal to do with the well-being of the patient. We as doctors must begin to emphasize treatment of the patient as a whole, as well as the disease."

Legislators May Adjourn for Easter

DENVER (AP) —Leaders of the state House of Representatives have virtually abandoned earlier hopes of adjourning in a week, just before Easter.

Speaker Allen Dines, D Denver, said Friday that the House will recess at noon Friday to permit members to spend the Easter weekend at home.

Rep. Forrest Burns, D-Lamar, the majority leader, complained that the Senate had mustered enough votes for adjournment for the weekend after planning to work. He said, "I hope they would some day muster enough votes to pass some bills so we can adjourn."

EDUCATIONAL AID — Bishop David Maloney of the Denver and Colorado Springs Archdiocese accepts a check for $600 from Clarence Shearer, president of the Serra Club, at the recent communion breakfast and Mass held here by Catholic men at the Broadmoor Hotel. The money will be used by the Diocese to aid in the education of young men for the priesthood. Observing the presentation is Joe Reich, center, wearing the regalia of the Knight of St. Gregory.

Moscow Says African Students Are Lying

MOSCOW (AP) — A Moscow newspaper published today the first Soviet reply to Western reports of racial discrimination against African students here. It said they were lies.

The youth paper Komsomolskaya Pravda accused the American press of slandering the Soviet Union.

The article referred to complaints of racial discrimination and Communist indoctrination voiced by 29 Kenyan students who returned home from a school in Baku Sunday.

LONDON (AP) Field Marshal Sir Richard Hull, who succeeds Lord Mountbatten as chief of the defense staff in July, will visit British service posts in Malta, Cyprus, Bahrain, Aden, Singapore, Malaysia, Borneo and Hong Kong May 10-June 2, the Defense Ministry announced.

Precludes That of State Colorado College History

Nearly 120 courses will be offered by the Colorado College Summer session. The eight-week session gets underway June 14.

The courses are listed in the 40-page summer session catalog mailed to about 12,000 persons, colleges and schools throughout the nation.

Summer Session Director Fred A. Sondermann said 19 separate departments of the college will offer 116 courses on both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Courses will be offered by the department of art, business administration, dance, drama, economics, education, English, French, general studies, geology, German, history, music, political science, psychology, radio, Russian, sociology and Spanish.

The catalog, which features a dozen photographs of the campus and the Pikes Peak region, also lists a faculty of 58.

Nineteen members of the summer session faculty will be visiting professors from institutions throughout the United States.

Copies of the new catalog may be obtained by writing the summer session office or by telephoning the office.

HOW MUCH IS A HEARING AID WORTH?

A plain bar of iron is worth $5.00. This same bar, when made into horseshoes is worth $10.50. If made into needles, it is worth $4,285.00. If turned into balance wheels for watches it becomes worth $250,000. If used to make a tiny hearing aid part that helps restore hearing to the deafened—it is priceless.

If you have a hearing loss why wait any longer? Come in or call for a home appointment, today, for a no cost hearing evaluation and consultation.

I Remember

By CHARLES S. DUDLEY

I wrote that I wished I could remember what deputy sheriff it was who lassoed the rattlesnake in the fireplace, nearly caught the bear in the a tree on Colorado Avenue and who was so handy with other animals.

C. S. DUDLEY

By the process of elimination I concluded it may have been Ivor Remington, now a rancher in the Castle Rock area.

Well, it wasn't Remington. He read that column and has written me:

"I believe I know who it was. I believe it was a fellow by the name of Claude Williams, who was a special deputy under Berkley. Williams followed the profession of sign painting, but liked police work and had this special commission out of the sheriff's office. I wouldn't know where he is now."

Here is something more that Remingtong writes me which is interesting.

"I had an experience one time here on the ranch with a mother coyote that I will tell you. I was riding horseback in my south pasture and was attracted by an unusual cry near the top of Lincoln Mountain. The scrub oaks are pretty thick near the top, so I tied my horse and hiked up to the top. Walking along slowly I heard a noise behind and looking back I found a coyote following me. Picking up a rock I turned and followed the coyote whose appearance told me she was nursing young. She showed me that I was no match afoot so I soon gave up and started walking ahead again and to my surprise she started following again. I did this a few times and then made up my mind to keep following, which she was quite willing for me to do. I followed her perhaps a quarter of a mile on top of that mountain when she turned abruptly at a huge rock at the end of the trail. I kept going however to the rock and as I turned I saw she was nowhere to be found. I stood there completely puzzled for a few minutes at what had taken place when suddenly it dawned on me that she had ditched me and had led me away from her young.

"P. S. — I almost forgot to tell you the rest of the story. When I finally caught up with the noise I had first heard I found it was a young racoon, almost starved out. I suppose his mother had been killed. I took that little racoon home and it became a wonderful pet for the whole family for a long time."

Remington sent me a picture of the coon on a stepladder.

Evangelicals Plan Second Sunrise Service

The second annual Easter Sunrise Service sponsored by the Colorado Springs Association of Evangelicals will be 6:30 a.m. in Memorial Park Stadium, Hancock and Pikes Peak Aves.

The Rev. Donald Larson of Denver, regional director of the National Association of Evangelicals, will deliver the sermon.

Plans for this service are under the direction of the Rev. John Hedlund, pastor of Evangelical Free Church, and Rev. Vernon Story, pastor of Nob Hill Pilgrim Holiness Church.

Special music for the service will be presented by a united choir, composed of members from participating Evangelical churches.

Director of the choir is Cecil Kinser, director of Pikes Peak Youth for Christ.

If weather is inclement, services will be in the First Friends Church, Pikes Peak and Circle Drive.

International Conference Set at AFA

The U.S., Netherlands, France, Switzerland, Hungary, the Unted Kingdom, Australia and Canada will send leading experts in the fields of mathematical programming and control theory to the First International Conference of Programming and Control April 15 and 16 at the Air Force Academy.

The conference is jointly sponsored by the University of California and the Air Force — including the Air Force Office of Scientific Research and the Academy based Frank J. Seiler Research Laboratory, both components of the Office of Aerospace Research.

Major aim of the conference is to stimulate a wider use of mathematical programming techniques in control system design and optimization by providing a forum for presentation of original and expository papers.

Papers will deal with applications of linear, nonlinear, stochastic, integer, and dynamic programming to various types of control problems.

Such a conference will also provide a meeting ground for exchange of ideas and know-how between the two disciplines of mathematical programming and control theory.

Formal sessions will be supplemented by panel discussions devoted to open problems and new areas in need of exploration.

Asian Nations Not Agreed on Viet Action

By ROBERT LIU

TOKYO (AP) — How do Asian nations view U.S. policy in Viet Nam? What do they think should be done to achieve peace?

The Associated Press completed a survey of eight nations just before President Johnson's speech offering to hold "unconditional 'discussions'" to return peace to Viet Nam.

—Neutralist India advocated an immediate cessation of "provocative actions" by all sides in Viet Nam and another international conference to settle the conflict. Indonesia said the Vietnamese should be allowed to settle their own problems.

The other countries surveyed — Japan, Malaysia, Nationalist China, the Philippines, South Korea and Thailand — were wary about another Geneva-type conference. But most said they would attend if all Communist infiltrators are first withdrawn from South Viet Nam.

—Most of the nations believe there is nothing to prevent North Viet Nam and Communist China from breaking agreements reached at another international conference.

—India and Indonesia oppose continued U.S. retaliatory airstrikes against North Viet Nam. The other nations support the raids, but in varying degrees.

—Japan, Malaysia, Nationalist China, the Philippines, South Korea and Thailand believe the United States should remain in South Viet Nam until peace and security are restored. Many Indians believe the United States already has lost and should pull out as soon as possible to cut its losses.

—All the nations believe the political turmoil in South Viet Nam has weakened U.S. plans.

Nationalist China maintains Peking is the cause of the troubles in Viet Nam. It claims the best way to end the conflict would be for the Nationalists to invade the Chinese mainland.

The United States long has denied support for any Nationalist invasion because of the probability of Soviet intervention and a nuclear war.

The Nationalists, although supporting airstrikes against strategic North Vietnamese targets, believe the raids will prolong the war in Viet Nam, not end it.

India advocates an end to hostilities and another international conference fearing the U.S. raids into North Viet Nam will escalate the conflict until it engulfs all of Southeast Asia and drags in other nations, including India.

Indonesia, whose relations with the United States have grown increasingly bad, claims U.S. attacks have resulted in "a senseless killing of innocent civilians."

An Indonesian spokesman said some American officials already have intimated that the United States is involved in a losing war.

Japan, the Philippines, South Korea, Thailand and Malaysia all believe the United States should stand fast on its Viet Nam policy. But opinions differ regarding the extent of U.S. raids.

Japanese, South Korean and Malaysian officials are hopeful the United States will not find it necessary to continue or intensify the attacks. The Philippines believe the attacks should be intensified, and Thailand is firmly behind U.S. action in Viet Nam.

Thai Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman castigates advocates of U.S. withdrawal from South Viet Nam as persons unable "to see beyond their own noses."

Arguing for intensified air strikes, Philippine Foreign Secretary Mauro Mendez said: "If we take into consideration that the Vet Cong are directed by Hanoi, an attack on the source of power would greatly affect, if not demoralize, the Communist infiltrators in the South."

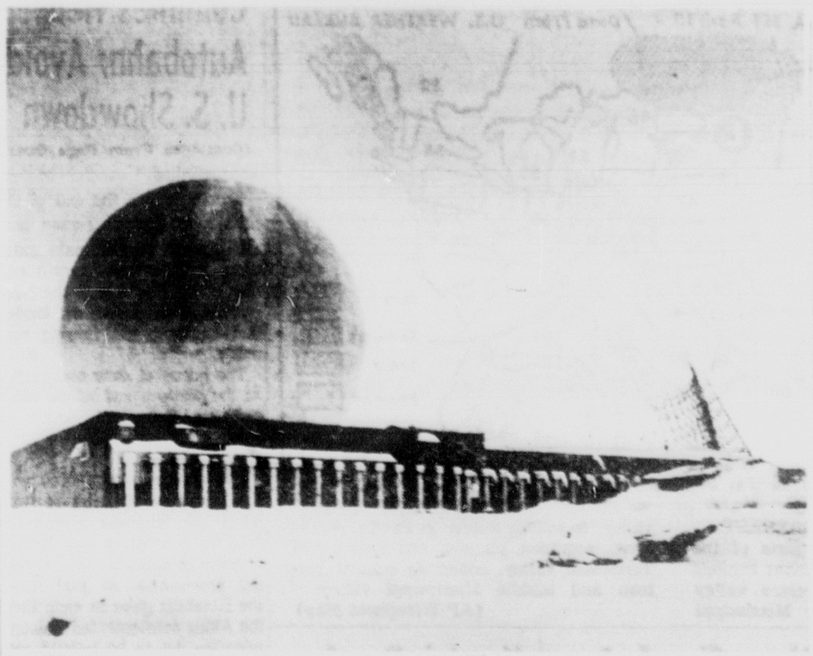
Malaysia feels it would be threatened if the Communists won in Viet Nam and supports the U.S. presence there.

REA Plans Three Meetings This Week

The Retired Enlisted Association will have a late luncheon at the Air Force Academy today from 2-4 p.m., to get acquainted with new members.

The regular monthly meeting will be 7:30 p.m. Friday in Carpeters Hall, 9 E. Costilla St.

There will be a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Fitzsimons Hospital in Denver. This will be to form a new chapter in the Denver area. Members of the Colorado Springs chapter are invited and asked to contact George Skonce, before 6 p.m. Saturday.



NEW RADAR INSTALLATION — The new tracking radar installation which will be constructed at the Clear, Alaska Missile Early Warning Site will be similar to the Thule, Greenland facility shown above.

* * * * * *

ADC Will Construct a New Alaska Radar Unit

Construction of a new tracking radar installation will begin in the spring at the Air Defense Command's Ballistic Missile Early Warning System Site at Clear, Alaska.

The Clear MEWS site is one of three giant radar facilities that make up the Ballistic Missile Early Warning System. The other two are located at Thule, Greenland, and Clear. The BMEW System is under the operational control of the 9th Aerospace Defense Division's 71st Surveillance Wing headquartered in Colorado Springs.

Primary use for the new tracking radar is as a supplement to the three giant fixed detection radars at Clear which are now fully operational. The Clear site is currently the only BMEWS installation without a tracking radar.

Space experts at the 9th Aerospace Defense Division say that the new radar will also be capable of providing a great deal of valuable data to the Air Force SPACETRACK system. The Clear tracker will be able to provide SPACETRACK, the system responsible for maintaining an up-to-date catalogue on all man-made objects in space, with precise tracking data on most of the more than 550 satellites now in orbit around the earth.

Construction and testing of the new radar will require about a year. The tracker should be fully operational sometime next summer.

Clear was the second Ballistic Missile Early Warning System facility to become operational and has been an integral part of the system since June 1961.

The purpose of BMEWS is to provide maximum warning time to the North American Air Defense Command in the event of a surprise missile attack launched against the North American Continent or the United Kingdom.

In February 1856, sharks were frozen to death in Charlotte Harbor, Florida, the first instance ever known. This was the Arctic winter in which Long Island Sound froze over.

CHANGE OF VENUE

FONTANA, Calif. (AP) — Defendant Walter Treamer, 33, of Fontana waited until a jury had been empaneled in justice court here and then blurted out to Judge M.E. Milleman, "I have the measles, your honor." The panel was quickly dismissed and court was moved to a nearby parking lot where, from a distance, the defendant changed his plea from innocent to guilty to a charge of battery. He was fined $110 and given a suspended 30-day sentence.

Florence High School Athletes to Be Feted

Florence High School athletes will be feted at a banquet Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria, by the Huskie Booster Club.

Highlight of the evening will be a visit by Turk Lown, White Sox pitcher, guest speaker.

The right handed pitcher started with the White Sox in 1958 and he has gone to the mound 191 times. Lown, now 37, ranks among the game's great relief pitchers — athletes noted for nerves of steel and the ability to get the ball over the plate. This will be his 18th season in baseball and his 12th in the majors.

He will come to Florence from Pueblo, his winter home.

CLEAN BREAK

OXFORD, Fla. (AP) — Harris Rabun, 22, slipped off the roof of his house here and landed in the family washing machine, which was in operation. He suffered a broken ankle.

Dist. 12 Seeks $1.85 Million Bond Issue

tion in District 12 were available, but Superintendent William E. Callahan Jr. placed it at between 8,500 and 10,000. There are approximately 2,000 registered voters in the area, which encompassed 58 square miles in the foothills of the Rampart Range. It stretches from Pikes Peak to the west, south to Cheyenne Mountain, east to Colorado Highway 115, and north throughout the Broadmoor area. A majority of votes is needed to either carry or defeat the bond issue.

Registration for the May 4 bond election will be held open until April 19 at the County Clerk's office. Persons who were registered for the November, 1964 presidential election will automatically be registered for the upcoming polling.

Preliminary plans on the three construction projects have already been drawn up by three local architectural firms.

Floor plans for the two additions onto the high school at 1200 Cresta Rd., were drawn by Lusk and Wallace, architects. The three-year-old school, which at present has a gymnasium but no auditorium, will use the 4,000 square-foot addition onto the gym for physical education expansion. The area will also provide room for 1,500 more spectators at Cheyenne High sporting events. The new auditorium will be used for both academic and extra-curricular activities. It will provide, for the first time, a place for school assemblies, plays, musical productions and other indoor gatherings related to school events.

Junior high school architectural plans are being handled by Higginbotham, Nakata and Muir, a local firm. This phase of the three-part plan will include the complete demolition of the present building, at 1200 Cheyenne Blvd., with the exception of six classrooms and a gymnasium, which were added to the 55-year-old structure in 1959. The new school will then be built from scratch, with enough room to take care of school children in grades seven, eight and nine.

Skyway Elementary's additional classrooms and other student areas are being designed by Pierceall and TenEyck, architects. The additions will total 11,308 square feet, including the six classrooms, a resource center and a combined science and art room. The addition will be located at the north end of the building, which stands at 1100 Mercury Dr.

With the nearly $2 million needed for the huge construction task, the Cheyenne School system will be able to operate under a 6-3-3 system, instead of its present 6-2-4 breakdown of grades. This means that, under the proposed system, Skyway would take care of grades one through 6, with the new junior high school housing grades seven, eight and nine. Cheyenne Mountain High would thus be used for the two top threegrades instead of its present four. This simply means, according to Callahan, that the school would be able to decrease its number of students in each class, which have soared far beyond what the Board had expected in a three-year period.

Special meetings, in conjunction with the schools' PTA groups, have been scheduled to include question and answer periods on the proposed bond issue. The meeting schedule is: April 21 —Quarterback Club; April 22 — Broadmoor Elementary School; April 26 — Skyway Elementary School; April 27— Canon Elementary School; and April 28 — Junior and Senior High Schools.

According to Callahan, a brochure, which contains details of the entire program, will be mailed to all residents in the District 12 area in the near future.

Callahan told the Gazette Telegraph, upon announcing the bond issue, that the Board feels the amount of money asked for is "not extravagant." He further stated that "the Board of Directors has made a sincere and conscientious effort to plan for the needs of the district according to the wishes of the majority of people."

Prof Terms Sino-Soviet Bounday Dispute Serious

The Sino - Soviet boundary dispute is still serious, a political scientist said Saturday during a session of the International Studies Association conference on "Crises and Concepts in International Affairs."

Dr. Robert A. Scalapino, chairman of the Department of Political Science of the University of California at Berkeley, said the concept is a basic issue between Russia and China.

"Russia places a major emphasis upon the natural development of the world, assuming that 'natural - bourgeois' states, aided in their programs, will come to socialism as the superior system over a period of time," Scalapino said during a panel discussion presentation at the Broadmoor Hotel.

Other panelists were Yung-Huan Jo, Colorado State University; Edwin C. Hoyt, University of New Mexico; and Elijah Ben-Zion Kaminsky, Arizona State University. Charles Micaud of the University of Denver presided during the 2½-hour discussion on "The Sino-Soviet Conflict: A Case Study in International Tension."

Vice President Hubert Humphrey was invited to the two-day meeting, but said he could not attend.

Scalapino said three issues appear to be critical in discussion of the Sino - Soviet quarrel, the first involving the development over the fundamental nature of international communist organization.

"No generation of communists, it should be noted, has ever been more skilled in the techniques of mass mobilization than the present one, Scalapino said.

He emphasized that new principles of international communist organization have been grounded on the doctrine of the inviolate sovereignty of each communist party and state.

"The new communist order provides for the full equality and autonomy of each party, irrespective of its size, power and degree of responsibility. Decision - making in this new order is based upon discussion, compromise, consensus and unanimity," Scalapino remarked.

Scalapino said a second and interrelated issue between Moscow and Peking involves the question of what are the appropriate obligations with respect to economic, politcal and military relations amoung communists?

"In concrete terms, how should one translate 'proletariat internationalism' into meaningful practice?" he asked.

"At present, Soviet resources must be distributed over four critical areas if the Russians are to preserve and advance their world role.

"First, military parity with the United States must be maintained at all costs. Second, internal consumer demands must be recognized, and Soviet economic development, both in industry and agriculture, must be accelerated. Third, a more extensive program of economic aid and technical assistance to the nonaligned world must be undertaken. Finally, aid and protection must be advanced to the communist bloc states," Dr. Scalapino said.

He added that the Soviet Union stresses the thesis that Russia serves as an umbrella for teh entire socialite world and that unless the unbrella mains sturdy, all of the elements under it will suffer.

"Peaceful competition to the Russians means the use of all forms of economic, political and 'national liberation' techniques, but the avoidance of nuclear war, and the final reliance upon the growth of total Soviet power," he said.

"Communist China cannot conceive of effective nation-to-nation competition with the United States in the foreseeable future. She advances an alternative strategy — unfolding the world revolution and thereby dispersing American power," the political scientist said.

He added that the pure nationalist and pure ideological questions dividing the Soviet Union and Communist China are secondary.

"That does not imply that such issues are trival and unimportant. The quarrel over boundary questions is vedy serious at present," Scalapino said.

"In its broadest dimensions the struggle between the Soviet Union and the People't Republic partakes of most of the same ingredients as compose disputes among and between non-communist states."

"Issues of national interest and soverign rights, betraying the powerful force of nationalism in our times, project themselves forcefully into all efforts to create meaningful organizations."

"Meanwhile, the diffusion of military and political power in the world continues, adding new centrifugal elements to the contemporary political scene," Scalapino summarized.

Eureka had .53 inches. Saturday was the 13th consecutive day of rain for normally dry California. Five inches of new snow brought the total to 37 inches at Mount Wilson, just east of Los Angeles. Just west of Reno, Nev., Blue Canyon, Calif. had two more inches of snow for a total of 35 inches.

At Flagstaff, in northern Arizona, squalls accompanied the snow. Flagstaff measured seven inches of new snow in a few hours. Motorists were warned that heavy snow in Utah, northern Arizona and eastern Nevada would hinder driving. Severe thunderstorm warnings were in effect for northwestern and west central Missouri and parts of eastern Kansas.

It was dry in the eastern states and skies were partly sunny in most areas.

One Injured in Four Car Crash

A four-car accident Saturday at the 8th Street Drive-In resulted in injuries to one person, the State Patrol reported.

Roma S. Loehmer, 21, 27 N. Union St., suffered a severe laceration on the right side of her forehead running from her hairline to her right eyebrow. She was taken to Ft. Carson Hospital by E & E Ambulance.

The accident occurred at 7:15 p.m. According to Patrolman James Mathis, the accident was a chian - reaction collision.

Larry L. King, 20, of 916 Prospect St., was headed south and stopped for traffic. David L. Fintel, 24, Air Force Academy, also was headed south and stopped for the King vehicle. Fred P. Loehmer, 26, Ft. Carson, stopped for the Fintel vehicle, and at this point a car driven by Agustin D. Solano, 27, 1208 W. Colorado Ave., ran into the back of the Loehmer car.

The Loehmer car then ran into the rear of the Fintel vehicle, causing that car to collide with the rear of the King car.

The Solano car, a 1958 model, had $400 damage. The Loehmer vehicle had $500 damage, while the Fintel car had $150 damage and the King car had $60 damage, according to Patrolman Mathis.

Shortly before the end of the maneuvers, East German border guards on the main autobahn and on secondary roads connecting Berlin with the West stopped their slowdown tactics and traffic began flowing normally.

The queue of cars and trucks at the western end of the autobahn at Helmstedt, which at times was nearly 10 miles long, shrank rapidly.

The autobahn contention was the first since the fall of 1963, when the Russians repeatedly held up U.S. Army and British convoys in a dispute over checking procedures. At that time, the Russians gave in each time the Allies demonstrated a determination not to be intimidated.

Pearson's Cabinet Survives in Canada

OTTAWA (AP) — Four opposition parties joined forces in a formal confidence test of Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's minority Liberal government, but failed by 13 votes.

Pearson's government survived the 106-93 vote Friday night, largely because 39 opposition members were absent. A defeat of the government would have required dissolving of Parliament and new elections. Many of the absentees were said to oppose a general election at this time.

Soviets Hint Steps To End Viet War

Chinese.

This sort of Russian thinking is being outlined in informal contacts on a variety of levels among diplomats, politicians and newsmen.

It appears to fit into information reaching key Western governments through the official network of communication with Moscow. A highly placed Soviet diplomat discussing Viet Nam recently with a British colleague remarked in Moscow:

"When fire breaks out firemen don't argue about their duties."

In London Russians have been seeking out British acquaintances to amplify their ideas. Nobody familiar with Soviet methods of communication believes all this to be accidental.

One Soviet informant related details of the episode in which Red China supposedly blocked Soviet plans to send massive military aid to North Viet Nam. Despite Peking denials of the affair, the source insisted this version is accurate.

The story he told:

Premier Alexei N. Kosygin visited Hanoi Feb. 6-10 and, among other things, arranged for the supply of new, modern antiaircraft defense weapons — including ground-to-air missiles and aircraft which would have required the presence of Russian advisers, trainers and technicians.

Later in Peking he advised Chinese leaders of the arrangements made in Hanoi and asked for rights of transit across Chinese territory for the Soviet equipment.

Kosygin returned to Moscow Feb. 14. Orders went out to assemble the promised equipment and specialist crews.

Around the end of February China still had not granted the necessary overflying rights. Reminders went to Peking, without response.

By about mid-March the North Vietnamese responded in a way that amounted—the informant asserts—to a virtual repudiation of the original agreement.

Hanoi's reply said sophisticated weapons no longer were needed. Russia could help best by sending along medical supplies and weapons, presumably small arms, that were easy to use. Soviet specialists were not wanted.

Last week there were some reports from Moscow that the Chinese have withdrawn obstacles to passage of Soviet arms shipments to Hanoi. It still has not been disclosed whether Hanoi is maintaining a veto on the presence of Russian specialists in North Viet Nam.

Three Arrested In Venezuela as Red Conspirators

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)— Interior Minister Gonzalo Barrios announced here the arrest of three foreign messengers, two of them women, carrying $330,000 from Italian Communists. He told a news conference the money was to be handed to Venezuelan Communists to finance guerrilla operations.

The first agent was identified as Clara Varetic de Padilla, a woman of Yugoslav-Argentine parentage who was arrested at the airport.

The second was Alejandro Beltramini, said to be a Communist member of the Milan City Council.

The third was a Spanish woman, Josefa Ventosa Jimenez, who lives in Italy.

Union Printers Again Request Shopping Center

City Planning Commissioners Thursday will again consider the Union Printers Home's request for a zone change to permit construction of a regional shopping center.

Requested is a change from single family residential zoning to PBC-3 (planned business center) on 43.5 acres bounded by Airport Road, Garo Avenue, Barnes Avenue (not yet a public road) and Pikes Peak Avenue.

Planners turned down the union's request March 11, saying a complete development plan was necessary for the 280 acres owned by the International Typographical Union in the area.

A sketch presented by the union at that meeting showed a 510,000 - square - foot regional shopping center. One store was labeled J. C. Penny" and another "Denver Dry Goods Co."

Another item on the agenda is annexation of 163 acres southeast of Templeton Gap Road and Academy Boulevard, requested by Dr. and Mrs. Paul DuBois. This would be called Palmer Park Addition No. 4.

Real Eastate Management Corp. has requested an edit of a preliminary sketch and land use plan for a proposed 800-acre development northeast of Templeton Gap Road and Academy Boulevard.

The same corporation has requested annexation of 62 acres southeast of Academy and Meadowland Boulevards.

In the same area, A. J. Lanza and Ray Frost have asked planners to change 3.2 acres northeast of Templeton Gap Road and Meadowland Boulevard from multi-family residential to PBC-1, a neighborhood shopping center.

Mrs. Mildred Baker requests annexation of 14.5 acres east of North Circle Drive and Paseo Road.

Eugene Kahn has requested annexation of about two acres northeast of North Circle Drive and Bijou Street.

Glen V. Smith has requested annexation of 1.1 acres northeast of West Platte Avenue and 15th Street. There are two other requests for small annexations.

High School Seniors to Be In CC Program

Two high school seniors have been selected to take part in a new independent studies program which gets under way at Colorado College in September.

The program for highly talented high school graduates is supported by a $75,000 grant from the Ford Foundation.

The two Colorado Springs residents are Miss Susan Elizabeth McMillin, a senior at Palmer High School, and George H. Singer, a senior at Cheyenne Mountain High School.

They are among 25 specially selected students who will spend four years at Colorado College studying under the guidance of six tutors. Throughout their college careers there will be no required courses, no credits and no grades.

Prof. J. Douglas Mertz, director of the program, in announcing the students selected, said 60 per cent are from Colorado.

Miss McMillin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shelly S. McMillin of 3441 West Colorado Ave. She has been doing research on deoxyribonucleic acid.

At Palmer High School she is a member of the National Honor Society, Future Scientists of America, the Pep Club, Terror Tribe, and Latin Club.

Singer is the son of Sheldon C. Singer, former general manager of radio station KVOR. He was a member of his high school's Honor Society for three years and last year won the English department award.

Captain of the freshman football team, Singer has been president of the high school debate club and president of his class last year.

PORT SIMPSON, B.C. (AP) — Charlie Sankey says he's "a real outdoorsman."

That's probably what saved him when the fishing boat Topaz struck a log and sank Tuesday night.

Sankey, 32, swam about a mile to an island, built a raft, then drifted six miles to another island. He walked 11 miles across that island, found a boat and rowed 14 miles across open sea to this Indian village 15 miles north of Prince Rupert.

The body of one of Sankey's companions was found Friday. A third man still is missing.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D., Ph.D.

Clarence may seem as out-of-date as the dode bird to many of you brezy young people, but there are millions of stodgy, earnest men (and women) who are so habituated to their psychological blindness, that a personal compliment seems shockiggly forward or even "fresh." But they can alter their personality rather quickly.

CASE V-458: Clarence G., aged 28, was the introvertive engineer who rated an "F" on his first date with Margy.

For Clarence spent the entire evening telling Margy how to build bridges!

She deserved an "A," however, for she gave him rapt attention and thus made him feel she was a smart girl.

Girls, the best of men are about 80 per cent self-centered, anyway, but you deserve at least 20 per cent of their attention.

So I urged Clarence to join my "Compliment Club" wherein you are to pay three sincere compliments per day for 30 consecutive days.

This is quite a strain on shy, timid or self-controled introverts for they haven't developed the habit of turning their attention outward on other people.

Thus, they haven't noticed the many virtues and talents of their companions.

So an introvert like Clarence must deliberately teach himself the wise habit of ferreting out good points about his associates.

And this is just as much a habit as brushing your teeth, for you must diligently train yourself to do so, or you'll lapse back into your stodgy, introvertive self.

"What can I praise her for?" Clarence began.

"Well," I replied, "how about her teeth? Or dimples, if any? Or hair or artistic fingers, shapely ankles, pretty frock, etc.?"

He nodded grateful assent, as if he were making a unique world discovery.

For introverts are psychologically blind! They tend to live inside their own skulls.

And introverts are simply people whose surroundings have not forced them to pay attention to human beings.

That means their daily work probably involved bookkeeping or accounting, chemistry, carpentry, farming, engineering, etc., where they dealt with inanimate objects.

Over the years, therefore they have learned to live in their own mental world while working, relatively detached from other human begins.

They often have what I term a "one-track" mind.

They can't stretch their imginations enough to assure they are perched on a tree looking back down at themselves here on earth and thus observing their own behavior.

Well, Clarence really tried to apply the "Compliment Club" idea.

Next day he told me he had paid Margy ONE compliment on their date the preceeding evening.

"What was it?" I asked.

"Well," he said, "I told her the fabric in her dress was of very good quality."

Although I praised him for this starter, I asked why he hadn't personalized his compliment by telling her how pretty she looked in the dress.

"But, Dr. Crane," he protested, "that would be getting too personal on short notice, wouldn't it?"

However, I reassured him that a breezy, extrovertive salesman would have been far more personal than that even on the very first date, which is why women have a weakness for salesmen.

For women want words! And salesmen are skillful therewith!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Parents Perish As House Burns

PRICE, Utah (AP) — A young father and mother were trapped and killed in their burning house in east-central Utah Friday. But their 15-year-old niece escaped with the couple's one-year-old son.

Killed were George Kalatzes, about 26 and his wife, Sandy 24.

Their niece, Heleena Tiantes, 15, smelled smoke about 5 a.m. She grabbed the baby, Gusty, and ran to a neighbor about 50 yards away. But the telephone lines had been damaged by the flames.

William Barney, his wife, Carolyn, and Heleena then drove four miles into Price to give the alarm.

The blaze was believed to have started at 4:45 a.m. from a faulty coal furnace which had been smoking earlier.

Fire fighting units from Price and Carbon County reached the scene about 5:30 a.m. but the house already was three-fourths destroyed.

Your Outdoors

By MARY SHIRER

For the Pikes Peak Group of the Colorado Mountain Club

A breath of Springtime floats through the air after winter's cold blasts. Spring, the season that is written up more than any other season is officially here.

Poems, songs, compositions and articles have been written about spring and its beauty.

At this time of the year, we think of new things: in the home, new clothes and new paint on the house.

We put winter away and investigate woods and gardens.

We get thrilled over the appearance of crocuses, and pasque flowers in the mountains.

We see pussy willows along the streams and blue birds and other birds come along. Now the greens are called forth and buds begin to swell and open a tiny bit. The pastures and fields are showing green and the whole world has taken on a newness.

The atmosphere is filled with new life. Clouds lift, spreading white and fleecy. Easter songs take on a noble note and the force of spring seems to raise spirits.

Spring is strong, quickening the soil to bring forth new life. All nature seems bound with new life, bringing the very first wildflowers and freshness to the canons and streams.

The breath of sprintime steals upon the twilight hour and on through the gathering darkness. The morning breaks into a lovely spring day. We have been waiting for this to arrive and suddenly it breaks forth into a new glory. The meadowlarks are pouring forth their liquid notes, the flickers and woodpeckers are drumming on tin roofs and all the spring birds come forth in our yards and we see their beautiful coats, flashing through the air. Spring is laden with glories which make people seek the outdoors. All streams wake up as well as early wild flowers. We view nature and notice how mighty things grow from small beginnings. We welcome spring for there is no season which calls us outdoors so much of the time and with so much interest.

Radio Trouble Foils Rocket Experiment

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — An Air Force rocket probe that carried a cargo of simulated human tissues into the heart of the Van Allen radiation belt apparently failed to produce usable data because of radio trouble.

A Blue Scout rocket propelled the 30-pound probe 15,800 miles high Friday, but the Air Force reported that radio signals became sporadic after only 11 minutes of the 3-hour, 15-minute outward journey.

Pointy Bayonets to Go Into the Air May 8

Ft. Carson's Drill Team will toss pointy bayonets on burnished rifles to observeArmed Forces Day May 8.

Seventeen soldiers, working closely, make up the seasoned team. The team is part of the 54-man Honor Guard — the elite of units represented at Ft. Carson.

The Honor Guard will be one of four companies of Army troopers to march down Tejon Street, in the parade which begins at 9:30 a.m.

In addition the 5th Infantry Division (Mech.) Band will provide cadence music for the 500-man Army contingent.

"Queen Anne" is the general name for this complex routine by the team. The throwing of rifled - bayonets back and forth is just one of the many spontaneous maneuvers in the 20-minute routine.

Perfection is what drill-master S. Sgt. Lacy A. Jones strives for, and he gets it. Twenty hours a week of hard practice has made this team comparable to the best in the Army.

According to 1st Lt. Harold K. Taylor, Honor Guard commander, Ft. Carson Drill Team uses some of the routines carried-out by the world famous Third Regiment "Old Guard" drill Team plus ideas from Sgt. Lacy. "Although the Honor Guard and Drill Team was formed last October, we are working for the day when we are top's in the Army," said Lt. Taylor.

The Ft. Carson Honor Guard and Drill Team are becoming widely known in the Pikes Peak region. They have appeared in ceremonies at Ft. Carson and most recently in a retirement salute to NORAD Air Force Gen. John K. Gerhart. In addition their expert drill display has won them commendations in parades from Pueblo to Denver.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

For Watson, it was a painful duty.

"I'm the manager of the office where your sister works," he began. "For the benefit of all concerned, I wish you would convince her to resign."

"Why?" demanded the other man. "Has she done something wrong?"

"I'm afraid so," replied Watson. "She has been stealing from the cash box."

As it turned out, the girl had done no such thing. In short order, Watson found himself facing a lawsuit for defamation of character.

But the court held him not liable, ruling that his mistaken statement was "privileged" by the circumstances. The court pointed out that Watson had had good grounds for believing the girl guilty, and had spoken to her brother with decent purpose.

Thus, in another case, a man was excused for wrongly blaming a schoolboy for indecent conduct during recess. His statement, made privately to the principal, was based on seemingly reliable information from his own daughter.

But, to be privileged, the statement must be made in the line of duty. It must be one which the speaker has a legitimate interest in making, and the hearer a legitimate interest in hearing.

A court found no such interest, under the following circumstances:

A meddlesome woman heard a report, later proved false, that a certain prospective bridegroom was an ex-convict. Although she was not a relative of the bride, or even a close friend, the woman took it upon herself to pass along this tidbit.

Sued later for defamation, she was held liable for having been too quick to soil an innocent man's good name. The court saw no reason to wrap the mantle of privilege around something so close to plain and simple gossip.

Liberal Legislator Gets Knocked Out

LONDON (AP) — Liberal party legislator Eric Lubbock changed from tuxedo to boxing trunks Friday night and got knocked out of the ring for his trouble.

It happened during a local boxing club tournament at Orpington. Lubbock's parliamentary district. Lubbock, who is president of the club, has volunteered to help raise club funds.

The 36-year-old Lubbock had decorator Bobby Goodall, 17, as his opponent.

In the first two-minute round, Goodall knocked Lubbock through the ropes. Lubbock managed to get back into the ring by the count of seven. In the second round, Lubbock received even more of a hammering and the referee stepped in and stopped the bout.

Carson Soldiers Aid Gemini

Five Ft. Carson soldiers played a small part in the recent Gemini project which orbited two astronauts for three revolutions of the Earth.

Two helicopter pnits were sent from Carson to Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, and to Kano, Nigeria. Both units were stationed near the path of the orbiting satellite as it passed overhead.

They were to act as rescue units in the event that the satellite's retrorockets were fired late and the craft landed in Africa.

The two helicopter crews were from the 5th Aviation Btn, and 4th Sqdn. 12th Cavalry. The crews were SP5 Harold M. Talmadge and CWO Glenn E. Spakes, who were stationed near Salisbury with the Royal Rhodesian Air Force and Lt. John DuBois, CWO Pat H. Rhodes and PFC Kirk Rudy, who were located in Kano, Nigeria.

It took the crews 40 hours to reach their destinations after they were alerted. The men and their helicopters were flown to the sites by an Air Force C130.

While there, the crews were on practice hops and waited for the possible alert.

HOME ACCIDENT

WESTPORT, Mass. (AP)—Hospital staff members were a bit skeptical when Henry Amaral, 28 of Warren, R.I., brought to a hospital here for treatment, said he had been "run over by a house." But it was true. He worked for a house trailer, and Amaral slid under the house to free the chain. His foot slipped and the wheels ran into him. He was not seriously hurt.

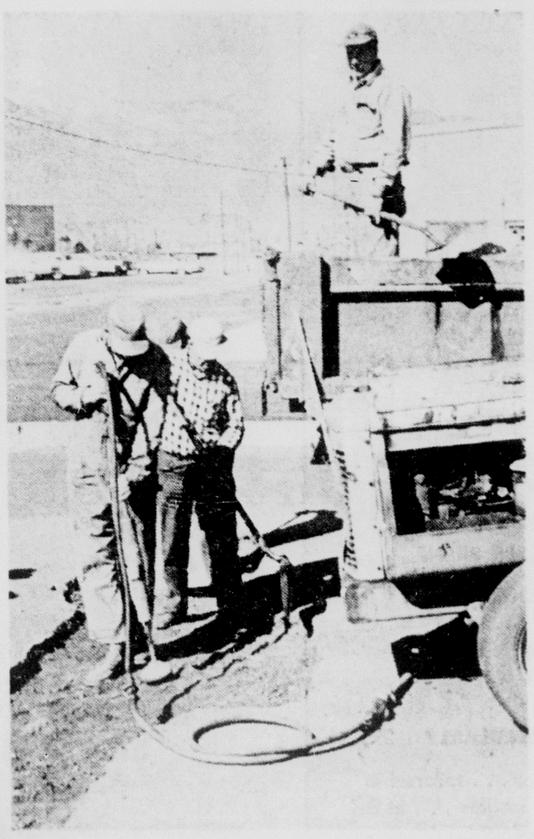
City Crews Plug Chuckholes and Give Streets Paint Job

PUT-PUT-PUT—Ah spring. The magpies are repairing their nests, realtors are building houses and the City Traffic Engineering Department has its annual chore of restriping all the markings in Colorado Springs. Artist Melvin Butcher is concentrating. It really isn't that easy to paint a straight line.

TIME CONSUMING — When markings completely wear off, it's necessary to make a whole new set. "Painting is easy, it's the measuring that takes the time," say workers in the Traffic Engineering Department.

EXPERT TOUCH—The "hand propelled paint striper" did most of the rough work, but it took a brush job to smooth the edges of this turn arrow. Dabbing at the point of the arrow is George Griego, maintenance foreman for the City Traffic Engineering Department.

ROLLING GOO — This one man roller doesn't take long to tamp down a strip of patching asphalt. It's a messy job, but the Street Department worker is still smiling.



PLENTY OF WORKERS — There's no lack of help for filling and tamping this break in the street. The city once ran its own asphalt plant. Now it buys patching and paving material by contract from the lowest bidder.

LOTS OF FILL—Crews wait for a dump truck to fill a trough in a north Colorado Springs street. Street Department crews spent 17,345 man-hours last year patching streets.

COLORADO SPRINGS—SUNDAY, APRIL 11, 1965 SECTION B

HILL TO BE SPARED—Castle Concrete Co. officials estimate it will take five to six years to finish removing the limestone layer from their claim above Glen Eyrie. Part of this hill across the skyline will be spared because the U.S. Forest Service plans a scenic overlook on the other side of Queen's Canyon. The company says they plan to start reseeding the top of the quarry this fall.

* * * * * * * * *

SPABA Attacks Castle Concrete Mining Company Officials Say They Will Reseed

The Springs Area Beautiful Association has launched a 700-petition campaign against the Castle Concrete Co.

The company is strip mining limestone — used for the local building industry — north of Glen Eyrie and the Garden of the Gods.

Petitions are to prevent the company from getting a patent on the 160 acres of limestone land now worked under four mining claims.

Charles Batley, vice president of Castle Concrete, told the Gazette Telegraph that the petition "doesn't mean a thing. Even if we were denied a land patent we could still keep taking out limestone because we have mining claims."

Batley said that the only reason the company wanted a land patent was to adequately restore the area's reseeding and restoration, after most of the limestone is removed in five to six years.

If all SPABA's 700 petitions were signed, there would be 23,100 anti-concrete company signatures.

The petition also urges withdrawal from mining of all Forest Service land on the Rampart Range within view of the "Springs Area."

The preliminary agenda of the Colorado Springs City Council's Tuesday meeting says they may take a stand on the issue.

Batley said his operation employs about 30 men and sells crushed and graded limestone to contractors and concrete companies in Colorado Springs and Monument. "Sometimes we fill up as many as 100 trucks a day," he said.

Batley said the isolated "freak limestone formation" is about 120 feet thick in places and the company's claims go back about three-quarters of a mile. He said that it was not the company's intention to strip the whole length of twisting Queen's Canyon, because the limestone deposit is only in the area now being worked.

Batley said the company would reseed the top of the quarry with ponderosa pine, clover and natural grasses to cover the scar. "We'll start reseeding at the top, and work down as we take out limestone," he pointed out.

Batley said a 500-foot ridge on top of the quarry would be left, because the Forest Service plans a scenic overlook off the Rampart Range Road, on the other side of Queen's Canyon.

Batley said the quarry presents no danger to Gen. William Jackson Palmer's historic castle in Glen Eyrie. He said that drainage from the quarry is funneled into stock ponds for the Flying W Ranch — not into Glen Eyrie.

The company has been working its claims about 10 years and this is not the first time various groups and the company have discussed the operations, Batley said.

He pointed out that El Paso County gets $4,000 a year from taxing the company's expensive, heavy equipment plus a $90 tax on the mining operation.

Batley said the company would consider possible development of the area for recreation, after the limestone is removed.

SPABA has carried its fight against the concrete company into public schools and libraries and has placed petitions in businesses friendly to the cause.

Its prepared statements to the news media term Castle Concrete Co.'s operations a "giant gravel scar" and "eyesore."

Students in Wasson High School were told over the public address system that the land being scarred was made famous by Katherine Lee Bates in "America the Beautiful." Petitions were provided for the youngsters to sign.

Last week Batley met with a SPABA delegation and Soil Conservation Department official Robert Griffin.

Griffin confirmed that a stand of grasses could be grown after quarrying is finished, in the residue of lime rock. He said this would take three to five years, if there is good rainfall.

SPABA is trying to get its petitions signed by April 21, the final date for approval of the company's mineral patent to the 160 acres it is already working.

"If the SPABA protests are overruled and no other adverse claims are filed, Castle's applications will be processed routinely and the company will gain full ownership of the scarred land at $2.50 an acre," SPABA officials said.

SPABA said it objected to the operation for four reasons: (1) eyesore, (2) threat to Glen Eyrie, (3) dust and blasting a business and health hazard and (4) the loss of 160 acres of Pike National Forest.

One of SPABA's stated purposes is for "improvement of blighted areas" and elimination of "eyesores and public nuisances."

In a letter to its membership and friends, SPABA described its drive as a "last ditch stand against the massive scarification of our section of the Rampart Range."

Florence Studies Pool Project

Determined to get busy on a swimming pool for the young people in the communtiy, representatives from a number of local organizations gathered Monday night at the city hall to discuss the pool's future with members of the Florence city council.

John Fox, president of the Florence Chamber of Commerce, acted as chairman for the meeting. Darrell Lindsey served as secretary.

A committee of 5 was elected to represent the Community Swimming Pool project group including Dr. Peter J. Gamache, John Fox, Dr. John Buglewicz, Bob Fritz, and Tom Gribben.

This committee will gather information on costs, present studies, and work jointly with the swimming pool committee of the city council headed by Councilman B. A. Lopez.

At the meeting the past work on the swimming pool for Florence was reviewed including work done by chamber of commerce boards, local citizen groups, and city councils.

Members of the council said they were highly in favor of a municipal pool and noted that as soon as the fire truck is paid for, the 2 - cent cigarette tax, which is bringing in about $584 a month, will be earmarked for pool construction.

Meanwhile, it was indicated that a local fund - raising program will be launched in order to expedite the program and get the pool built sooner with the help of outside funds.

Approximately 35 persons attended the meeting including Jack McFall, former mayor, who read a three - page prepared statement in which he: (1) favored construction of a municipal pool, (2) suggested several methods of cutting city costs and (3) advocated the election of a council with the "courage and determination to provide a capital improvement fund of $25,000 per year by consolidating jobs and services."

Fox noted noted that no formal meeting of this committee will be held until after the Easter holidays.

Three Profs Appointed at CU Center

Two assistant professors and one visiting associate professor in the School of Business have been appointed at the Colorado Springs Center of the University of Colorado.

The appointments are effective next September. They follow the appointment in March of Charles L. Hinkle as an associate professor of marketing.

Named to the regular faculty of the Center as assistant professors are Jerome C. Darnell and J. Daniel Couger. The visiting associate professor will be Porter W. Henderson Jr.

Darnell presently is a faculty lecturer with the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Indiana Graduate School of Business. He also has been an instructor at a business college in Springfield, Mo., and a teaching associate at Indiana University.

Finland Works Away From Red Influence

By PRESTON GROVER

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — Finland is slowly working away from the influence of its own Communist party, and the Soviet Union just across the border. Finns are inviting Western capital to invest in their country in a way they could not have dreamed of 10 years ago.

Finland is much more independent than East European Communist states. Twice the Soviets tried to install a Communist regime in Finland under force of arms, and each time the Finns fought it off, bloodily.

Now the place has a democratic government, its people travel freely, and its papers are free to criticize the government, or for that matter the Soviet government and the Americans. They do all three, sometimes all on the same day.

Two hard facts remain. The Soviet government is next door, and the Communist party in Finland gets over 20 per cent of votes at every election. Yet the Finns seem little worried about either circumstance.

All non - Communist parties have accepted the idea that the country must be neutral — but prepared to fight off any effort to attack the Soviet Union by way of Finland. That reservation is written into her treaty made after she lost two successive times to the Soviets during the last war.

The Social Democrats are in the bad books of the Russians, for they were in control during the winter war starting in 1939 and later on in the "continuing war" at the side of the Germans. So far, Soviet influence has been heavy enough to keep the Social Democrats from forming a government.

The Agrarians, while okay with the Russians, have limited city appeal.

Now the two parties are trying gingerly to limit their conflicts so the Communists can't exploit the differences. The Agrarians, who are in power, are trying to build up industry. They are going after Western capital by amending regulations which hamper foreign investment.

Western capital, hard enough to come by, probably will be easier to get than the political harmony.

President Urho Kekkonen, an Agrarian, is trying to make his party a little more like the Social Democrats, so it will have more city appeal. In turn, he is trying to induce the Social Democrats to be more like the Agrarians, so they won't be blackballed by the Russians.

The Soviet war claims were paid off in less than eight years and since then industrial production has climbed steadily. Exports to England and the "Outer Seven" in Europe increased last year by 21 per cent.

AFA Prof Writes Article on Aging

A new theory on aging is the subject of a paper written by an Air Force Academy faculty member.

Capt. D. G. Carpenter, Department of Physics, is the author of a paper on mathematical biophysics, "Diffusion Theory of Aging," published in the April issue of the "Journal of Gerontology."

The paper is a presentation of a new theory which ascribes the aging of an organism to the production and diffusion of cross-linked molecules within the organism.

A member of the Department of Behavioral Sciences, Capt. D. E. Nord, is co - author of an article published in the March issue of the "Journal of Experimental Psychology."

ADC Pilot Checks Out Fast YF-12A Interceptor

Col. Vernon J. Henderson put Air Defense Command in the cockpit of a 2,000 mile an hour fighter interceptor at Edwards AFB recently when he checked out in the Lockheed YF-12A.

A veteran of 73 combat missions and 3,000 flying hours, Col. Henderson, assigned to Edwards AFB as the air defense flight test officer, added the YF-12A to his "check out" list which includes every interceptor in Air Defense Command's inventory.

Winner of the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal, Col. Henderson also flew a North American F-86A Sabre into the winners circle for the Thompson Trophy at the 1949 National Air Races.

The YF-12A, formerly designated the A-11, is being tested as an advanced interceptor aircraft.

The advance aircraft development project that produced the YF-12A was initiated in late 1959. It is an all-weather fighter aircraft and is equipped with an automatic navigation system.

Capable of speeds in excess of 2,000 miles per hour, the interceptor will climb to more than 70,000 feet. Lockheed Aircraft Corp. manufactured the aircraft which is powered by twin J-58 jet engines built by the Pratt & Whitney Division of United Aircraft Corp.

The fire control system is an ASG-18, developed by Hughes Aircraft Corporation and it is armed with air-to-air guided missiles.

Local Pilots Attend Meeting in Michigan

Officials and district safety chairmen of Pilot International, who represent more than 13,500 pilots in North America, recently took part in the organization's Fourth Highway Traffic Safety Conference, reported by Mrs. Betty - Jayne Cole, president of the Pilot Club of Colorado Springs.

The safety meeting was held at the Kellogg Center, Michigan State University in East Lansing, Mich.

Sponsorship of the conference came through a $10,000 grant, donated by Allstate Foundation. The grant was presented to the organization by Frederick J. Gassert Jr., of Skokie, Ill., vice-president and general counsel of the Allstate Insurance Co.

Self - improvement driving safety programs were presented at the meet, & will be subsequently presented nation - wide in the coming months. The purpose of these courses is to improve the driving skill of those who are now driving and to help alert the community to today's traffic picture and the need for improvement.

Last year, the Pilot Club of Colorado Springs was awarded fourth place in this national safety contest, under the sponsorship of the Allstate Foundation.

Poverty Study Is Planned In Larimer

LOVELAND (UPI)— Thirty-five representatives of organizations in Larimer County Wednesday night adopted articles of incorporation and by-laws for the county's program under the Economic Opportunity Act.

The group also elected a slate of 11 directors for the new organization, the Poudre-Thompson Community Action Program.

Once the incorporation has been adopted by the Colorado Secretary of State's office, the group expects to request a federal grant to finance a study of poverty and its causes and to develop a program to attack the causes of poverty in the county.

According to preliminary plans, a staff of three will be employed at the group's headquarters in Loveland.

William H. Green, owner and manager of radio station KLOV in Lopeland, has been named temporary chairman.

The bylaws and articles of incorporation were prepared by a subcommittee working with Loveland attorney Bob Ausenhus.

Ninety per cent of the funds of the program will be federal money.

AFA Cadet Squadrons Will Visit Sponsors

Members of two Air Force Academy cadet squadrons will visit their sponsoring units this weekend.

Representatives of the 16th Squadron will travel to Altus AFB, Okla. to visit the 11th Aerospace Bomb Wing upon invitation of Col. Merrill N. Moore, Wing commander.

Activities of the 52nd Fighter Wing at Suffolk AFB, N.Y. will be observed by members of the 8th Squadron. Commander of the 52nd is Col. Francis S. Gabreski.

Col. Gabreski is the top living U.S. ace.

Such visits serve a two-fold purpose: to further cadet professional development through observation of tactical operations and to develop interest and appreciation for the Academy and its mission among Air Force personnel and their families.

Deadlock in Steel Talks Not Broken

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A move to oust President David J. McDonald of the United Steelworkers as chief union negotiator has failed but resulted today in a new plan aimed at breaking the deadlocked basic steel contract talks.

McDonald, who has ruled the nation's third largest union for 12 years, was asked to step out of the negotiations Friday by backers of I. W. Abel, union secretary-treasurer.

McDonald refused. But he offered a plan to speed up basic steel talks and give greater voice to Abel, who reportedly defeated McDonald in the union's Feb. 9 election.

Details of the plan could not be learned. But it was accepted by top union bargainers, including Abel.

Official results of the election are not due until about May 1, the day the union will be free to strike.

The bid to get McDonald out shattered the image of unity which both Abel and McDonald have been trying to present. It also seemed to confirm what the industry has been saying for weeks — that the unsettled election has split the union and rendered it unable to bargain.

That was the Abel argument as presented to McDonald and top union bargainers Friday by Joseph Molony, who reportedly has won election as vice president on the Abel slate.

Molony blamed the impasse in steel talks on the industry's reluctane to bargain with what he calls a leaderless union.

There was no request for McDonald to resign as president. His term is up June 1.

It was learned that McDonald's plan for ending the basic steel deadlock involves realigning of subcommittees and lower-level bargainers to give Abel men a greater voice.

There was speculation the plan could lead to elimination of some of the union's demands which would cost $1 an hour over the next three years. The industry has labeled the demands preposterous.

Colorado Is Tricky River For Experts

The Colorado River is sort of a tricky critter for those who try to measure it over the years.

Neither the weather men nor the water men can successfully forecast how the river will flow, a fact which greatly distresses the planning men who have to schedule how to put the water to use in the homes, farms and factories of more than 10 million people.

Those facts were reported by Dallas Cole, chief engineer of the Colorado River Board of California, with offices in Los Angeles.

Although the river rises in Rocky Mountain National Park north of Denver, and gets its name and much of its water from Colorado, it is of great interest to down river states — especially California, which uses so much of its water.

An April 1 check-back of the record since 1950 was made by Cole, who placed blame for shortcomings in the predictions not on the men who make them but on lack of adequate data.

"Imperfect as the forecasting performance has been," said Cole, "there are no experts more capable and conscientious.

"The greatest improvement in accuracy would result from a substantial increase in numbers of measurement devices, particularly to gauge snow packs at high altitude. Long range weather forecasts and soil moisture content recordings could be improved. Computer analysis of all available experience, as well as further studies of probability theory seem called for.

"Engineers who must plan for the future need more dependable figures than the most expert forecasters have been able to provide."

Cole has a chart comparing with actuality a series of Colorado River forecasts of peak seasonal flow of the Colorado River at Lee's Ferry to support his observations.

"The Bureau of Reclamation forecasts of water supply made each April 1 from 1950 through 1964 have been within 10 per cent of actuality only four out of 15 times," said Cole. "The Weather Bureau forecasts fell within this limit only six times."

"Once the water men ware more than 120 per cent too high, in 1954. Again, in 1957, the Weather Bureau peediction was a third too low. In 1951 and in 1958, the forecasts were pretty close to actuality, but in opposite directions," he explained.

"In 1963, the weather guessers were too high by about 60 per cent and the Reclamation handicappers were about 50 per cent too hopeful. Last year both were close, each underestimating by only about 5 per cent," he stated.

Engineers who have to use the forecast figures notice that low run-off is generally overestimated and high run-off is generally underestimated. But this clue to character is not reliable as a guide for adjusting the figures.

QUALITY CONTROL — B. W. Hart, quality control manager of the Technical Products Div., Vicon Industries, examines a thermocouple circuit tester produced by Vicon for the Navy Department. This contract is one of about a dozen completed in Vicon's new division since it first began production some six months ago. Vicon is principally involved in the production of prescription hearing aids, with distribution to some 350 dealers across the country. (Vicon Photo)

* * *

Vicon Is Diversified In Equipment Turnout

Vicon Instrument Co., at 1353 Mesita Rd., is now engaged in more than just manufacturing hearing aids. The local firm became diversified about six months ago when its Technical Products Division first started turning out electronics equipment of every size and shape imaginable.

Vicon's new addition is located in a building several yards west of its hearing aid plant. The ground floor houses the new division, while the second-story is being used for a machine shop and injection molding operation.

A great deal of the Technical Products Division's work has come from the Navy Department, the latest of which is a $64,000 contract for designing and manufacturing portable power supplies for teletype machines.

In the past six months, the new division has turned out equipment ranging from a fish hook counter to loop antennas for measuring changes in the earth's magnetic field. The former counts the hooks and then controls their packaging, according to Carl R. Harris, director of engineering.

The contract for loop antennas came from the Bureau of Standards in Boulder. Each of the antennas had a seven-foot diameter, with 16,000 turns of wire around the outside.

Vicon is now producing a dropsonde for the National Center for Atmospheric Research in Boulder. Used to study the structure of a thunderstorm, the dropsonde is dropped from an airplane. As it falls it measures pressures and temperatures of the atmosphere and transmits the data to a ground station. The dropsonde itself is usually recoverable.

The injection holding end of the business deals with precision molding of plastics. Vicon recently produced a tiny camera by this method, which will be placed in the nose of miniature rockets, manufactured by Estes Industries at Penrose. The cameras are set to snap photos when the tiny rocket begins falling back to earth after its 1,000 to 2,000 foot high flight above the ground.

Vicon, which is the oldest electronics firm in Colorado Springs, has been involved in the production of hearing aids ever since it first opened for business here 10 years ago. The hearing aids are all made to prescription and sent to nationwide locations.

The recent addition of a technical laboratory and machine shop, along with the molding plant brought Vicon's number of employes to 75. The firm has some 17,000 square feet of floor space in its two buildings.

According to Robert Victoreen, president of the corporation, the new Technical Products Div. is equipped to handle all types of precision electronics equipment design and manufacture.

Fire Department Fights Brush Fire

Company 6 and Car 200 of the Colorado Springs Fire Department Saturday fought a brush and trash fire on Flint Ridge Drive. A small area was burned over. Battalion Chief C. V. Emry was in charge. The alarm was received at 11:56 a.m.

At 10:26 a.m. Company 1 went to Sierra Madre Street and Vermijo Avenue, where trouble was had with a heater in a trailer belonging to the Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad. Assistant Chief H. J. Richter was in charge. There was no damage.

At 10:32 a.m. a car fire caused a run to the Chidlaw Building parking area. The fire was out when the firemen arrived.

Another Youth Corps Project Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — Approval of a $242,755 Colorado Youth Corps project was announced Friday.

Rep. Wayne Aspinall, D-Colo. said the Labor Department had approved the statewide neighborhood Youth Corps project which will provide work experience opportunities for 1,423 enrollees.

Federal share of the project will be $169,195.

Former Eisenhower House Sold Again

DENVER (AP) — The Denver house where former President Eisenhower had his heart attack in 1955 has been sold again.

Mrs. A. Tiley of Fort Collins said she sold it to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth A. Smitley, who came here from Oregon several months ago.

Mrs. Tiley declined to disclose the price. She said she paid $25,000 for it in 1961 and spent more than $12,000 in renovations.

The house on Lafayette Street was the home of Mrs. Eisenhower's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Doud, who bought it new in 1906.

Church-State Issue Seen in School Aid

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders expect to pass President Johnson's school aid bill today and send it to him to sign into law. But first they will have to wrestle with the ticklish church-state issue.

As the Senate prepared to meet two hours early for a third day of debate on the $1.3-billion measure, an early vote was in prospect on an amendment sponsored by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C.

The onetime judge wants to tack onto the bill an amendment to specifically provide for judicial review of the aid that will indirectly go to church schools.

The House has already passed the bill — March 26 by a vote of 263 to 153 — and the Ervin amendment appeared to be the last major obstacle to enactment. For if no substantial changes are made there will be no need for a conference of House and Senate to resolve differences and the bill can be on President Johnson's desk by dusk.

Ervin argued in presenting his amendment Thursday night that it is practically impossible for an ordinary taxpayer to challenge aid to parochial schools. The courts, he said, have held that an individual has too minimal an interest to sustain a suit.

But Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., former dean of the Oregon University Law School, appealed for defeat of the Ervin amendment.

For one thing, said Morse, its adoption could endanger the entire program by forcing a conference with the House on the touchy church-state issue.

Besides, Morse and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., argued, cases bearing directly on the question already are on their way to the Supereme Court and so the Ervin amendment is unnecessary.

Before sending the bill to the House floor, the House Education Committee tightened its language to make sure that while parochial schools benefit, all assistance is channeled through public schools.

Ervin is not satisfied.

"This bill," he told the Senate, "because of its impact on elementary and secondary education, makes it imperative for Congress to establish legal procedures to determine whether indirect aid to religious institutions conflicts with the First Amendment, which provides that Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion."

The bill's backers said they expect to beat the Ervin amendment by a slim margin.

Republican senators said they plan to call up other amendments after a test of the Ervin proposal.

But they conceded it is unlikely any will be accepted after the 53-38 defeat Thursday of a proposal by Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., to change the aid allocation formula for the principal grant program in the bill so as to give a greater share to poorer states.

Also rejected, by a 56-38 vote, was an amendment by Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., to give low income states a larger share of the $100 million for special educational centers.

AFA Cadets Plan Egg Hunt

Take 432 children. Multiply them by a host of Easter wishes and what do you have? An afternoon filled with egg hunts, entertainment, hamburgers and hot dogs!

For 432 boys and girls from 10 agencies in the Denver-Colorado Springs - Pueblo - La Junta areas, Easter Sunday will be tailored to their exact specifications.

They'll spend it at the Air Force Academy as guests of the Cadet Wing.

Cadets have dug into their wallets to come up with over $1,200 to cover all expenses for the big day.

The youngsters, ranging in a from 5 to 12, will have plenty of company during their Academy stay. A total of 613 cadets plus 460 "dates" will escort the visitors.

More than 3,000 eggs will be stashed around the grounds for a huge hunt.

Following luncheon (hot dogs and hamburgers) in Mitchell Hall, the cadet dining hall, the youngsters will watch skits and demonstrations, and movies.

There will be also gifts and candy for everyone.

Cadets are especially proud of "Operation Easter" because it is entirely planned, paid for, and carried out by the Cadet Wing.

Salaries for Profs Average

DENVER (AP)—The professors who hand out grades to Colorado's college students are receiving no more than "C" salaries for their services, according to the American Association of University Professors (AAUP).

The AAUP surveyed 11 Colorado colleges and universities and assigned them letter grades in two categories—average salary and minimum salary.

Highest rated in the state by the AAUP was Colorado College, a private institution in Colorado Springs, given "C" for average salary and a "B" for minimum.

Colorado College's "B" was the highest mark in the state in either category. A private school—Denver University—and two public institutions—University of Colorado and Colorado School of Mines—each received a "C" in both scales.

Fort Lewis College, Colorado State University and Iliff School of Theology were given a "C" and a "D".

Four others—Adams State, Colorado State College, Southern Colorado State and Western State—got marks of "D" from the AAUP in both categories.

Library Space In Security Waits Bond Vote

The Security Public Library is set to sign a lease for library space with the Security Park and Recreation District if the district's proposed bond issue is approved later this month.

The Park and Recreation District is putting a proposed $300,000 bond issue to the voters for approval on April 21. The primary usage of the money, if the bond issue is approved, will be to erect a Security Community Complex, which will include a swimming pool, auditorium and space for the library.

The Security Public Library is a separate organization, having been created under law by the School Board of School District 3, Widefield - Security.

It was formed after the drive began to create a district library that would include most of the county, with its nucleus being the library property of Colorado Springs.

Security chose to stay out of the district library and have its own, which already had been started. So with the effort of volunteers and the financing supplied by the school board as it sat as a library board, the library became a fact.

Space in the school district's administrative office building was rented by the school district to the library, but both the library and school district are growing, and so other space became a prime question for the library board.

When the Park and Recreation District began planning for a building it included in the first plans an area for the library.

Members of the school board are Clarence Foster, president, and Rodger Fay, Ted Fored, Carl Roberts and Tom Slack as members. The library board includes those five plus School Dist Supt. Richard Taylor, who is chairman of the board.

Since its founding in July 1961 the library has outgrown its quarters, Taylor explained, and added that larger quarters must be found if the library is to maintain the quality service to its patrons that it has offered so far.

With that in mind, the library board has agreed on a basic contract for space with the Park and Recreation District Board, depending on the outcome of the bond issue vote.

Taylor said, "with assistance and technical guidance from the Colorado State Library and strong community support the Security Library has shown phenomenal growth."

From an initial four hours a week operation staffed by a few volunteers, the library has expanded service to 26 hours weekly and now employs a full-time librarian and one part-time clerk. This professional staff is assisted by 25 trained volunteers who contribute more than 70 hours of service each week, he explained.

Circulation in the year ending June 1964, reached 27,000. Demand for library services from Security, Widefield, and School District 3 residents continues to increase, as indicated by the fact that circulation has already exceeded 35,000 volumes in the first nine months of this fiscal year, reported Mrs. Barbara Hamilton, librarian.

The book collection has increased more than 1,000 per cent since the library's founding and new books are being purchased, catalogued and shelved at the rate of 50 per week, she added.

In the new building a modern floor plan will be utilized to provide maximum service with a minimum staff. New faclites will feature reference centers and special areas designed for adult, juvenile, and teen-age patrons including sections for study and browsing. Additional shelving to provide for 20,000 volumes, work areas for book processing and ample storage space will also be included, Taylor said.

Harry Chilton, president of "Friends of the Security Public Library" stated that the officers of the organization have assisted in planning and promoting new housing for the library.

"We have a fne library and it is well supported by residents of the District. All library patrons will benefit from the Proposed Community Center Complex," said Chilton.

FEDERAL TAX TIPS

BY ROGER E. WARD
Administrative Representative
Internal Revenue Service

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. Is it true that profits on the sale of your personal residence are not taxable if the sale price was $20,000 or under and you sold it on or after your 65th birthday?

A. Yes, it's true, after your 65th birthday, if you sold property owned and used by you as your personal residence for at least 5 of the last 8 years. You may elect not to be taxed when the sales figure is $20,000 or under. If the sales price is over $20,000, part of the gain may have to be included in income.

Q. I'm a teacher and have to keep taking courses to keep my job. Can these costs be deducted on my return?

A. Yes, they can if the courses are required by your employer as a condition of your employment, or if they are taken primarily to maintain or improve skills required in performing your present duties. Educational expenses are not deductible when they are incurred to obtain a promotion or another position.

Q. I do not owe any taxes this year. Do I still have to file a return?

A. Whether you owe any taxes or not is not the determining factor in deciding if you have to file a return. A return is required when certain income levels are reached. If your income was $600 or more, or $1200 if you are 65 or older, you must file. If you have self - employment income of $400 or more you must file a return and pay self - employment tax.

Q. Where can I get a copy of the table showing average sales tax deductions by income and family size?

A. At any local Internal Revenue office.

Q. I just received my refund check for 1964. Does this mean that my return has been accepted and that I no longer have to keep last year's tax records?

A. Even though you have received a refund, your return may still be checked. As to your records, for most income and expense purposes they should be retained for a minimum of three years from the time your return was due to be filed. However, for some items, such as the sale of your old residence tax free due to the purchase of a new residence for instance, you should retain the records as long as they may be material in the administration of the tax laws.

Q. How can I tell if my return will be audited?

A. You really can't. Any return may be selected for audit. Some are selected because of the types or amounts of income and - or deductions reported. Still more are selected at random.

Q. Aside from the mortgage on my home, what other home expenses may I deduct?

A. The interest on your mortgage may be deducted. Other expenses that may be deducted are real estate taxes paid during the year, and the interest and sales tax you pay in connection with the purchases of items for your home.

Local assessments that improve the value of your property such as for sewers or sidewalks are not deductible. Water bills and other service charges are not deductible.

Check your tax instructions leaflet or the IRS booklet "Your Federal Income Tax" for some examples of what may be deducted.

Q — Is the money I receive from my account with the credit union considered interest or dividends? How about dividends from a savings and loan institution?

A — Payments from both types of institutions are treated as interest and are fully taxable.

Q — My income was up last year and I may have to file a declaration of estimated tax. How can I tell for sure whether I do or not?

A — The requirements for filing declarations are given on page 5 of your 1040 instructions.

In general, you should file a declaration of estimated tax if your total expected tax exceeds withholding by $40 or more, and either (1) income is expected to exceed $5,000 for an individual or $10,000 for a married couple filing jointly, head of household, or certain widows and widowers; or (2) when more than $200 of income comes from sources not subject to withholding (dividends, business profits, etc.).

Q — How can I tell whether I can claim someone as a dependent?

A — There are five tests that have to be met before a dependent can be claimed. These are income, support, married dependents, nationality and relationship. These tests are described in the 1040 instruction booklet.

Q—How much can a working mother deduct for child care expenses?

A — The deduction is for what you actually spent, with a maximum limit of $600 for two or more dependent children under under 13.

Check your instruction booklet to see how this deduction is affected by the amount of your gross income.

Q — Can I exclude all the pay I got when I was out sick or is some of it taxable?

A — It depends on what percentage of your pay you received and whether you were hospitalized or not.

If you received over 75 per cent of your wages as sick pay there is a 30-day waiting period before any pay can be excluded. This is true even if you were hospitalized. After the waiting period you may exclude your weekly pay up to a maximum of $100 per week.

If your sick pay was 75 per cent or less of your regular pay and you were not hospitalized, then there is a 7-day waiting period. If you were hospitalized at least one day there is no waiting period. After the waiting period up to $75 a week may be excluded. This goes up to $100 a week after 30 days of absence from work.

Both the 7-day and 30-day waiting periods begin with the first day you are absent from work.

Nicklaus Leads Masters By Five Strokes

Fountain Wins Centennial Title; Birds Place Second in Division I

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

PUEBLO — Fountain's flying Trojans delivered the Colorado Springs area its second straight Division II title during the 25th running of the Centennial Invitational here Saturday but Wasson's Thunderbirds lost their bid to make it a clean sweep for the local region when Alamosa edged them for the championship of Division I.

Except for the brilliant performance of the Alamosa team, it was a day of domination by Colorado Springs' teams in the first weekend of 1963's "big meets". Fountain, in annexing its second consecutive Centennial crown, was forced to the final tape by another excellent St. Mary's club. Those two made a runaway of the Division II team race. Likewise, in the top division, Wasson and Alamosa had the championship battle to themselves. Third place Pueblo Central finished nearly 20 points behind Jim Hartman's Thunderbirds.

To complete the power play by area teams, Manitou Springs used its pair of star performers to dominate the record-setting Hurdler John Moore was bested by Springfield's Bob Teague in both trips over the sticks but, in an unusual twist, it was Moore who ended up with a record in the highs.

His 15.2, recorded in the morning preliminaries, goes into the books as a new mark. Later in the afternoon Moore won the broad jump with a record leap of 21-2. And teammate Ron Smith set a new standard in winning the pole vault with a leap of 12-2. That gave the Mustangs, the fourth place team in the final standings, three of the seven records either set or tied in Division II.

Final team standings saw Alamosa pile up 61 points in an impressive show of strength in Division I. Wasson's 52 easily captured second while Central had 33½, Durango 29½, Pueblo East, 17, Centennial 15, Palmer 6, Pueblo Catholic 5, Regis 5, and La Junta 1. Mullen and Pueblo County failed to score.

In Division II, Fountain amassed 70 points to 62 for runner-up St. Mary's. Springfield trailed with 44, Manitou Springs had 24, Walsenburg 9, Monument 8, Swink 8, Fowler 6, Ordway 3, Cheraw 2, Hoehne 2, and Holly 0.

Fountain speedsters won only five events, including two of the three relays, but their overwhelming balance made up the difference. Bob Reed gave the Trojans a triumph in the 880 run and swifty, Steve Gerleman, captured both dashes. He was clocked in 10.6 in the 100 and 23.5 in the 220. In addition Fountain quartets swept to wins in both the 880 and mile relays, establishing a new record in the latter and tying an existing mark in the 880.

St. Mary's won three firsts, including a record effort by Cliff Clark in the shot put. The huge Pirate star smashed the old mark by more than two feet with his heave of 53-1¾. Jerry Knauf was the victor in the triple jump and the Pirate distance medley quartet romped to victory in that event.

Wasson and Alamosa battled on even terms throughout most of the day but the Maroons pulled away in the final few events when their strength in the sprints and relays took its toll. Alamosa swept all three relay titles while the Thunderbirds took a second in the mile event, fifth in the distance medley, and were disqualified in the 880 relay after apparently finishing third.

The T-Birds did return with three individual champions. Bud Hoffpauir sped to victory in the high hurdles in a clocking of 15.2 and Craig Gillette won the high jump with a leap of 5-11, far off his usual form. Mike Martin, the dandy little handyman, captured the low hurdle race in 20.7 after recording a 20.2 in the trials, and was second in both the broad jump and triple jump to total 13 points.

Wasson also got another excellent race from junior miler, Dan Poole, who finished second to Alamosa's John Blickham, but still ran a 4:41, good early season time. Blickham, a sophomore sensation, was caught in 4:38.5.

Only one record was broken in Division I and that came in the 880 relay where Alamosa's swift quartet sped the two laps in 1:33.4. Durango's Jim Hatfield tied the existing standard of 50.8 in the 440 yard run en route to becoming the day's only triple winner. Hatfield also captured the 100 yard dash in 10.2 and the 220 in 22.0.

Palmer's defending South Central League champions, who had their first meet competition only this week, made one of their poorest showings in recent seasons. Dennis Bair's third place finish in the broad jump and David Paul's third in the pole vault were the only points accumulated by the Terrors.

THE MASTER — This is the face of Jack Nicklaus, who fired a sizzling 64 Saturday to lead the Masters Golf Tournament with a total score of 202 (12-under par). Nicklaus is shown here talking with officials as he adds up his score at the Augusta, Ga., golf course. (AP Wirephoto)

Nicklaus' 64 Tops Field; Has 12-Under Par Score

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Big Jack Nicklaus grabbed the Augusta National monster course by the throat and shook it to death Saturday with a record-tying eight-under-par 64 which threatened to wreck the 29th Masters Golf Tournament.

The superb round, featured by 300-yard drives and putts of phenomenal length without a single bogey, gave the Golden Bear of Columbus, Ohio, a 54-hole score of 202 — five shots ahead of South Africa's Gary Player.

Defending champion Arnold Palmer, the other member of the Big Three which started the day head-to-head, could do no better than par 72 on the warm, windless day for a 210 total, tied with 34-year-old Dan Sikes of Jacksonville, Fla., for third place.

Two challengers from out of the pack — Mason Rudolph, a bespectacled tour veteran from Tennessee, and former U.S. Open champion Gene Littler — joined Nicklaus in a birdie assault on the 6,980-yard, par 72 course and moved into contention.

Rudolph, with a streak of four straight birdies and five in a stretch of six holes, fired a 66 for 211 and Littler, canning eight birdies in the last 16 holes, shot a 67 for 212, tying Tommy Aaron, who chipped in on the final hole for a 71.

However, there seemed no catching the bull-strong Nicklaus in Sunday's climactic round. He is at the peak of his game and brimming with confidence.

"My Adrenalin is running so strong that I am using six-irons where normally I'd use a five," the blond blaster said after his round. "I am all pumped up inside."

No man ever played the first 54 holes better in this golf Olympics, started in the record year of 1953 and duplicated by Palmer in winning the third of his four titles in 1962.

Nicklaus needs only a par 72 Sunday to tie the 274 set by Hogan 12 years ago, when he won the Masters, U.S. Open and British Open in a professional little slam.

Lloyd Mangrum set the single round record with a 64 in the opening round of 1940.

A gay, carnival crowd of 50,000 swarmed over Augusta's resplendant acres for the third round, and big Jack gave them a show they will never forget.

Splitting the board fairways with cannon shots off the tee and dropping putts of from 15 to 25 feet, the 25-year-old boy wonder played the outgoing nine in 31 shots, tying the record of Cary Middlecoff in 1955.

Air Force, Southern Colorado Split in Double Header

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

PUEBLO — A last-ditch uprising by the Indians of Southern Colorado State College here Saturday foiled the Air Force Academy in their attempt for a first series sweep of the season as the teams split a double header on wind-whipped Runyon Park.

It was the third twin bill of the spring for the Falcons and their second split in the trio. Coming back in the second game behind the crafty curves of lefty Al McClure, the Cadets gained their second victory of the still young baseball season, 9-4. They lost the opener, 5-4, on a squeeze bunt in the final inning.

The two games here Saturday were the sixth and seventh straight on the road for the Air Force, but Coach Connie Sparks will at last bring his team home this coming Wednesday afternoon when they host the University of Denver, a team which slipped past the AFA just last week in Denver. And they stay at home over next Saturday with a singleton slated against Colorado State University.

Meeting Southern Colorado for the first time in any varsity sport, the Falcons carried a slim 4-3 lead into the final frame of the seven-inning opener here Saturday but they were unable to hold off the Indians' attack in dropping the opener.

Picking up a single run in the second inning on a single, two-base error and a wild pitch, the Cadets overcame a two run burst by SCSC with the stiff wind playing tricks in the outfield by punching across a pair on the strength of Tipp Simpson's double to left-center with two on.

The Falcons still had the upper hand going into the bottom of the seventh but the Pueblo nine rapped out four hits off starter Bob Guido to wrap up the game. Roger Hargraves opened up with a double and advanced to third on a high fly, and was plated on Byron Hakes' liner to short center field.

Another single put two runners on and Guido elected to give an intentional pass to Gary Kruger to load the bases. Then left fielder Randy Eddy laid down a hard - to - handle bunt along the third base line and the winning run was squeezed in with no chance to cut off the run.

The second game was a different story all the way as the Air Force exploded early on Pueblo starter Doug DuCharme with a liner to left, second sacker Dick Lee drew a walk and then left fielder John McGroom singled to left. Coach Harry Simmons had enough and in came George Panion to put out the fire.

McClelland's homer over the 345-foot left field wall brought two Pueblo runs across to narrow the count to 7-4, but the Air Force kept up the pounding with another pair of runs in the seventh to lock up their second decision of the season.

McClure struck out seven in as many innings and was in control all the way in his fourth appearance of the season. So far he has both Air Force victories, the other coming against New Mexico University in the opener, and he has lost to Stanford and Denver.

Adams State's Bat Power Puts Down Tigers

By MORRIS FRASER
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

Adams State College kept their thundering bats at work all afternoon and swept a doubleheader, 6-3 and 7-6, from Colorado College Saturday at Memorial Park.

The Indians won despite two outstanding relief jobs by Craig Clayberg.

Adams State pulled away from the Tigers in the opener with a four-run third inning. The Indians capitalized on three singles, a double and a walk to gain a 5-1 verdict. Each team scored later but the outcome was already settled.

In that one, Clayberg came on to relieve Warren Reeser with one out in the fifth. Adams State had scored once and had a man on base. Clayberg downed the rally with two quick outs and retired the side in order in the last two innings.

Adams State scored all their runs in the second inning and had the Tigers down, 5-1, when Clayberg came back on in the chill nightcap. He allowed a triple and a sacrifice fly to bring home two more runs, then allowed two scattered singles while setting down the last 12 men in a row.

But CC couldn't score the runs to win, though they had oodles of men on base each game. In the first loss, the Tigers had men on base in the second, third, fourth and fifth innings without scoring. They tallied twice in the sixth but a full set of bases with one out came to nothing as the Indians turned a quick double play.

CC gained a 1-0 lead in the second game and got back three of the runs in the second. In the third they had two men on and couldn't score. In the fourth two runs came across and the Bengals had a two-out bases loaded situation and again couldn't plate a man. CC sent four men on tour in the sixth frame, but two were cut down and the third out came with runners on second and third.

CC scored in the first game when Carl Clay doubled down the left field line and came home on an error to Dave Peterson's hit.

In the sixth Gus Hart walked, moved third on an out and single by Wayne Woodyard. Both runners came home on Chuck Reinking's left field single.

Steve Ebert walked and came home on Peterson's right field single to give the Tigers the only lead they ever enjoyed during the wind-swept afternoon. In the third Wayne Nelson, Dee Wilson and Woodyard hit consecutive singles and scored.

Chuck Reinking scored the first CC run in the sixth on a bases-loaded walk to Roger Williams. Another walk to Nelson forced in Clay with the final CC tally.

Frick Is Optimistic In His Finale Year

By FORD FRICK
Commissioner of Baseball
(Written for Associated Press)

I am coming to the end of the road after 14 years in office so it might be appropriate to look back at what has happened and to try to peer ahead.

There is no reason not to be optimistic. Attendance has grown year by year. There is more participation by the youngsters. What has happened and what will happen as people have more and more leisure time is a diversification of interest. People used to work a six-day week with two weeks off in the summer. Now they have more time and more money for spectator sports.

I see no threat in professional football or basketball. There is a place for each and each can grow without being a serious threat to the other.

I won't be around when it happens but I believe additional expansion is inevitable. I think it is much nearer than many want to admit. It is time that baseball recognized this and set up the ground rules. Perhaps they should set up a period of a minimum of two years after a city is selected before the club actually would operate. In the meantime, the new group could operate a minor league team or teams and sign its own players who would be free from the draft. The year before the city was to operate each of the existing teams would designate 15 untouchables and let the new teams each take one from its regular 25-player list. This is no campaign, just a rough idea of how it might work out.

I do think that baseball will come to two 12-club major leagues with each league divided into two six-team divisions. In that manner they can return to the old 154-game schedule. I do not think it would be practical to have three leagues because it would be difficult to convince any of the existing teams they should move into the third league with the new teams.

Looking back I think we have been going through a great transition period which is still continuing. We have seen television come and grow into an important factor. The majors have expanded to 20 teams. Player-owner relations have undergone a complete change. Through their own organizations the players have reached a stature once considered unnecessary and impossible.

But we still face many problems. Expansion is going to continue because the present, 10-club setup does not make sense over a long period and also because of the growth of our country and the shifting population.

Television has developed so rapidly that we must guard against its increasing threat to swallow up the game. Important as television is, important as television's dollars may become, baseball cannot afford, now or ever, to allow television or any other outside agency to dictate procedures, business policies, scheduled or other operations.

We have made a start on solving our television problem with the new game-of-the-week telecasts in which the receipts will be divided evenly among the 18 participating teams. Perhaps the time will come when we limit the number of games to be seen nationally or even in the local area. Perhaps it will be wise eventually to give the visiting team a share of the regular television receipts as we have done for years in the case of gate admission.

We are in need of legislation to establish common exemptions for all spectator sports to conduct the unusual phases of our operations.

The present sports bill before Congress is a good bill. It would place baseball and other sports under the antitrust laws but would exempt such practices as the reserve clause, the draft, waivers and territorial rights.

We have gone a long way and have made many strides. Baseball owes no apologies to anybody for its action or the programs it advocates. Its honesty and integrity are definitely established. The public faith in our sport never has wavered. If there is criticism it is not of the players but of business operations.

The business operation of baseball is changing. I recognize the dangers of corporate ownership but we are going to have more corporations owning ball clubs in the future. A private individual no longer can afford to operate a ball club.

We have our problems. So does everybody. But there is no reason not to be optimistic.

'Greatest NL Race' Says Giles

By WARREN C. GILES
President National League
Written for the Associated Press

CINCINNATI (AP) — Never in my 29 years in the National League—and more specifically during the 14 years as president — have I seen more justified optimism than that which permeated the spring training season this year.

I've become known as the perennial optimist in recent years but the type of pennant races we've been enjoying has made such optimism widespread throughout the National League.

But now, as we prepare for our 90th season I can honestly say that the ingredients are present for what could be the greatest pennant race in history. That was the unanimous opinion of all the persons with whom I visited on a tour of the training camps.

Most baseball personnel, writers and broadcasters said much the same thing in discussing the 1965 National League season.

"I just don't know which club to pick."

Naturally, that's the key factor in anticipating an exciting and hard-fought pennant race. The wonderful balance of power which has existed in our league in recent years is best evidenced by the fact that no club has won two straight pennants in the last five years and that five different clubs have won the flag in that period.

Red Schoendienst, manager of the defending champion St. Louis Cardinals, knows this fact of life as do his players. They know, that with the steady improvement of the Mets and Astros, there is no soft touch in the league and the stiffest possible competition will be forthcoming from the Phillies, Reds, Giants, Braves, Dodgers, Pirates and Cubs.

It might be too much to hope for a repetition of the finish we had last year when four clubs still held a chance to win, or tie, on the second last day of the season.

CC Track Team Opens Season Here Tuesday

The Colorado College track squad opens its outdoor season Tuesday at Washburn Field. The triangle meet with Nebraska State College of Chadron, and Western State College of Gunnison, will start at 2 p.m.

Coach Frank Flood says the Tigers are in good shape for a full week of activity. Wednesday they travel to Alamosa to meet Adams State and New Mexico Highlands, then home Saturday for another contest with Colorado State College and Southern Colorado State College.

"We have an outstanding team this year," Flood said. "Two of the best are our seniors Ed Loosli and Tony McGinnis. Loosli was the low and high hurdle champion of the Rocky Mountain Conference last year and also holds the school high jump record of 6'4". McGinnis holds the one and two mile records in the Rocky Mountain Conference."

Mike Norris will be the one to watch in the javeline throw for Colorado College, He is expected to break the school record this year. Two good quarter-milers on the squad are Bob Grand and Lyle Hayes.

Among the good freshmen this year are Bob Pollack and Dean Santos scheduled for the sprints and Jim Anderson in the hurdles and discus. Two freshman pole vaulters are Lance Clark and Dave Schaeffer. Another freshman in the lineup is Tom Cohen who will compete in the high jump.

A junior and two sophomores at Colorado College are slated for action in the middle distance events Tom Jervis, Jack Hunter and Jim Turner. Steve Kopesky, a junior, will probably be the outstanding shot putter for the Tigers.

Terror Hitters Club Central Nine To Retain First Place in League

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

PUEBLO — Palmer bats, which snapped to life in the late innings against Wasson Tuesday, continued to boom here Saturday morning as Jerry Hughes' Terrors crushed Pueblo Central 12-4 to run their winning streak to seven games.

The triumph, their fourth straight in South Central League competition, was another big step toward the first conference baseball crown for the Tribe since 1960. Central, tied for the SCL lead when the week got underway, sank farther down the standings as a result of its second straight loss. The Wildcats, now 2-2, had dropped a Wednesday start to Pueblo Centennial.

The Terrors, who had used superb pitching in recording their first six wins, had to call on the hitters for an assist Saturday after Central jumped out to a quick 3-0 lead. Starter Phil Johnson was victimized by his own wildness and non-support by his mates as the Cats tallied a pair of unearned runs in the first.

Rich Roblek's two out homer in the bottom of the second padded the Central margin to 3-0 and after the Terrors bounced back to force a tie in the top of the third, Johnson yielded a fourth run to the Wildcats in the last half of that frame. Hughes then summoned ace Tom Medlicott, to the rescue in Central's half of the fourth and the Wildcats were through. The powerful Palmer southpaw, who had fanned 18 Wassonites Tuesday, walked four but didn't allow a hit over the final four innings Central never mustered another serious threat.

Meanwhile the Palmer hitters were enjoying a field day. Wildcat starter, Dan Kochevar, had allowed only a single baserunner over the first two stanzas but by the time the Terrors had driven him to cover in the sixth he might easily have been a victim of shellshock.

Led by the versatile Johnson and shortstop Ollie West, the Tribe cracked out 12 hits in what was easily its most productive outing of the campaign. Included were six for extra bases, four doubles and a pair of three-baggers by West. Johnson had three hits to pace the assault but Fred Romero, Larry Williams and Ken Rose all joined West at the two hit level.

Even with the decisiveness of the final score, the Terrors had their anxious moments in the early going. Johnson, who was just missing the corners, walked Roblek on four straight pitches to lead off the first inning and after Dan Robson had bounced into a force play, George Dasco drew a pass.

Then followed a pair of disastrous plays in the field. Rich Martinez bounced a ball toward second which Jay McKee fielded cleanly but dropped as he started his pivot on the bag. Dan Smith followed with a long fly to center which went in and out of the grasp of Richard Grapp while two runs sped home.

Roblek added to the damage in the second by belting a shot over the fence in left field to provide the Cats with a three-run margin — and the situation was beginning to get serious.

Rose, who had delivered the game winning hit against Wasson, finally got the Terrors underway Saturday. His double to lead off the third launched a three-run frame that saw the first of West's triples plate the initial tally. Romero then singled home West and actually traveled on to third as the Wildcat centerfielder kicked the ball. However, on an appeal play at second, Romero was ruled out for not touching the base.

Johnson and Williams followed with successive doubles to tie the score but Kochevar escaped further damage at that point by fanning Roger Green to retire the side. A booming double by Smith and Kochevar's Texas League single into short right lifted Central back into the lead at 4-3 in the bottom of the third, but once again it was temporary.

A walk and West's second triple knotted the count in the fourth and the Terrors got their first lead in the fifth as Williams singled and Grapp doubled him home. With Medlicott in command Palmer then broke it open with five runs in the sixth as the Central defense collapsed behind Kochevar. The Terrors got their final two runs off reliever Bob Martinez in the seventh.

In the only other SCL action Saturday, Centennial remained a game behind the Terrors by drubbing helpless Trinidad, 17-0.

The spring pitching roster of the Kansas City Athletics has an international flavor. Three of the hurlers were born in Cuba and one each in Poland, Canada, Dominican Republic and Puerto Rico.

BETWEEN THE LINES

by Loy Holman

It's Mets & Athletics!

It's that time of year again when our feathered friends gather twigs for their annual tree-top construction jobs, young gals resume the chase of the opposite sex replete with bermudas, goose bumps and ice-blue gams and a new twinkle in the eye—and everybody's getting into the act of settling a summer-long baseball race by giving you October's World Series opponents although the first ball hasn't left the pitcher's hand.

* * *

* * *

But resting on laurels of a year ago when the guess here happened to turn out with the Yanks and Cards dividing the Series loot, and also because it seems too easy to go with frontrunners, I'm devoting the space this season to predicting the mighty battle for last.

Monday's opening day games include home games for those of you who join me in scoring baseball like golf for a change. Let it be recorded here and now that should no major catastrophe come about in the next next five months, the New York Mets and Kansas City Athletics will be on the top of the list — with least victories counting like a sub-par round in pasture pool.

For this reason, the Mets ought to pack Shea Stadium for Monday's first pitch. Oh, there may be a couple other reasons like the draw of Warren Spahn chucking to Yogi Berra and the expert leadership in dropped pop flies from the incomparable Casey Stengel. But still, the New Breed will turn out like mosquitoes sighting a topless bathing suit as they get the premonition their beloved bums have the chance of setting a new record — most games without a victory!

And over in the other league, cynically called the Junior Loop by their New York brethren who have been on the scene less than a half-dozen seasons, it should be another picnic.

Charlie O — the Finley in the front office dreaming new ways to harass the other stoggy owners — will have Charlie O. (the mule mascot) in Kansas City's center field mowing the grass and intimidating the opponents. It's also rumored that going along with the green theme of the team (and that phrase is enough to make Muhammed Ali jealous) he may have his bats all colored a verdant hue and even paint the balls to match the lawn — and wouldn't that raise havoc with the haughty leaguemates.

So much for the leaders. But I suppose all you readers are waiting with baited eyes for the rest of the order. So here goes.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

1. New York 2. Houston 3. Chicago 4. Milwaukee 5. Los Angeles 6. Pittsburgh 7. San Francisco 8. Philadelphia 9. St. Louis 10. Cincinnati.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

1. Kansas City 2. Washington 3. Boston 4. Los Angeles 5. Detroit 6. Cleveland 7. Minnesota 8. Baltimore 9. Chicago 10. New York.

In most cases, the reasons for this year's choice are pretty obvious. Houston's Astros (or what ever they're calling 'em this trip) could give the Mets a pretty fair run, what with their dandy dome under which it seems impossible to catch a fly ball. However, the Texans will also have more experience under the dreaded sky-light than the opposition, so could be a threat to move further down in the above standings.

The Cubs are still on Phil Wrigley's 20-year building plan, Milwaukee will be playing before a hostile crowd all the time with the impending move to Atlanta, and the Dodgers are without a sound Sandy K.

As for the lower divisions clubs, the Pirates are still trying to regroup from their moment of glory a few years back, the Giants get a lot of runs but succeed in giving up more, the Phillies are in a state of shock from the tremendous 10-game streak at the end of last season which blew the pennant, no team repeats in the NL so the Cards are out, and that leaves Cincy's Redlegs with a long pitching staff and a solid defense to fail to lose as many as the others.

As always, the American League is more of a soft touch for these silly prognostications. But it could turn out to be a tough down-to-the-wire fight with the Senators pushing KC for the booby prize. They often seem about as inept at getting anything across as their cross-town buddies on Capitol Hill and have tradition, if nothing else, going for them.

Boston's beans rate higher than the Red Sox, the Angels have Dean Chance, period; and Detroit can't make up its mind which way to go so will remain in the middle.

Cleveland has inherited Ralph Terry from the Yanks and along with Rocky Colavito and Chuck Hinton in other trades the Indians could win a few. Minnesota is nearly as bad as KC and the Senators in the field, but with switches of Harmon Killebrew from left field to first and Bob Allison going to the outfield, some of this could be foiled. Pitching is thin or the Twins could move closer to the bottom of our rankings.

Baltimore still too unsettled and can't decide what to do with controversial rookie Curt Blefary (31 homers at Rochester last year), but with Boog Powell belting 'em and Steve Barber and Wally Bunker tossing bird shot, the Orioles are just short of the money.

Al Lopez has made his yearly prediction — "The Yankees can be had." But the Senior talks a better game than his White Sox play, and they still haven't changed the rules to allow anyone to steal first base. That's about the only way most of those Chicago batters could get on.

The Yankees are in a rut. In the last 44 years they have finished with less defeats than the other clubs 29 times. Since the boys came marching home again from WWII — it's been even worse — 15 of 18 AL flags, and five in a row.

There's a new guy calling the shots for CBS (oops, I mean Yanks) but Johnny Keane also is used to winning and he should have an easier time in this league and with the N.Y. talent. Mantle may be limping, Whitey Ford's not throwing as hard, and Tiny Kubek has had his troubles. But if Clete Boyer and Roger Maris can keep out of jail there still should be enough left-over swingers to cinch the cellar.

Oh, yes, for those who prefer the conventional system of ranking teams by the number of victories rather than defeats, just turn the above listing upside down. The order's the same.

Kadets Split Twin Bill; Tie for WRL Race Lead

By DICK FOSTER

Air Academy High may not have to be bridesmaids this year.

The Kadets unleased a pretty violent attack on the visiting Canon City Tigers Saturday at the Kadets own "Windtunnel Fielf" and sprinted to an 11-2 victory. It gave Academy a chunk of the Will Rogers League first place, as both the Kadets and Harrison's Panthers show 2-0 league records. Academy then lost an afternoon bout with Lakewood, 14-5.

It is too early to say that Academy will finally become a bride, but if Saturday's show was typical of the Kadets' power, they should be a solid contender in the "upperest" crust of the WRL. Canon City, highly touted in loop baseball was soundly spanked by "Big Blue."

John Gannon's brilliant pitching effort was the first thing to hit Canon City in the face. The lanky lefthander pitched four innings of shut out ball, giving up just two hits before the Tigers scratched a mark on the scoreboard.

In the fifth inning, Gannon gave up two hits and two runs, and pitched the last two frames in shutout fashion. Canon City got no extra base hits, and only four singles at that. The Kadet southpaw faned 18 and that silenced any Tiger growls except those of disgust.

It may have been too short a day at bat for the visitors, but it was a much longer day in the field. Academy bats peppered and blasted all morning long.

Shortstop Dan Brereton went five for five, including a double and a triple; pitcher Gannon hit three for five; Rudy Hallenbeck and Bill Wood hit back to back homers on two consecutive pitches; Wood hit another double and Ron Miller tripled. Besides that, Bob Gosline got three free trips to first and scored on every one.

Brereton and Gannon both singled and later tallied to lead off Academy scoring in the first inning. Gosline walked in the second. Brereton followed with a double to score Gosline. Brereton later scored on an error.

Mark Baker made first by fielder's choice and scored on Wood's double to round out second inning scoring and give Academy a 5-0 jump.

Gosline walked again in the third and scored later on Gannon's single. In the fourth, Hallenbeck made first, and scored on Miller's triple. Miller later came home with Gosline on Brereton's triple. Hallenbeck and Wood slammed fifth inning homers to left and right field in the fifth, ending the Kadet barrage.

All told, Academy pounded out 13 hits against two Tiger pitchers. Dan Scavarda gave up the first six runs and eight hits and Dee Betts finished for Canon. He threw two wild pitches and hit two batters in the process. A bad day at "Big Blue" field, to put it briefly.

The Kadets silenced Canon City's Tigers Saturday morning, but they ran into a much more ferocious breed of Tigers in the afternoon. The Tigers of Lakewood High School battered Academy 14-5.

It was pretty much of a rerun of the morning contest — in reverse.

The non-league contest saw a corps of Lakewood's big bats swat at Academy for 18 hits. The Kadets picked up only five in the entire contest.

The Lakewood - type Tigers had three quick runs before Academy could set up their defense. Joe Wise was the first batter. He doubled, and Bob Liedike singled right behind him. Dave Sorenson, the third batter, then homered.

Lakewood picked up one run each in the second and third two in the fourth and two in the fifth, and just for insurance, they added five more in the seventh. Roger Karolick scored two runs for Academy and drove in another on his fourth inning homer which scored John Gannon. Karolick scored in the third on Mark Baker's double after he walked, and then homered in the fourth. Baker later scored on his double, when Joe Kirkwood singled him in. Bob Gosline was the fifth Academy score. He walked in the sixth, and went around on two wild pitches.

Kadets Win Aurora Relays

AURORA — The Air Academy High Kadets walked away with top honors during the annual Aurora Relays as the Big Blue thinclads, paced by Tony Blanchard and speedster Ken Peterson, won the Division 2 title by topping the field of 25 teams.

Denver East won the Division 1 crown.

Douglas County finished second behind Academy High in the Division 2 competition. Academy High tallied 55 points, while Douglas County scored 37 points, followed by Greeley West (36), Lafayette (33) and Julesburg (27) to round out the top five teams in the 25-team field.

Blanchard, the 200 - pound Academy High strongman, heaved the shot put 53 feet and seven and one-half inches to take first place in that event while Peterson, who is the son of the Kadet track coach Glenn Peterson, won the 100-yard dash in 10.4 seconds.

Peterson also ran on the winning Academy High relay teams in the 440 and 880-yard relay events. The Kadets also placed second in the sprint relay and placed third in the high and low hurdles.

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Billy Hardwick, 22-year-old sharpshooter from San Mateo, Calif., won a three-way contest Saturday to capture the $25,000 first prize in Professional Bowling's Tournament of Champions.

The 35-year-old Weber won $12,500, Joseph $6,500.

The $100,000 Firestone Professional Bowlers Association tournament started Wednesday with a field of 43 and ended with head-to-head competition among the top three Saturday.

Palmer Gymnasts Post Win

The Palmer gymnastics team lost its first dual meet of the season when the Terrors went under to Aurora Central Friday night, 60-44, on their home court.

Need a "2G" second car?- buy the one they race.

Who says a second car must be second rate! (Virtuous—yes. Sensible—of course. But a bore? Never!!) Who says a sports car must be dangerous! (Agile—certainly. Spirited—to be sure. But a menace? Nonsense!!)

Case in point: the Austin Healey Sprite.

Our little Sprite wears a modest second-car price tag—under $2000.* It delivers second car mileage—over 30 m.p.g. It has roll-up windows, snug convertible top...and a determination to get along with your wife.

Sprite ALSO happens to be a bona fide racing machine. And the features that commend it to skilled SCAA drivers are welcomed by less venturesome motorists. The 1100 c.c. Austin Healey engine (top speeds in excess of 90 m.p.h.) can be thrashed unmercifully for miles on end. The Lockheed disc brakes in front and 7" drums in the rear bring you to a rapid halt from any speed . . . without weaving or fading.

The steering and the redesigned suspension give you both: flat cornering, comfortable riding . . . plus a secure feel at the wheel. The look is in the grand tradition of fast motoring: Spartan lines, modern shape.

Whether or not you ever race your Sprite is immaterial. The point is, you could. Which makes Sprite a better car . . . and picking up the youngsters or dropping off the laundry a lot more fun.

Who says a second car has to be dull! Certainly not your Austin Healey dealer.

Machebeuf Dumps Cheyenne, 13-12

After enduring three hours and 10 minutes of baseball action — which included a barrage of 21 hits, six pitchers walk 18 batters, three home runs, seven doubles and one triple — Denver Machebeuf managed to survive the single game marathon to topple Cheyenne Mountain, 13-12, Saturday in non-conference play at the latter's new baseball field.

The loss gave the Cheyenne team a 5-2 won-loss record to date in Will Rogers League play, the Cheyenne baseballers are 1-1.

In Saturday's Machebeuf - Cheyenne encounter, the Indians enjoyed a 11-7 edge going into the top of the seventh when the Buffs exploded for seven runs to pull out the victor despite the fact the Tribesmen attempted to rally at their last time at bat.

Cheyenne's ace chucker Ted Garcia took the loss as the lefty took over the pitching chores in the seventh with one man out and allowed four runs to score during his two-thirds of an inning on the mound.

Bill Massarand, who is hitting at a .600 clip, highlighted Cheyenne's 12-hit attack by collecting two doubles and a home run.

Slated Saturday at Wasson Stadium

Sparkling Field Set for Annual Pikes Peak Relays

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Another sparkling field is due here Saturday for the annual running of the Pikes Peak Relays, the meet that ranks as Colorado Springs' top contribution to major high school track and field in the state each spring.

The competition, which may be run in two divisions for the final time, will attract 16 teams from around Colorado. The Relays, choice of many cinder experts as one of the smoothest meets conducted anywhere in at Wasson Stadium with the Class "A" field events slated to start at 12:30 p.m. and the first of the races coming at 2 p.m.

Defending champion East Denver will not be in this year's field due to a Denver League ruling that prohibits member schools from competition during that conference's spring vacation. That law will also eliminate Manual, fourth place finisher a year ago and a former champion.

The "AA" field will also include perennially strong Palmer team, runner-up in 1964 and the only two-time Class "AA" champ, will likely enter this year's attraction as the top favorite. The well-balanced "Thunderbirds were to get their first test of "big meet" competition at the Centennial Invitational in Pueblo Saturday.

Jim Hartman's host Wasson Tigers are unable to come, their spot will probably be filled by the other Colorado Springs entry.

Both East and Centennial and from upstate teams entered include Iver Ranum, Ladewood, Aurora Hinkley, and Cherry Creek Hartman said late last week that Lakewood had indicated that an administrative ruling at that school might mean its withdrawal. The Wasson coach was to hear definitely early this week and if the Tigers spot will probably be filled by have expressed an interest in one of several other teams who participating.

Despite the reshuffling of Colorado's prep realignment this year, a number of area teams will remain in Class "A" for 1965. Harrison, Cheyenne Mountain, Widefield, and Air Acadmey High were all elevated to the top classification by Board of Control edict last fall, but they will still compete in the same division of the PPR which they have in the past. Meet officials elected to retain that status for at least one more season, but the format may be changed before the 1966 running of the Relays.

Defending "A" champion, Cheyenne Mountain, will be hard-pressed to repeat in what appears as a wide open race for honors in that division. Aside from the four Will Rogers League Schools, St. Mary's of Colorado Springs, Salida, Fountain, and Florence will compete for the "A" title. Widefield and Salida are both former winners.

The Pikes Peak Relays are unique in that all competition, including field events, are scored on the basis of performance by four man teams. Individual winners are also noted in the field events, but they do not figure in the team scoring. The meet has also been limited to eight teams in each division so that, with the exception of the shuttle hurdle relays, there is no necessity for hosts in any race. Every race in both classes is a final, once the leadoff hurdle event has been completed.

In its early seasons the local meet was plagued by bad weather conditions and was actually scheduled three years before it first running was possible. Conditions have been more favorable in the past few seasons, however, and records in the Relays compare favorably with those of any of the big prep meets around the state.

Wasson Beats Lakewood 9 With Two in 11th

By MORRIS FRASER
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

It took six years, five extra innings, a three-run homer and an error, but Wasson finally found a sport it could beat Lakewood at.

The northeast Colorado Springs school gained a 7-6, 11-inning victory in Memorial Park Saturday, ending a frustrating slice of history for Wasson athletes and coach Gib Funk.

Thunderbird sports entries had never beaten the upstate Tigers in eight football games, a basketball game and two track meets. Saturday's diamond tilt was the first such between the two schools.

Wasson faced a 2-0 deficit and a hitless attack through the first four innings before Jim Smith slugged a three-run, fifth-frame blast that tied the score and later helped sent the game into extra innings.

Each team scored twice in the ninth inning and Lakewood put over a score in the top of the 11th. Then the T-Birds wrapped it up.

Bob Lynn led off with a walk, moved to second on Smith's follow-up single and to third on a left field error and singled, went to third on a wild pitch. Lakewood removed starting pitcher John Langland in favor of a reliefer Steve Herzberg and third baseman Gary Conkling dropped the ball as Lynn made it home easily. Then Smith, seeing that the ball was out of reach of any Tiger, turned on the gas and roared home with the winning run and the entire Wasson dugout trailing.

Lakewood was determined to keep its mastery over Wasson. Mike Simmons, Tiger grid star, poled a solo homerun over the left field fence in the second inning off Budgie Hamilton, two out after Hamilton and Mike Morphew drew walks with two out.

Lakewood tallied twice in the nine with a single run circuit. Hamilton led off the nith with a singleprun circuit blow to left. Lynn got on base when right fielder Ken White dropped a fly ball. White was immediately pulled from the game. Lynn scored when Kingry interfered with his attempt to reach third and was awarded home.

The Tigers gained a single tally in the 11th on a pair of Wasson errors and a single.

Three pitchers saw duty for the T-Birds as Funk juggled his lineup from the fourth through the ninth innings. All together, they walked one, struck out 13 and allowed ten hits. Wasson mustered only six hits, but never more than one an inning.

Muscle, Speed Displayed at CU Grid Drill

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Lots of muscle and speed showed Saturday at University of Colorado's first spring football scrimmage.

Wilmer Cooks, 216-pound freshman fullback from Dallas, ripped the opposing line to shreds in a rugged show of strength. He scored two touchdowns from 11 and 7 yards out.

Larry Plantz, 188-pound sprinter from El Cerrito, Calif., turned on the juice to outrun defenders on a 55-yard touchdown dash. He also scored from 21 yards.

Their play highlighted a six-touchdown salvo by the first, second and third teams against the fourth, fifth and sixth teams, which failed to score.

The other TDs came on a three yard smash by John Fowler and an eight yard pass play from quarterback Dan Kelly to end Sam Harris.

Houston - Philadelphia Highlights Opening State

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The Houston Astros open the National League season Monday night, meeting Philadelphia in a stadium that now belongs in the category of the fabulous.

The domed stadium, a $31.6 million structure built for baseball, football, boxing and other sports, had its coming out party Friday night.

It spreads over nine acres, is so high ball players can't hit a baseball against the ceiling and its builders call it the eighth wonder of the world.

It awed the crowd of almost 48,000 that turned out for its opening—an exhibition game between the Astros and the New York Yankees, which the Houston won 2-1, in 12 innings.

There were 150 writers here from all over the country to see the fantastic stadium—the first one built for indoor professional baseball—and their responses were most enthusiastic.

Fred Russell of the Nashville Banner said "for night games the playing conditions are so perfect and the setting so colorfully spectacular that it all seems unreal."

"This was the reward for five years and more of tedious, often trying, waiting and it was worth every second of it. This was baseball in a grand opera house setting, what will come to be accepted as the greatest stage on which the game ever has been presented," said Clark Nealon of the Houston Post.

Joe Trimble of the New York Daily News said "the Astrodome is the Taj Mahal of sport—the finest edifice I've ever seen in 30 years on the beat."

Yankee players had some significant statements and Bobby Richardson, a member of the Association of Christian Athletes looked at the walls and declared: "what I like best about this place is no beer ads."

Jim Bouton, Yankee pitcher, declared "Jules Verne must have built this place."

Elston Howard, Yankee catcher, said "this is the nicest place I ever saw."

But some of the Yankees didn't particularly care for the club house quarters. They expected better when they compared them to the magnificant stadium, they said.

Mickey Mantle said "beautiful, but they need better showers."

Roger Maris said "what, no bucket seats in the dugout?"

Widefield Plans for Kids Baseball Program; Practice Set for Monday

Efforts to form a baseball program for youngsters living in Widefield, were discussed at a meeting held at Watson Junior High Saturday as some 120 interested persons attended the organizational meeting.

According to Robert Lee, who along with Homer Van Hooser have conducted the poll to see if the nearly 800 homes in Widefield could support a little league baseball program, the Saturday meeting proved successful as 40 adults and 80 youngsters attended the meeting and were enthusiastic towards forming a baseball program.

Lee was voted president of the baseball movement and Van Hooser was elected vice-president. In addition to electing officers, and various committee chairmen to spearhead the program, the Widefield baseball group also named umpires for the tentative baseball program.

Lee announced that the first practice session for all interested youngsters who would like to play baseball has been set for Monday, April 12, at the Widefield field (located at Widefield Blvd. and Fontaine) beginning at 5 p.m.

Houston Wins First Day Game in Dome

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If major league baseball players miss four fly balls when there is very little sun in Houston's $31.6 million Domed Stadium, how many will they miss when the sun shines brightly?

That was a pertinent question Saturday after Houston defeated Baltimore 11-8 in the first daylight game played in the new park.

The day was overcast with little sun shining through the dome, but two Orioles and two Astros had trouble with four of the 24 balls hit into the air.

Left fielders Boog Powell of Baltimore and Mike White of Houston each misjudged a fly, with the balls falling behind them for hits. Oriole catcher John Orsino couldn't make a try for a pop foul behind the plate because he didn't see it.

Center fielder Jim Wynn of the Astros got his glove on a fly but was unable to hold it. Wynn collected four hits in the game while teammate Jim Beauchamp drove in six runs, three with a third-inning homer.

The Astros had another game at night with the New York Yankees.

Dick Stuart's three-run double in the fifth inning powered Philadelphia to a 6-2 victory over Pittsburgh. Stuart's blast came after Steve Blass walked the bases full. Wes Covington added a two-run homer in the sixth.

Vada Pinson celebrated the birth of his daughter with a three-run homer and a run-producing double in Cincinnati's 7-2 triumph over the Chicago White Sox.

Curt Flood and Lou Brock homered as St. Louis defeated Kansas City 6-4.

The Los Angeles Dodgers took advantage of 12 walks and stole five bases in snapping Washington's five-game winning streak 7-4. Pitcher Claude Osteen, a former Senator, rapped two hits in picking up the victory.

The New York Mets nipped Minnesota 5-4 with a four-run rally in the eighth. Jim Hickman's two-run homer capped the outburst.

Glenn Beckert's grounder through the legs of first baseman Lee Thomas produced two runs in the sixth inning and a 3-2 victory for the Chicago Cubs over Boston.

Rain washed out San Francisco and Cleveland.

Detroit played Milwaukee at night.

Jean Saubert Wins Slalom At Tahoe City

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

TAHOE CITY, Calif. (AP) — Oregon State co-ed Jean Saubert missed her plane but won her slalom race in the Far West Kandahar Saturday at Alpine Meadows after a sleepless night.

While the women's championship went to the sturdy American girl, French ace Jean-Claude Killy whipped through a terrific second run in the men's event to overhaul the leaders and win.

With snow falling and blowing through most of the competition, the course was soft. Canada's Nancy Greene, winner of the American National Championship a week ago, lost balance and missed one of the 54 gates on her first run down the serpentine 220-yard course.

Miss Saubert, 22, of McCall, Idaho, made her first run in 50.84 seconds and her second in 49.42 for a two-run total of 1:40.26.

Olympic gold medalist Killy skied down a 57-gate course in 46.22 and went into his second chance trailing Dumeng Giavanoli of Switzerland, 45.33, and Rick Chaffee of Denver University at 45.81.

Then they changed to a run with 56 gates and Killy led off. He posted 46.5 seconds and 1:32.78, which no one could match.

Giavanoli finished second in 1:34.01 after a second run of 48.68. America's Billy Kid from the University of Colorado was disqualified for missing a gate on his second run. Kidd had 1:33.73, which couldn't count because of the disqualification.

Canada's Rod Hebron was third with 46.49 and 48.43 for a total of 1:34.92.

Chaffee slowed to 51.38 for a seventh place finish at 1:37.19.

Italy's Pia Riva finished second among the women with 1:42.30 and Switzeerland's Ruth Adolph took third at 1:42.56.

Miss Saubert finished her classes at Oregon State on Friday afternoon and went to Portland only to find her plane reservation had not been made.

Harrison Tops Fountain Valley

Harrison's Panthers recorded its fourth straight win of the season and Ransom Weber's baseballers are the lone Will Rogers League team undefeated.

The Panthers, along with Air Academy High, also lead the WRL pennant chase via 2-0 records.

In Saturday's contest against Fountain Valley Boys school, the Panthers tallied two runs in the first, second and fifth frames to pull out a 6-4 decision behind the pitching of Mike Johnson. This was the Harrison chucker's second win this season.

Ron Cottingham provided the stick power for the Panthers as the centerfielder collected two hits, scored two runs and drove in two RBI's.

Social Security Gives Income For Life

If you knew you could get a steady monthly income for the rest of your life, would you make a phone call or a trip downtown to find out for sure?

Most people would! Yet, according to Charles W. Feldhauser, district menager of the local Social Security office, many people over 65 who may become entitled to monthly social security checks just do not bother to get in touch with the social security office.

If you are over 65, the chances are four out of five that you are eligible for social security retirement benefits — 85 per cent of the people who are 65 or over can qualify. If you reached 65 in 1964, your chances are even higher — nine out of 10 are eligible.

Even if you continue working after 65, you may still be able to get some social security benefits.

Here is how it works: you may earn up to $1,200 in a year and receive all your social security payments for the year; if earnings are between $1,200 and $1,700, $1 of your social security payments for the year are withheld for every $2 you earn over $1,200. Benefits are withheld on a dollar for dollar basis if earnings go over $1,700.

Also, regardless of your total earnings for the year, you can receive your social security check for any month in which you do not earn over $100 in wages or actively work in your own business. Neither will you lose benefits for any month in which you are age 72 or over.

For example, if a man and wife were entitled to $150 monthly social security benefits, he could earn $1,700 in a year and still receive $1,550 from social security; and even if he earned $3,000 in the year, they would still be paid $250 in social security benefits for the year. Another example: a man who earns $8,000 in a year but earns less than $100 per month in July and August can be paid his social security benefits for those two months.

The Social Security Administration has been stressing the importance of getting in touch with your social security office if you are 65 years of age or older. But those of you between age 62 and 65 should know that you, too, may be able to get social security benefits if you keep working. Of course, if you do receive benefits before age 65, the monthly amount of your benefits will be reduced. Even if you decide to take benefits in a reduced amount and receive only partial benefits each year because your earnings are over $1,200, an automatic recalculation of the benefit amount will be made when you reach age 65. The amount may be adjusted upward to take into account the fact that some checks had to be withheld because of your employment.

A free booklet entitled "If You Work While You Get Social Security Payments" is available at the Colorado Springs Social Security District Office. A telephone call or letter will bring this booklet to you. The office in Colorado Springs is at 15 S. Weber St.

Newcomers Get Gorge Tickets At Ft. Carson

Newcomers to Ft. Carson and their families are guests of the Royal Gorge Bridge Co. with 1,000 free tickets distributed already in April.

This traditional courtesy extended from the Canon City area is characteristic of the good community relations between Fremont County residents and Ft. Carson personnel, officials said.

Canon City has invited the 5th Infantry Division (Mech.) to maneuver in the extensive city park system in the Royal Gorge area.

Special Services has free admission tickets to the highest suspension bridge and discount tickets to the incline railway that runs to the bottom of the Gorge.

On Sundays and April 18, the Cheyenne Shadows and Peak Service Clubs are taking reservations from enlisted personnel for guided tours to the Royal Gorge.

There were 387 million acute illnesses reported in the nation during a one-year period ending last June 30, the U.S. Public Health Department reported. This was a 13.4 million decline from the previous year.

Condolences Sent at Death Of Cardinal

CHICAGO (AP) — Messages of condolence from around the world poured into Chicago today, mourning the death of Albert Cardinal Meyer and praising his stands on matters both religious and social.

Pope Paul VI sent a message that he was praying "for the repose of his soul."

Cardinal Meyer, 62, archbishop of Chicago since 1958 and a cardinal since 1959, died Friday in Mercy Hospital six weeks after a cancerous tumor was removed from his brain.

He was the spiritual leader of 2,317,700 Roman Catholics in the Chicago archdiocese, largest in the nation.

A hospital spokesman said death was caused "by a progression of the tumor." The prelate had been in a deep sleep since Sunday and had suffered no pain, the spokesman said.

Leaders of the archdiocese were to meet today to designate a temporary archbishop to serve until the Pope names a new archbishop. Auxiliary Bishop Cletus O'Donnell took over the cardinal's duties during his hospitalization.

Messages of sympathy from the American cardinals and from hundreds of persons from all walks of life began arriving at the archdiocese within hours after Cardinal Meyer's death.

Cardinal Meyer, former archbishop of Milwaukee, his native city, was termed a liberal by his peers, but he disavowed the label.

"I always look on both sides of a matter," he would say.

Archbishop Egidio Vagnozzi, apostolic delegate to the United States, will represent Pope Paul at the funeral Mass Tuesday morning in Holy Name Cathedral. All of the American Cardinals except Cardinal Cushing plan to attend. Cardinal Cushing is recovering from recent surgery.

Colorado State University participants on the program include Lewis O. Grant and John D. Marwitz of the atmospheric science department and Vice President A. R. Chamberlain. Grant and Marwitz will present a paper on the application of radar to snow surveying.

Dr. Chamberlain will serve as chairman of the session on weather modification. In charge of local arrangements for the meeting is Jack N. Washichek, Soil Conservation Service snow survey leader, who is based at CSU, Ft. Collins.

African Newspaper Gets to Destination

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Once a week a Johannesburg, South Africa, newspaper starts a long journey to Provo, Utah. But how the U.S. Post Office determines its destination is anybody's guess.

First, the newspaper is directed to "S America." Apparently the mail service doesn't pay attention to continents and sends it to "Provo Wathington, Wash."

Then it goes to "Maere Hall Apt. 70, Hentage Halls." Somebody has decided that's Maeser Hall, Apt. 70 of Brigham Young University's Heritage Halls.

Finally it's delivered to Miss Magret Coetzee. She doesn't live there.

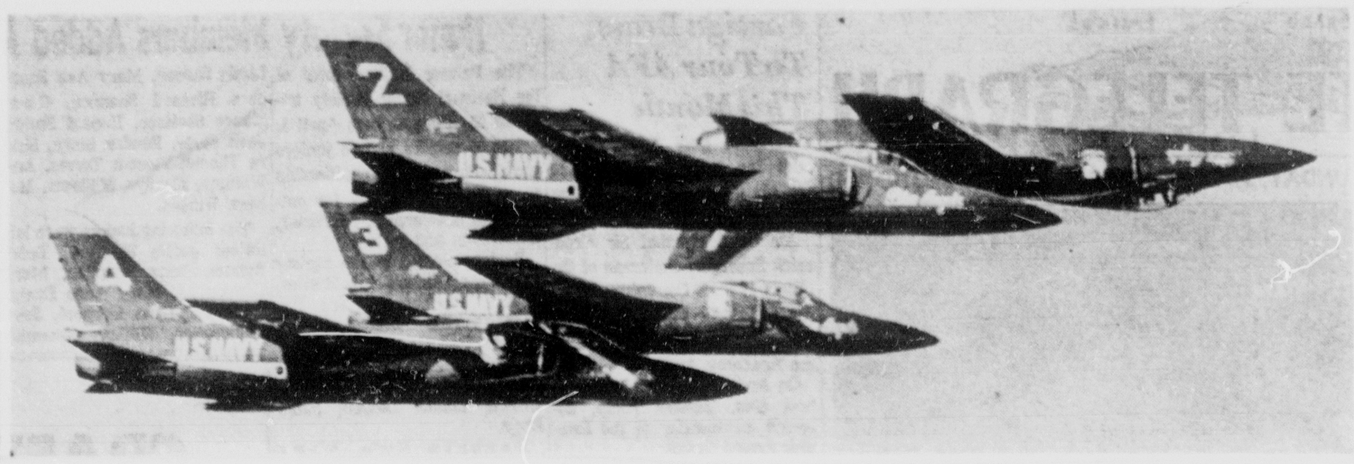
Bank Displays Easter Eggs

Unusual Easter eggs collected from many places throughout the world are on display in the lobby of the Colorado Springs National Bank. The colorful exhibition includes eggs of marble from Italy, of onyx from Mexico, of inlaid wood from Germany, of burnished brass from Japan, and many others.

The interesting assortment of colorful eggs has been acquired over a period of several years by Mrs. Betty Fisher of the bank's safe deposit department. Also in the display are several decorative eggs handcrafted by Mrs. Fisher. In the interior of real egg shells she has created miniature scenes of the Nativity and other subjects, visible through small transparent openings.

An outstanding feature of the display is an upright tree branch adorned with a dozen or more highly decorated eggs. The exhibit is open to the public until after Easter during regular banking hours, 10 a.m.-3 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Friday.



WHO'S WHAT?—Is it one, or three Navy Blue Angels upside down . . . in horizontal flight . . . or are they standing on their tails and climbing to the heavens at supersonic speeds . . . ??? This is the famed Blue Angels pictured in the world's tightest Diamond Formation. Only 36 inches separate the wing tips and canopies with a wing overlap of 14 feet . . . and that's tight. The Navy Team will highlight Armed Forces Week with an aerial demonstration at Peterson Field, May 8.

Blue Angels Feature Of Armed Forces Day

The Blue Angels, officially known as the U. S. Navy Flight Demonstration Team, have over the past 18 years, earned a world-wide reputation second to none. Since their first aerial demonstration in propellor driven Grumman M6F "Hellcats", in 1946, the Blue Angels have thrilled an estimated 70 million people with exact, low level formation flying.

On May 8, at the Peterson Field Armed Forces Week "open house" Blue Angels will fly supersonic F11A "Tigers" in a spectacular aerial display.

In September 1963, when the Team appeared here, during Naval Aviation's Salute to Colorado, more than 10,000 spectators were held spellbound with the flight show.

Some of the precision techniques are actually standard fighter maneuvers developed in practice and used in combat by Navy pilots . . . some routines are not in the books and termed, by some, "they can't be done".

The team demonstrates, primarily for student naval pilots, the high performance capabilities of our latest service fighters as well as the high level of training and skill required of Naval aviators.

The team prides itself in being unique. The Blue Angels fly the world's tightest Diamond Formation of any flight demonstration team. Their formations are held tightly together with a 36 inch separation between wing tips and canopies, and the wings overlapping 14 feet while their speed varies from over 500 knots down to 170 knots — just above the minimum flying speed.

About 1 million Americans—one of every 200 persons—is afflicted with epilepsy resulting in seizures or convulsions, the National Institute of Health reports.

The choir will sing a varied program of traditional church music, spirituals and folk music.

Army National Guard Gets Last of Air Defense Units

A three-year program to equip on-site air defense units of the Army National Guard with nuclear-capable missiles will be completed next week.

This was reported by Lt. Gen. Charles B. Duff, commanding general of the Army Air Defense Command (ARADCOM).

Gen. Duff said two Nike Hercules missile sites in the Cincinnati Defense of ARADCOM will be transferred next Tuesday to the Ohio Army National Guard.

The event will marke the end of a phased program under which 48 Army National Guard units representing 16 states and occupying missile sites in 15 defense areas were equipped with the Nike Hercules.

The 48 Hercules units of the Army National Guard represent more than one-third of the nationwide ARADCOM task force. They stand in place of the 76 Nike Ajax units, which were manned by Guardsmen before the Ajax-to-Hercules conversion program was undertaken by the Guard three years ago.

The present balance of active Army and Army National Guard batteries in the air defense system is expected to remain unchanged, Gen. Duff said.

Gen. Duff and Maj. Gen. Winston P. Wilson, chief of the National Guard Bureau, Washington, D. C., will attend next Tuesday's ceremony. It will be held at ARADCOM's Cincinnati Defense Headquarters at Wilmington, Ohio.

Gen. Duff will present Gen. Wilson a plaque mounted with insignia of the 19 artillery regiments of the Army National Guard represented in ARADCOM's task organization.

ARADCOM, as the Army component of the North American Air Defense Command, provides combat-ready Army air defense units to NORAD for the defense of key cities and bases in the United States.

The Army National Guard's transition from Ajax to Hercules missiles began in May, 1952. At that time, four Maryland units were selected to undergo conversion training at the Army Air Defense Center, Fort Bliss, Tex. They became operational in the Washington-Baltimore Defense, Dec. 11, 1962.

Completion of the Ajax-to-Hercules conversion represents another milestone in Army modernization of weapons. In less than a decade — since Sept. 14, 1957, when four California units assumed control of selected Nike Ajax sites in the Los Angeles Defense — the Army National Guard has moved from anti-aircraft artillery guns to the Ajax and to Hercules. Nike Ajax was phased out of the system last May.

The Nike Hercules has a far greater range and altitude capability than Ajax possessed. Hercules can reach out 75 miles and to altitudes greater than 100,000 feet to destroy its targets. It can be fitted either with a nuclear or a conventional high-explosive warhead.

Junior Rotarians Named at Canon High School

Canon City High School Principal John W. Griffin announced today that the faculty has selected Dennis Meese and Mickey Gann to serve as Junior Rotarians for April and May.

This arrangement was decided to allow the boys to serve together as they are Colorado AA State Track Champions. Both boys will graduate in May, and due to final exams will have to cut their stay short for May.

Mickey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gann, has been an outstanding athlete at Canon City High School. He was a football halfback, an all-conference guard in basketball and is the state AA Pole Vault champion for '194.

Some of his duties and honors include: vice president of his class in the ninth grade; members of Motacs, tenth, eleventh and twelfth, and this year, vice president of Motacs. He is a member of the Future Teachers of America; participated in football four years; basketball, four years; Track, four years and holds the prestige of qualifying for the Colorado State Track Championships for four consecutive years. He was awarded the outstanding athlete award in the ninth and tenth grades and this year is one of six students selected to serve as student elementary physical education instructor. Mickey has pole vaulted 13'6" for the state championship.

Dennis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Meese, is known as "Mercury" around Canon City High School. He is one of the fastest young men to ever participate in track and may hold an all-time record for the high and low hurdles. He was selected this year as an all-conference football player with his many long jaunts for touchdowns, and as of now holds the Colorado State AA Track Championships in the high and low hurdles. He ran the low hurdles in 19.4 seconds and the high hurdles in 15 seconds flat.

Some of Dennis's honors and achievements include: basketball for two years; football, four years; track, four years; vice president of the Senior Class; Motac's, three years; and this year president of MOTAC's. He has been a member of F. T. A. for two years and this year is the vice president. He has qualified for the state track meet the past two years, and has served on the class executive committee for three years. He has been a member of the Ski Club for three years.

Wives Pregnant Husbands Suffer

One of every nine men whose wives are pregnant may suffer from pregnancy symptoms resembling his wife's. This is the startling conclusion of Dr. William Henry Trethowan, Professor of Psychiatry, University of Birmingham, England.

There is ample evidence, according to the British psychiatrist, that many men suffer abdominal pain, loss of appetite, indigestion, colic, nausea, even vomiting, without any good physical cause.

Morning sickness, the plague of many pregnant women, may also trouble the father-to-be.

The symptoms usually start at the beginning of the third month, become less troublesome as time goes on, but rise again during the ninth month, reports Dr. Trethowan. They usually disappear completely within a few days after the baby is born, but may recur with subsequent pregnancies.

A common complaint of fathers-to-be is toothache. Dentists have been known to search in vain for an elusive carie, may use all means known to dental science to discover the cause of the discomfort, but find nothing. Nonetheless the patient continues to complain of toothache. Some even insist that a tooth be extracted.

Dr. Trethowan believes that the toothache may be due to the prospective father's acceptance of the myth that pregnancy causes tooth decay. The physician points out that the old wives' tale, "For every child a tooth," is so widespread that even medical students accept it until specifically taught better.

Why do men have sympathy pains? Dr. Trethowan speculates that some men may unconsciously fear that following childbirth their wives' affections may be withdrawn from them and redirected to the child. These men feel guilty and anixous about having such feelings, says the doctor, and may punish themselves unconsciously with unpleasant symptoms.

Other men identify so intensely with theif wives during the period of pregnancy that they experience the same discomforts.

Rest assured, cautions the doctor, no husband ever died of these symptoms. He recalls the obstetricians' joke — "Don't worry, I've never lost a father yet."

Scientist to Address Winter Night Club

An internationally known scientist, will be at the podium when the Winter Night Club convenes Thursday for its regular dinner meeting.

Dr. Ralph Lapp, secretary-treasurer of a Washington, D.C., firm which concentrates on scientific ventures in nuclear instrumentation, will speak on Red China's emergence as a nuclear power.

The international significance of Red China's radioactive explosion will be treated in depth by Dr. Lapp, who began his professional career during World War II as a nuclear physcist working on the A-bomb.

The dinner - meeting, to be held at the Broadmoor Hotel ballroom, will get underway at 7 p.m.

Dr. Lapp is regarded as a pioneer in exposing complex technical problems to public discussion. He is credited with playing a key role in public enlightenment of the fall - out issue and nuclear bomb test. He journeyed to Japan to write the story of the Japanese fisherman exposed to fall-out in the Pacific. His book, "The Voyage of the Lucky Dragon," written in 1957 was published in eight foreign editions.

As an author of magazine articles, Dr. Lapp has contributed to such national publications as the Saturday Evening Post, Life, The Reporter, The Reader's Digest and Harper's Magazine.

Dr. Lapp has written almost a dozen books, the latest being "Science and Democracy." His book on "Matter" for the LIFE Science Library sold a quarter million copies. "Kill and Overkill: The Strategy of Annihilation," published in 1962, a selection of the Library of Science, was a study of "peace through mutual terror," and anticipated the atomic cutbacks and other defense changes.

Retirement Ceremony Held At Ent AFB

Fourteen Ent Air Force Base personnel with a combined military service of 275 years retired in recent ceremonies here.

Included in this latest group of retirees are a WAF lieutenant colonel who holds the Bronze Star and a technical sergeant who wears the Silver and Bronze Stars.

Six of the 14 retirees were lieutenant colonels. They are Carl E. Anderson, Donald G. Gilmore, John W. Larimer, Shirley T. O'Dell, Hilton B. Ramsey, and William H. Routon.

Col. Larimer numbers the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with 10 oak leaf clusters among his awards and decorations. Col. Ramsey also holds the Air Medal with three oak leaf clusters. Col. O'Dell, a WAF officer, holds the Bronze Star for "heroic or meritorious achievement . . . in connection with operations against an armed enemy."

Also retiring were Majors John S. Elam Jr., and George H. Wolfe. Major Elam is a holder of the Air Medal with five oak leaf clusters while Major Wolfe boasts the Joint Service Commendation Medal.

Six enlisted men packed away their blue uniforms. They were CM. Sgt. Ernest E. Kovaly, SM. Sgt. Thomas I. Smith Jr., M. Sgt. Clifford N. Crouch, M. Sgt. Arba L. Sims, M. Sgt. George L. Sturdivant and T. Sgt. Marvin Segal. All six of these retirees have illustrious wartime records and one, Sgt. Segal, is the holder of the Silver Star, Bronze Star and the Purple Heart with one oak leaf cluster.

SKIN ANTISEPTIC

Iodine continues to be the best antiseptic when used properly. It is highly effective against bacteria, fungi, viruses, and protozoa. The chemical is not perfect but the same can be said of other germ killers. And the best of the iodine products is the old reliable — tincture of iodine.

This solution contains 2 per cent free iodine in 50 per cent alcohol. Some become sensitive to the tincture and it may irritate the skin and exposed tissues (partly because of the alcohol). Chemists have tried to overcome these drawbacks by making iodine preparations that are not sensitizing or irritating yet capable of killing bacteria. Several nonalcoholic iodophors on the market are excellent disinfectants but none is superior to alcoholic iodine in this regard. They are easier on the skin but the sensitizing effect of iodine remains.

Many soaps and detergents contain the antiseptic, hexachlorophene. The effectiveness of this combination depends upon its ability to leave a film on the skin. This is more likely to occur after repeated applications. The film is easily removed with alcohol and to a lesser extent with ordinary soap and water.

Ethyl alcohol also is used as an antiseptic and is most effective in 70 per cent concentration. Isopropyl alcohol is slightly more potent but twice as toxic as ethyl alcohol when taken internally. These products are used most frequently as a skin cleanser when giving hypodermic injections. The antibiotics also are good skin antiseptics.

There are several quaternary ammonium compounds that are useful. They contain no iodine, phenol, mercury or other heavy metals. Most of these are used by surgeons who must sterilize their hands prior to an operation. In addition, the site of the operation on the patient must be disinfected. It is here that irritation, drying effects, and sensitivity are important considerations.

Abrasions and other minor wounds should be washed gently with soap and water, especially when the injured area is dirty. Soap is mildly antiseptic but it is the mechanical aspects of washing away the bacteria that helps most. The tissues are not irritated and healing prompt if the wound is covered with a dry, sterile dressing.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

MISNOMER

Mrs. F. writes: What is post-hospital hepatitis?

REPLY

This is not an accepted term; it probably is a pet expression of your physician. I assume it means that a patient develops a liver infection with jaundice after hospitalization. Serum hepatitis may occur several weeks after receiving a transfusion.

PORK AFTER CORONARY

J. S. writes: I have recovered from a heart attack and would like to know if pork is taboo. I crave bacon or ham but would not want to eat these meats if they are forbidden.

REPLY

They are not taboo unless the blood cholesterol level is high and your physician recommended a low fat diet.

DEAF AND DUMB

Mrs. L. writes: Are mute children born that way or does the condition result from the inability to hear?

REPLY

From the latter. The vocal cords of these children usually are normal but they remain mute because they never have heard the spoken word.

SUGAR CURE

Mrs. G. writes: Is sugar a cure for alcoholism?

REPLY

No, but wouldn't it be wonderful if it were?

Two Men Arrested In Akron Shooting

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Police arrested two men in connection with the fatal shooting today of one policeman and the critical wounding of two others.

The men, who police said were suspects in two robberies earlier in the day, were arrested at the home of one of them, according to detective Lt. Robert George.

The men, both Negroes, offered no resistance, George said.

The men were not identified immediately.

George said the policemen were shot as they attempted to handcuff the suspects. He said one of the wounded officers, reserve policeman Harold Winthrow, gave police the description and license number of the suspects' car and it was traced to the neighborhood where the men were found.

A gun belonging to one of the patrolmen, Frank Mancini, who was wounded, was taken from one of the suspects, said George.

George said none of the policemen who were shot fired his gun.

Patrolman Eugene Hooper, 41, was shot once in the head and was dead on arrival at Akron General Hospital. Mancini, 25, was shot once in the head and Winthrow, 35, who was unarmed, was shot three times in the back.

Higher Education Debate Scheduled

DENVER (AP) — Debate on a proposed commission for higher education in Colorado is scheduled Monday in the House of Representatives.

Gov. John A. Love made the commission one of his top priority recommendations to the legislature. House Democratic leaders have accepted it, but with changes that Republicans say weaken the commission and tie it too closely to the legislature.

Seven national banks failed in the United States last year.

John Fetler, Book Editor

THE EAGLE KING. By Henry Treece. Random House. 4.95.

An informed retelling of the ancient, tragic tale of Oedipus, prince of Corinth, king of Thebes and darling of classic playwrights and Freudian psychiatrists.

Treece adheres fairly faithfully to the legend, illuminating its more obscure incidents with educated guesses as to what actually happened.

He would have it, for instance, that the Sphinx who waylaid Oedipus with its grimly silly question actually was Jocasta, the Theban priestess-queen who may have been his mother, wearing a ritual disguise.

In this telling of the legend, it is denied that Oedipus actually was the son of King Laius, whom he killed, and Queen Jocasta, whom he unmasked, humbled and married.

The denial is not particularly convincing, but in Treece's view the relationship is irrelevant in any case. He says the patricide and incest for which Oedipus was condemned were ritual crimes, involving the ancient taboos dramatized in the legend of Cronus, Rhea and Zeus.

The author envisions Oedipus as a social reformer who liberalized a prehistoric police state and conferred some measure of freedom and dignity on its people, only to have them turn on and rend him when the country was ravaged by natural disaster.

Treece sets his story in an environment about 5,000 years old, in the days when men were just graduating from tools of stone to bronze.

"The Eagle King" is scholarly, but not pedantic. Except for an author's note at the end explaining the archeological and mythical background of Treece's amiably cynical speculations, the book is a lusty tale of battle, death that would be enjoyable, murder, sex and sudden death that would be enjoyable even if you had never heard of an Oedipus complex.

BARDOT M.P.? By A. P. Herbert. Doubleday. $4.50.

Aggrieved Englishmen write testy letters to the Times of London to complain about the decline of society as they knew it. A. P. Herbert fights back against bureaucracy and the income tax man with satire, the weapon he has used successfully in "Punch" for more than 30 years. This is a collection of modern misleading cases, as he calls his fictional but quite believable reports of trials. "Bardot M.P." shows what happens when Britain becomes so integrated in the European Common Market that foreigners can run for parliament. It is a pleasant situation, on the one hand. "Mademoiselle Bardot, . . . is one of the few women Members who venture boldly into the citadel of Man, the Member's Smoking Room, and are always welcome." But on the other hand, Herbert contends that "the fair exchange of goods is a splendid thing; on the exchange of laws we stand to lose" in trade with Europe. Some of the other subjects of the trials are a computer gone made, an irate taxpayer who insists on floating his check to the Inland Revenue in a bottle, and a skywriter who is sued for libel.

HOW TO LIVE LIKE A LORD WITHOUT REALLY TRYING. By Shepherd Mead. Simon & Schuster. $4.95.

The author spoofs the English in this novel as he did business in "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying." Some Americans think of upper-class Englishmen as being tweedy, but if you went to a cocktail party in the country dressed in tweeds and could convince your host that you weren't the gardener coming around for his pay, you would find the English gentlemen dressed in black suits with black shoes and stiff-colored shirts. Cut off their heads and they would all look alike. In this amusing satire, Mead shows how the British thrive in the modern world while clinging to old customs. For Americans who wish to rise in British society—outdoing the natives at their own game — Mead points out the possibilities.

DESIGN FOR SURVIVAL. By Gen. Thomas S. Power, USAF (Ret.). Coward-McCann. $5.

The newly retired commander-in-chief of the Strategic Air Command says we can't trust the Soviets to keep their side of the bargain in a disarmament treaty because they've broken some 40 agreements with the United States since 1944. Even if an agreement was signed for an international team to conduct on-the-spot inspections the Soviets could start underground production of missiles and about all we could do would be to scold them. By then it would be impossible for us to rebuild our dismantled nuclear force to catch up with them. Power says it is necessary for us to build more missiles than we need to destroy targets, to compensate for errors & missiles destroyed on the ground. He says bombers will never be obsolete because the Soviets might perfect their anti-missile defenses & we will then need planes to destroy their defenses so our missiles can get through. Power believes the only way a nuclear war can be prevented is to convince the Soviet that we are powerful enough to come out ahead if a war is started.

LINCOLN'S SCAPEGOAT GENERAL. By Richard S. West Jr. Houghton Mifflin. $7.50.

Whenever discussion turns to the Civil War's breed of political generals, the first name that comes to mind is Benjamin F. Butler. He was "Beast" Butler to the South, so much detested that Jefferson Davis proclaimed him "an outlaw," to be hung immediately if captured. To the North, he was a classic example of ineptitude and bungling on the battlefield.

In this excellent biography, Richard West adds other dimensions to Butler's picture —skilled lawyer, reformer — particularly in bettering the lot of workers in the mills and factories of his native New England — and an administrator of unquestioned ability. It is not a new approach; Robert S. Holzman gave Butler his due in "Stormy Ben Butler" 30 years ago.

West has treated controversial incidents of Butler's career in fresh depth, notably his career as military governor of New Orleans, and he develops Butler's family life and the appealing sides of his complex character with warmth and understanding. His book is not an apologia, far from it, but he is less critical than Holzman. This difference is apparent especially in treatment of Butler's military achievements—or lack of them.

Butler's operation in the 1864 campaign against Richmond offers an example. West acknowledges without qualification that Butler lacked military experience and training. But, where West ascribes some responsibility to subordinates' errors and explains Butler's maneuvers as logical, Holzman emphatically makes the point that Butler had a golden opportunity and muffed it. On this score, at least, Holzman has the weight of other historians' opinion with him.

Bruce Catton and Clifford Dowdey, to name two contemporaries of note, say Butler allowed himself to be cooped up on the narrow peninsula of Bermuda Hundred, put out of the war as if he had been corked in a bottle, as Gen. Grant put it.

Such differences of viewpoint do not detract from the value of West's work. In presenting the evidence factually, and letting the reader judge for himself in large measure, it is possible that he has presented Butler in all his bewildering complexity and contradictions in truer dimensions than could otherwise have been achieved.

THE WORM RE-TURNS. Edited by James V. McConnell. Prentice Hall. $3.95.

"Today, Science stands fair to join Religion, Motherhood and the Flag as a domain so sacrosanct and so sanctimonious that leg-pulling isn't allowed. Levity is forbidden, and smiling is is scowled at. Should Science ever become such a domain, of course, you can write it off as a lost cause."

Thus McConnell defines the basic reason for what's behind his book. It is a selection of science-spoofing papers, verses and cartoons which have appeared in an odd little publication called "The Worm Runner's Digest."

The Digest itself is an outgrowth of a mimeographed bit of nonsense that psychologist McConnell and some of his colleagues began sending around to explain certain experiments on flatworms.

So what we have here is an opportunity to share the In Group humor of sober researchers in their more volatile moments.

Many of these straight-faced essays are wildly flippant takeoffs on the jargon, methodology, narrow viewpoint and rigid conservatism of the experimental laboratory. There also is a dizzy exploration of formal logic's absurdities. With a bow to Lewis Carroll, there is a fantasy on "Alice's Adventures in Evolutionland." McConnell himself contributes a very sharp satire called "Learning Theory."

The book succeeds very well in demonstrating, as the editor puts it, "that a scientist can be both half-serious and half-wit."

(Some readers may recall another dazzling and delicious example of In Group humor — in this case, dealing with the nuttiness of literary criticism — that first was published in 1960, "The Pooh Perplex" by Frederick C. Crews. He set up the idea of reviewing the Winnie-the-Pooh story, and then aped the foolish fluff that a whole menagerie of critics might very well have written on such a subject. The book is mentioned here because there is word that Dutton has just issued it in soft cover at $1.15.)

DEATH IN THE CASTLE. By Pearl Buck. John Day. $4.95.

Though Miss Buck is best known for her stories of China and other parts of the Far East, she presents here a change of pace.

The scene is one of the oldest castles of England.

Her principal characters include the aging, irrational Sir Richard Sedgeley, last of his overly proud line; his Lady Mary, who dreamily seems convinced she can bear the spirits of the royal, noble and errant figures who have lived in, or visited, this ancient pile of stone; Wells, the enfeebled but devoted servant; Kate, the supposed granddaughter of Wells, a sweet, pink-cheeked and innocent young woman.

And then there is John Blayne, wealthy, masterful son of a blustering American tycoon, who is interested in the castle because he wants to transport it, stone by stone, to Connecticut, where it will house the superb collection of Old Masters assembled by his sainted mother.

You just know, early in the first chapters, where the romantic but will develop between good old John and sweet Kate.

The big question, now that Sir Richard can't cope with taxes any more, is what will become of the castle. So there's melodrama.

(Aside to male readers: Long since, you've given up. You probably won't get past the opening.)

The author has done some striking things in the past, when she has been dealing with other subjects. This time she has written in quaintly archaic, magazine style, a formula romance. If you must have a go at this, it's better that you should wait for the movie.

THEY WILL BE HEARD. America's Crusading Newspaper Editors. By Jonathan Daniels. McGraw-Hill. $6.50.

Daniels has taken an unusual approach to one of the most colorful aspects of the nation's history.

He reviews the careers of dozens of the most vigorous journalistic crusader, from the days of the Stamp Act to the present. But very definitely, he does not limit himself to the popular or supposedly "right" causes, for as he points out, some of the crusades were "less than universally popular," and sometimes at odds with each other.

"The range of crusade runs all the way from caress to cockleburr," he notes. "Not the causes for which crusading editors fought but the vitality which they brought to their views has been the mark of the breed."

There are giants, from Zenger to Greeley to Pulitzer and beyond, but there are also some forgotten men in these accounts. There are great contrasts — Virginia's Edmund Ruffin (who fired the first shot at Sumter) became a martyr to the cause of slavery; Elijah Lovejoy, dying in a hail of bullets at Alton, Ill., became a martyr in the cause of abolition; and in this century Don R. Mellett, "shot down and killed in his own dooryard by the hoodlums of the racketeer politicians," a martyr for the sake of clean civic government.

Everyone has heard of the writer Lafcadio Hearn and the publisher Joseph Pulitzer. But who is familiar with John Albert Cockerill? In Cincinnati he discovered Hearn, and in New York he showed Pulitzer how to develop the sensational type of journalism for which he became famous.

Daniels, as editor of The News and Observer in Raleigh, N.C., and as the author of 14 other books, knows how to bring events to life, through the sort of lively narratives and brisk writing to be found in this book.

A BARONIAL HOUSEHOLD OF THE THIRTEENTH CENTURY. By Margaret Wade Labarge. Barnes & Noble. $5.

There is a relatively small, but utterly devoted, coterie of readers who delight in the romantic chronicles of the medieval world.

Armored knights, keeps, dungeons, feasts in the great hall, vigils at the altar before riding off to the Crusades, haunting ballads, and all that. Good guys and bad guys who wear their hair long, carry daggers and toss off a flagon of wine. It's a lusty, fascinating world.

In this field it is the top novelists who get the most attention — Zoe Oldenbourg, Mary Renault, Rosemary Sutcliff, to name a few.

But this isn't fiction. Followers of the genre will find it a handbook of medieval life, an exploration of the business of living in that world, an interesting complement to the stirring novels.

It is a study based largely on some household accounts of a great castle in 1265, with additional insights from other sources.

It gets into all sorts of matters on the architecture of castles, the food for man and beast, the transportation of the day, the taxes and table etiquette, the laundry and means of communication, the games and fun, the bureaucracy and management of a noble seat.

Because the subject is a baronial (upper class) household, the modern equivalent would be a study of the pattern of life to be found among cabinet members or governors. It is very soberly written, and rather humorless, but also quite detailed and diligently researched.

In this specialized field, it is a welcome addition to the libraries of those who like to breathe the invigorating air of a great ancestral era, and catch the sound of an ancient trumpet.

AN AREA OF DARKNESS. By V. S. Naipaul. MacMillan. $5.95.

A contemporary view of India, this unusual book presents a highly subjective, opinionated picture.

Yet its very personal nature gives it a certain validity as a documentary account. Certainly the author was in an almost unique position as an observer. By heritage an Indian, he was born and raised in the British colony of Trinidad.

He spent a year living in, and traveling through, many of the cities and remote areas of India. His ancestry gave him one viewpoint, his British education another. He was able to perceive the attitudes and cultural patterns of East and West.

The upshot is, bluntly, that Naipaul finds India pretty much of a mess.

It is not only the contradiction of ancient, fatalistic mysticism and modern political shibboleths. It is not only the curse of caste multiplied by the absurdities of bureaucracy (borrowed blindly from British colonialism). It is a whole frustrating complex of numb poverty and a worthless imitation of modern slogans — without true action. Such is Naipaul's view.

In part of his book the author is like a sociologist-journalist, seeking on-the-spot phenomena in Bombay, in a sleazy resort in the Kashmir, or the pilgrimage route to a mountain shrine. Part of the time he is writing — somewhat stodgily — for the eggheads, considering cultural nuances.

The author is disillusioned with Ghandi and the Taj Mahal, horrified by the absence of sanitation, and disgusted with the natives' alternating sensitivity and blind insensitivity.

As one man's dark view of dark contradictory turmoil, this is a baffling, but shaking report, highly personal, of a way of life. You have to read it with patience and crossed fingers.

Pikes Peak Region Yesterdays

By DORA FOSTER

Many of us here in the Pikes Peak Region are still feeling the loss of Bruin Inn.

Bruin Inn was the popular recreation spot in North Cheyenne Canon which burned several years ago and which the city has never rebuilt.

When we were small children playing beside Cheyenne road, we frequently saw coming up the road from town an open top buggy, drawn by a long legged brown horse. In the buggy were Mr. and Mrs. Hatch. Neither they nor the horse seemed to be in a hurry. I recall that we children thought they were a queer looking couple, as they wore big round blue sun glasses. We thought them old and they probably were. They never spoke to us but nodded gravely as they passed. We knew they were on their way to their cabins, which we now know were located near the spot on which Bruin Inn stood. We thought at that time that the North Canyon was owned by Colorado Springs. Since Prof. Colorado Springs Gazette and [illegible] years

When I first remember the Hatch's two Cabins they stood about 20 feet apart. In this picture where J. R. Miller is sitting, it seems as if the two cabins had been fastened together. They were deserted at the time. The cabin at the right was used as a dining room of Bruin Inn when the city erected that place of entertainment. It is quite possible the one to the left was torn away.

In June 1902 a small Frenchman, John E. Lavely came to our home one Sunday to ask if we would rent him a tent near our house, which he and Mrs. McDonald would like to occupy for the summer. We rented the tent to them and found Lavley was in the West seeking to regain his health which he had lost in the Spanish American War. Before he had been the owner of a Boat and Shoe store in Boston, Mass.

He was a man everyone liked, and soon against his wishes he was put in charge of the refreshment stand near the band stand in Stratton Park.

I think Bruin Inn was built that same summer and Lavley was put in charge of the place. I remember yet, with great pleasure the small group of us that were invited to the opening supper. Everything was neat and attractive. The huge individual steaks were served to us smoking hot on metal platters. Bruin Inn became so popular that Lavley had almost more than he wanted to do. He drove to town for supplies in a little light wagon drawn by two white horses. We saw him every few days. Although he knew everything there was to know about eating and serving food he knew nothing at all about horses. And one day in the early fall, where now Cheyenne Creek is bridged there was enough ice on the stream to cause one of the white horses to fall into the water, tangle itself in the harness and caused the driver from Boston to merge from that melee with a badly scratched nose and he bore the scar the rest of his life.

It was while he was in charge of the Inn that he became interested in acquiring from Uncle Sam several acres of ground above the Helen Hunt falls, and adjoining the city property. He spent many days up there on that ground planting wild raspberry bushes, then he invited my sister Helen and me to look the place over the later testify in court what we had seen. The number of people in the world will double by the year 2,000 and approach or even exceed 6 billion, according to the United Nations study on population.

Firemen Make Less Runs

The Colorado Springs fire department received only 63 alarms during March — the lowest number recorded in a long time.

Least number of alarms during 1964 was 79 in February and there were 94 in March of that year.

Of the 63 received last month, five were false and five were due to faulty alarm systems.

Firemen also made 29 resuscitator calls and two rescues, one of which was to help a youngster on the rocks in the Garden of the Gods.

Firemen spent 1,297 manhours in study, mainly on the subject of hydraulics, licensed 14 bicycles and inspected two boats for permits.

During March, according to Fire Chief Fred Lausch, cars traveled 5,898 miles and trucks 421 miles and there were 2,570 radio transmissions.

Faisal Says No Red Recognition

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Saudi Arabia's King Faisal was quoted Friday as saying his government would never recognize a Communist country.

"Recognition of any Communist state is incompatible with our religion and tradition," he said in an interview with the Beirut paper Al Jarida.

Saudi Arabia was the first country to recall its ambassador to Bonn, he said, adding: "We shall not hesitate to take any action dictated by a unified Arab stand for the sake of Palestine." He was commenting on the current West German-Arab dispute over Bonn's decision to recognize Israel.

Senate Approves $1.3 Billion School Bill

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed the $1.3 billion school bill Friday night, completing congressional action on the broadest aid bill ever for the nations grade and high schools.

The measure is keyed to a goal of improving education in poverty stricken areas, but it also includes indirect benefits for private and parochial school pupils.

The Senate vote was 73 to 18. Earlier, the House had approved an identical measure 263 to 153.

All that is needed to make it law is President Johnson's signature, and that should be forthcoming soon, for he considers the legislation of top priority.

Johnson hailed the Senate action, and declared:

"I don't know of another single piece of legislation that will help so many for so little cost. For every one of the billion dollars that we spend on this program will come back tenfold as school dropouts change to school graduates."

Parochial schools will benefit from the long stalemate in Congress over the church-state issue was broken.

The major section of the bill authorizes $1.06 billion be distributed among school districts on this formula: One-half of the average per pupil expenditure in the state multiplied by the number of children in the district from families with $2,000 or less annual income and from families on the aid to dependent children relief program.

About 5 million children qualify under this formula. But the bill's sponsors agreed that the aid also would improve the quality of over-all education in the schools concerned.

Tentative administration estimates of proposed expansions are that $1.9 billion will be sought in fiscal 1967, starting July 1, 1966, and $2.4 billion in fiscal 1968.

On the showdown Senate vote, 55 Democrats and 18 Republicans supported the measure. Opposed were 4 Democrats, all Southerners, and 14 Republicans.

The White House would neither confirm nor deny this.

The President had asked that the House version be accepted without amendment to avoid a conference which might have produced some stumbling block to the bill.

This strategy led to bitter Republican complaints that the Senate was surrendering its legislative responsibilities to the White House.

There also were charges joined in by some Southern Democrats, that the aid allocation formulas in the bill do not really help the low-income states where school resources are slimmest.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., floor manager for the bill, insisted the formula was fair to both poor and wealthy states.

He emphasized also that the present allocations would be in effect only for one year so Congress can go into the subject thoroughly again in 1966.

Johnson Is Calm During Bomb Scare

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — There was a bomb scare but President Johnson showed no concern Friday night as he and 50,000 other fans watched air conditioned baseball.

An anonymous report that a bomb had been placed in the $31.6 million Harris County Domed Stadium proved false but it caused the President and the first lady to be late for the opening of the all-weather structure.

They saw 7 innings as the Houston Astros opened their astrodome by beating the New York Yankees 2-1 in 12 innings.

The President told newsmen he was impressed with the stadium, which permits professional baseball to move indoors for the first time.

Because of the bomb scare, the presidential party watched the game from the private suite of Roy Hofheinz and R. E. Bob Smith, owner of the Astros.

The suite is 30 feet above the right field pavilion and the crowd saw the President and Mrs. Johnson only through its windows. They did not go on the playing field.

Bad Samaritan Proves to Be Legal Problem

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY

CHICAGO (AP) — Should the Good Samaritan be rewarded and the Bad Samaritan be punished — by law?

That question came up for discussion today at an international conference at the University of Chicago Law School.

The participants spoke in the light of recent news stories about people failing to aid others in distress. They set forth their views in prepared statements.

"The community applauds the Good Samaritan," Antony W. Honore of Oxford University in England said.

"So the law, if it encourages rescue, is helping to satisfy the interests of individuals and the wants of the community."

Such a law would be a poor one, he said, if it did not encourage aid.

"The means to do this," he added, "are the compensation of the rescuer for expenses and injury and the rewarding of his services."

"Perhaps eventually people may realize that we are a community — that as each helps another today, so tomorrow he (or one of his family may like wise be helped by strangers," said Prof. Charles O. Gregory of the University of Virginia Law School.

But he added, "it is an obligation of manners and morals and will probably never have full legal sanction."

He mentioned the possibility of making some financial inducement bylaw to Good Samaritans who suffer injury.

"England now has public compensation for the victims of muggers, rapists and thugs," he reported. "Why not extend the idea to those hurt in rescuing the victims of muggers, rapists and thugs?"

Honore said any law of reward or compensation would have to contain lines carefully drawn with these factors in mind: The gravity of the victim's peril, the chances of successful intervention and the likelihood that another, better qualified rescuer will act.

Prof. Hans Zeisel of the host law school reported that France, Germany, Italy and the Soviet Union already have Good Samaritan statutes.

They make it a misdemeanor, $30 fine, punishable by jail terms, for someone to fail to help avert injury or death to another person of he could have done so without adnger to himself, Zeisel said.

(Some states in this country have laws giving physicians immunity from liability in treating injured strangers.)

France's current law has been in effect for 20 years. Andre Tunc, professor of law at the University of Paris, reported that in 1962 failure to rescue resulted in 52 jail sentences and 12 fines.

He termed the totals "higher than we should like them to be" but very small when measured against sentences of all kinds.

HITCHHIKES WAY BACK

HOMERVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Bubba Sharpe, of Homerville, escaped from jail after being put behind bars for disorderly conduct. He thumbed a ride. A car stopped and picked him up. The driver was Joe Lancaster, chief of police, who turned the back in his cell and tacked on a $30 fine.

Cemetery Licensing Bill Gets Nod

DENVER (AP) — A board would be set up to license cemeteries under a Senate-passed bill given preliminary approval Friday by the State House of Representatives.

Rep. Mark Hogan, D-Denver, said it would guard against sale of cemetery space when no space is available or when there is no endowment program to maintain the cemetery.

An amendment by Rep. Donald Strait, D-Aurora, was adopted prohibiting discrimination on the basis of race in selling cemetery plots.

Hogan said the bill is supported by the cemetery business. Preliminary approval was also given to a bill by Rep. Keith Singer, R-Arvada, permitting creation of airport authorities and one by Sen. William Bledsoe, R-Hugo, permitting issuance of antelope hunting licenses to non-residents.

Rep. Phillip Massari, D-Trinidad, amended it to apply only to people who own land in Colorado and permit hunting on the land.
